Spring Season is Most Critical Time for Game, Department Head Says

With the official arrival of spring, Erling Swenson, director of the division of game and fish, warned Minnesota residents that this time of the year is most important from the standpoint of game. This is the season when game birds mate and raise their broods of young, Mr. Swenson said. He pointed out that a "favorable season means large healthy broods and that an unfavorable one with prolonged wet cold weather spells disaster for countless young quail, pheasants, grouse and wild ducks."

"Every effort must be made to curtail the spring burning of sloughs, marshes and grass fields. Brush fires are particularly harmful to wild life. It has been proven that soil is harmed rather than benefited through spring burning."

"Farmers can help during this important time by leaving as much suitable nesting cover as possible on ground that will be least affected by heavy rains or floods."

"If grass and brush burning must be done, it should be accomplished early enough so that new growth of grass may start early and be tall in time to supply nesting cover and protection for the young birds against natural enemies."

Grade School Basketball Finals Set for Friday

The grade school basketball tournament ended last Friday with a tie between the Washington and Knox school teams. The two teams will meet tomorrow in the high school gymnasium to play off the tie for the grade school championship. The Northrop second team Friday won the championship over the second teams of the other schools.

Water Floods Several East Side Basements

Several basements on the east side of the river were flooded early this week when sewers backed up as a result of being overtaxed by water from rapidly melting snow. With practically no snow remaining, no further trouble is anticipated.

LEATHER, WALL PAPER BEING MADE OF WOOL

Extraordinary new uses for Australia's wool are being discovered. By a new process soft and durable leather has been made from it. Even the shiny surface of patent leather is being produced from the fibers, interwoven and specially treated.

Experiments are being made in the use of wool for wallpaper, and it is being tried as an insulating material for electric cables.

Perhaps the most astounding woolen article yet made is in possession of a woolbroking office in Melbourne. It is a driving pinion from an 18-ton power excavator which has been in use constantly for more than two years. The cogs and interior of the pinion are made entirely of wool. Steel plates tie at each end, taking no part in the work, but merely giving support to the woolen cogs, which have the appearance of vulcanite. The layers of which the cog is formed have been subjected to extreme pressure in hardening fluid to give solidity.

Shakers Were Among Firsts

The Shakers were the first to market seeds in small envelopes for gardens and the first to use a seal for a trade mark. Shakers originated the custom of drying sweet corn and were responsible for much of the practice of using herbs medicinally.

Those Bathroom Chords

Singing in the bathroom is popular, explains one physicist, because the singer listens not merely to his own voice but to the musical notes characteristic of the room, and in small rooms lined with tile or hard plaster this resonance is particularly evident.

COMFORT MARKS CURRENT MODELS OF AUTOMOBILES

New Cars Give More Attention to Passengers in Rear Seat

While the automotive industry during the past year, as usual, has made considerable strides in enhancing the performance, economy, safety and attractiveness of its product, if any one word could suitably sum up the most common and general improvement made for the 1935 market that one word is "comfort." And the individuals who will notice the greatest increase in comfort are those much maligned persons known as the "back seat drivers."

Despite an ever progressive attempt by the industry to take the burden of "rough riding" off the occupants of the rear seat, it was not until this year, 1935, that something sweeping was done about it. This greater comfort has been achieved through improved front suspension, whether by coil or leaf spring; of weight redistribution that gives the cars better balance front and rear, and of relocation of the seats so that they will be closed to the center of the car. In almost every one of the new models, the rear seat, instead of being on top of the axle, is ahead of it. This is to prevent bouncing and pitching and to give rear-seat passengers as comfortable a ride as front-seat passengers.

The leading safety innovation is the use of all-steel roofs, so welded to the body that the entire car gains greatly in rigidity and ruggedness.

Improvements have also been made for greater ease of handling, some models having automatic gear-shifting devices and many others being equipped with synchronized gears that make shifting noiseless and practically effortless.

50,000 Cattle Thrive on Arrowhead Grazing

Transporting 50,000 cattle from the burned-up drouth areas into northern Minnesota for summer grazing did more than merely save these cattle from starvation. It demonstrated clearly and unforgettably the boundless grazing possibilities of the region, says Mark J. Thompson, superintendent of the Northwest Experiment Station, Duluth, who supervised the emergency pasturage project for the SERA.

Nine counties shared in grazing 49,486 head of cattle, Koochiching and Itasca with over 10,000 head each, led in the number handled, the other counties being Cass, Hubbard, Lake of the Woods, Beltrami, St. Louis, Lake and Mahnomen. Mr. Thompson's summary shows that over 95 per cent of the cattle shipped in were salvaged. Ninety-seven per cent were accounted for, leaving but 3 per cent lost, stolen, or otherwise unaccounted for.

The value of northern pasturage, Mr. Thompson contends, is amply attested by the fact that many herds of 800 head and up realized gains of 60 pounds a head and more, over and above shrinkage or shipping both ways.

K. V. Bjornson to be KSTP News Commentator

K. Valdimar Bjornson, editor of the Minnesota Mascot, Minnesota, Minn., for several years past, began work last Monday as editorial commentator for radio station KSTP, St. Paul. His broadcasts, embodying the editorial voice of the station, will be a regular feature every night but Sunday, from 6:15 to 6:30, beginning Monday, March 25. Mr. Bjornson is well known in Minnesota newspaper circles. The second son of former State Tax Commissioner Gunnar B. Bjornson, he was brought up in the newspaper office where his father was editor from 1895 to 1926. Editorial duties which he has handled for more than five years will now fall to his younger brother, Bjorn, also reared in the shop.

BEMIDJI WINS 3D POSITION IN STATE BASKETBALL TILT

Austin Defeats Glencoe Saturday Night and Wins State Title

A short shot with half a minute of play left in the overtime period gave Austin the 1935 Minnesota state high school basketball title when it defeated Glencoe 26 to 24 in the championship game in Minneapolis Saturday evening.

Late in carrying out its purpose, team none the less conquered Edison's sharp-shooters 26 to 23, to achieve third place. Late field goals by Olson, Johnson and Galloway turned the trick.

Staving off a last minute rally, Glencoe high entered the championship game Friday night when it squeezed out a 23 to 22 victory over Bemidji in the first semi-final game.

Austin won the right to meet Glencoe for the title, upsetting the favored Minneapolis Edison quint, 36 to 27.

The first game was a see-saw affair, Glencoe grabbing a 7-point lead, shortly after the fourth period opened, with the score 23 to 16. Galloway, Johnson and Olson scored field goals for Bemidji to make the outcome in doubt until the final whistle.

Bemidji high school, champion of Region 8, provided a mild surprise to feature the first round of the tournament Thursday, eliminating Humboldt of St. Paul, 26 to 18.

Minneapolis Edison, which staged a sensational rally to beat Crosby-Ironton, joined Bemidji in the semi-finals along with Glencoe and Austin.

The Crosby-Ironton team at one had a 19 point lead, but it couldn't stand off the closing rush of the Mill City quint which pulled out a 37-25 victory in a thriller.

Glencoe also came from behind trailing Buhl 10 to 4 at the close of the first quarter and 12-11 at the half, before rallying to win, 23 to 21, with a great drive in the third quarter.

Austin had too much height for a scrappy LuVerne team and scored a 37-30 victory. Austin led 21-11 at the half.

The St. Paul team trailed Bemidji during the entire contest except when they held a 3-2 lead early in the first period, but from then on the Bemidji quint got its long shots working and held a 14-11 lead at the half.

3 FROM COUNTY TO BE GRADUATED AT CROOKSTON TODAY

Class of 91 Pupils at Northwest School to Receive Diplomas

Ninety-one students will graduate from the Northwest school of Agriculture and receive diplomas at the close of the commencement exercises which will be held in the school auditorium today. This will bring the total number of graduates to over one thousand, while additional thousands of young men and women have been in attendance one or more years. Members of the graduating classes from Pennington county include Morris Engelstad, Laura Hanson and Irene Holst of Thief River Falls.

Commencement week activities opened with the baccalaureate services which were held last Sunday evening, March 24. Reverend F. J. Hibbard, Crookston, delivered the commencement sermon before an audience that taxed the auditorium to capacity.

Monday evening was devoted to declamatory contests with representatives from each of the four classes taking part in the extemporaneous, oratory, dramatic and humorous divisions. Tuesday evening all members of the Senior class, together with senior and junior advisers, were guests of Supt. and Mrs. A. A. Dowell at their home on the campus. The annual concert recital by students specializing in voice, piano and violin was held Wednesday evening under the direction of Misses Katherine Henning, Constance Lane, and Grace Warne. R. S. Dunham presided as chairman and introduced the various numbers.

A special luncheon will be held Thursday noon for alumni. This will be followed by the senior class exercises with Clifford Sauer, Glyndon, vice president of the senior class presiding. Graduation exercises are scheduled for the evening with the principal address to be delivered by Honorable Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture, Ontario, Canada. Burnett Bergeson, Twin Valley, president of the senior class and prominent school debater, will deliver the class address on this occasion. Dr. O. J. Hagen of Moorhead, member of the University Board of Regents, will extend greetings on behalf of the University of Minnesota. Following the speaker program, Supt. A. A. Dowell will present diplomas and other scholarship awards.

ASKS ALIMONY IN SUIT FOR DIVORCE FROM WIFE

Walker—Rufus Ezekial Rosewater, long-time Cass country resident, is taking no half-way measures in his divorce suit. In the complaint filed recently, charging that his 14 years of married life had been marked by cruel and inhuman treatment at the hands of his wife, he asks that a divorce be granted him and that he receive alimony from his wife. "I ain't had work for a long time and she has got a job. Now I can't stand to live with her any more, so I think she ought to pay me something to live on." Mr. Rosewater stated, the hearing on the case has been tentatively set for April 5, in Walker.

Since the Japanese have made such success selling beer in Germany, they might next try watches in Switzerland and coal in Newcastle.

Twin City Unemployed Reject Farm Labor Jobs

"Men Wanted" signs on employment agencies in the Twin Cities have no pulling power this season and farmers are faced with a serious problem as spring's work approaches. Preferring public relief in the cities to board, room, laundry and $20 to $25 per month on a farm, single men of the cities who worked on farms in past years are rejecting the farmers' offers. A St. Paul employment agency reports many $20 to $25 per month jobs waiting farm hands but few men who will take the offers. Another agency reported a daily average of 8 to 10 more jobs than takers.

N. W. School Students Endorse Tree Planting Program in the Valley

Students and faculty of the Northwest school have adopted a tree planting program for the coming summer that will involve the planting of trees on farms scattered throughout fourteen Northwestern Minnesota counties. At a special school assembly, the entire student body signed pledges to plant during the spring months at least one white elm on the home grounds, these trees to be designated as Northwest school trees.

The program is being sponsored by the advanced class and was presented to the students by Selmer Johnson, Crookston, who represented this class and explained the purpose of the program. T. M. students explaining the reasons for the selection of the white elms the official Northwest School tree.

According to present plans, the tree planting program is to become a permanent school tradition. As the years pass by, graceful long lived white elms will dot the entire Red River Valley, thus serving as an added connecting link between the farms of this territory and the local School of Agriculture which first opened its doors to the young people of the Northwest in 1906. Over one thousand students have graduated during the past quarter of a century while additional thousands have been in attendance one or more years.

QUICK ACCELERATION

Motorists who have been curious but unwilling to make the test for themselves, might be interested in knowing that their cars really are lightning-like in all gear combinations. Low gear performance of 25 and 30 miles an hour, second from 50 to 60, and high of 75 to 85 are quite the standard pattern.

TAXES LEVIED IN STATE LAST YEAR HIT $115,000,000

Levies in Pennington Were [illegible],420, State Auditor [illegible] Announces

[illegible] and personal property [illegible] levied in Minnesota for 1934 aggregated $115,494,000, it is revealed in an abstract of tax lists compiled recently in the office of State Auditor Stafford King.

This total compares with levies as follows: $118,740,000 for 1933, $[illegible] for 1929, $121,130,000 for [illegible], $[illegible] for 1919 and [illegible] for 1914.

The average rate of taxation in Pennington county last year is shown in the compilation to be [illegible] mills, and taxes amounting to $[illegible] were levied in the county on an aggregate valuation of $[illegible] for real and personal property.

Taxes levied in Marshall county for 1934 totaled $566,835; Red Lake county, $210,630; Roseau, $[illegible]; and Clearwater, $202,[illegible].

STRANGERS GET $10 FOR "COURSE" AT [illegible]

Bertha.—A new racket on the part of men claiming themselves to be representatives of the University of Minnesota was uncovered last week at Bertha, with at least one man being swindled out of $10. The two men, one of whom signed himself J. D. Halloran, driving a car with a Wisconsin license plate and claiming to be representatives of the Engineering School of the University of Minnesota, called on Mrs. Frank Schultz, urging an engineering course for her son, which would cost $80. Mrs. Schultz thought her son would be interested, but told them they must see him personally. They drove over to the home of the son, where they said the mother would pay $70 of the course if the son paid $10, and walked away with that much money in their pockets. Frank Schultz followed the men and accused them of being fakirs. This was denied, and the offer of a return of the money was made. Having little money besides the $10, however, a check on the Walhall (N. D) bank was proferred. The check was returned marked "no account."

Extension to June 15 for Filing of State Income Tax Returns

On December 27, 1934 the Minnesota Tax Commission announced an indefinite extension of time beyond March 15, 1935 for the purpose of filing state income tax returns due on that date for the year 1934.

The extension of time for filing such returns and for the payment of the first one-half of the tax is hereby declared by the commission to expire on June 15, 1935. Interest will not be charged for the duration of this extension, but in any case where a taxpayer secures an extension beyond June 15, 1935, interest will be charged in accordance with the law for the period subsequent to that date.

Due to anticipated changes in the Income Tax Law by the legislature, the Commission has deferred printing tax return blanks for 1934 income, in order to embody applicable changes in the new blanks. It is expected that these return blanks will be ready for distribution on or about May 1, 1935. Announcement will be made through the public press as soon as the blanks are printed.

Car Numbers in Various Countries Fluctuate

While the United States continues to lead the nations of the world in the number of automobiles, compared with total population, with a ratio of five and one-quarter persons to each car, and New Zealand holds its place as second on the list with nine persons a car, some radical changes in the proportions have occurred since 1930, a trade survey shows.

Whereas in 1930 there were 6,128 persons in Russia for each car by 1934 the ratio had changed to 1,578 persons a car. In the small islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon only 17 motor vehicles were registered in 1930, while last year the number was trebled.

South America shows some registrations contrary to the general trend. In 1930 Brazil reported 199,540 cars licensed and in 1934 137,450. Argentina likewise showed a drop from 360,724 to 207,065 in the same period. On the other hand Bolivia recorded a gain from 2,215 to 5,351 in the four years.

BLOW STRUCK AT POOR CREAM IN NEW STATE LAW

Cream Grading Bill Enacted by State Legislature March 20th

The good dairymen's public enemy No. 1, bad cream, became outlawed on March 20 when the cream grading bill was passed by the state legislature. Sought by dairy organizations and sponsored during its course through the legislature by the Minnesota Farm Bureau, and other cooperative organizations, the bill sets up three grades for Minnesota cream, and bars the sale of cream that is definitely dirty and off flavor.

Three marketable grades are set up, the sweet cream grade, grade one and grade two. "Sweet cream" is defined as fresh, clean, fine flavored, with not more than 2-10 percent acidity. Grade 1 must be clean, free from undesirable odors and flavors, and not more than 6-10 percent acid. Grade 2 includes cream too acid for grade 1 and may contain undesirable odors and flavors in moderate degree.

Unlawful cream, which is barred from sale, is that which contains dirt, filth or other foreign matter which makes it unfit for human consumption. Buyers finding unlawful cream must mark the container with a condemnation tag and color the cream with a permanent but harmless color, so that no one else will buy it.

Creamery operators and cream buyers will be licensed by the state, at a dollar annual fee, on proof that they can properly grade cream as to quality and butterfat content. They are required to make at least one sediment test monthly of each patron's cream. Buyers who violate the law face a $25 to $100 fine and revocation of license for a second offense.

Bad cream makes bad butter, and many people in other states prefer oleo. The average per capita consumption of butter of the butter for the nation is 18 pounds annually. In Minnesota it is 28 pounds. If the national average could be increased to the Minnesota figure dairymen would profit greatly, and the drive for a better cream supply will help to change the eating habits of the oleo users, says J. S. Jones, secretary and legislative representative of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation.

A card party was entertained at the P. Stock home Thursday evening. The guests present were Fern and Floyd Nelson, Mildred Clausen, E. Pommeranki and children, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ristau, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Nelson, Lillian, Alice, Gladys, Elmer and Curdis Nelson and Emil Habedank. High prize card winner was Emil Habedank. The low prize went to Elmer Nelson. —Miss Lucy Rolland was a Thief River Falls week-end guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nicholson.— Those attending the Gustafson's Spring party Wednesday in Thief River Falls were Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Nelson, Lillian, Gladys, and Curdis Nelson, John Haggy, Lawrence and Earl Phillip, P. Stock and Hulda and Lehart Stock and E. Pommeranki and children.—Mrs. H. Bendickson and children, H. Langevin, S. Rolland, Lucy, Mary and Marcel Rolland; Kathryn Paranteau, Oscar Nelson and son Curdis and P. Stock and daughter Hulda were Thief River Falls business callers Saturday.

Mrs. H. Bendickson and daughter Madeline and H. Langevin attended the town meeting at Phillips Tuesday. —T. Day's of Thief River Falls were Mrs. H. Bendickson's guests Tuesday. — Sunday guests entertained by Mrs. O. P. Nelson at her home were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Nelson and daughter Patricia.— Saturday evening the friends and neighbors of the M. Hanson family gave them a farewell party. The evening was spent in dancing and a good time was had by all. Last Friday night the friends of Elda Jones helped her celebrate her sixteenth birthday. Dancing was enjoyed and at Midnight lunch was served.

Red River Valley History

By Win V. Working

In The Valley More Than 100 Years Ago

It is advisable, the writer has found, to probe back into the early years occasionally in presenting a historical narrative. These reversions link the succeeding periods more firmly with the background and add fact and color that cannot be clearly presented when sequence is religiously observed. So today we turn back to the years of 1823 and 1849. Both are important because they were marked by government expeditions.

Early in the summer of 1823, an expedition under command of Maj. Stephen Long and accompanied by a corps of scientists was sent out from Washington to explore a part of the northwest including the Red river valley. The expedition traveled from Fort Snelling to the Lake of the Woods and from there east along the Canadian boundaries of Lake Superior. An interesting history of the trip was written by Prof. William H. Keating, its geologist, recorder and historian.

The expedition left Fort Snelling in the latter part of July. It was made up of two parties, one on horseback traveling along the shores of watercourses and the other in boats. Coming north from Lake Traverse they struck the Red Lake river a few miles from its mouth. Keating made the following notes:

"The general course of the Red Fork from this lake is northwest. It receives a few small tributaries the most important of which are the Clear river, entering about 30 miles from its mouth, on the southwest side, and Thief river, entering it from the northeast. The woods along Red fork are very thick and extend to about half a mile on either side. Hazelnuts were very abundant and nearly ripe at that time (August 2)."

Keating also tells of salt springs:

"There are doubtless in this country a great many salt springs, especially below the Red fork; we saw none, but we were informed that fine springs exist on Big and Little Salin rivers, on the Two rivers, and in other places, where the salt is found in white efflorescences, so as to be annually collected there by the colonists of Pembina. And yet, notwithstanding its abundance in the country, and the ease with which it can be gathered, the price of this article is from $4 to $6 per barrel of 80 pounds. One of the residents on the river cleared $500 in one winter by the salt which he collected."

We have no further interest in the Long expedition so far as this article is concerned other than the report of the arrival at Pembina, where 250 persons were found, most of them half bloods or Metis, who lived in 60 log huts nearly all clustered about a Hudson's Bay company post on the west bank of the Red river. The boundary line between the United States and Canada had been definitely fixed in 1818 and some historians say the Selkirk colonists who were on the American side at Pembina had moved back to Winnipeg in 1820 and 1821, but Keating says they did not leave until the spring of 1823. The party gained valuable information about topographical, geological and meteorological conditions.

A picturesque figure with the expedition was Count Giacomo Costantino Beltrami. He was an eccentric adventurer, said to have journeyed to the American wilds under the patronage of an Italian countess, the count also being an Italian. He did not get on well with the Long party and left it at Pembina, setting out on a pilgrimage that he was to find rich in experience and highly hazardous. In an interesting book of his travels some of which is branded as apocryphal, he presents a graphic account of his experiences.

He set out from Pembina with two Chippewa and a half-breed interpreter, moving southeast to the junction of the Thief and Red Lake rivers. From there he traveled up the Red Lake river to Red lake by canoe. He calls Thief river" the Robber's river". After many hardships the count reached Cass lake and then Leech lake, from there he traveled down the Mississippi by canoe to Fort Snelling. On Thief river the Sioux fired on his party, severely wounding one of his Chippewa. The next day all of his party deserted him and for four days he waded up Red Lake river towing his canoe.

Twenty-six years elapsed before the Woods and Pope expedition of 1849. This also was a government mission described as half military and half investigatory. The commander was Maj. Samuel Woods of the Sixth U. S. Infantry, then stationed at Fort Snelling. His seconds in command were Second Lieut. A. D. Nelson and Brevet-Capt. John Pope of the U. S. Topographical engineers. We shall continue the story of this expedition next week. —Northwestern Feature Service.

87-YEAR OLD HIKER KEEPS ANNUAL TRYST

Glenwood.— A matter of 40 miles doesn't mean anything to James Borrill, 87 years old, even if he does have to walk or hitch-hike the distance, and a tryst that has been kept for well over a half a century was not broken this year. In spite of poor roads and bad weather, Borrill celebrated his birthday with his old friend Mrs. Warburton of Glenwood, whose birth date falls on the same date, this year just as he has done every year for the past 70 years, although he had to walk and hitch-hike from Donnelly, 40 miles away. Borrill was a student under Mrs. Warburton's mother as a boy, and later Mrs. Warburton stayed at his home while teaching school herself. Because the two celebrated their birthdays on the same date they became good friends, and have celebrated their birthdays together each year.

U. S. MOTORISTS PAY HEAVY TAXES, FIGURES REVEAL

Levies Paid by American Car Owners Exceed Billion Dollars a Year

The man who owns and runs a motor car in the United States pays more in annual taxes, and a greater variety of them, than the man who owns his home, not only in proportion to the principal cost, but in many cases, in the absolute total, according to an article in the New York Times. It has been estimated that on the basis of the 1933 tax per motor vehicle, the average car owner pays the equivalent of the cost of his vehicle every four years.

Mr. Car Owner pays a tax when he registers his new status and he pays another for his driver's license. In all states he pays a tax every time he buys a tire or tube as well as parts and accessories. There are communities in which wheel and ad valorem taxes are imposed. Mr. Car Owner pays at least two taxes every time he buys a gallon of gasoline, one to the federal government and another to the state. There are counties and municipalities which add their tolls, so that the car owner may pay four kinds of taxes on gasoline alone. He pays, in addition, a tax for lubricating oil, a tax when he sells his car and a personal property tax. In eighteen states Mr. Car Owner pays a retail sales tax and in fourteen a chain store tax. Not counting personal property taxes, levies on motor vehicles by municipalities in 39 states totaled $14,158,000 in 1932.

The Automobile Manufacturers Association puts the cost of government, federal, state, county and municipal, upon the car owner at $1,137,812,000, assessed against a total of 23,827,290 motor-tax payers. The motor car users of America who are taxable and pay taxes in their capacities as citizens and in-come producers, paid in 1933 to the various subdivisions of government purely as motor car users one out of every eight dollars collected in taxation.

To the Federal Government the motor car user paid $247,744,000.

To the state government, including the District of Columbia, he paid $820,128,000.

To the city government he paid $70,000,000.

USE GAUGE ON TIRES

Tires on the newest cars have two characteristics that are deceiving to the eye. One is a larger cross section, the other a flatter tread. The changed design makes it almost impossible to estimate the degree of inflation by the use of the eye alone. To give the tires the maintenance they require, the use of a gauge is necessary.

Chrysler

Chrysler presents two lines of cars, one the Airflow, the other the new lower priced Airstream. Air-flow cars with the front end altered are continued, with a number of mechanical and other improvements. Airstream cars are an entirely new series, consisting of eight and six-cylinder models. The six has wheelbase of 118 inches and 93 horsepower, and the eight has wheelbase of 121 inches and 105 horsepower. Airstream eight comes in four-door sedan, four-door touring sedan, touring brougham and coupe with rumble seat. The six comes in four-door sedan and touring sedan, two-door touring brougham, business coupe and coupe with rumble seat. Airstream cars incorporate the "pentagraph" type of individual front-wheel suspension. Weight has been equalized and passengers ride not on top but between the axles. Airflow eight, on 123 inches, develops 115 horsepower. An overdrive is available at extra cost. This device, brought in operation at speeds from 35 to 45 miles an hour, reduces engine speed without affecting car speed. Airflow Imperial, on 128 inches, develops 130 horsepower. Overdrive is standard.

Airflow Custom Imperial models are continued, on wheelbases of 137 and 146 inches. Overdrive is standard with both. C. Gustafson & Son are local Chrysler and Plymouth dealers.

DeSoto

A new Airstream line and restyled Airflow models are introduced by De Soto. Airstream body types include business coupe, rumble seat coupe, four-door sedan, four-door touring sedan, two-door sedan and two-door touring sedan, all on wheelbase of 116 inches. Airflow types are four-door sedan, coupe and town sedan, on 115½-inch wheelbase. Both lines comprise the following features: High compression engine, synchro-silent transmission, tapered-leaf springs, "floating power" engine mountings, rust-proofed all-steel bodies and hydraulic brakes. Airflow models have a ride stabilizer to prevent car sway when rounding turns at high speed, and hypoid gears in the rear axle, to enhance the performance and comfort. They also have, optional at extra cost, an automatic overdrive transmission. This is in effect a fourth gear that comes into operation when the driver lifts his foot off the accelerator for an instant when the car has reached a speed of between 35 and 40 miles an hour. Uses of the new leaf springs have improved riding qualities. The engine has been moved forward. De Soto has developed a new method of automatic spark control. The Taxerass Implement company has the De Soto agency in Thief River Falls.

Dodge

Seven models with a new type of front end suspension and relocated seating arrangement are in Dodge's line for 1935. The bodies present a different design, and are wider and lower, without sacrificing road clearance. Body styles are coupe, coupe with rumble seat, convertible coupe, two-door and four-door sedans, two-door touring sedan with trunk and four-door touring sedan with trunk. New springing is called "synchromatic," and makes use of a rigid front axle in conjunction with soft leaf springs, shock absorbers and a "ride levelator." The up-and-down movement of the wheels and the side movement of the car are controlled to provide smooth riding for all passengers. The engine has been moved forward over the front axle. Foot pressure required to depress the clutch pedal has been reduced. Hydraulic brakes are said to be larger and more efficient. Horsepower has been increased to 87. The water jackets now extend the full length of the cylinder barrels, and the gasoline line is air-cooled. The clutch is ventilated. By means of a tube extending through the cylinder block valve seats are now cooled by spray, to lengthen the life of these parts. A different ventilation system has been evolved to allow clear vision. Hood ventilation is automatic. Other automatic devices include thermostatically operated carburetor, engine temperature control and automatic choke and spark. Local Dodge dealers are the Borchert & Johnson company.

Oldsmobile

A new six and straight eight are announced by Oldsmobile. Both said to be more powerful and larger. The cars embody a streamline design, the body sloping away from the radiator, together with slanting windshield, rounded top and single-piece sweeping fenders. Chief improvements are outlined as follows: "Turret top" or solid steel roof, giving additional protection to riders. New type of frame, said to be 40 per cent stronger and more rigid. Sound-proofing of body, engine and chassis. More leg and head room in interiors, together with wider doors and longer wheelbase. Redistribution of car weight, the motor being moved five inches forward and the seats being "cradled" between the axles. Higher compression ratio, increased power, with more economical operation are claimed for the latest Oldsmobiles. Carburetion and manifolding have been improved. Hydraulic brakes have 14 per cent greater braking efficiency and longer lining life. "Knee action" wheels, with coil springs at front, are retained, as well as the Fisher ventilation system and ride stabilizer. The Northern Chevrolet company has the local agency for the Oldsmobile.

Ford

Models incorporating a new type of spring suspension, redistribution of car weight and relocation of seats nearer the center of the car are presented by Ford. The two-door and four-door touring sedans are entirely new additional body types. Other models are five-window coupe, two-door sedan, four-door sedan, and cabriolet, among the regular models: and, among the de luxe, five-window and three-window coupes, phaeton, roadster and two-door and four-door sedans. The new Fords are considerably altered in design, particularly noticeable in the front-end. Radiator is more sharply pointed and the hood louvres are horizontal of lattice type. A smooth ride is promised as a result of the new springing and weight distribution. The cars still use the characteristic Ford transverse spring, but it is longer and softer and has been moved four inches ahead of the front axle. The engine is moved forward and rests upon the front axle. The rear seat was moved ahead of the rear axle. While the wheelbase remains 112 inches, the car is eight inches longer from bumper to bumper. There is greater roominess and seats and doors are wider. Three persons may sit comfortably in front. Wheels are smaller and tires larger, and the rear tread is wider than formerly, thus giving better stability on the road. A number of major engine refinements have been affected. Ford cars and commercial cars are distributed locally by Lund & Tunberg.

Buick

Four lines, comprising 23 body types, are presented by Buick. The new cars have improvements to reduce wind resistance. They have a narrow V-shaped radiator, sweeping balanced fenders, slanting windshield, bullet-shaped headlamps and smoothly tapered rear panel. Changes have been added to improve riding comfort, performance and economy. The front seat in sedan models accommodates three passengers, and extensive changes have been made in interior trim. A new rubber-mounting to insulate the engine from the frame has been incorporated. Leading mechanical features are retained—"knee action" wheels, balanced springing and weight distribution, low-pressure tires and a stabilizer against sway or roll. Among automatic features are dual-control automatic starting, carburetor heat control, automatic idle control, water temperature regulation, automatic choke and automatic spark advance, and (on the Series 50, 60 and 90 models) oil temperature regulator. Power plants in the four series range from 88 to 116 and wheelbases from 117 to 136 inches. Series 90 are all virtually custom-made cars with a wide range of color, upholstery and appointment combinations. Buick is distributed locally by the Thronson Motor company.

Plymouth

Six new models, streamlined in design and with 82 horsepower, are introduced by Plymouth. The cars embody a redistribution of weight and a new front spring assembly to produce more comfortable riding. The body types, on wheelbase of 113 inches, are business coupe, two-door sedan, de luxe rumble seat coupe, de luxe four-door touring sedan and de luxe four-door touring sedan. The bodies have been designed to resist wind. Body and frame are bolted together at 46 points, the frame becoming a unit of the body, along with the steel floor, side panels, and center posts. Seats are wider and the door has been lowered, giving greater stability and safety. The engine has been moved forward over the front axle. Further to improve comfort, new thin-leaf springs have been developed. There are in addition double-action shock absorbers and a sway eliminator. Three major improvements have been made in the engine to keep the temperature down and reduce gasoline and oil consumption. These refinements are full-length water jackets, directed water circulation and calibrated ignition. Plymouth automobiles are sold by all Chrysler, Dodge and DeSoto dealers, including C. Gustafson & Son, selling also the Chrysler; the Taxerass Implement company, DeSoto; and Borchert & Johnson, Dodge.

KEEP DOOR LOCKS OILED

Regular lubrication of the door locks accomplishes more than merely making the doors easier to open and close. It is a money-saving proposition. If the locks are allowed to go unlubricated for long periods, internal troubles are likely to develop. Their correction will require removal of the upholstery, a task that takes considerable time on the part of the mechanic whose time is money—your money.

FAULTY BELT HALTS CHARGING

After the more standard tests are made to determine the cause of a reduced generator charging rate, have a look at the fan belt. A belt that is loose enough to slip can not drive the generator at the rate necessary to provide a specified current output.

PROPER INFLATION HELPS

Does the steering of your car have a "rubbery" effect? Engineers are using the term these days to describe a condition of steering which is intensified by allowing the tires to drop below the level of recommended inflation. High gear reductions, universally used, call for properly inflated tires if the effect is to be avoided.

Chevrolet

Two lines of standard and Master de luxe models are introduced by Chevrolet. The Master body types include sedan, coach, business coupe with luggage compartment, sport coupe with rumble seat, sport sedan and town sedan. The standard line includes coach, business coupe, phaeton and sport roadster, and a newly added four-door sedan and sedan delivery car. While the improved engines are much the same, the Master models incorporate the "knee-action" suspension and are different in appearance from the standard models. Advances are embodied tending toward greater efficiency, more comfort and increased durability. The clutch has been re-designed, brakes are more effective and frames stiffer. In Master models V-shaped radiator is narrower and more sloping and windshield slightly V-shaped. All-steel roof construction is used. Sport and town Master sedans have built-in trunks. The lower-priced regular models have wider bodies, 23 per cent greater horsepower and enhanced safety, economy and comfort. Greater acceleration, higher speed and better hill-climbing are claimed. Braking has been improved, and lubrication features added. Local distribution of the Chevrolet line is handled by the Northern Chevrolet company.

Pontiac

Pontiac presents a new six and a redesigned straight-eight with various improvements have been added. The new six is presented in five regular and two de luxe body types, while the eight-cylinder car has seven body types. The six, built on wheelbase of 112 inches, develops 81 horsepower. The eight, on 117-inch wheelbase, has 84 horsepower. Both lines use independent front wheel suspension of coil spring type. The "knees" are now mounted on a tubular cross member, to make for additional steadiness in steering. "Turret top," V-type windshield, hydraulic brakes, air-cooled generator and large built-in luggage compartment characterize both lines. Radiator, hood, lamps, fenders and rear quarters have been thoroughly streamlined, and the new models present quite a different appearance. Greater roominess of interiors is found in the new Pontiacs. A variety of colors, moldings and striping is offered on the various body styles. The new engines are said to be easier in starting, especially in cold weather. Advancements also make for greater gasoline mileage, the smaller car giving, it is claimed from 17 to 18 miles on a gallon, and the larger car from 15 to 17. The Pontiac is sold in this section by the Thronson Motor company.

'34 GASOLINE SALES TAX AVERAGED 38 PER CENT

State and federal gasoline taxes in 1934 represented an average retail sales tax of 38.12 per cent, a recent study of prices and taxes in 50 cities made by the American petroleum industries committee has shown.

Gasoline prices throughout the year averaged 13.64c per gallon, while state and federal taxes averaged 5.2c. The average cost of gasoline (price plus tax) was 18.84c per gallon.

WATCH BOLTS CAREFULLY

Body bolts are more numerous in the case of the later cars, and, although they are less likely to loosen up, the bolt that will withstand the stress and strain of constant movement has yet to be developed. Occasional tightening is in order.

Mere Signal Not Enough to Secure Right of Way, Safety Council Asserts

"It takes more than your signals to give you the right of way" is the warning issued by the National Safety council.

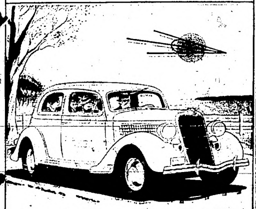
"When you pull out from the curb, for example, the fact that you hold out your arm doesn't mean that you have the right of way. Not at all. In fact the courts have held that when one pulls out from the curb he does so at his own peril; that is, it's his responsibility to get into the traffic stream safely.

"The supreme court of Pennsylvania in a decree handed down in a case of this kind said:

"'The driver leaving the parking place was bound to see that the approaching traffic was not endangered by his movements before he attempted it and his failure to do so was negligence.

"'Putting out his hand, even if it believed that he did so did not give him the right to cut into the road regardless of approaching vehicles.'"

FORD V·8



In A Class By Itself

THERE is no way to compare the Ford V-8 with any other car because there is no other car like it.

The Ford enables you to step up into the fine-car class in performance, beauty, comfort and safety. But there is no stepping up in price. That is kept down by Ford low-profit policies and unique manufacturing methods. These are as different as the car itself.

It takes eight cylinders to give the modern performance you need these days. The Ford is powered by a V-8 — the finest type of eight-cylinder engine. You have to pay more than $2000 for that in any other car.

SEEK LOWER RATE ON OBLIGATIONS OF R. C. BUREAU

Would Permit Reducing Interest on Rural Credit Mortgages

A bill to permit the rural credit department to reduce the interest rate on outstanding mortgages and contracts for deeds by 1.75 per cent if the state investment board will consent to refinancing department bonds it holds at a lower interest rate, was introduced in the state senate Thursday.

The measure, one of 56 offered in the upper house, was introduced by Senators E. L. Tungseth of Thief River Falls, Alfred Solstad of Fisher, and Arvid Ruotsainoja of Kimball.

Whether the measure, if passed, would result in the reduction in interest rates depends entirely on whether the investment board will consent to the refinancing plan, which is considered extremely doubtful as it would involve a considerable loss in interest income to the trust fund holding the rural credit bonds.

The bill contains a provision "requestion" the investment board, when asked to do so by the conservator of rural credits, to sell the $35,000,000 of department bonds it holds, back to the department. The bonds now call for interest, and the department, under the bill could issue refinancing bonds bearing up a 3 percent.

Garden Valley Phone Co. Business Gains $11,500

A betterment in its business of over $11,500 above that of the year previous, was made by the Garden Valley Telephone Company in 1934 according to the annual statement of the company issued on February 1st, says the Bagley Independent.

The Garden Valley Company, the largest co-operative telephone company in the world, has exchanges in Bagley, Beltrami, Clearbrook, Erskine, Fertile, Fosston, Gonvick, Goodridge, Gryggla, Gully Lengby, Leonard, McIntosh, Mentor, Oklee, Plummer, Shevlin and Winger. A profit was shown in the operation of the exchanges at all places with the exception of Beltrami, Leonard, Mentor, Plummer and Shevlin.

The annual precinct meeting will be held on Tuesday, June 4th and the delegate meeting will be held at Erskine Tuesday, June 11th.

DRAIN TRANSMISSION

Most car owners are content to keep the transmission filled to the level with lubricant, but the owner determined to give his car really careful attention will see that the transmission is drained thoroughly at least once a year.

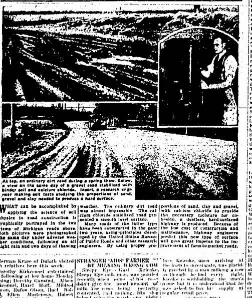
Science Wars On Mud Roads



At top, an ordinary dirt road during a spring thaw. Below, a view on the same day of a gravel road stabilized with binder soil and calcium chloride. Insert, a research engineer making soil tests studying the proportions of sand, gravel and clay needed to produce a hard surface.

What can be accomplished by applying the science of soil physics to road construction is graphically portrayed in the two views of Michigan roads above. Both pictures were photographed the same day under adverse weather conditions, following an all night rain and two days of thawing weather. The ordinary dirt road was almost impassable. The calcium chloride stabilized road presented a smooth level surface.

Many roads of the latter type have been constructed in the past two years, using principles developed by the United States Bureau of Public Roads and other research engineers. By using proper proportions of sand, clay and gravel, with calcium chloride to provide the necessary moisture for cohesion, a dustless, hard-surfaced highway is produced. Because of the low cost of construction and maintenance, highway engineers predict this new type of surface will give great impetus to the improvement of farm-to-market roads.

STRANGER "AIDS" FARMER BY MILKING WRONG COW

Sleepy Eye.—Gust Krienke, Sleepy Eye milk man, was puzzled recently when some of his cows didn't give the usual amount of milk. The cows being perfectly contented, said nothing. His dog helped solve the puzzle one night recently by setting up an awful fuss. Krienke, upon arriving at the barn to investigate, was placidly greeted by a man milking a cow as though he had every right. Krienke is withholding the man's name but it is understood that he was asked to buy his supply at regular retail price.

This One Blooms Early

Immunizing Susceptible Children is Only Way to Halt Diphtheria Attack

There is just one way to stop diphtheria: That is by immunizing all susceptible children before they have a chance to get the disease.

"Experience everywhere shows that the largest number of deaths from diphtheria come to the babies between one and five years of age," says the medical bulletin. "These are the years when children are most susceptible to the disease.

"We cannot hope to wipe it out if we wait until the children go to school and the school authorities discover their lack of protection and institute tardy though necessary campaigns for immunization."

Some interesting figures prepared recently by Minnesota's State Board of Health are quoted in the doctor's bulletin to show the wisdom and economy of immunizing the babies.

There were 3,451 cases of diphtheria in the state from 1930 to 1934. Each of these cases cost somebody an average of $100 each for medical and hospital care, nursing service and loss of wages through quarantine. That represents a total cost of $345,100 in addition to which $20,250 must be added for funeral expenses of the 135 who died, if you figure the modest amount of $150 for each. The total cost to Minnesota of diphtheria can therefore be estimated at $365,350 for the last five years. A very conservative estimate according to the Board—and nearly all of it wasted money.

If every single baby could be immunized there need be no deaths and very few cases of diphtheria in Minnesota. The record has been achieved elsewhere where great community efforts have been made to protect the young children.

CAPITOL NEWS

It is very seldom that prospective purchasers of securities communicate with the Securities Division of the Department of Commerce relative to purchases of offerings which are not made through the medium of the regular licensed brokers, dealers and agents of the state. And yet hundreds of Minnesota investors, even thousands, are yearly victimized, according to S. Paul Skahen, Commissioner of Securities, by such purchases.

The solicitation of sales of these securities is usually made through the medium of the mails, telephone or telegraph, at some point in the East, notably New Jersey. Those making the solicitations, of course, are not licensed to solicit or sell securities in Minnesota. They procure the names of Minnesota residents through public directories, telephone books, and insertion of ads in papers and magazines, which contain an inquiry blank to be filled out by the prospective investor. Usually the fact of "inside information" that the securities in question will rise in value is claimed.

According to Commissioner Skahen, most of these investments prove disastrous. Although the transactions are illegal, in Minnesota, jurisdiction over the seller cannot be acquired. The Commissioner can do nothing except refer the matter to the Federal Securities Department. The difficulty of handling the situation effectively, Commissioner Skahen explains, lies in the fact that relatively few investors inquire of the Securities Division as to the actual worth of the securities offered. A complaint is made after the milk is spilled and the damage is done.

Dewey Johnson of Minneapolis, former member of the state Legislature and well known liberal leader, has been appointed Deputy Insurance Commissioner by Frank Yetka, recently appointed State Insurance Commissioner. Mr. Yetka succeeds Garfield Brown and Mr. Johnson succeeds C. P. Diepenbrock.

At its hearing on highway department matters last week, the political attorney of the Carley sleuth committee attempted to establish that there was something wrong in the land purchases for highway purposes near Grand Marais. The real estate man in question was one of the local campaign managers for Martin Nelson for governor. The highway department employee in question was a hold-over from the former Republican administration, doing the same type of work he now does under former Commissioner Babcock. The question that comes to mind is: Is the Carley committee trying to establish that Republican hold-overs are dishonest people? If that conclusion is carried to its logical end, then the proper procedure of the present administration would have been to discharge all Republican hold-overs. Carley and his crowd can get some very effective support from Farmer-Laborites on that contention.

The Minnesota department of agriculture is making preparations for its spring campaign against noxious weeds, destroyers of crops, it was announced by C. P. Hull, director of the weed and seed division. Creeping Jenny, Leafy Spurge, and other parasites are due to get the sickle right in the neck before they have time to bloom and spread their vicious seeds to the four winds.

The farmers, appearing at the State Capitol the other day, protested against a further slash in state salaries. Five years of depression have opened their eyes. They now understand that if they are going to sell their products, the great mass of people working for wages and salaries must be paid, so that they can buy their goods. But it seems to require more than five years of depression and disaster to influence the thinking of our conservative Rocknes and Carleys in the State Legislature.

Youth should take the leadership in paving the way for a better social order, Elmer A. Benson, Commissioner of Banks, told students of Concordia College in an address last week. Said Commissioner Benson: "Youth has the moral right to lead the way because if any group has suffered from this senseless and barbarous depression, it is youth. Perhaps you don't realize the extent which youth has suffered or what the effect of that suffering may be. When the youth of a nation loses its morale, then national decay is ahead. That is the danger point and youth today is losing its morale. Intellectual work is now considered a commodity, subject to depreciation because of oversupply. After years of intensive study, a student must compete with the laborer on even terms. Ask the custodian at the State Capitol how many college men in the course of a year apply for positions as janitors!"

The collection of monies due the Rural Credit department has fallen off considerably since the introduction of various bills in the State Legislature relating to rural credit loans, T. H. Arens, conservator said. Evidently rural credit borrowers are anticipating relief from the Legislature, which may and may not be forthcoming.

Dissension inside of co-operative organizations was pointed out as a serious impediment to the progress of such institutions by the Minnesota commissioner of agriculture at the annual meeting of the Land O'Lakes Creameries held in Minneapolis last week. The Land O'Lakes concern is said to be the world's largest co-operative and is pointed out as an example of what can be accomplished when people group together for the common good. Over 6000 Minnesota farmers are a part of the organization which sells dairy products the world over.

We Present the Facts—

In order to clear up several misunderstandings as to the status of St. Luke's Hospital as a tax exempt institution, we present the following information:

St. Luke's Hospital is owned and operated by the St. Luke's Hospital Association, a non-profit organization organized for the sole and specific purpose of operating this hospital. The membership of this association is made up of a group of approximately ninety public spirited citizens of this community who donated money for the purpose of meeting certain requirements prescribed by the late Dr. Theodore Bratrud in his offer to build a hospital in this city.

The association was incorporated under the laws of the state of Minnesota and so organized as to meet all the requirements of the law providing for a tax exempt status of such institutions. These requirements, in brief, are that the hospital must be organized and operated on a non-profit basis, the governing personnel must function without compensation, and all profits must go toward the improvement of the facilities and service of the hospital itself. These requirements have been met. Courts have already established the tax exempt status of the hospital as far as personal property taxes are concerned. The same facts would result in a similar decision on real estate taxes. If necessary the association will have this question determined by court action.

Present circumstances, however, make it desirable that this matter be disposed of more quickly than would be possible through court action and for that reason we have asked the city council to approve our petition to the state tax commission for tax exemption. A pending settlement of the claims of the heirs of Dr. Theodore Bratrud against the hospital is our reason for seeking prompt action. We have an offer of settlement from the heirs on a basis that we believe fair, under the circumstances, and which we believe the hospital will be able to meet. Before the terms of this settlement can be fulfilled the tax exempt status of the hospital must be definitely established. Further postponement of this settlement may result in expensive litigation and will further delay an expansion program now contemplated by the association. These matters have already been dragged out over too long a period of time and in the best interests of the hospital they should be disposed of promptly.

This, briefly, is the situation confronted by our association. As for the justification of a hospital such as St. Luke's being tax exempt, we wish to correct some misrepresentation of the facts.

Hospital and Clinic Two Separate Organizations

The Bratrud clinic is a privately operated association of physicians and surgeons. The Bratrud clinic is not seeking tax exemption and has paid taxes regularly. The Bratrud clinic is associated with the hospital only as a medical staff. It maintains and pays the salaries of its own personnel. Dr. Edward Bratrud serves as chief of the medical staff of the hospital. This position is filled by the trustees of our association, and he holds the position only by virtue of his election by our board of trustees. In his official capacity he supervises the professional conduct of the hospital. As a hospital fully accredited by the American College of Surgeons, certain standards must be maintained. It is his duty as Chief of Staff to see that these standards are maintained. Aside from this he has no other direct responsibility or interest in the management of the hospital. Full and complete responsibility and authority in the management of the hospital is vested in the board of trustees of our association.

The medical staff of the hospital now consists of six doctors. In addition to this staff there is an associate staff of four doctors. Several other doctors have been granted the privileges of the hospital and at the present time fourteen doctors use the facilities of the hospital for the care of their patients.

As a temporary arrangement the Bratrud Clinic now maintains its offices in the hospital building, for which it pays to the hospital a rental of $150 a month. This rental income has been an important factor in the financial success of our association up to the present time. When the rooms occupied by the Bratrud Clinic are needed for hospital purposes the clinic will find quarters elsewhere.

Charity Wards Are Not Required

There has been some criticism of our claims for a tax exempt status because we have not maintained a charity ward. This is not a requirement of the law. While plans have been completed for the establishment of an endowment fund, the proceeds of which would be used to support charity beds, our financial condition up to the present time has made it impossible to offer free hospitalization to the needy. As soon as we are able to do so, such a service will be supplied.

In asking for a tax exempt status for our hospital we seek only the same consideration granted by the public to hospitals of this kind throughout the state. Hospitals owned and operated by churches and other organizations similar to ours do not pay taxes.

Hospital Service Must Be Maintained At High Standard

We pledge to this community our best efforts in operating St. Luke's Hospital in a way that will be a credit to the community. It was Dr. Theodore Bratrud's intention to make available for the people of this section of the state a hospital service that would compare favorably with the hospital facilities of better established and richer communities. Because of his untimely death there have been certain financial complications which our association would not have been confronted with had he lived to see his dream of a lifetime realized. But we must make the best of matters as they are.

To the efforts and ability of Dr. Edward Bratrud much of the present success of the hospital is due. By working with him, and with the cooperation of the people of this community, we feel confident that we can build in our city an institution that will be a credit both to its founder, Dr. Theodore Bratrud, and to the city of Thief River Falls.

Respectfully submitted,

St. Luke's Hospital Ass'n.

PROGRAM HELD IN MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM

[illegible] Giving World [illegible] Speaks on [illegible] Life in Syria

Last Monday's assembly program [illegible] be instructive as well as [illegible]ing. The speaker, [illegible], world traveler, [illegible] extremely interesting [illegible] some of the [illegible] people of the Far East.

Syria, [illegible] Giving said, was interesting [illegible] because of its [illegible] lived the Phoenicians, [illegible]hammedans, and the Arabs [illegible] originated the Arabic numerals. [illegible] life, the steamers and [illegible] were especially attractive to Mr. Giving, who was born on the plains of North Dakota. In [illegible], the centre of all [illegible] could be seen all types of [illegible] together in the [illegible] a thrill to see a bus which could cross the desert in [illegible] days where before it had taken weeks to go by camel.

[illegible] in Syria are far different from ours. There the boys and girls do not attend the same [illegible] making it impossible for the boys and girls to smile sweetly at each other. The school for girls is [illegible] by a high stone wall, [illegible] them from curious [illegible]. The girls always wear black [illegible] including veils. Since the [illegible] faces cannot be seen through their veils unless the sun shines directly upon them, it was an entertaining occupation for Mr. Giving to walk down a street looking at the faces of women as the sun shone upon them, and then hurrying back to walk down the street again.

The names of the boys whom Mr. Giving taught were quite a puzzle to him at first, and he believed he would never learn to pronounce them. However, he soon became accustomed to them and could pronounce them very easily, as the audience was shown by a few quite unintelligible names. The experience as a teacher in the lowest class was valuable to the traveler because he had to slow down in his speech and to enunciate clearly.

The most difficult lesson was that the third person singular pronoun always takes "s" on the verb. He gave as an example, "I do. You do. He does." One boy remembered it all and said, "I ought to study my lesson. You ought to study your lesson. He oughts to study his lesson."

Many modern improvements have been made in the Far East in the last few years. In 1925, there were only dirt roads; in 1930, on his trip around the world, Mr. Giving could travel on paved roads. The picturesque garb which the people once wore has been replaced by the more practical clothes of the western hemisphere. Some of the clothes they once wore, Mr. Giving had brought home. The overall of the Arab seemed to us more like a tan loughing robe with its wide purple girdle which was wound around the waist. The beautiful bright blue jacket and the rose-colored hat were very feminine.

Mr. Giving announced that since he was not like the dark skinned Arabs, he had brought along a real Arab, Abdullah. When he called to him, in walked Theodore Quale, who was then attired in Arabian clothes. In closing, Mr. Giving said the advantage of Arabian clothes was that they would fold flat.

FOUR B. B. TEAMS WIN FIVE GAMES SAME NIGHT

Appleton.—If the "SERA" were to set up a project to count the basketball players west of the 5th principal meridian, they would undoubtedly find more per square foot in Appleton than any other village of its size. And the quality of those players was demonstrated recently when four squads engaged five other teams the same night and emerged with five victories and a total of 137 points against their opponent's 59. The night school regulars defeated Madison 19 to 11 while the "B" team and the "Midgets" also demonstrated the same ability against teams at Madison. The Co. M team entertained [illegible] and Milan at a double header the same evening for total points of 88 to 33.

Lindstrom folk, accustomed to getting up in the morning when the six o'clock train toots its way past, got up at 2 a. m. recently when a snow plow went through.

Chemistry Club Tests for Certain Metals

The Charles Martin Hall Chemistry Club held a meeting last Monday. They made tests for certain metal. Cobalt, manganese, nickel, and chromium were tested by means of borax beads. Sodium, potassium, strontium, varium, calcium, luthrum, and copper were likewise tested by the flame test. Magnesium, zinc and aluminum were tested by the cobalt nitrate test.

AUSTIN TAKES STATE TOURNEY

Laverne Wins Consolation; Bemidji Places Third

Last Saturday evening in the final of the State Basket Ball tournament, the plucky cagers from Austin were crowned Minnesota State Champs by virtue of their victory over Glencoe in a thrilling overtime period. Glencoe had previously been defeated by Bemidji, winner of Region 8 and successful contender with St. Paul Humbolt.

Austin forged its way to the last bracket through whipping Laverne and the favorite Edison of Minneapolis. Edison was defeated by Bemidji after leading through most of the contest.

The all-state team consisted of Art Hanan of Austin and Skybird of Laverne at forwards; Galloway, lanky Bemidji star, center; Whorhol of Edison and Lidner of Glencoe at guards. Galloway played outstanding in every game and did justice to Region 8. Johnson and Slossen of Bemidji also turned in exceptional games.

Laverne won consolation honors by scoring a decisive victory over St. Paul Humbolt. Through dint of their last half come-back, Bemidji placed third over Edison.

PROGRESS POKES ITS NOSE AROUND

Promises never should be broken, so we'll glide right into the big business of radio, where former L. H. S. students are doing their part. We'll warrant that there is a surprise in store.

After all these years in radio, Joe Penner still remains a favorite. But, to our amazement, we find that Joe Penner has a double. There's no need to tell you that the latter is in the form of Harley Kelly. Mr. Kelly many times makes vaudeville tours for Joe Penner.

Oh, but we almost forgot to tell you who the charming hostess who greeted us was. Remember Miss Luella Holmgren? The Consolidated Broadcasting Company has employed Miss Holmgren as chief hostess.

Harold Halalmen, who probably doesn't seem to fit the role, is press agent to the comedian, Jack Benny. This probably accounts for the fact that Mr. Benny is billed to appear at the Avalon Theater.

Dudley Fabrick, an old friend of Harold's, was visiting with the latter during our trip to the broadcasting studio. Mr. Fabrick is a cadet at West Point.

Don Bestor's band is still increasing in popularity throughout the years. A certain tone from the clarinet section sounds familiar. Looking in that direction, we notice James Hoffseth doing his best for the radio.

Frances Kavanaugh, who met us in Chicago, is a secretary to Fred Waring. Visiting the offices we also see Miss Helen Wilson. Our inquiries reveal that Miss Wilson is a writer of a gossip column in a radio magazine. She is waiting, at the present time, to interview Mr. Waring.

A famous hockey game is to take place during the evening, so our party goes to the large stadium. In the radio broadcasting booth we see Leonard Hellquist, who is the well-known commentator of hockey games. His ally in this field is Donald Olson.

"Orphan Annie" still retains her popularity with the youngsters. The same cast, with one exception, is still employed in putting on this sketch. Miss Ardith Melby coaches all of the players in their parts.

Two former Lincoln High School graduates have their own sustaining programs on the radio. One, Miss Helen Anderson, is a singer of popular songs. Miss Anderson is known not only to the radio audiences but to night club frequenters as well. The other, Raymond Olson, presents regular programs of poetry in Swedish dialect. Mr. Olson also has taken the part of Johnny Johnson in the sketch "Kaltenmeyer's Kindergarten."

Madame Sylvia still continues her broadcasts of "How to Keep Thin." Miss Lois C. Nelson demonstrates each exercise to the studio audiences.

Byron Hear is a studio technician. At present he is being complimented on the fine progress he made on the television project.

Remember the Breakfast Club of the Air? The old announcer has left, and Arthur Douville has secured the position.

So our visit to Radioland ends. Now all that remains is tuning in on our radio and discovering these stars.

GIRLS TAKE TEST FOR INTERCLASS BASKET BALL

Ratings From Test on Rules Will Determine Teams Girls Will Play on

A week ago Wednesday, the girls out for after-school basket ball took a seventy-five point test on rules. The ratings in this test determined what team each girl would be on. The highest score in each class was:

Frosh— Mary Chommie, 69 points of 73.

Soph. — Elizabeth Dahlen, 70 points of 73.

Jr. Vivian St. Martin, 71 points of 75.

The following Thursday the teams were posted. Frosh I Forwards: Evelyn Tungseth, Mary Chommie, Lorraine Amundson, Mae Anderson, and Katherine Jacobson. Guards: Margaret McKechnie, Lillian Samuelson, and Dorothy Green. Freshman II Forwards: Edna Elleron, Eileen Bucen, Ardith Gulseth, Marion Berg, Lorraine Lochelt, and Lillian Amundson. Guards: Alice Geske and Beulah Gulseth.

Sophomore I Forwards: Marion Green, Elizabeth Dahlen, Margaret Gustafson, and Hettie Gustafson. Guards: Lois Morell, Olive Holman, Virgine Dow Thelma Sandland, and Roberta Dailey. Sophomore II Forward: Ariel Reidy. Guards: Merten Ward and Lillian Haddau. Sophomore III Forwards: Eunice Mullen and Beatrice Femrite. Guard: Dagny Sundby. Junior I: Ardella Gjernes, Edna Lee, Vivian St. Martin, Iris Ayers, Margaret Simonson, Ethel Parnow and Violet Anderson.

The captains of each of the three teams were: Frosh, Mary Chommie; Soph, Elizabeth Dahlen; Junior, Edna Lee.

The same day the following games were played:

Frosh- Soph. 0-20.
Frosh, Jr. 2-25.
Soph— Jr. 14-8.

The totals of all three games were: Frosh, 2 points, Soph-34 points, and Juniors—33 points which makes the Sophomores the tournament winners over the Juniors by one point.

It is rumored around our school that the Seniors are going to organize a team sometime this week to try to defeat the victorious Sophomores.

Marion Dillon.

JOSIE'S NOTES

HAVE you ever been in love and did you really know if it was the real thing? Here's a tip: If you really want to know if yours was the real thing just toddle around to 'Ye Olde Towne Hall' (The auditorium), when those outstanding stars of Lincoln High's Jr. Class make their debut in "Growing Pains", that modern play which tells the gay and amusing tale of this "younger generation" and some of their troubles.

HE gazed into her dark and glowing I's. Her lips were saying those 3 wonderful words he had waited for so long. He could not believe it, and yet it was tru. Agen she sed, fulfilling the dreem of his lif, "No geometry assinment."

THE LATEST in L. H. is the acquiring of a good stooge. That's all right as far as it goes but it seems almost everyone has picked on that tiny individual, Hank Waage. (Bear up, Hank.)

IT'S a good thing Adam (of Adam and Eve) can't come back to earth, because the only thing he'd recognize would be the jokes.

IN the old days if any one missed the stage-coach, he was contented to wait two or three days for the next one. Now he squawks if he misses one section of a revolving door.

ROSEWOOD

Mrs. Eldred Johnson, nee Miss Tillie Wiehe, was honor guest at a kitchen shower given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hellquist last Saturday afternoon, and received several gifts needed for a home beginner. Rev. C. E. Anderson of Viking was present and gave a short talk. Lunch was served.—Several local young folks motored to Viking on Friday evening to attend a charivari party.

John Hanson of Thief River Falls was here on Wednesday calling at the Joel Sholberg and Emil Hellquist homes concerning the shipping of a carload of hay.

Marshall Kays, Marshall county deputy sheriff of Warren was here on Saturday evening on official business governing the dance sponsored by the community club.

Selmer Haugen and Joel Sholberg motored to Warren on Thursday and to Thief River Falls Wednesday, looking over some spring work machinery.—Mrs. Ella Sorenson who has visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Selmer Haugen for a week returned to Thief River Falls on Wednesday.—Numerous local folks were at Thief River Falls on Wednesday to attend the McCormick-Deering farm equipment day.—A mixed carload of stock was shipped to South St. Paul on Saturday by the local Shipping Association.—Ted Erickson spent Tuesday at Viking on business connected with his well drilling.

Horses are reported going up in price. Buy a cheap horse and lay it away for a rainy day.

Scenery for Junior Class Play Completed

Boys helping with the scenery for the Junior Class play, "Growing Pains", are Dayton Silk, Stanley Mortenson, and James Hoffseth. Mr. Carlson is supervising the work on the scenery. Due to the lack of equipment in the auditorium, these boys are busy splashing paint to make a typical California scene with the palm trees. There will be a quaint Spanish home with a red tile roof.

"GROWING PAINS" PREVIEW TODAY

Junior Actors Present Short Scenes Before C. C.

So that the students will get an idea of what the Junior Class Play, "Growing Pains" is about, a little scene taken from the play was presented in the assembly on Thursday. It has been decided to put on a more extensive advertising campaign so the cast portrayed a scene for the Civic and Commerce Club on Thursday. Some of the girls have had to learn new "arts". Terry-Jean Gustafson, must learn to roller-skate and Prudence-Vivian Ward, has to learn to play the Ukelele.

Miss Edberg has rebuilt one of the scenes. Now James Nesse will sing a solo in a moonlight episode.

VOX MAGISTRI

"Who steals my purse steals trash
'Tis something, nothing, 'twas mine 'tis his
And has made slaves of thousands
But he who filches from me my good name
Robs me of that, which not enriches him
But makes me poor indeed."

—Shakespeare

We all appreciate the fact that reputation, whether good or bad, plays an important part in our lives. If our reputation is tarnished ever so slightly it may hinder our reaching some cherished goal.

When do we begin to build this reputation? We cannot begin at the top. We must start with the very foundation and that is laid even before our high school days. If we do not like this old foundation we now have a chance to start anew and build right.

Have you acquired or are you trying to acquire a reputation for honesty and stability?

Would your friends call you honest and ambitious? Do they trust you? Are you polite, kind, conscientious, or are you inclined to scoff at everything that is good, pure and spiritual and aim only at getting by? Have you a sense of humor? Are you forgiving or revengeful? Would your friends be benefited or injured by associating with you?

A merchant takes invoices at least once a year to find out just how his debits and credits stand. How few human beings stop long enough to take invoice of their good and bad points? of their reputation, and character?

If you are allowing yourself to cheat, if you are using filthy language, allowing yourself to think evil thoughts, if you are picking up things which do not belong to you, if you are acquiring any habit which will in time weaken you physically, mentally or spiritually—then what? Even if no one but yourself knows about it you are undermining your own character and in time will suffer for it.

Reputation is what people think you are but character is what you really are. Character in time is reflected in your face. It shines from your eyes. It eminates from your whole being.

I have often thought that if every student could read this little poem, the author of which is not known, read it again and again or memorize it, it might help him to realize how important a good character and a good reputation really are and how without the former there can be no real happiness:

"I have to live with myself, and so
I want to be fit for myself to know
I want to be able, as days go by,
Always to look myself straight in the eye;
I don't want to stand with the setting sun
And hate myself for the things I've done.
I don't want to keep on a closet shelf
A lot of secrets about myself
And fool myself as I come and go
Into thinking that nobody else will know
The kind of a man I really am,
I don't want to dress myself up in sham.

I want to go up with my head erect
I want to deserve all men's respect
But here in the struggle for fame and self
I want to be able to like myself
I don't want to look at myself and know
That I'm bluster and bluff and empty show.

I never can hide myself from me;
I see what others can never see;
I know what others can never know
I never can fool myself and so
Whatever happens, I want to be Self-respecting and conscience free."

SENIORS TOOK APTITUDE TEST LAST WEEK

College Guidance Test Divided in Three Parts: Science; Affairs; English

The local high school students, along with hundreds of others in the state of Minnesota, took College Guidance tests last week. These tests were to help the seniors decide whether or not it would be advisable for them to enter a college in Minnesota other than business schools or teacher's colleges. The tests were on General Science, Contemporary Affairs and Co-operative English.

The test on General Science was very "general" and the students who had not taken biology or physics found themselves more or less at a loss.

The test on Contemporary Affairs was on the affairs of the day. The students knew a lot about their favorite subject such as sports or international affairs etc. but it seemed they knew nothing about many of the things mentioned.

The test on Cooperative English was comparatively easy, that is the punctuation etc. However, all the students agreed that the section on definition of words bothered them not a little.

Those students who plan to enter the University of Minnesota had to write a theme on a choice of five subjects also.

Grade School Basketball Tourney to be Played Fri.

Next Friday the Knox and Washington grade schools will play for the championship. Even though the Washington players are much bigger than Knox boys the game is expected to be fairly close.

The eighth grade has defeated the seventh in every game played against them, and it is almost sure that they will take the Central Championship.

SENIORS SELL 115 YEARBOOKS

Student Slogan: "Buy Now; Get Your Prowler Early"

The sale of the Senior Yearbook, the 1935 Prowler, is rapidly under way. One hundred fifteen Prowlers have been sold so far thus adding $57.50 to the Senior treasury. All the individual pictures of the Seniors have been taken and are being finished. Group pictures of the Progress and Prowler staffs and the Declamation and Debate teams will be taken next week.

These one hundred fifteen Prowlers are about one-third of the amount which the Prowlers salesmen will try to sell. The slogan for all students ought to be "Buy Now" and get your Prowler early.

Eskimo Needs the Caribou

The caribou provides the Eskimo not only with food but with clothing as well. From the deer skins all the clothing of Eskimo men, women and children is made; also their sleeping bags and rugs. The Eskimo tries to get the hides of the younger animals for making clothes, because the fur is darker and finer than that of the older animals and does not fall out so readily.

Her many friends will be glad to know that she is much improved.—Martin Peterson and Alf Dahlstrom were visitors in Thief River Falls Friday.

Only 15 Minutes Now Needed to Stop Cough
If you have tried "everything" and your cough or sore throat still hangs on, do not think you can't get relief. What you need is Thoxine—real prescription medicine. It does two essential things: First, it relieves throat irritation and your cough stops. Second, it attacks the internal cause of trouble, drives cold and fever out of the system.
This two-way action makes Thoxine quicker and surer—and explains its truly phenomenal success. All you do is take a big swallow and in 15 minutes you feel relief or get your money back. Safe, pleasant. No harmful drugs. Only 35c. Lambert's Drug Store

Junior, Soph, Frosh Participate in Exciting Tournament B. B. Games

The Interclass Basketball Tournament was continued last week, nine games being played. In the second game of the tournament, the Junior D team defeated the Frosh C quint 27 to 14. There was no individual scoring leader as Houfek and Asp were high point men for the Juniors and Smith and Michalsky for the Frosh.

The Juniors were not as successful in their second game with the Freshmen. The Junior C's came out second best, the Frosh B's defeating them 26 to 15. Larson, of the Juniors, was high with eleven points, while Quale of the Frosh was second, scoring nine points.

The Soph B's and the Junior B's then fought it out with the Juniors scoring a decisive 27 to 16 victory. Twenty-three fouls were committed in the game, thirteen by the Juniors. Bergstrom and Kelley of the Juniors and Sophomores respectively were the leading scorers.

The Junior A five then overpowered the erratic Seniors 29 to 10. Lorentson and Booren were high scorers for the Juniors, each with nine points. Most of the scoring was done in the last half.

The powerful Soph A team then rolled up a 52 to 20 victory over a fighting but outclassed Frosh A squad. But Nelson was the star of the game with eighteen points to his credit. Don Olson was next with fourteen, while Cliff Olsen was high for the Frosh with ten points.

The Junior D's ran away with a 35 to 5 victory over the Soph C's. Asp was the Junior score leader with Neset for the Soph.

The final game of the week was a thriller, the Junior B's eking out a 26 to 25 victory over the Frosh B. It was a hard game for the Frosh to lose. They made a valiant effort to obtain the lead during the last half and were only one point shy of tying the Juniors. Bredeson was high for the Juniors and Booren for the Frosh.

Chapter I

Hustling ushers directing people to seats that afford the best view, handing out programs and dashing back to the door for more customers. A frantic ticket seller trying to supply a long list of impatient persons with certificates of paid admission. An orchestra playing a medley of tunes for an audience awaiting the first parting of the curtains.

Chapter II

Backstage. Make-up experts are applying grease-paint, eye-shadow, rouge, lip-stick, etc. to the somewhat nervous actors and actresses. The stage manager is checking the lights. The property managers are ascertaining whether or not everyone has everything he is supposed to have. The scenery is being moved into place. Those who are portraying roles are running through their lines for the last time. The director has a thousand woes. She is checking up on those persons who are supposed to be checking up on others. Finally everything is in readiness.

Chapter III

The lights fade, there is a moment of darkness and a sudden quiet. The curtains divide, revealing the first scene. For an instant the footlight's dazzle the audience. Soon, however, the spectators are able to make out the setting and the characters on the stage in the opening scene. An actor or an actress speaks and the play is begun.

Chapter IV

The play progresses. The actors draw laughs or tears from the audience. An interesting plot is unfolded. Different characters find their way into the hearts of the spectators. Others became more repulsive as the play goes on. Act follows act and the drama is terminated with a powerful closing scene. The curtains meet, the auditorium echoes with applause. The crowd is slowly sifted through the exits. Some go backstage to congratulate the successful players and the director who are very tired and very happy.

Elucidation

The Progress Editor has not written a new and thrilling drama. He has mastered the art of gazing into the future. Tomorrow the Juniors present "Growing Pains". The production will be completely successful and the monetary receipts will be large IF you do your part and attend.

REFINING TREND EVIDENT IN 1935 MOTOR PRODUCTS

Great Improvement in Auto Construction This Year, Says Engineer

BY JOHN A. C. WARNER
Secretary and General Manager, Society of Automotive Engineers, Inc.

Radical changes in individual features of automobile design are less conspicuous than last year. Never before, however, have there been so many evidences of detailed refinement, so many results of persistent research and experimental studies incorporated into the new model crop of a single year. The net result is a greater total improvement in actual automobile construction than during any single twelve-month period in recent times.

Striking new features, readily evident to interested observers, are to be seen as well. Flashing new bodies radically different gear shift controls, new types of independent wheel suspension, all-steel roofs, new adaptions of transmission over-drives and many other special items greet the technical explorer at the 1935 automobile shows.

In a thousand ways relatively inconspicuous to the laymen, however, have been recorded the multitude of technical improvements which combine to constitute major progress. The power of engines has been increased in many instances rather than increases in fuel consumption. Bigger crankshafts on the small cars, further definite improvements in braking, increased use of copper-lead bearings, bigger and more efficient generators and marked advances in piston and valve lubrication are among the trends to be noted.

With labor and manufacturing costs on the upgrade, the automotive engineers have been driven to greater effort than ever before to produce designs which will give better satisfaction than in the past without increasing materially the necessary demands on the purchaser's pocketbook.

To achieve this result automotive engineers have been studying more closely the needs and desires of the average owner who rides in and drives the cars. They are evincing an ever increasing interest in the results of the various customer re-search studies which have become a part of the regular program of more than one large automotive manufacturer. Also they are spending many hours of their own time in contact with dealers and public. As a result a large proportion of the changes in the new cars will be found to bear directly on such factors as comfort, safety, acceleration and economy—factors of paramount interest to the average driver.

Engine speeds again have been increased, performance characteristics betterer, muffler noises further obliterated and driver control devices made more convenient and easier to handle.

Unusual attention has been given to riding-comfort problems again this year. The unquestioned public demand for roomier bodies has been clearly recognized by many designers and there has been a general widening of the seats, lengthening of rear compartments and increasing of head room. The 1935 cars will go faster and last longer than their predecessors, but in most instances, will cost less to operate. Engines have been moved forward further in the chassis, resulting in a more effective distribution of chassis weight, greater passenger space for a given wheel base and increased riding comfort in the rear besides in the front.

FEATHER IN THROAT IS TICKLISH BUSINESS

Sacred Heart—A feather in one's hat may be all right, but a feather in the throat is ticklish business. So thinks little Ruth Marie Thorsrud. A local physician was called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thorsrud because their one year old daughter had been very fussy for several days. An examination of the child's throat revealed that a feather about an inch and a half in length had lodged in the child's throat. The feather was promptly removed and the babe gurgled in appreciation. Just how long the feather had been tickling the child's tonsils is not known.

MOTOR INDUSTRY AGAIN MOBILIZED TO AID RECOVERY

[illegible] National Auto Group [illegible] Achievements of [illegible]-Makers

[illegible] automotive industry is [illegible] mobilized for a renewed [illegible] to hasten the nation's [illegible] recovery, according to a [illegible] by Alvan Macauley, [illegible] of the Automobile Manufacturers association. Many [illegible] improvements to be found [illegible] this year's new models give [illegible] of the earnestness with [illegible] responsible executives of [illegible] companies are concentrating on this all-important [illegible].

[illegible] almost traditional that the [illegible] cars offered by the industry [illegible] year represent progressively [illegible] dollar values. This [illegible] is no exception as examination [illegible] any of the new models [illegible] readily disclose.

[illegible] so many pending uncertainties of the broadest economic [illegible] to consider, any attempt to foretell the outcome of [illegible] motor industry's 1935 campaign would be prophecy, at [illegible]. However, the facts and figures of 1934 operations may afford some idea of what may be [illegible] during the current year. [illegible] is any single fact [illegible] qualifying and more conclusively than all others to lead the motor industry, it is [illegible] automotive production and [illegible] records for 1934 reveal unmistakable recovery progress.

[illegible] doubtful whether any other [illegible] industry has contributed [illegible] to the country's economic rehabilitation than the automobile and its allied groups. The [illegible] received for the [illegible] output of new vehicles, tires, [illegible] and accessories was distributed through many channels and was an important factor in the operation of many of the country's basic industries. The automobile provided the largest single market for the gasoline, rubber, steel, malleable iron, mohair, upholstery leather, lubricating oil, plate glass, nickel and lead industries. In addition, automobile factories were substantial consumers of copper, hardwood lumber, aluminum, cotton and many other commodities.

Poor Tires Cause of Many Road Accidents

More than 300 motor vehicles are involved annually in fatal accidents caused by punctures or blowouts and 500 cars are involved in non-fatal accidents due to the same causes.

Although present day tires are better built than ever before, a little care will add materially to the mileage they yield and at the same time provide protection from accidents caused by punctures or blowouts.

Underinflation will cause breaks in the side walls of tires and lead to blowouts when least expected. On the other hand, overinflation makes riding uncomfortable and is also harmful to the tires. The safe procedure is to follow the suggestions of the car manufacturer or tire dealer as to the amount of air to be carried. Modern air pumps at filling stations make this a comparatively easy rule to observe.

Health Group Sponsors Awards for Community Child Health Roundups

To promote the campaign to have children enter school as free as possible from physical defects and protected against disease, the Minnesota Public Health Association this week announces awards for the best community summer round-up programs to be conducted this spring and summer in the state.

The round-up, it is explained, is a campaign conducted by parent-teacher associations to bring about the medical examination in the spring of all children who will enter the school for the first time in the fall. It calls for the correction of any remediable defects found in this examination, and protective treatment against preventable diseases is urged in order that the school may be provided with children free from defects which will retard progress. Seven awards of health books and recreational materials are offered by the state Christmas Seal organization to the parent-teacher association making the best record.

Special credit is to be given for the number of children who are given the tuberculin test to detect infection with tuberculosis, and who are vaccinated against smallpox and inoculated against diphtheria.

BATTERY CAUSES RATTLE

The battery often is responsible for those mysterious rattles which seem to emanate from beneath the car. Its hold-down bolts, like those elsewhere throughout the car are subject to loosening. The noise resulting may vary from a rattle to a thump, in both cases, frequently turns out to be extremely difficult to locate.

READ INSTRUCTION BOOKS

Instruction books that come with new automobiles tell a story that the average motorist never has read before. To really know the car in its detail, it is imperative to read the book. There is a valuable insight into the manner in which the car should be driven besides with respect to maintenance.

U Farm Man Calls for 4-H Ton Litter Entries

What farm boy or girl can raise the heaviest litter of pigs in 1935? That is the question which will be answered by the Minnesota Ton-Litter contest for 4-H club members, in which several hundred dollars worth of prizes are being offered by the Minnesota Livestock Breeders association. Medals, trophies and free trips to state 4-H events will also be given.

H. G. Zavoral, extension animal husbandman, University Farm, urges that entries be made early, as anyone wishing to enter must do so in time to allow official inspection of his or her litter within 7 days after date of farrow. No entries can be made after May 31.

Any farm boy or girl in Minnesota, between the ages of 10 and 21, inclusive, is eligible to enroll, providing he or she is a 4-H club member or becomes one. County agents, local club leaders, high school agriculture men or the Extension Division, University Farm, St. Paul, will give further details or take applications for enrollment.

LAWS PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Traffic laws require motorists and pedestrians to do certain things which prevent accidents and prohibit certain actions which cause accidents. Practically every collision involves one or more violation of traffic laws. Mishaps cannot be prevented, experts say, unless these laws are observed.

MOST ACCIDENTS IN '34 OCCURRED IN RURAL AREAS

Careful Driving Is Urged on Heavily Traveled Country Roads

The majority of accidents in 1934 occurred, not on crowded city streets and urban boulevards, but in the wide open spaces traversed by state and local highways, according to a statement from the American Automobile association.

The statement was based on an analysis of the past year's traffic fatality record by the safety and traffic engineering department of the national motoring body.

"We can not escape the conclusion", said Thomas P. Henry of Detroit, Mich., president of the A. A. A., "that attention must be immediately directed to the improvement and control of driving practices on heavily traveled country roads."

The analysis shows that the traffic death rate in 86 principal cities in 1934 was one-third lower than for the nation as a whole. Using an index figure of 100 to represent the national auto death rate, the major cities are shown to have a ratio of approximately 67 per cent as compared with a ratio of about 133 for the less populous areas. Despite the increase in the national fatality total, nearly a third of the larger cities reported actual decreases in their traffic accident death rates during the year.

International Trucks

Many extra money-saving features are built into the six cylinder International 1½ and 2-ton trucks, which are available in three wheel bases and are adapted to the mounting of bodies to meet every transportation requirement. Among the economy features are the six-cylinder valve-in-head engine with replaceable cylinders; pistons with four rings; and heavy counter balanced four-bearing crankshafts. For rapid delivery of light loads at low cost, the International line provides Model C-1 with wheelbases of 113 and 125 inches. The powerful six-cylinder engine develops 78.5 maximum brake horsepower. Chassis features include a sturdy, well-reinforced frame, roller bearing universal joints and extra-capacity springs. C. Gustafson & Son are local distributors.

Ford Trucks

The 1935 Ford V-8 trucks are designed for double duty, being efficient, economical and practical for both fast delivery work and for heavy-duty hauling, or for any truck operations between these extremes. Features include quick-stopping brakes with ribbed drums, directed flow crankcase ventilation, high efficiency cooling system, heavy duty clutch and full floating rear axles. Various types of truck bodies are supplied on wheelbases of 157 and 131½ inches, while commercial cars include the pickup, deluxe panel delivery, sedan delivery and panel delivery. The compact V-8 engine develops 80 horsepower. Lund and Tunberg are local dealers.

Chevrolet Trucks

The Chevrolet line of trucks, which has led the field the past three years, includes all but the extremely heavy duty equipment, and its six-cylinder valve-in-head motor develops full power at low and moderate driving speeds. The trucks are supplied in four wheelbases, including 107 inches for the sedan delivery in four wheelbases, including 107 inches for the sedan delivery, 112 inches for pickup and panel bodies, and 131 and 157 inches for trucks of 1½ ton capacity. Trucks are available in virtually any type of tire or body equipment that may be desired. The Chevrolet engine represents the highest development in the trucking field. A new cylinder head, exclusive with Chevrolet, gives greater economy than ever while adding new power and speed. Chevrolet trucks are distributed locally by the Northern Chevrolet company.

BOYS' HEARTS BROKEN AS POISONER OPERATES

Hector—A wail similar to that of Israel mourning for her first-born rose in the village of Hector last week. Fifteen of 'man's best friends' crossed the last divide, and the hearts of 15 small boys were broken. A hater of dogs, and one who cared not whose heart he trampled on, dealt death and destruction on the canine population of the village, and 15 dogs were found in various parts of the town,—poisoned. Mongrels and blue-bloods fell under the hand of the executioner, who apparently scattered the poisoned food all over town. The murderer will probably never be caught, but he will carry a load around in his heart that is worse than any punishment, and "It were better that a millstone were hanged about his neck and he were cast into the sea" than that he should break the heart of a boy.

BIRDS NEED NO WINTER FEEDING NEAR WASECA

Waseca — Pheasants do not need special feeding grounds near Waseca, and Walter Scholljegerdes has found that the birds can clear an ear of corn as well as a corn sheller, with a resultant loss of 150 bushels of corn in one field. The big snow storm the first of December prevented him from husking a field of standing corn, and the birds have had a winter picnic there ever since. They spend the nights in the shelter of a nearby slough and visit the corn field daily. The whole field has been wiped out.

SOLONS STILL WRANGLING ON LICENSE FEES

Conference Committee of House and Senate Fails to Agree

FURTHER DISCUSSION IS SLATED FOR TODAY

Extravagance in Highway Department Charged in Committee

Efforts to compromise legislative differences over the automobile license tax resulted in a deadlock Monday night.

Neither house nor senate members of a conference committee would yield on the widely varying provisions of their respective proposals concerning the bill automobilists will pay during the next two years.

There was much talk in the committee respecting extravagances in the highway department, the demands from all parts of the state for continuance of the low license rates of the last two years, the burden put on the highway department two years ago when 4,600 miles of secondary road were added to the system, and the pleas for new highways in far corners of the state.

So far as coming near a conclusion on what the rates should be henceforth, however, there was no discussion. That was left for another meeting today.

Broad powers to regulate the opening and closing of seasons for the taking of game and fish in Minnesota would be vested in the director of game and fish under a bill, a provision designed to net the tee, a provision designed to net the department an additional $20,000 income annually.

Purchase by the state of two buildings on University avenue for office purposes at an estimated cost not exceeding $500,000 instead of the construction of a new building was proposed at a hearing before the house public buildings committee.

Better livestock prices for Minnesota farmers and more efficient supervision of the packing industry was forecast in the house during debate on passage of the bill establishing a system of state weighing, grading and inspection at livestock sales concentrating points.

One of the major provisions of the bill is that which gives the state access to the records of packing plants and slaughtering houses. State supervision of weighing, grading and inspection would apply to points at which 250 animals are handled daily.

St. Hilaire Club First Place Winner in One-Act Play Event

Middle River Woman's Club Second in Event Held Saturday Night

The subdistrict one-act play contest was successfully conducted in the Auditorium Saturday evening under the auspices of the local Legion auxiliary unit in co-operation with Mrs. Verna Becker Purcell of the ERA recreation and leisure time department.

First place was awarded to the playlet "Squaring It with the Boss", presented by the St. Hilaire Woman's club; while second honors went to "Cornfed Babies", given by the Middle River Woman's club. Both plays were based on a similar theme dealing with the devices to which a man resorts to secure an increase in salary.

The two winning playlets will represent this section in the district contest to be held at Warren Saturday evening. This will be followed by a regional contest, details of which will be announced later. Other groups participating in the local event were the Epworth league of the Community church, the Goodridge Community club and the Wyandotte Community club. Music was supplied by the high school reed quartet and the St. Hilaire school band.

Judges were Supt. J. A. Hughes and Principal E. F. Kiland of Red Lake Falls and Arnold E. Carlson of this city. Furniture for the stage settings were supplied by Montgomery Ward & company, and flowers by the Bothun flower shop.

Nelson Brothers Named Managers of T. R. Falls Stock Shipping Group

Nelson Brothers of this city were appointed managers of the Thief River Falls Livestock Shipping association at a meeting of the board of directors last Thursday. They succeed Emil Griebstein, who has filled the post for a long period of years. It was announced that those having stock to ship should notify the managers by telephoning No. 436M or leaving word at the Union State bank. Nelson Brothers will call at the farms to pick up the stock, which will be marketed thru the Central Co-operative Livestock association in South St. Paul. Checks and statements will be sent direct to the shippers from the Central association.

FARM CREDIT HEAD TELLS OF MAKING U. S. CROP LOANS

Says Loans Will be Available This Week Under Certain Restrictions

Emergency crop and feed loans from the $60,000,000 fund appropriated by congress will be available this week according to announcement by the farm credit administration of St. Paul based on information from Governor Myers of the farm credit administration.

Governor Myers said the emergency loans will be made only to farmers who are unable to obtain elsewhere, supplies, feed, or the necessary credit to purchase such items, and not to any applicant who can obtain credit from any other source, including production credit associations.

As in the past, applications for emergency crop loans will be made to the county crop loan committees already set up in most counties.

In Minnesota farmers desiring $200 or more will be required to furnish the local committee with evidence that they have applied to a production credit association and that the application was rejected. In the balance of North Dakota applications for $300 or more will require this evidence.

Loans will be made only to applicants who are cooperating directly with the production control program of the agricultural adjustment administration or who are not proposing to increase their 1935 production in a way detrimental to the success of the program. A statement to this effect is contained in each loan application.

Governor Myers said that the maximum emergency crop loan to one farmer this year is $500 and the minimum is $10 but no loan for the growing or harvesting of crops may be made in an amount greater than is actually needed in each case to purchase seed and fertilizer necessary for production.

R. J. McKERCHER RENAMED COUNTY TAXPAYERS HEAD

Group Tuesday Recommends Eliminations From Sales Tax

R. J. McKercher was re-elected president of the Pennington County Taxpayers association at the annual meeting Tuesday afternoon in the Civic and Commerce association rooms. Other officers named include W. H. Quist, secretary succeeding Alfred Longren; J. M. Thelge, treasurer; and Anton Johnson, Bernhard Knudsen, Victor Melin, A. K. Lockrem and Louis A. Nelson, directors.

The omnibus tax bill now before the state legislature, designed to eliminate the state levy on real estate and providing for a sales tax as well as increased levies on incomes and inheritances, was the subject of a lengthy discussion.

A resolution was adopted urging legislative members from this district to seek the elimination of the sales tax on foods, the cheaper grades of clothing and on farm equipment. Another resolution recommended the elimination of tax exemptions on net incomes.

SUM OF $125,037 IN MARCH TAX SETTLEMENT

Local Units of Government Get Checks from County Auditor This Week

TOTAL IS SLIGHTLY MORE THAN LAST YEAR

City Gets $12,544 and Local School District $22,989

Distribution of the March settlement, aggregating $125,037.13 inclusive of the school apportionment amounting to $10,601.44, was made early this week from the office of County Auditor Harry L. Fowler. The total compares with $110,874.73 distributed a year ago, including a school apportionment of $6,872.50.

From the distribution the city of Thief River Falls received a total of $12,544.17, while the local school district, No. 18, was allotted $22,989.01.

Following are details of the settlement:

State taxes, $10,988.27.

NATIONAL STATUS IS TOPIC AT WPA MEETING MONDAY

Sentiment Equally Divided Between Townsend and Lundeen Plans

A large attendance was registered at a meeting of the Workman's Protective association Monday, President William J. Douville presiding. Legislative matters and national affairs were the topics for discussion.

F. J. Dudley stated that the Townsend old-age pension plan was the only solution for the ills of the country, while H. S. Van Pelt urged support for the Lundeen unemployment insurance bill now before Congress for consideration, the sentiment of the meeting being about equally divided between the two bills.

Chairman Douville said, "We are now doing business under the NRA, restricted by the NRA, supporting the CCC, regulated by the FERA and the AAA and trying to save the old homestead thru the HOLC, and unless somebody hears our SOS PDQ, we will all be sunk. Unless some definite and effective action is taken soon by our national and state legislators, it appears that there will be no escape from impending disaster."

LOCAL PEOPLE AT CROOKSTON TALK WATER CONTROL

Meeting of Red Lake River Development Group Held Wednesday

Numerous northwestern Minnesota communities, including all the cities on Red Lake river, were represented Wednesday evening in Crookston at a well attended meeting of the Red Lake River Development association. Present from this city were Aldermen P. O. Myhrum and Walter Jung, Walter Quist and members of the staff of H. I. Frisbie, district ERA engineer.

A resolution was adopted endorsing the provisions of a water control bill now pending in the state legislature, which would be administered by the state conservation department.

A committee including Mayor W. J. Kirkwood of Crookston, City Engineer E. L. Lium of Grand Forks and Clifford Bouvette of Hallock was appointed to provide necessary data for the Big Fork and Little Fork diversion project which has been proposed as a feature of the Red lake development.

Another resolution urged immediate action on a survey in SERA District 3 with a view to setting up definite projects for conservation of water and the construction of the necessary dams, conservation basins and other means of water supply control.

The resolution was addressed to Governor Olson, the state executive council, state board of control, state conservation commission and L. P. Zimmerman, acting administrator of the SERA.

ANNOUNCE REASON FOR DELAY IN P. O. CONTRACT AWARD

Low Bidder Claims Item of $1,800 Was Omitted Thru Error

An explanation of the delay in the award of the contract for the new postoffice in this city, on which bids were opened in Washington February 11, was supplied in a copy of a letter from W. E. Reynolds, assistant director of procurement in the treasury department, forwarded by Senator Henrik Shipstead to Paul Lundgren, secretary of the Civic and Commerce association.

It was stated that the Rydeen-Den Boer company of St. Paul, which had submitted the lowest figure, had asked to be allowed to withdraw its bid on the ground that an item amounting to approximately $1,800 had not been included in its bid owing to the company's failure to receive Addendum No. 1 to the specifications.

The treasury official added that the matter had been referred to the general accounting office for a decision, following which the necessary steps will be taken. The St. Paul firm's bid, the lowest of fourteen submitted, was in the amount of $35,746.

Rheas Have Community Nests

The rhea has the strangest breeding habits of any creature in the world of its size and general genus. The birds, in the wild state, live in flocks of anywhere from half a dozen to 50 or 60. There is a male leader who, in the mating season, drives off all younger roosters. But the strange thing is that all of the hens lay their eggs in one nest. There may be from 30 to 60 eggs in one of these community nests, each equal in size to a dozen hen's eggs. The eggs laid, the female has discharged her biological obligation. Care of the nest, the hatching and bringing up the young devolves on the male. The male must sit on the eggs 45 days.

Location of Tangier

Tangier, the most westerly outpost of the Mohammedan world, is almost directly south of Dublin, Ireland.

"Trade Last"

"Trade last" is popularly used as a compliment, particularly to one of the opposite sex. The meaning is: "If you will say something agreeable you have heard about me, I shall say something agreeable I have heard about you." While there is a trading of compliments between the parties, the phrase would indicate a preference for the last one to be spoken.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

Upside down is right side up for the liquor glass in the hands of a person who desires good health. Alcohol in any form is a poison. Beer is from 3 per cent to 6 per cent alcohol; wines from 8 per cent to 17 per cent; gin, 30 per cent; whiskey, 35 to 40 per cent. The alcohol in these drinks does all the harm we expect from a poison. Furthermore, alcohol is a poison which depresses the human system. It is often claimed that alcohol has beneficial results since it stimulates the body, "gives you pep," "warms you up," "makes you feel good." This is not true. By actual test alcohol slows us down, deadens the nerves and delays nervous reactions, leaves us groggy and thick-headed. A "hang-over" is a common unpleasant aftermath of this unhealthy poison.

Doctors admit alcohol is a narcotic like ether and chloroform. What sensible person drinks such narcotic poison? To make it all the more dangerous, alcohol is a habit-forming poison. The more one drinks the more and the oftener one wants to drink. Once started only the very strong-willed drinker is able to hold himself to a schedule of mild drinking.

Fielding Yost, long time football coach at University of Michigan, and now Director of Athletics at that school, is interested in healthy American young manhood. He advises against liquor. "Liquor will undermine young men, rob them, clean them out. That's why I am against liquor," he says in substance.

Stars and Stripes in Flag

When Kentucky and Vermont were admitted into the Union in 1794 the Stars and Stripes were each increased to 15. The stars were usually shown in three rows of five stars each. As more and more states were formed and sought entrance into the Union, it was plain to be seen that our flag could easily assume tremendous proportions. In 1818 congress voted to restore the original stripes and to add a new star for each state on the Fourth of July following its admission to the Union. This is the flag as we know it today, and as there are 48 states in the Union, there are 48 stars.

Orthodontia is the art of regulating or correcting malpositions of teeth. While an impetus has been given to this branch of dentistry in the last 30 years, some attention had been given to it ever since the latter part of the Eighteenth century.

Growing With Your Child

"All God's Chillun Got Wings"

By the Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota

Yes, but how few of them get a chance to grow! How often they're clipped back to insure keeping the child's feet on the ground, or get draggled in the mud because no one has troubled to plant some grass, or a tree!

We can easily make a comparison absurd, but the fact that children come into this world trailing "clouds of glory" is so well-known to us from our own childhood experiences that we won't find many people quarreling with the idea that children have a capacity for beauty, and should be given an opportunity to develop an appreciation of it. Music, whether it be gay or grand, the rhythm of poetry and sculpture, the harmony of color—all these are experiences in which children should know how to take part.

Why not expose children to things of beauty if we want them to be observant and responsive to such things? Outside of the provision of colorful curtains for a child's room, and a few often casually or even carelessly chosen picture books, most of us go on our way oblivious of the chances we are letting slip. Delinquency is greatest in areas that are most bleak and dilapidated, in those parts of a town in which no one is interested. How hard some of us work to make our houses and yards attractive, without giving a passing thought to the fact that if this beauty is not interpreted to the child, his surroundings may be as meaningless to him as much less charming ones. Formal flower beds, beautifully kept lawns, what do they do toward cultivating love of beauty in a child? But grass that can be rolled upon, that is smooth and cool to the touch, sauntered thru with bare feet while the dew is still on it, grass that is not just to be looked at and mowed—that is beauty absorbed and taking effect.

If only we more often let children express themselves we would find, I suspect, that they are quite capable of making beauty of their own. Give a child materials—clay, colors, sand, water, he will soon work out his own ideas, singing joyously while he works. That children are naturally poetic will be agreed by any mother who has listened to the outpouring of her three year old's carefree play in happy song. Need he lose this spontaneity of expression?

We try to "make" our children enjoy music by the very dubious means of giving them lessons on the piano or violin. Why not, instead of clipping their wings into the pattern that we think desirable, let them experiment, instead, with making musical instruments, like marimbas, drums, or pipes? Why not let them compose their own music? There are ways in which we can find out if our children are distinctly talented; time enough then to start them on a formal career of lessons. By no means all of us insist on having children write poetry, or learn to draw, although either one of those abilities may be stronger than the musical bent we are always on the watch for.

Why not choose children's books and pictures with greater care? Why not give children a chance to exercise their taste, whether in selecting the colors for their clothes, or discriminating between different bits of music we play for them on the phonograph? Why not expose them to poetry before they have a chance to get self-conscious about it (the "Hundred Best Poems for Boys and Girls" is in all the dime stores) and read them stories that will give those wings a chance to stretch? And why not provide children with materials through which they can express their own creative impulses? Need theme-writing in high school and college be such a bug-bear? Maybe it wouldn't be, if children were encouraged to play with words as they are with blocks.

CALF WITH 4 NOSTRILS APPEARS AT FOREST LAKE

LINDSTROM—A calf several months old and having four nostrils, all apparently in good working order and bringing twice as much air in and out of the calf as on nature's standard models, was recently purchased by A. B. Johnson, Forest Lake real estate man. Johnson purchased the animal from Anthon Stahl, farmer residing a few miles out of Forest Lake. Calves have been born with six legs, five and more hoofs, two heads, and a couple pairs of ears, but this is the first record at least that is known in this locality, of an animal having four nostrils.

AAA OFFICIAL'S HOG DEFIES GOVERNMENT

Heron Lake— Charles Winzer isn't the boss of his own farm, and a hog has politely told him to mind his own business and let nature take its course. This particular hog which has so little respect for the NRA and the AAA gave birth recently to 19 little porkers, and then turned about and thumbed its nose at Mr. Winzer. It would have been more of a sensation if all the pigs had lived, which they didn't, but when a sow has 19 pigs in one litter it's news anyway.

BIG PER CENT OF SETTLERS LEAVE BELTRAMI REGION

Nearly All Being Moved to More Favorable Areas by State ERA

At least 90 per cent of the settlers in the Beltrami Island forest area of Roseau and Lake of the Woods counties have optioned their sub-marginal lands to the government and agreed to move to more favorable sections, according to J. W. Taylor, rural rehabilitation supervisor for the Minnesota SERA (State Emergency Relief administration).

This re-settlement reflects the modern trend towards more rational development of agriculture. It means the saving of large sums of money, now spent on relief and for the maintenance of schools and roads in thinly populated districts. A large number of the families affected are on relief, earning only a meagre income from their farmsteads, located far away from markets. Opportunities for part-time jobs in industry are no longer available as in the past, when lumbering flourished in this region, Taylor explained.

The inhabitants in the forest reserve were at first somewhat bewildered when approached on this program, sponsored jointly by the land policy section of the AAA and the rural rehabilitation division of the Minnesota SERA. When they once understood that the government would assist them with loans to purchase new farms and erect new buildings, they realized that the plan would yield genuine benefits to them.

Loans range from $2,400 on 160 acres to $2,200 on 120 acres, $1,700 on 80 acres and $1,200 on 40 acres. Lands for the new farms have been selected in districts with potentially high soil productivity, and comparatively easy to clear. Tracts will be sold by the government, under contract for deed, with title remaining with the Rural Rehabilitation corporation of Minnesota, until fully paid for by the settlers.

Ten Farm Hands Placed Locally During Week

Ten farm hands were given employment during the past week thru the agency of the National Reemployment service, Howard Davidson, county manager, announced today. On the basis of early replies to a questionnaire sent out recently, the service anticipates a considerable demand for farm workers this spring.

Further Enlistments to be Made in U. S. Navy

Sixteen men will be enlisted in the U. S. Navy from the Minneapolis navy recruiting district during the month of April, 1935. This district comprises the state of Minnesota and North Dakota and a few northwestern counties of Wisconsin. During the months of February and March, 1935 the Minneapolis district has enlisted twenty-four young men in the Navy between the ages of 17 and 25. Beginning with the month of May, 1935 this number will be increased and by July, 1935 it is expected that this Recruiting District will be approximately enlisting fifty men a month.

Nova Scotia

Great Britain's claim upon Nova Scotia was originally based upon the discoveries of the Cabots in 1497. The first settlement was made by the French in 1605, at Port Royal, now Annapolis Royal. Sir William Alexander, in 1621, received from the king a grant of the Acadian island, a grant that included what are now New Brunswick and Gaspe. Sir William, who was a patriotic Scotsman, gave to the land the name of Nova Scotia, a name that has since been confined to the peninsula and the island.

Photos Help Test Lightning

It is possible to determine the speed of lightning by use of special photographic apparatus. Experiments of this kind reveal that the average speed of lightning is around 28,500 miles a second. This is about 15 per cent of the speed of light.

BELL-LIKE ROCKS IN PENNSYLVANIA

A new set of ringing rocks, made famous throughout Pennsylvania because of their vibrant qualities, have been found near the quaint historical town of Riegelsville.

With the aid of a small metal hammer, a clear ringing, as from a bell, can be made to emanate from the rocks. However, all the rocks in the area, which covers several hundred square feet, do not ring. Scientists believe that the rock must be partly suspended in order to give off the bell-like sounds.

Samuel G. Gordon, associate curator of the department of mineralogy at the Academy of Natural Sciences, Philadelphia, believes volcanic activity 100,000,000 years ago during the time of the dinosaurs made the bell-like rocks possible.

Gordon said they were not placed there by volcanic eruption, as was often believed, but were exposed when the soil was washed away during the millions of years.

The rocks are of the diabase, or trap rock class, and one of three types of rocks that ring. The other two are stalactites found in caves and phonolite, a volcanic rock found in the western part of the country.

Film Sea Bottom From Deck

Undersea motion pictures may be made without getting off the deck of the ship by means of a periscope camera. The periscope, which is made with extension tubes for convenience in carrying, is attached to a watertight case designed to hold a 35 millimeter camera, which is wound, operated and focused from outside the case and from the safety of ship deck. The outfit can be adjusted to take scenes from any angle. The optical system permits use of as many extension tubes as desired, so that the camera may be submerged to great depths. To prevent fogging of the lenses, the equipment has a ventilating system through the tube.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Essay Contest on Topic of Co-operation Open to All 4-H Club Members

Minnesota's 4-H essay contest on "Co-operation" should be a big attraction to followers of the 4-leaf clover emblem, says State Leader T. A. Erickson. Essay writing is one of the best ways to sharpen the wits and, moreover, this contest offers the best writers many educational trips to national, state, and county 4-H meets, as well as other fine awards. County 4-H leaders can give interested members full details about rules and prizes.

"To the 43,000 4-H members in Minnesota who are learning how to work with each other through their club activities, this subject of cooperation should have a special appeal," says Mr. Erickson.

Each writer may select his own subject, so long as it deals with plans, purposes and results of cooperative efforts among rural people. Subjects selected may vary from such topics as "How we learn to cooperate through our 4-H band," to others such as "The Land O'Lakes Creameries," says Mr. Erickson. The information used in these essays may be from practical experience, or gleaned from bulletins, books, farm journals and circulars.

Sherburne county placed two winners in last year's contest, Douglas, St. Louis, Pope and Kandiyohi counties each placing one. Clay county reported the largest number of essays entered.

The contest is open to any 4-H member, and essays competing for state awards should be sent to the State 4-H Club Office at University Farm on or before December 1, 1935, by the county agent or leader.

No Insurance on Capitol

The Treasury department has jurisdiction over all government owned buildings and sites, including the United States Capitol and the post offices throughout the country. It does not place policies of insurance on the Capitol or any other federal building, whether in Washington or elsewhere. Congress appropriates no money to pay the cost of such insurance. Many of the public buildings are fireproof or practically so, and generally an open space about 40 feet wide is maintained to protect it from fires which might occur in adjoining structures.

SEE IT AT THE AUTOMOBILE SHOW!
THE CAR BEHIND THE NEWS
more than a new car—a new advance in automobile design

The new FORD V-8 with Comfort Zone Riding and dozens of other new features...

WHAT is there about the new Ford V-8 that is making it a high point of interest at the Automobile Show?

Your question will turn into an exclamation of surprise when you see this new automobile for yourself.

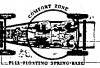
Here is a car—low in price, economical to run, and yet built to meet every modern motoring need.

It meets the demand for style—with streamlined bodies and new interior finish. For roominess—with wider seats, front and rear. Large luggage compartments.

It gives you the handling ease you need today. Easier to steer and park. It has stability at all speeds. The new brakes and clutch operate with extremely light foot pressure.

But your greatest surprise will be the new Comfort Zone Ride. See the diagram. Now even back seat passengers get "front seat riding comfort!"

The 1935 Ford V-8 offers you over 100 improvements—in addition to the advantages of the proved 85-horsepower, V-8 engine. It is not surprising that this new Ford is already making automobile history.



Note how the springs are placed out beyond the front and rear axles. They provide a long springbase for riding ease and retain the 112-inch wheelbase for handling ease. Both front and rear seats are cradled between the springs—enabling all passengers to ride in the Comfort Zone.

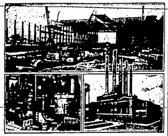
$23,000,000 Ford Plant Expansion



Top photo shows construction work on the new Ford steel hot rolling and cold finishing mills; left, installation of furnaces and other equipment in foundry for casting alloy steel parts; right, Rouge plant power house.

HENRY FORD is well under way on one of the year's largest single industrial construction projects in the United States—a $23,000,000 program designed to improve and expand the facilities of the great Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn, Mich.

Among the projects are: New hot strip steel rolling mill, $6,330,000; new sheet steel cold finishing mill, $2,460,000; modernization of main power house into the largest high pressure steam power house in the world, $4,600,000; new glass plant, $3,000,000; modernization of foundry and installation of furnaces and other equipment for production of cast alloy steel parts, $675,000; and reconstruction of one blast furnace to increase its capacity from 600 to 800 tons daily, to cost $800,000.

In addition, new tools, machinery and other equipment and facilities in all departments to increase daily output, totals $3,000,000.

Former Red Lake Falls Boy in Jail in Duluth; Confesses to Slaying

Robert Douglas Quigley, 15-year-old confessed slayer of Harlan Townsend of Duluth, who is now being held there, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Quigley, residents of Red Lake Falls some twenty years ago, when the father was serving as Great Northern section foreman, says the Red Lake Falls Gazette.

The family moved to Crookston where the boy was born December 24, 1919. For a time officials at Duluth were inclined to doubt the youth's story, in his age, because his appearance indicated more advanced years.

After leaving Red Lake Falls, Raymond Quigley, the youth's father, was employed by the Great Northern railroad at Crookston, working with the track maintenance division.

The boy's confession cleared up a Duluth murder mystery which has puzzled authorities for the past seven months. Townsend was shot down in an attempted robbery last August and died several months later of the wounds he received. The murder of Townsend climaxed a crime career which young Quigley began in 1933 with the theft of an automobile.

The boy is under the observation of psychiatrists in Duluth.

$40,000 DAM SOLD FOR TEN DOLLARS

Fergus Falls—A quarter of a century ago, the city of Fergus Falls spent $40,000 building a dam. Last week the crumbling structure was sold for the price of $10, a net loss of $29,990.00. The huge ruin has stood for 25 years as a gravestone to the money invested. It crumbled away like an egg shell after a few months use, and the expensive dynamos are still buried under tons of sand and silt. Since the structure was left to mold away, no one has ever made a bid for it until last week, when Ben Warzechka of Avon, Stearns county, made a written offer of $10. It is not known to what use it will be put by the new owner.

HOME PLANTER'S NOOK

The What, When and How of flowers, lawns, and shrubbery, by L. Sando and L. E. Longley, Division of Horticulture, University Farm, St. Paul.

As the days become warmer, thoughts turn to out-door work in the garden. One of the first things to look after is the lawn. Rake it well as early as the ground is dry enough to walk on comfortably. Raking will remove all matted grass, and sticks stones bones and other rubbish. It will also break up the surface crust, allowing better aeration of the soil.

While raking, note the condition of the grass. Some parts may have been damaged during the winter. Last summer was mostly very dry and many lawns have patches where the grass has been partially or wholly killed out. Possibly crab grass, or more than likely some coarse weeds, are already beginning to crowd in where the grass has died. You had better sow some grass seed on these bare patches.

First the ground should be thoroughly raked with a sharp-toothed steel rake. During the late winter, a thin, crumbly crust likely has formed on the surface of the soil. Some bright, cool morning, after the first frost has melted and the surface of the ground has become dry, go out and thoroughly rake over and pulverize this crust. Then sow your grass seed, and re-rake to cover it well. If you have a roller, use it to firm the seed well into the soil.

For seeding on an old lawn, use the same grass mixture used in the original seeding if possible. Most of our lawns are of bluegrass, and this is the best grass for most of us. A mixture of six parts of bluegrass, two parts of red top and one part of white clover is a good combination for reseeding. The clover will give a good green lawn this season, and will give way to the bluegrass by next summer, if you use the right kind of fertilizers. For new seeding we use about one pound of the grass seed mixture to 300 square feet of lawn. Reseeding will take somewhat less, depending on the amount of grass left.

Spring is the time to roll the lawn. Before the ground settles too firmly, go over the lawn several times in both directions with a roller. This will smooth out little bumps and ridges, leaving an even surface much more pleasing to look at and much easier to mow.

If you are going to apply fertilizer this spring, you had better do it a few days before planting new grass seed. Scatter the fertilizer, soak the lawn heavily, and wait several days before sowing, as otherwise the fertilizer may injure the germination of the grass seed. The complete season's fertilizer program for the lawn will be discussed in a later article.

MAY SERVE A USEFUL PURPOSE

Confronted with the necessity of raising some twenty odd million dollars in taxes to meet the cost of state government and to take up some of the deficits that have resulted from past extravagances in the handling of state money, the law makers down at St. Paul have a difficult problem to solve during the next few weeks. In the past the principle source of revenue for the state has been the tax on real estate. An attempt is now being made to find other sources of revenue that will take the place of this real estate tax. This would be a difficult thing in itself if only the normal amount of tax revenue were needed. With the additional burden of providing for a huge deficit, collecting more money than the state has ever attempted to collect from its citizens before, the difficulties are of course so much greater. Nearly twenty-five million dollars cannot be taxed away from the people of Minnesota by any painless political hokus-pokus. No matter how it is done, the operation is going to be decidedly painful. And so, no matter what plan of taxation is adopted, the results are going to be unsatisfactory and there is going to be a great deal of yammering about this and that unfairness in the schedules.

And there probably will be many inequalities and injustices in the schedules. Any reasonable person would admit that to work out a system of taxation that would be fair to everyone would be humanly impossible. But out of the dissatisfaction that will result from the new tax laws, no matter what those laws will be, perhaps there will develop a tax consciousness among the people that will bring a necessary influence to bear on our state government. That badly needed influence is a demand, not so much for a change in this or that method of collecting taxes, but rather for greater efficiency and economy in the spending of the tax money that is collected.

On our doorstep the other morning we found a circular devoted to a discussion of the tax bill now being considered by the legislature. The purpose of the circular seemed to be to convince us that the majority group in the legislature was a gang of thieves that was trying to figure out ways and means of further distressing the poor and needy and that all the virtue and wisdom at the state capitol was confined to the members of that particular political machine whose cause it championed. But in the entire four pages of that circular there was not even a suggestion that an attempt should be made to protect the interests of all tax payers by a curb on public spending.

Political quacks will continue trying to kid us into believing that they are going to shift the tax burden so that someone else will pay the cost of government and on these promises they lull the public into an attitude of indifference toward public spending. But no matter how the taxes are levied, the great portion of that burden must eventually be paid in one form or another by the consuming public. If we do not pay it directly we will pay it indirectly and no political magic can alter this fact. In the final analysis, a government, whether local, state or national, must be conducted on the same sound business principles that an individual must apply to the management of a home, a farm or a business if it is to be successful. If you spend you must pay. If you borrow to spend you merely postpone the day of settlement and add to your difficulties of tomorrow. It would be fine if it could be otherwise but it can't be. The ordinary rules of arithmetic which cover this sad state of affairs are fundamental and cannot be changed.

During the past few years the protest against public spending has come largely from tax payers and the tax paying group has been made up largely of those who have owned real estate. Because of their demands for relief an attempt will now be made to shift a portion of the burden to other sources. Real and personal property will still have to pay the cost of local government in all probability but the state will get its revenue by taxing the public in other ways. These new taxes will, of course, be unpopular. But if they result in a general demand for the same kind of economy in the administration of our state government as taxpayers have already demanded in the administration of their local units of government, then these new taxes will have served an excellent purpose.

IT'S ALL QUITE SIMPLE

In order to qualify for a seven million dollar grant from the Federal government for the purpose of building roads, Minnesota must raise an equivalent amount during the next two years. We cannot afford to pass up this opportunity to get seven million dollars from our rich Uncle Sam so of course we will submit either to higher auto license fees or an increase in the gas tax in order to provide the money. On the face of it that looks like a pretty good proposition. But where does Uncle Sam get this seven millions that he is so generous with? Right here in Minnesota from the very same people who will now have to dig up another seven million in order to get it back. Here's the way it works. The Federal government taxes gasoline one cent a gallon. On this tax Minnesota citizens pay about three and a half million dollars a year or, in two years, about seven million. In other words, we, the dear peepul of the good old state of Minnesota, will pay out fourteen million dollars for new roads whether we want to or not. It's all quite simple—the "aid" system itself and the people who submit to it.

SHOULD TAKE PRELIMINARY STEPS

Nearly a billion dollars of the four and a half billion dollar relief bill recently authorized by Congress will be available in the near future for building projects of states and other political subdivisions thruout the country. While the manner in which this money will be handled has not yet been announced, it probably will be distributed somewhat as other PWA money has been distributed in the past. Considering this, and in view of the fact that we have both an unemployment problem and a need for certain public improvements, it might be well to take the preliminary steps now to secure recognition of our needs in Thief River Falls.

There are two badly needed improvements in this city that would lend themselves excellently to the purposes for which this money is made available. One is a sewage disposal plant, of which much has been said and the need for which has not been questioned. The other is a more adequate sewer main on the East Side. East Siders suffer patiently each Spring when the surface water run-off forces sewage to back up into their basements and sooner or later such a main will have to be provided. Both of these projects are of the type that would provide much employment and the disposal plant at least could be made self liquidating. Why not apply for government assistance on these jobs now?

As far as the automobile industry is concerned the depression is a thing of the past—for the time being at any rate. Last week a total of 103,286 passenger cars and trucks were manufactured in this country, an all time record. The previous peak was back in July of 1930 when, in one week, 102,000 cars were rushed out of the assembling plants. But even with the present high production, dealers seem to have difficulty filling orders. This evidently is not the only community in which sales are being made.

THE TAX EXEMPTION FALLACY

(Salem (Ind.) Republican Leader)

The surest way to achieve tax reduction would be to spread the burden evenly, based on the capacity to pay—without exemptions.

Tax exemption for persons with means, or the lower brackets has long fooled a substantial part of the public into believing it is not taxed at all. It creates the idea that the cost of government is being borne by wealthy individuals and by big business.

No idea, no belief, could be less justified. There aren't that many wealthy individuals—and there are not that many big businesses. The great part of the cost of government—federal, state, county and municipal—is paid by the people who think they are tax exempt. Instead of paying their money direct to the tax collector's office, they pay it indirectly in higher rents, more expensive food, clothing and entertainment and everything else. That big business which is so highly taxed, for example, is the business you patronize when you buy groceries or shoes or insurance or transportation or something of the kind—and the cost of the commodity or service includes the taxes the business pays. In other words, the business simply acts the middleman—it collects the money from you and passes it on to the government.

Today the tax problem is an intensely personal issue to every American. It stands in the way of employment, of wage increases, of industrial expansion, of productive investment. It is a barrier to recovery. It is going to become a bigger problem every year until the millions of wage earners realize how vital its solution is to their well-being and their future.

GOVERNMENT BY PRESSURE

(Murray County Herald)

The fathers of our country contemplated the influence of the citizen in government, and placed in our Constitution the right of petition, under which the citizen might present his views of current needs to his elected representatives. But there is nothing to indicate that the fathers ever dreamed of an era in which citizens should threaten their elected representatives and seek by political force a coercion of the conscience of legislative bodies.

The famous right of petition has been so changed, in both method and purpose, as to constitute an overturning of its original meaning. Today it is used by groups in a spirit of coercion. One group has recently told Congress: "If you do not vote our way we will beat you." In our own state a group of radicals has declared that "we will get what we want or raise Hell." These extremists do not abide by the precepts of Democracy under which all men shall have their say and then accept the decision of the majority. Rule or Ruin seems to be the motto of the hour. And in behalf of this extreme and brutal selfishness they invoke the names of Washington and Lincoln—men who abhorred violence, either physical or intellectual.

If a legislator is to be held responsible to a single strong group, subservient to some one faction that controls many votes, then of a sure fact, government is at an end.

Supposing that in a Commercial Club devoted to the interests of its town there was a division of opinion as there generally is. What would the town gain if a majority said: "Hands off, as we lost out in our contention we will withdraw from the Club and from now on we'll have nothing to do with any program of town progress." Decent men are aware of all conflicting interests, not of one alone. Their effort is to serve the interests of all groups and not any one group. If legislation can be controlled by any one group it [illegible] legislation, no matter how excellent it [illegible] the part of a group [illegible].

Government by pressure will result in only one thing: the tyranny of one group today, and the tyranny of another group tomorrow.

Without popular education, no government which rests on popular action can long endure; the people must be schooled in the knowledge and if possible in the virtues upon which the maintenance and success of free institutions depend.—Woodrow Wilson.

Goshawk Is Intelligent; It Has Uncanny Instinct

Strangely enough, it has been found that birds of the Falcon family, which includes the Goshawk and other birds of prey, react more quickly to the influence of kindness than any other species of bird. They possess a rare intelligence and very highly developed sense organs. They have an uncanny instinct for recalling old haunts and old friends even after a lapse of years and have a remarkable power of individually adapting their conduct to novel circumstances. Their instinctive habits, once interrupted, the average bird becomes distressed and helpless, but not so the hawk. It quickly adjusts its habits to the new conditions and carries on.

Possessing an intelligence that rates him rank well up with the most sagacious of our domestic animal pets, and well above all other birds, it does seem a pity that his carnivorous habits are such as to make him so very unpopular. The Goshawk is one of seven wild native birds that may be destroyed at any time—[illegible] season.—Montreal Herald.

An Indian Duel

More than a hundred years ago in Van Wert county, Ohio, occurred a strange duel to death by two young Indians. Both red braves were in love with the same maiden who, either too flirty to decide or too afraid of the rejected one, would not express her choice. So the two suitors agreed to fight it out, the survivor to get the girl. On a blanket spread on the ground, the two braves seated themselves, their left hands tied behind their backs and a knife in their right. They had to keep on the blanket, and with the knife try to kill the other. In the State Senate

By Sen. E. L. Tungseth

In my last letter I made reference to Senate File No. 1325 which is a committee bill relative to Rural Credit Liquidation. It bears my name because I acted chairman at the time it was ready for introduction. It contains many of the major features of the several propositions which had been presented to the committee. There are two major features in this bill.

(1) Acceptance of cash settlement for farms or loans. Such settlement to be based on a reasonable valuation of such farms as evidenced by records of production the last five years.

(2) It provides for a crop payment plan on farms for which a satisfactory cash settlement cannot be made and also for the purpose of providing positive protection to the original owner or borrower, against any competitive bidding on these farms. The arrangement of this crop payment plan is so constructed that the loan can never pyramid. No matter how little revenue the state may receive from its one-third of the cash crop, the state will give receipt in full for any and all interest due, in such current year. Anything derived above what is required for interest will be applied on the principal. This plan provides a full security of tenure for the farmers concerned. The bill does not provide for a local appraisal committee to re-appraise and re-establish the salable value of these Rural Credit farms or such farms on which loans have become delinquent. The Senate committee was generally of the opinion that such local appraisals would open the way for a needless amount of expenditures and difficulties, and that a lot of time would be wasted. The argument was presented that similar local committees placed the loanable values on these farms too high in the first place.

Relative to the Rural Credits Solstad, Raatsluoja and I have introduced a bill which if the contents of it can be carried out, will very substantially reduce the rate of interest on State Rural Credit loans. I do not believe that these loans should carry a higher rate of interest than 3%. It is difficult, however, to secure legislation which simply sets a fixed rate of interest because an appropriation would have to be made to cover the deficit. The Rural Credit Department at the present time pays all the way from 4 to 5½% interest on the bonds with which this bureau is financed. There are some $28,000,000 of state trust fund in the Rural Credit Bureau. My bill requests the State Board of Investment to permit these bonds to be redeemed, because if the Rural Credit Bureau at this time can refinance its own indebtedness, money can now be secured possibly at less than 2½%. This because the state of Minnesota has an exceptionally good credit rating. The new bonds can also be arranged in small denominations, in order that our own people might invest their savings deposits therein. If the Rural Credits can be refinanced at 2½%, the borrower can obtain his loan at 3¼% because my bill limits the Rural Credit Department to three-fourths of one per cent between the rate of interest paid on its bonds and the rate of interest charged on its loans. I can see no other possible way of obtaining a lower rate of interest through this department as added appropriations are, to say the least, very unpopular since they increase the tax burden, which the Legislature this year is expected to decrease.

About the time that the Legislature had passed the $2,000,000 seed bill, word comes from Washington that such a bill is not required because the Federal Government expects to take care of the situation. In case the Federal Government does get ready to act promptly in the matter, of course, our appropriation will be unnecessary, but we still have these funds available and in case the Federal Government does not act soon enough to provide the seed for our farmers this spring, then State money will be available. I understand that the necessary organizations for carrying out the provisions of this act have been set up. The Federal loans provide funds subject to regulations which can be used for the purchase of seed, fuel and oil for tractors, feed for work stock, fertilizer and dusting or spraying materials. The 1935 loan follows closely those of former seasons and according to present information is to the effect that $500 can be obtained by a single borrower subject to the authorization of the Field Supervisor and the Examination board. Last year some 12,000 farmers in Minnesota availed themselves of such Federal loan service.

In my next letter I shall comment on the so-called Omnibus Tax Bill, as some progress will be made by that time. The measure passed the House yesterday with a fair majority, but as yet it is in shape to suit many of the members of the Legislature. There are two things which we must insist on and that is—(1) That any new source of revenue is replacement and (2) that such new source distribute the load properly so that the public will pay somewhat according to means and ability to pay. Nevertheless no tax levy can be expected to become popular. Whatever is done will be criticized and yet we have a plain duty that must be performed in releasing real estate of much of its present tax burdens.

In closing I want to mention that the Governor has signed the bill for compulsory cream grading. The bill received the support of the co-operative creameries throughout the state. I believe that most of the co-operative creameries in my district wrote in in support of the bill and there was little opposition. Needless to say I voted in favor of this bill and supported it in committee. If my information is correct the State of Minnesota takes the lead and is the first to have such a law on its statue books.

Warn Local Gardeners Against Getting Dirt in Wounds Under Skin

There is no time of year when digging in the earth is so popular as in early spring. Very few of the lucky people who have the opportunity to get off the asphalt can resist the temptation to do a little gardening or raking in April.

That is why they should be warned, according to a bulletin issued by the Minnesota State Medical Association today, to take proper care of any deep wounds in the hands into which garden earth may have penetrated.

"Lock-jaw" victims come nowadays not among soldiers but among unwary gardeners or farmers or anybody who happens to receive what the doctors call a "penetrating" wound which is deep enough to harbor the tetanus germ in bruised tissue that is not reached by the air.

The wound, itself, may not be particularly painful. But, if by some chance, tetanus happens to have got in, treatment with anti-tetanus serum which helps the body to neutralize the poison that will form with the growth of the germ at the wounded spot is absolutely necessary.

If this serum is given immediately after the injury and before the poison reaches the nerves and the brain, no harm will be done. Only a little of the serum will be needed.

If it is not given until symptoms of "lock-jaw" begin to appear, then tremendous quantities of the serum must be given with only a partial chance of recovery.

"Gardening in spring is to be recommended for most people, on all accounts" the doctors conclude. "They should remember, however, that tetanus germs are likely to be found in fertilized garden earth and any deep wound where there is a chance that the earth might have been forced into the tissue should have immediate attention."

FLOCK OF DEER ADD TO FARMERS' WORRIES

Alexandria—One Douglas county farmer has found that the problem of providing feed for his cows and horses has been complicated somewhat by a flock of young deer having made themselves at home on his farm, to graze on his field of winter rye. A. J. Abbott, Miltona township, found seven young deer grazing on his field. They stayed several hours and then jumped the fence to spend the night in a woodlot nearby. The next morning they were back in the rye. Deer have been reported in Douglas county before, but this is the first time that such a number have invaded the county together.

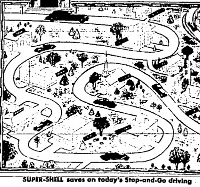
You do 80% of your driving within 25 miles of your doorstep



This Stop-and-Go driving wastes your money if your gasoline hasn't Three distinct Kinds of Power

THE average car today is continually DASHING BACK AND FORTH within a few miles of home—starting . . . stopping . . . warming up—time after time.

This calls for 3 kinds of power in your gasoline—POWER for quick-starting, POWER for acceleration. POWER for steady runs. Unless you have these three types of power—and unless they are in PERFECT BALANCE—you're wasting money.

Super-Shell can give you these 3 types of power—and can cut your driving costs 3 ways—for Super-Shell is the first truly balanced gasoline—

SUPER-SHELL saves on today's Stop-and-Go driving

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline on every "Cold" Start. Super-Shell starts instantly—often warms up in half the time of ordinary gasolines—with less wasteful choking.

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline in 10 Minutes of Hard Pulling. Because of Super-Shell's even volatility, you can accelerate rapidly, or race your car up steep hills—on less gasoline, without wasteful knocking.

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline in One Hour of Steady Running. Every drop of Super-Shell vaporizes more completely at every engine temperature. So it saves on long runs, too.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

The Commerce Commission last week approved applications for opening two state banks, one at Glencoe and one at Elgin. The capital stock for the former bank, which will be known as the Security State Bank of Glencoe, is $23,000; and of the latter bank, which is to be known as the Elgin State Bank, is $10,000. Activity in the opening of the new banks is regarded by Commissioner of Banks Elmer A. Benson as a healthy sign for the banking business in Minnesota.

L. A. Johnson of St. Paul was named last week by Governor Olson as custodian of the State Capitol to succeed J. L. Peterson, who recently resigned. Mr. Johnson received the endorsement of numerous organizations.

A communication protesting against the proposed reduction of tariffs on barley malt was sent last week by Knud Wefald, state railroad and warehouse commissioner, to northwest members of Congress. Commissioner Wefald, in his protest, said that the American farmer is being sacrificed to buy the world's markets for the eastern manufacturers.

In a note accompanying an article by Governor Olson in the current issue of "Common Sense", a national liberal magazine, the editor speaks of Minnesota's chief executive as the most-talked-of possible leader of a new national third party. The Governor contends, in his article, that the issue of whether production is to be for use or for private profit will be determined on the political field.

Where the tourist business is concerned it seems that in the matter of volume Minnesota will follow in the footsteps of Florida, which is ending its biggest season in years. George Bradley, tourist commissioner, reports that a record-breaking number of inquiries on the play facilities of the Land of Ten Thousand Lakes is being received by his office.

Attorney General Harry H. Peterson appeared before the United States Supreme court this week to defend the constitutionality of the Frazier-Lemke bill, passed by Congress as an agricultural relief measure. Mr. Peterson successfully defended the law before the federal circuit court of appeals at Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Federal Emergency Seed Loan Office was removed last week from Minneapolis to St. Paul. The new offices are in the Federal Land Bank Building.

Ralph T. Crane, president of the Investment Bankers association of America, in an address at the Minnesota club in St. Paul last week, gave as his opinion that we are making progress towards economic recovery. We all hope that such is the case; but it is also to be hoped that when economic recovery is attained that some considerable thought will be given to ways and means of averting such periods of depression as the one we have been witnessing.

S. Paul Skahen, commissioner of securities, announces that the commerce commission has recently passed upon numerous applications for exchange of securities: the new ones either extending maturity dates of outstanding bonds or debentures, or reducing capitalization of companies, now carrying a too heavy capital structure. The commission, in granting such application, looks only for fraud in the transaction and makes no recommendation in the matter. The owner of securities solicited to make such exchange or extension must exercise his own judgment as to whether or not the proposed plan is fair and may or may not adopt it as he sees fit.

Statistics indicate that over one-fifth of the American domestic consumption of rosin goes into varnish and allied products, and that only the paper and soap industries use larger quantities of rosin.

LEGION OFFICERS REITERATE STAND FOR PAYING BONUS

Local Post and Unit Represented at Conference in St. Paul

An appeal for continuation of the fight for immediate payment of compensation certificates was made by Frank N. Belgrano Jr., national commander of the American Legion, as Legionnaires ended their spring conference in St. Paul Saturday night.

Commander S. P. Orwoll represented Elmer J. Ecklund post at the meeting, while Mrs. James Steen represented the local auxiliary unit.

The plea for a united support of the payments in spite of the House vote registered against the Legion-sponsored Vinson bill in favor of the Patman bill was made by the national commander at a dinner in the Hotel St. Paul.

Referring to a meeting of the Legion's National Executive committee to be held in Indianapolis Tuesday, at which a legislative program was to be outlined, Belgrano, although not directly asking the support, said:

"I know your representatives at the meeting and others will support legislation for immediate payment of the certificates."

However, he was careful to point out that no officer of the Legion could dictate its national policy. "The National Executive committee is the only governing body between conventions", he said.

Earlier in the day executives of the Minnesota department met and adopted a statement of policy which Gerald Barron, National committeeman, will take to Indianapolis. Although the statement supported a bill to obtain immediate payments, it expressed disapproval of any inflationary rider which might provoke a presidential veto, W. R. Mitchell of Tracy, department commander said.

Spend More Money on Highway Maintenance, U. S. Official Urges

Minnesota should increase its maintenance expenditures on the original trunk highway system by more than $1,000,000 a year, Thomas MacDonald, chief of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, had advised N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner.

A letter from Mr. MacDonald to Mr. Elsberg states that $610 a mile should be allowed for maintenance on the 6,700 mile federal aid system, compared with $469 a mile spent in 1934.

The highway department budget for 1935 has been revised in accordance with Mr. MacDonald's request, approximately $4,000,000 being set up for maintenance of the old trunk routes, Mr. Elsberg said. However, he expressed the belief that the roads can be kept in satisfactory condition for less than the amount recommended by the federal bureau.

Mr. MacDonald expressed the opinion that for best maintenance results, Minnesota should spend $7,000,000 on its whole 11,000 mile trunk system in 1935. This compares with about $5,000,000 spent in 1934.

Elsholtz Co. Takes Over North Star Freight Co.

The state railroad and warehouse commission recently granted a permit to the Elsholtz Transportation Company to take over the North Star Freight Company, now operating lines between Crookston and Noyes, East Grand Forks and Bemidji, Moorhead and Hendrum. The condition is made that the transaction be for the "benefit" of North Star creditors. The commission denied a petition of the Janke Transfer Company, of Frazee, to run freight between East Grand Forks and Bemidji, Crookston and Noyes, Crookston and Thief River Falls.

Patman Bill Would Give County Veterans $195,000

Pennington county World War veterans will receive $195,467.20 if the Patman bonus bill is enacted into law, according to information released from the office of Congressman R. T. Buckler in Washington. Marshall county former service men would receive $316,918; Red Lake, $128,360; Roseau, $235,212; and Clearwater, $177,927.

Melby Bill Clarifies Homestead Exemptions

Plans to make a better definition of a homestead, under the law reducing tax assessments on homestead properties, will be studied by a house subcommittee in the state legislature, it was announced Tuesday. Rep. J. O. Melby, who has a bill on the subject, told the committee there have been a number of abuses. The bill would limit the low rate to homesteads occupied exclusively by the owners as residence property. Low rates have been obtained under the law on some business properties, Mr. Melby said, where owners live in the building.

ROAD BIDS TOTALING $110,000 CALLED FOR

Bids on highway jobs totaling approximately $110,000 have been called for April 16 by the Minnesota highway department. Grading, graveling and bridge projects include Blue Earth, Brown, Grant, Hennepin, Itasca, Ramsey, Scott, Mower and Washington counties.

Grand Forks Taxi Driver Murdered Monday Night

Raymond Ruud, 19-year-old taxi driver, was shot and killed by an unknown assailant Monday night and his body dumped from his car on a lonely stretch of road just south of Grand Forks.

Victim of a murderer's bullet, the young man's body was found at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, lying in a crumpled heap in a ditch along the road. His cab was found abandoned in an alley in the south end. The battery was dead and officers believed the car had been pushed into the alley.

Ruud was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Erick Ruud. His father is an employe of the Great Northern railway. The young man had been driving a taxi only 16 days. He was born on a farm near Wylie, Minn., October 20, 1914, and came to Grand Forks with his parents about 13 years ago.

Taking Applications for Gatzke Postmaster

Applications will close April 19 for candidates desirous of filling a contemplated vacancy in the position of fourth class postmaster at Gatzke, it was announced this week by the United States Civil Service Commission. The compensation of the postmaster for the past fiscal year was $825. The examination will be conducted in Thief River Falls at a date to be announced later.

ALL STAR BOWLERS IN TIGHT CONTEST FRIDAY EVENING

Ulrich Team Defeats Mann Bowlers by Margin of 22 Points

By a narrow margin Ulrich's AllStars won a special match from Mann's All-Stars on the local bowling alleys Friday evening, the total scores being 2,452 to 2,430. Lyle Lanning, 196, was high man on Ulrich's team, while Wallace DuChamp, 225, led for Mann's bowlers.

Play in the local league continued Wednesday evening of last week when the Thief River Pharmacy team won two out of three from the Elofsons, Art Hamilton, 195, and Dr. Vold, 189, making the best scores. Land O'Lakes Thursday evening made it three straight over the Live Power team, high men being Charles Booren, 206, and Morris Jaranson, 157.

The Bratrud Clinic bowlers Monday took two out of three from the Thief River Pharmacy, high scores being made by DuChamp, 200, and Hal Ekeren, 210. Tuesday night the Oens won two out of three from the Elofsons, top scores being made by S. Brandon, 226, and Elmer Helquist, 172.

Tall Story on Seeding Arises in St. Hilaire

Bill Johnson, who resides close to St. Hilaire, has adopted a novel method to get some early wheat seeded and at the same time get some practice for fall hunting, says the St. Hilaire Spectator. As his field is too soft to permit use of a horse-drawn drill, he travels across the field on skiis and broadcasts the wheat by firing it from a ten gauge shotgun. The ski marks serve as a marker for each trip, and he knows the pattern of the old scatter-gun so well, he can estimate to an ounce the amount put in each acre.

Old Syria

During the World war a large part of Syria, then a part of Turkey located in Asia Minor, was occupied by French troops, and at the end of the war was mandated to France. For governmental purposes three divisions were made in the territory, under the names, Lebanon, Alaouites and Syria. Lebanon is now a republic by that name, while Alaouites is called Latakia.

OLD PAY RESTORED FOR RAIL WORKERS IN U. S. THIS WEEK

Companies State Intention of Seeking Reduction After May 1

The railroads will serve notice soon after May 1 that they will seek a reduction from the 1929 wage levels which became effective again Monday.

Under the agreement negotiated a year ago in Washington by which the rail employes of the country will receive an increase in pay estimated at from $80,000,000 to $130,000,000 annually, no notice can be given by either side of any intended change before May 1.

But railroad executives here indicated that current traffic and earnings trends would not permit them to wait much longer than the 30-day limitation period before asking modification of the restored pay scales which will augment all rail workers' checks starting April 1.

Rail managers estimated that on the basis of the average payrolls for 1933-34 the increased pay would cost the roads of the country $130,000,000 a year. Other estimates have ranged down to $80,000,000.

McIntosh Leghorn Lays Egg of Unusual Size

A Leghorn hen owned by Mrs. Ed. Ekberg of McIntosh has laid what is believed the largest hen's egg on record. It weighs 17.45 grains, or approximately 3¾ ounces. It is a single yolk and the weight is attested by M. C. Peterson, creamery agent at McIntosh. The average No. 1 egg weighs around 2 ounces, or slightly better.

HOLDS SAME PUBLIC OFFICE 43 YEARS

Lake Wilson—J. J. Mihin started his 43rd year of continuous service as town clerk in Lowville township on March 1, marking one of the longest, if not the longest record of public service in one position in the state. In spite of the length of service, Mihin's entrance into politics may be said to be due entirely to chance, as well as his stay in public office. Forty three years ago Mihin hitched up his horse to his buggy to drive to the election and found when the votes were counted that he was tied with Charles Sunberg. On the draw of slips to determine the winner, Mihin won. When election rolled around the next year another candidate entered the lists against Mihin and again the vote was tied, with Mihin's luck carrying over and again winning him the position on the draw. Since that time he has been elected by substantial majorities, other candidates apparently believing him to be too lucky to put up most opposition.

NEW PLAN WOULD CUT COUNTY TAX LEVIES $76,155

Substantial Relief Given Under Omnibus Program, Says Association

Owners of farms, homes and other general property in this county will receive a reduction of approximately $76,155 in the taxes on their property under the $24,000,000 omnibus tax relief program now being worked out in the Minnesota legislature, the Minnesota Federation of Associations for Tax Reform reported today in urging citizens here to write their legislators in support of the plan.

The federation had proposed a larger cut in real estate and personal property taxes, Constant Larson of Alexandria, president of the federation, wrote, but now, with sentiment in the legislature crystallizing back of the omnibus bill, it has endorsed this program.

The replacement tax of $24,000,000 that is to be raised to relieve the burden on real estate and personal property under this program will fall most heavily on the three large cities, Mr. Larson pointed out, and the rural communities will receive considerably more of the $24,000,000 tax relief than they will be required to pay out in new taxes to raise the fund.

The communities as a whole that lie outside the three large cities would receive nearly two dollars in tax relief for each dollar collected through the replacement taxes proposed, Mr. Larson said, and in some of the strictly rural communities the return should be greater. The territory outside the three large cities would pay about 40 per cent of the replacement taxes provided in the omnibus bill, according to estimates of Minnesota Institute of Governmental Research, and would receive something like 70 per cent of the tax relief provided in the bill.

"This program will give a measure of equality in our tax system which we have not had before," Mr. Larson said in his statement. Under the present system, where 80 per cent of the tax burden rests on general property, an undue load must be carried by the rural communities, where the wealth is centered largely in land.

"The plan that has been outlined will effect a reduction of close to 25 per cent in general property taxes. The bill includes a tax limitation provision which will hold expenditures down and guarantees that the money received from the new taxes must be deducted from the general property levy.

"The plan calls for using part of the $24,000,000 for state expenses, so that the state levy on general property can be eliminated. This should meet with great favor in the country. This easily may mean a reduction of as much as 30 per cent in some of the farming communities. All our taxes on our homes and farms then will be levied locally and will be subject to local control. After replacing the state levy on general property, the balance of the fund, from $6,000,000 to $8,000,000 yearly, would be distributed to school districts on the basis of the school population in the district.

"The plan outlined is perhaps the fairest that could be devised. Coupling increases in the net income and inheritance tax rates with the sales tax distributes the cost as equitably as possible. The income tax which the wealthiest group would pay under this schedule would be increased as much as 60 per cent. One plan under consideration is to exempt food articles from the sales tax and put a tax of 3 per cent on other retail sales. This will make the cost even lighter on families of small means."

U Deans Report Jobs for College Men Are Increasing This Year

American industry, call it big business if you will, is making more inquiries for the technically trained graduates of universities this year than at any time in five years past, a brief survey at the University of Minnesota revealed. Business concerns are swiftly returning to a practice that practically disappeared during the first depression years, that of sending scouts to the universities and colleges, particularly seeking men with specialized training in the various branches of engineering, in chemistry and in business administration.

What many a boy who says, "marks aren't important" does not know, and what his parents can not know if they believe him, is that scores of the leading business concerns in the United States send out representatives each year to ask college deans which students have the best college records and seem mostly likely, in various respects to succeed as "new blood" in large organizations. For many years this has been a universal practice, and it is now being resumed after a let-down.

TREE PROPHESIES 50 YEARS OF MOISTURE

Glenwood—A tree, counted to be 285 years old by the number of rings in its trunk, bears record that we are going into a period of plenty of moisture for the next 5 years, according to George W. Hughes, Glenwood. Hughes recently cut down a tree near his lakeshore property and on counting the rings closely found that it must be at least 285 years old. The trunk of the tree indicated that the country had gone through periodical drought periods, the last one being about 60 years ago, which corresponds with historical facts. During the years of drought very little was added to the tree, each ring being so thick that it could barely be counted from the next. The tree then showed that wet years had come along when the rings became more prominent. According to the cycles in the past, as shown by the tree, we are due for a period of plenty of moisture for the next 50 years.

RED LAKE INDIANS WIN LAWSUIT OVER LANDS NEAR CITY

$1,250,000 Is Involved in Suit Before U. S. Court of Claims

Settlement of inter-tribal disputes involving more than a million dollars and lasting for a quarter of a century has been accorded Minnesota Chippewa Indians by the Washington, D. C., court of claims.

Explanation of the dispute between the Red Lake band of Indians and 11 other Chippewa tribes in Minnesota was made last week in Bemidji in a letter received from Fred Dennis, attorney who successfully represented the Red Lake band in the litigation.

The five federal judges who considered the case held that 11 tribes, suing for a part of the $1,250,000 paid the Red Lake band and for a share in the remaining lands, had no legal right to either. The government had said that if the 11 tribes won, it would withdraw the $1,250,000 from the Red Lake band's funds.

The litigation involved two treaties. First was the Rice treaty, named after Henry M. Rice, governor of Minnesota, and made in 1889. In it the federal government dealt with 12 Chippewa tribes which ceded a large tract of the Red Lake reservation and smaller tracts from other reservations. Proceeds from sale of these lands was distributed equally among Minnesota Indians.

James E. McLaughlin, U. S. Indian inspector, negotiated the second treaty, named after him, in 1902. In it, the Red Lake Indians ceded 11 townships adjoining the city of Thief River Falls and received $1,250,000.

The 11 other tribes claimed part ownership in the lands remaining after the Rice treaty and demanded a share of the $1,250,000.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL PROGRESS

Edited by Students of Lincoln High School, Thief River Falls, Minn.

LARGE AUDIENCE ATTENDS COMEDY "GROWING PAINS"

Reed and Brass Quartets Furnishes Entertainment Between Acts of Play

That grand and glorious play, "Growing Pains," was presented by the Junior class Friday night, March 29. Before the play a reed quartet composed of James Hoffarth, Raymond Anderson, Archie Thompson, and Adrian Lorentson rendered three selections. The play itself was laid about Professor and Mrs. McIntyre, their children, George and Terry, and their friends. These children were slowly progressing into the age of adolescence, in other words, "growing up." In the first scene of the first act, Terry, ousted out of the boys' gang, was trying to find something good about girls, in which her mother tried to help her, and George, her brother, was trying to secure the necessary means to get a car in which he did not succeed.

In the second scene of the first act, Terry was trying on her first "formal" and feeling quite mature. She even refused to go roller skating with Brian because she is wearing high heels. Also, George took a look at the new girl in town, Prudence Darling. Then Brian tells George he talked to Prudence about the party and asks her to invite Prudence. Then Prudence herself comes in and vamps Brian away, to the disappointment and anger of Terry.

Between the first and second acts, we were favored with music by a brass quartet of Theodore Giselo, Bruce Prichard, Jerome Havel and Donald Hermanson.

The second act is concerned with the party of George and Terry. Mrs. McIntyre is in a frenzy over preparations. And after Mrs. Patterson has secured an invitation for Elsie, whom George is to call for, much to his chagrin, Prudence again "cramps the style" of the girls present. Patty becomes sure that "Dutch" did run over to the party anyhow so she comes over and as soon as they know [illegible], they hide "Dutch" in [illegible]. But Patty, with the help of Elsie, finds "Dutch". George and Prudence have been out riding, meanwhile, and Brian suggests that to [illegible], as well as embarrass [illegible] sing a song. All assemble [illegible] "When I Grow Too Old To Dream" with a vocal solo by Brian. George and Prudence come in and they have been speeding, so the traffic cop comes in and after exchanging insults mostly about Prudence, George knocks the traffic cop down and is taken to jail.

Between the second and third acts, a beautiful bouquet of roses was presented by Jean Gustafson to Miss Edberg with the compliments of the cast. Francis Engle, Junior Class President, thanked everyone for coming out and the teachers and helpers of the play and also the stores who had contributed to help the play become a success.

In the third act we learn that George was released from jail almost immediately, but his mother feels it is a great disgrace. Then they discover George is not in his room and Terry very naively expresses the opinion that he probably ran away from home, at which her mother nearly goes into hysterics. But George walks in as though nothing at all had happened, and after a talk with his father, gets his long cherished hope—a dog.

Brian walks in and both he and George are rather discouraged about love and decide not to fall for a new girl again. Brian tells Terry he likes her and everything seems "hunky-dory" until Vivian, another new girl walks in and the boys repeat the same process as before.

Altogether this play has well satisfied everyone and certainly have repaid the actors and actresses for their week of practice and preparation. Miss Edberg, the director, certainly just deserves all praise for this wonderful production. Also credit is due the following for their help:

Celeste Crown and Ardella Gjerness—posters.

Violet Anderson—Prompter and ticket sales.

A. E. Carlson, J. A. Johnson, and C. W. Pope—scenery, construction and lighting.

PREVIEW OF CLASS PLAY PRESENTED

Synopsis of "Growing Pains" Given Before H. S. Assembly

A very entertaining synopsis of the Junior class play "Growing Pains", was given last Thursday morning before the high school assembly. Miss Edberg introduced the entire cast of the play which included, Malcolm Magnuson as Mr. McIntyre, Annette Simonson as Mrs. McIntyre, Jean Gustafson as Terry McIntyre, Vivian Ward as Prudence Darling, Jack Booren as George, James Nesse as Brian, Lois Nelson as Patty, Philip Prichard as Dutch Ralph Nelson as Hal, Helen Granum as Miriam, Oscar Bickley as the traffic cop, Margaret Larson as Sophie, Helen Rice as Mrs. Patterson, Audrey Anderson as Elsie Patterson, Mona Moleth as Sally, Henry Arras as Omer, Lois Engen as Jane, and Adrian Lorentson as Pete.

Miss Edberg also presented those who have worked behind stage in helping to make the play a success. They are as follows: Flora Schroeder, Edna Lee, Violet Anderson, Alice Ann Severson, Lucille Holmgren, Ethel Parnow, Evelyn Peterson and Clara Carlson.

The first scene consisted of Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre, George and Terry. Terry expresses her desire to play with boys rather than girls, but George starts arguing with her, telling her that she is too old to be playing with the boys. Soon the other boys come in and are all ready to play baseball. Of course, Terry wants to join the game, but it seems that all of a sudden the boys are deserting her. She gets left out of the game and rushes off to tell her mother.

In the next scene we are Prudence strumming her uke and making a grand "hit" with the neighbor boys. George and Brian think she's "pretty keen" and they decide to ask her to the party. When the other girls find out about all this, they are simply green with envy, but decide to bear it courageously, and show her a good time at the party.

MATERIALS FOR 1935 PROWLER ARE COMPILED

Yearbook Contains Pictures, Class Motto and Flowers, and Sports Resumes

Work on the book published each year by the Seniors got underway the latter part of February. The book this year, called the "Prowler" is larger than the Senior Yearbook of 1934. This year the book contains individual pictures of the members of the senior class, which are larger than ping-pong pictures; group pictures of the "Progress" staff, the "Prowler" staff, the Debate teams, and the Declamation winners. The "Prowler" will also contain a resume of the football and basket ball seasons, the Debate Tourney, and a record of the Declamation contestants. Besides all this, the book will contain individual "quips" for the Seniors, several caricatures, the class flower, namely the pansy, the class motto which is "We Finish to Begin", along with the class colors—purple and white.

Those chosen to be on the "Prowler" staff this year are: Editor-in-chief, Kendall Gustafson; business manager, Donald Hermanson; assistant business manager, Kathleen Monsbroten; associate editors, Corlan Dokken and Harriet Jung; sports editor, Jerome Havel; assistant sports editors, Carl Lee and Martha Storholm; features, Adele Holmstrom; assistants, Margery Ward and Ray Olson; circulation manager, Walter Kinghorn.

The committee to look after the pictures was composed of: Kathleen Monsbroten, Adele Holmstrom, Martha Storholm, Clarice Juranson, and Harriet Jung.

Those on the committee for the material were: Kendall Gustafson, Corlan Dokken and Lucille Heidy.

The committee to choose the class flower, the motto and colors were: Arnhild Fjelstad, Dorothy Foowler, Dorothy Rau, Eleanor Lelran, Doris Moe, and Norma Yatesund.

The pictures were taken at the Wasie Studio and the Thief River Falls times was awarded the contract for printing the book.

These books are cheap, when you consider how much is compiled within the covers of the "Prowler" and how much it will mean to you in a few years. They are only fifty cents and the Seniors hope that at least three-fourths of the students in Lincoln High School will avail themselves of this opportunity of spending fifty cents so wisely.

About one hundred twenty-five "Prowlers" have already been sold but if you haven't gotten yours, remember there is still time—in fact, it's a pure case of "Eventually why not now?".

Lois Morell

HERE AND THERE

The boy's gym classes are finishing tumbling and the basket ball tests this week.

Beginning next week there will be track, baseball, and diamond ball tests. These tests will help Mr. Chalmers to know on which team he should place the boys for interclass and interschool competition.

The freshmen girls of Miss Fletcher's clothing classes started to make their cotton or linen dresses last Monday.

The advanced girls of Miss Fletcher's clothing classes are starting their unit on health.

Miss Edberg's English I classes are studying the newspaper.

Miss Steenerson's English II classes are giving debates in their class.

Track, Baseball, and Tennis, Spring Sports

The program for athletics during the last months of school will include track, baseball, and tennis. There will be no spring football since the suits are being repaired.

Track will hold the limelight with several veteran tracksters of no mean ability. Fabrick, famous pole-vaulter, Ken Gustafson, the hurdler and Arnold Gunderson, holder of the regional half-mile record, are the basis for the 1935 Lincoln High School track squad. The Bemidji State Teacher's College will be the scene of the Regional track tournament but, to date, the district host has not been decided.

Baseball also has its place in the activities of Lincoln High athletics this spring. Already six games are scheduled for the local "nine". The inter-class games will be conducted similar to the basketball games.

A new departure in spring sport is tennis. Teams from Warren, Crookston, and Thief River Falls will compete in a tournament at Crookston, later in the year. Both boys and girls have the opportunity to participate and single and double contests will be held for each.

With such a varied sport schedule, no student should find time hanging heavily on his hands. Try anyway!

Vic Jung.

TRUE TRASH

Lincoln High School students have acquired the distinction of always wanting things which they do not possess. After careful consideration the most prominent are being put on display so that help may be offered.

MISS EDBERG HAS TRY-OUTS FOR SR. PLAY

"Tons of Money" Selected as Class Play to be Given Sometime In May

Last Monday and Tuesday after school Miss Edberg announced try-outs for roles in the Senior class play. Approximately twenty-five seniors were on hand Monday to perform before the director, who recently completed the successful production "Growing Pains".

The play, which will be presented by the Senior class sometime in May, is entitled "Tons of Money" by Will Evans and Valentine. It is a clever three act comedy, which includes a cast of ten persons. When presented in England for the first time, it ran for 733 consecutive performances, and so we come to the conclusion that it must be a very good drama.

The entire cast has not yet been chosen, but will be announced in the Progress next week. Several characters were tentatively selected at the first tryout. The following persons and the characters they will interpret (subject to change by the director, Miss Edberg) are: Arnt Wold, as Giles, the gardener; Jerome Havel, as Sprules, the butler; Don Hermanson, as George Maitland; Kathleen Monsbroten, as Jean; Ken Gustafson and Marvin Lindberg, as Aubrey Allington and Henery. Miss Edberg had not decided, when this went to press, who of the latter two would play Aubrey and who would play Henery. The stage manager for the production will be Walter Kinghorn.

Watch the Progress next week for further information on the senior class play "Tons of Money."

Soph A Champions in Interclass Tournament

The following games ended the interclass basketball tournament.

For the B title the Junior B and Junior D competed. This title was won by one point when the victorius Junior B defeated their opponents 17-16. Both teams won two games before entering the finals. The Junior B tripped the fast Soph. B 27-16 and then the Frosh B by one point. The score being 26-25. A review of the Junior D's record shows that they won from the Frosh. C 27-14 and overpowered the Soph. C 35-5.

For the A championship the three A teams and the Seniors took part, but as you know the Soph A defeated the Frosh A by a score of 52-20, and the Junior A spilled the football playing Seniors 29-10. In the finals the Soph A proved themselves too powerful for the Junior A for the Juniors were on the low half of a 45-21 score. Nesse led the scoring for Sophs as did Booren for the Juniors. "Eric" went out on fouls.

This officially finishes the interclass basketball season though a few more games might be played.

Club Experiments With Carbon and Compounds

Since chemistry classes have been studying carbon and carbon compounds, the Charles Martin Hall Chemistry Club experimented with carbon compounds at their weekly meeting last Monday. Model fire extinguishers were made and worked to show the principles and products formed. The club also destructively distilled coal to produce coal gas, coal tar, and ammonia.

Sophomores Informed About Drive for Dues

The Sophomores held a class meeting in the rear of the assembly last Thursday, March 28. This meeting was for the purpose of informing the Sophomores that the annual drive for the class dues is on. The president, Barbara Reep, called the meeting to order. After explaining the cause of the assembly, she called on Mr. Chalmers, one of the advisors, to explain more completely the purpose of the meeting.

Mr. Chalmers stressed the fact that all are to pay "two bits". He said that this money would be used for the Prom, Masquerade, donation to the Prowler, flowers, and so forth.

After Mr. Chalmers had explained the matter Barbara Reep called on the Sophomore treasurer, Elizabeth Dahlen, to read the list of collectors. The collectors named were: Brunell Erickson, Lois Morell, Marjorie Matheson, Margaret Aasen, Marion Dillon, Donald Olson Clifford VeVea, Jack Adkins, Bruce Prichard and Herbert Schroeder.

After the naming of collectors Barbara Reep dismissed the meeting hoping all would pay their dues promptly.

VOX MAGISTRI

A good play, well produced and acted, can certainly be set down as a real class accomplishment, and in the opinion of all who saw the production of "Growing Pains" by the Junior Class it was all of that.

Proper presentation of any play presupposes four things: a good play, well directed, competent acting, and adequate staging. Good direction and acting will avail little if the play is poor, and likewise any combination of three good points will hardly offset incompetency in a fourth. Every phase must be adequately handled or the play will be lacking in merit as a complete production. These four points can form the outline of the criticism.

When one considers the trash generally the lot of class play devotees, "Growing Pains" was distinctly above average. It struck me that this play was ideal for high school presentation. It treated a common enough phase of life in a straight-forward way with no great emphasis on trying to solve any particular problem. It was entertainment pure and simple, but had none of the cheap dramatists' tricks which attempt to make comedy out of ridiculous situations. Happily, the best of all, none of the humor was forced; cheap puns were absent; gratefully we remarked that here was a good example of why it is better to pay more in royalties. You get more.

The problems of direction are too technical for discussion here. Miss Edberg is to be complimented for putting on a smooth production which the actors were able to carry out in a manner which bespoke hours of patient coaching.

Now for the actors. Acting is an art; an art which takes years to master, providing one has first talent and then intelligence and imagination. To expect a high school Junior, in his first experience, to show a professional finish like a Barrymore is to expect the impossible. To learn to act is to build up slowly on certain well established principles. The first of these is to keep in mind that you are never yourself from the moment you appear before the footlights. You are a character. For an actor to act himself is not acting. He must create a character entirely apart from himself.

Secondly, the actor must project himself across the footlights in many ways. He must project his voice, his personality, and his facial expression. To be seen, to be heard, to be felt; these are the things every actor keeps uppermost in mind.

Character actors have both an easy and a hard job. The characters are different than themselves, and they must keep those characters what they are. It seemed to me that both the character parts portrayed by Annette Simonson and Malcolm Magnuson kept within those limits. It did occur to me that more dignified repose should be inherent in any middle-age part.

The rest of the parts should be easy for actors of that age. That is one of the fine features of this play. Jack Booren should be complimented on so little a thing as keeping his voice consistently hoarse throughout the second and third acts. It was a minor point but one which demonstrates an important principle. More important, however, he showed a good sense of Comedy. Jean Gustafson was satisfactory in all respects, but especially in some of the more inconspicuous scenes. James Nesse is to be commended for his song. Vivian Ward was especially good in the enthusiasm she put into her part; a factor which brings up one of my major criticisms.

With this exception and those of the character actors, every other member of the cast was lacking in real enthusiasm the moment they stepped on the stage. All were too reserved, almost scared looking. Such reserve became apparent in their walk, looks and even voices. Our auditorium is a big place. What seems to you like exaggeration must be disseminated throughout a big hall. Sometimes overacting is more than necessary, especially in exciting scenes. On this point, especial notice should go to Oscar Bickley for his excellent fall. The second criticism—I have is the matter of letting the play drag. The most common incidents of this nature were in lines necessitating movement across the stage. Lines must not be allowed to drop in such places, except for special reasons. All cues in general could be speeded up, but especially on entrances and exits.

The staging brought out one glaring fault—the lack of proper equipment. It strikes me as a worthy project for each class play to devote a little of its earnings to a fund to be used in building up permanent equipment such as additional lights and the like. The operetta gave this project a good start. Why not keep it up?

Considerable space has been devoted to this review, but I welcomed this opportunity to give some publicity to a few hints on the subject that might prove instructive to all of our actors, as well as to make them of general interest. Consider it my contribution to Vox Magistri.

Metal and Woodwork in Shop Schedule

The Shop schedule is somewhat as follows:

The Shop II students are beginning their unit in Copper and are at present learning to form copper trays and bowls.

Work on the turning lathes is being done by all Shop I students. Some of the projects being turned are rolling pins, potato mashers, various types of handles, bowls, picture frames, and trays.

The eighth grade boys are engaged in a beginning study of the elementary principles of electricity. They are learning sources of current and how current is generated.

Last but not least come the "little" seventh graders in their study of glass work. This is one unit in their General Mechanics course.

Success

Less than four weeks ago eighteen members of the junior class were selected to play roles in Aurania Rouverol's three-act comedy "Growing Pains." The type of drama selected by the director was especially suited to the actors and actresses cast in the play. The production was slated to be presented to the public on March 27. Skeptics shook their heads and announced that it was too brief a period of time for inexperienced players to learn their lines and polish their performances.

The skeptics were wrong. Under the direction of Miss Victoria Edberg the cast worked diligently on perfecting their undertaking. They proved the maxim "labor omnia vincit" and last Friday afternoon and evening before large audiences they were rewarded for their efforts. These audiences proclaimed it one of the best class plays in recent years. We congratulate the promising young actors and actresses and wish them further successes.

The director

Sometimes we are apt to forget the important part of the director plays in theatrical performances. This person is responsible for transforming "green" aspirants into smooth players. Inevitably this involves somewhat tedious work. And in not a few instances the director discovers that there is such a very little amount of ability (or none whatsoever) that she is unable to do anything with the would-be Gable or Garbo regardless of the energy she expends.

Fortunately this was not the case with the junior play. However we know that Miss Edberg spent considerable time coaching the different characters. We salute her for her splendid piece of work. She has undoubtedly "sacrificed" many things in order to make the play a fine dramatic achievement. There may have been difficult obstacles to overcome, but the time utilized in surmounting these impediments was well spent, for she attained the goal set for her, namely the production of a play that would be enthusiastically received by the audiences.

Digressions

Thoughts while "hunting" and pecking". . . Our idea of the "supreme limit." Several Edison high basketeers reveal that certain gamblers had threatened them unless they did the gamblers' bidding. When gamblers turn their attention to high school athletics, they are stepping way "out of bounds." Unless the seniors want to admit their inferiority as actors and actresses, they will have to step one rung higher on the ladder of perfection than the juniors did. They will have no easy time in hitting the mark that the lower classmen have set for them. There is a prevalent air of impatience among the devotees of spring sports. Unfavorable weather has delayed the commencement of spring athletic activities and baseball and track men are anxious to get well under way with their respective sports before the coming of Easter vacation.

GOODRIDGE

SUCCESSFUL RABBIT HUNT IS CONCLUDED

The Goodridge Conservationists carried on a rabbit hunting contest during the month of March. Each team consisted of about 25 men and boys; the captains were V. McLeod and R. McDonald. The final count of rabbit ears as conducted by Game Warden Walter Quist, assisted by Carl Johnson of Thief River Falls, revealed McLeod's team as winner of the contest.

Monday evening, the team that lost the contest gave a dinner to both teams; a most delicious dinner was served by the proprietor of the Rod Cafe at the Rod Hall. V. McLeod presidded as toastmaster; the warden, Walter Quist gave a fine talk on conservation and highly commended the men and boys of Goodridge on their successful hunting contest and the fine spirit displayed. The final count above mentioned had showed that a total of 2216 rabbits had been taken, including 387 Jack rabbits and 1829 Brush rabbits. Every one felt in the best of spirits and many clever remarks were made by the hunters.

A feature of special interest at the dinner was a mock trial conducted by Warden Quist acting as the judge. McLeods' team had brought in one set of rabbit ears of the Cotton tail type, which was against the rules of hunting; another set of long ears were also brought in by the same group. This set did not seem to belong to the Jack Rabbit class. Joe Christianson was tried for the first offense and was promptly acquitted since nothing could be proved against him. Albert Fiskevold was tried for the second offense, R. McDonald acting as prosecuting attorney and V. McLeod acting as defense attorney. A jury of six men "Tried and True" was selected to hear the evidence; the jury decided that the long ears were not Jack rabbit ears and that therefore Mr. Fiskevold was guilty. The judge sentenced him to "Take his coat and go home at once."

A business meeting was also held at which some of the matters decided were as follows: a "crow hunt" to be held from April 2 to June 31, the same captains and teams as before to carry on the hunt. Points: crows, feet, 10; crow eggs, 5; pocket gopher, 10; other gophers, 5; rats, 10; and wood chuck, 25. Tails were to be the evidence in all cases except the crow.

A committee consisting of John Ortison, Elmer Peterson, and Palmer Wold was appointed to arrange a picnic outing for the hunting teams possible some time in June.

The Goodridge Conservationists passed a resolution directing the secretary, T. A. Disrud, to draw up an appeal to the Board of county commissioners asking that a bounty be paid for crows, gophers and possibly rats, taken in Pennington county this season.

Literary Club

At the meeting held March 1st, our club was organized. All inactive members were asked to resign and our roll call is now only half as large. A due of five cents was imposed on the members.

A new name was chosen for the club "Theta Alpha Sigma" and our motto is "Strive and Surmount.".

On March 22, "The Felton Mystery", a two act play was put on by ten members. Only one act was given as there was not time for the second one. The last act will be given at our next regular meeting and all school pupils who wish to see it may do so if they will bring a nickel. The cast included—Diana, Sena Folkedahl; Oswald, Vernon Urdahl; Mrs. Gill, Beth McLeod; Mr. Gill, Ernest Swanson; Mrs. Felton, Ragna Folkedahl; Mr. Felton, Charles Josephson; Miss Haller, Ruth Mandt; Helen Stemson, Mable Johnson; Verna Temple, Lorna Anderson; Detective Lawson, William Wayne.

Community Club to Meet

The last meeting of the Goodridge community club will be held Thursday evening April 11 at the school auditorium at eight o'clock. This will be the annual meeting and election of officers will be held and any other business that may come up. There will be a program and lunch will be served as usual. Everyone welcome. Come and bring a friend.

The Ladies aid of the Lutheran Free church will serve lunch and have a food sale Wednesday April 10, at the church. Everyone welcome.

Sewing Club Meeting

Mrs. Olga Peterson was hostess to the members of the sunny sewing circle Wednesday afternoon. Fancy work and a social time was enjoyed until lunch was served at four thirty. The members present were, Mrs. J. A. Sundquist, Mrs. Ole Easthouse, Mrs. Owen Olson, Mrs. Lloyd Nelson, Mrs. Ben Habedank, Mrs. Anne Frodahl, Mrs. M. O. Thoreson, Mrs. V. C. McLeod, Mrs. Elmer Peterson and Mrs. R. H. McDonald.

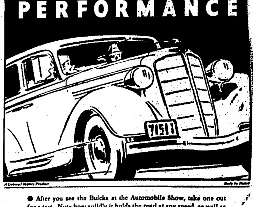
Measure them all by BUICK'S PERFORMANCE



A General Motors Product Body by Fisher

● After you see the Buicks at the Automobile Show, take one out for a test. Note how solidly it holds the road at any speed, as well as its top of 85 miles an hour. Those are smooth, easy miles for Buick, without strain or distress to you or the car. Half a minute isn't a long time. But in nine seconds less, Buick swishes you from 10 to 60 miles an hour. Watch the speedometer needle during acceleration. The absence of waver or hitch tells you how skilfully 93 horsepower is engineered into Buick. You feel stability and safety under you in Buick—because you've really got them. You ride, too, with a delightful glide, day in and day out and all day long, without tiring—the result of Buick's own engineering of Knee-Action, balanced weight and springing. Finally, this car—with the weight to match its marvelous performance, and with eight cylinders—performs on the economy side, with owners reporting from 15 to 18 miles per gallon. Yes, you can well measure them all by Buick.

Series 40, $795 to $925; Series 50, $1110 to $1230; Series 60, $1375 to $1675; Series 90, $1875 to $2175. List prices at Flint, Mich. All prices subject to change without notice. Special equipment extra. Any Buick can be purchased on the favorable G.M.A.C. terms.

PHEASANTS CONTENT IN CITY BACK YARDS

Moorhead.—It's getting close to the time of year when healthy, well-fed pheasants should be leaving town and getting back to the fields, but there are 11 of them which have been spending the winter in back yards on the north side of Moorhead and which simply refuse to go. Perhaps they know a good thing when they find it. At any rate, they found a comfortable haven when those 30-below zero days, and established themselves near the homes of residents along Elm street. The northsiders took pity on the birds. They turned out grain and other foods. The pheasants, growing tamer day by day, finally got so they would wait for their meals within a few feet of back doors. In the morning the pheasants provide a barn-yard atmosphere, with the roosters crowing and hens cackling contentedly.

HEN STAYS TWO DAYS INSIDE HOOD OF CAR

Tracy—Biddy, a Buff Orpington, cackled a great story of adventure when she returned to the rest of the flock following a wild two day escapade at Tracy recently, which must have nearly cost her life. Biddy, the old red hen, was found perched comfortably on top of the motor of the W. R. Morgan car when attendants at a filling station raised the hood. It is believed by Morgan that the hen entered the engine two nights before, when the hood was left open. During the two days the car was driven a number of miles, but apparently when the engine became hot Biddy found a more comfortable place to stand, for her feet were not burned.

Red River Valley History

By Wm. V. Werking

Expedition in 1849

Resuming the account of the Wood and Pope expedition from Fort Snelling to the Canadian boundary in 1849, we learn that one purpose of the trip was to make a thorough survey of the country. This was the special mission of Capt. John Pope. Two other officers with the expedition were Lieutenants J. W. T. Gardiner and T. F. Castor who were in direct command of 40 men of Company D of the First regiment of the U. S. Dragoons, acting as escort. There were also Dr. Craig, surgeon and Basil Beaulieu, the guide, with some other civilians connected with the expedition. The account, by Maj. R. I. Holcombe, continues:

"The chief object of the expedition was to select the site for two or more forts, to be built so as best to protect the country from the Hudson's Bay company's traders (who were coming upon Minnesota territory and appropriating the fur trade, mainly by selling and giving whiskey to the Indians), and to put a stop to the bad practices of Hudson's Bay employes, who were wont to raid upon northern Minnesota and North Dakota soil and kill off the buffaloes by thousands.

"The expedition took what was called 'the middle route to Red river', and which left the Mississippi at Sauk Rapids, 76 miles above the mouth of the Minnesota, and intersected the Red river near its most southern point, at the mouth of the Bois des Sioux, or Sioux Wood river. It crossed the Red about 10 miles north of the Sioux Wood and then pursued a route down and parallel with the river, on the Dakota or west side, to Pembina. Returning Capt. Pope and a small party came in canoes up the Red river from Pembina to the Otter Tail river, thence up that river to Otter Tail lake, then through that and other lakes and streams and by a portage to the Crow Wing river, down it to the Mississippi, and thence to St. Anthony's Falls and Fort Snelling.

"Going up, the party left Sauk Rapids June 16 and arrived at Pembina August 1. The trip was without special incident save that the mosquitoes were extraordinarily voracious and annoying, that numerous severe electrical storms were encountered, especially at Lightning Lake, and that travel was toilsome. At the Rabbit river the party met 25 Red River carts from Pembina, in charge of a member of the Selkirk Colony, laden with furs and pemmican, and on the way to the market at 'St. Paul's', as the place was then called. Ten miles further north they met 65 more carts, similarly laden and with the same destination and in charge of Norman W. Kittson, the trader at Pembina, and to whom all the furs mentioned belonged.

"On the return trip Maj. Woods and Lieut. Castor, with the dragoons, passed through what is now Pennington county from north to south. In his report Maj. Woods describes the country north and south of the Red Lake river as 'naturally fine and fertile' and adapted to agricultural purposes, although perhaps 'too far north for corn of the present varieties.' Capt. Pope stopped at the mouth of Red Lake river and computed the latitude to be 47 degrees, 48 minutes, and 8 seconds north. He too was of opinion, 'that the climate of the valley of the Red river would be too severe and the seasons too short for the successful cultivation of corn, but all other grains would be produced most abundantly.' The Captain further said that the only valid object to the valley as a wheat-country was its distance from market; but, to remove this obstacle, he recommended that congress make grants of land in aid of the construction of railroads from the head of navigation on the aid of the construction of railroads from the head of navigation on the Red river eastward to Lake Superior and from the same head to the Mississippi below the Falls of St. Anthony.' He referred to the extensive wild rice fields in the Red Lake river region, and though that large quantities of rice and maple sugar produced here might profitably be sent to market over these roads when they should be constructed.

"At the time of Major Wood's and Capt. Pope's expedition the territory of Minnesota had been recently organized. It embraced all the country lying to the north and west of Iowa and Wisconsin, containing about 160,000 square miles. Capt. Pope noted that of this great expanse, the country lying west of the valleys of the St. Peter's (Minnesota) and the Red river, 'is still unexplored.' The two officers reported that the head of navigation of the Red river was in the vicinity of the mouth of the Sioux Wood river. At the latter point they recommended the establishment of a military post; but when Fort Abercrombie was built, some nine years later, it was established several miles to the northward, on the Dakota side, nearly opposite McCauleyville. They also recommended that a post be established at Pembina and this was afterward done."

LEGISLATIVE LETTER

By R. W. Hitchcock

The forty-ninth session of the Minnesota Legislature will adjourn sine die April 25th, three weeks from today.

These three weeks will be packed full of action. Saturday sessions, evening sessions. Committees will snatch frantically at odd moments to meet and labor on belated bills. Battles will rage on the floor of each chamber, with sessions stretching far beyond the luncheon and the dinner hours. The galleries will be packed. Members will jockey desperately for local bills. The legislative machine will gather speed with every passing day, and those who have been so busy bemoaning the fact that nothing has been done will begin to view with alarm the fact that too much is being done.

A score of important matters such as pensions, unemployment insurance, more moratoriums, motor vehicle licenses, transfers of departments, proposals for buildings, the four big appropriation bills, will jostle and jockey for place with the tax issue overshadowing them all.

Politics will seethe through the corridors and sit at each Solon's elbow. It will tinge every thought and touch every move. Self-interest and sincerity will struggle in every Solon's breast. There will be plans without number and plottings without end, petty bickerings and noble effort. Sound and fury will fill the air; confusion will apparently reign supreme, but order will gradually emerge out of the chaos.

And perhaps the Legislature of 1935 will "perform something worthy to be remembered."

Extra Session Threat

The tax issue still remains the supreme issue of the 1935 Legislative session. It will dominate the Minnesota Legislative forum until midnight of Wednesday, April 24th, when the hour for the passage of bills will expire; its repercussions will be felt in the state for many months; it will be an outstanding issue of the state campaign of 1936.

The omnibus tax bill, put forward by the Independent-Progressive majority as the principal portion of the solution of the tax problem, will intrude its multitudinous details into every hour and every issue of the remainder of the session, and dispute and dissension over it will resound in every city, hamlet and four-corners of the state.

Keep this in mind: the broad proposals of the omnibus tax bill are these—(1) elimination of the $16,000,000 state revenue tax on real property; (2) radical increases in such ability-to-pay taxes as the income, inheritance, chain store, etc.; (3) new sources of revenue through a 2 per cent general sales tax and various special sales taxes at a higher rate.

Bear this also in mind: that real property must have some relief and that, in addition, more than $15,000,000 in new cash money to meet new and extraordinary expenses must be found.

Otherwise an extra session of the Legislature looms.

Progressive—But Independent

It is a significant fact that the "Independent-Progressive" majority in the Legislature is not only progressive but emphatically independent.

Solidarity is a noteworthy feature of the Farmer-Labor minority. It is apparently a cardinal belief of the Farmer-Labor party that principle must not be allowed to stand in the way of party advantage. It is seldom, indeed, that a Farmer-Labor member fails to heed the crack of the party whip. No matter what he may think individually, the welfare of the party is paramount. Independence of thought or action is not to be tolerated; hence the Farmer-Labor solidarity; hence the advantage the minority will have in its fighting filibusters against the omnibus tax proposal.

Principle, however, counts more strongly with the Independent-Progressives, than does any party loyalty. They have no party whip, and if they had, they are too independent to be whipped into line.

The welfare of the state, nevertheless, is superior to any man's individual opinion, and there are evidences that the Independent-Progressive majority will make whatever individual sacrifices of opinion that are necessary to public welfare.

Motor Car Facts

Number of cars in Minnesota costing $4,000 or more, 31; number costing from $3,001 to $4,000, 118; number costing from $2,011 to $3,000, 723; number costing from $1,501 to $2,000, 1261.

Total number of cars in Minnesota costing more than $750, 17,402. Total number of cars in the state, 593,506.

Number of cars in Minnesota costing $520 or less is 523,817.

From these facts and figures it must be evident that if the motor car license fee is raised it is the little fellow who will be hit.

It may also be well to remember that the motor vehicle license tax relief, if any, which the Minnesota taxpayer will get the next two years, is the only tax relief he will get.

Something Else Again

The stinging condemnation of the Minnesota highway department by the federal government for inefficiency since 1932 together with evidence piled on evidence that the department is honeycombed with politics does not encourage the taxpayer to go down into his jeans for more silver to fling to the department.

Aftermath of Victory

"Few triumphs are complete," said Hi Ho, the sage of Chinatown. "A victory too often leaves smoldering hatreds waiting to burst into flame."

HICKORY

A large crowd attended the Auction Sale at the Thompson home on Thursday.—Bj. Bjornaraa and son Olof and Olay Ornbreck attended the funeral services of Bjorgulv Aaknes of Oklee on Tuesday.—Jorgen Oftelie, Andrew Mostrom, Arnold Tveiten and Selmer Hofstad accompanied by Halvor Oftelie of Roland were business callers at Thief River Falls on Friday. They were accompanied home by Sigurd Bjornaraa and Aloysious Radniecki, who spent the week-end at their parental homes.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lund and son Dennis Delano of Thief River Falls visited at the Halvor Haugan home on Thursday.—Geline Tveiten, Irene and Glenn Tasa and Walter Hanson have returned to their homes after attending the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston.

—Harry Hanson and Arthur Anderson transacted business at Thief River Falls on Tuesday.—Mr. and Mrs. Olof Nelson accompanied by Jorgen Oftelie spent Sunday visiting with Christine and John Nelson at McIntosh.—Ole Melby of Oklee was a business caller at Halvor Haugan's on Saturday.—Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Anderson and daughter Angeline Ethel of Proctor and Ole Oftelie visited at the B. Bjornaraa home on Tuesday evening.—Clarence Bjerklie, who had his tonsils removed at a Thief River Falls hospital has returned to his home and is getting along nicely.—Knut Haugom, who was well-known in this community, passed away at a hospital at Thief River Falls on Saturday.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Halvorson transacted business at Thief River Falls on Friday. They purchased a new Chevrolet pick-up.—Services will be conducted at the Nazare church on Sunday forenoon, at 11 o'clock April 7th.

The prize epigram of the month reads, "Silence is the college yell of the School of Experience."

Big Saving on Lumber

Many are saving good money buying lumber and buildings materials here at our mill on the new low cost basis. Our new sheds and new plant are now ready. MOST FACULTY MEMBERS SIGN UP CONTRACTS

Coach Roger W. Dooley and Miss Marion Peirson Not to Return

PARK RIVER MAN IS NEW ATHLETIC COACH

Board to Consider Adding Agriculture Course In High School

Signed contracts for the coming year with 47 members of the public school faculty, representing a slight increase in the salary schedule now in effect were approved by the board of education at its April meeting Monday evening. Donald Chalmers and S. P. Orwoll had not yet signed contracts, while Miss Marion Peirson and Athletic Coach Roger W. Dooley will not return next fall.

Succeeding Mr. Dooley, who has been a member of the faculty the past five years, will be George E. Lee of Park River, N. D., whose application was presented in person to the board Monday and was accepted.

Mr. Lee is a graduate of the International Falls high school and of Concordia college, where he was a member of the football, basketball and baseball teams for four years. He was a member of the football team that won the conference championship, and was all-state end his senior year.

The basketball team on which he played won the conference title, and he was named guard on the all-conference team. He has since played several years on independent baseball teams, being a member of the Crookston team in 1930 and 1931. During the past four years he has been coach at the Walsh County Agriculture school at Park River, and his teams have won three district championships as well as a regional title. He also has an excellent scholastic record.

Following a discussion as to the advisability of adding an agriculture department to the local high school, Supt. Morris Bye was requested to prepare a report for the May meeting of the board, giving information as to the cost of operation, new equipment needed; requirements to be met to qualify for state and federal aid, space available and other details.

After considering several education bills pending in the legislature, the board adopted a resolution urging the enactment of Senate File 1135, a state aid bill drawn up in the state department of education. Mr. Bye estimated that aids under the proposed bill would aggregate $58,204.90 compared to $36,949.72 under the present law. Another resolution adopted at the meeting urged the continuation of teacher training departments.

Mr. Bye reported to the board that relief labor costs on painting projects in the Northrop, Knox and Lincoln buildings amounted to date to $2,734.98, while the cost of materials aggregated $1,406.15.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE TO BE FORMED AT MEETING MONDAY

Four Teams Already Definitely Lined up, Messenger Announces

Another definite sign of the arrival of spring appears in the announcement today by J. G. Messenger of the ERA recreation and leisure time department that a meeting will be held in the Civic and Commerce association rooms in the Auditorium next Monday evening at 7:30 for the purpose of organizing a local softball league.

A highly successful season was enjoyed last year, and prospects are excellent for the current year, Mr. Messenger said. Teams already definitely lined up for the league include the Land O'Lakes, Ford, Thief River Grocery company and Bill's Eat Shop aggregations, while likely prospects include the Barzen company, Bridgeman Creameries, Hamiltons and Hartz.

There is some likelihood that this season each team will play two games each week, instead of one game a week as last year. In that event two diamonds would be necessary, according to Mr. Messenger.

Over 100 Applications Filed for Seed Loans

More than 100 applications for federal seed loans have been filed to date by county farmers in the office of County Agent R. M. Douglass, it was announced yesterday. Owing to the generally satisfactory crops in this section last fall, it is not expected that last year's total of [illegible] applications will be reached.

Vale[illegible]an, Salutatorian, Honor Ro[illegible]nounced Monday

Postoffice Receipts for First Quarter of Year Show Good Gain

An indication of improving business conditions in this community is found in the announcement this week by Postmaster A. Anderson that receipts at the local postoffice for the first three months of the current year increased to $7,625.34 compared to $6,619.59 for the same period of 1934. The gain of slightly more than $1,000 amounts to approximately 15 per cent. Following are the comparative figures by months:

January	$2,575.09	$2,136.22
February	2,320.46	2,187.19
March	2,729.79	2,296.18
Total	$7,625.34	$6,619.59

Dorothy Rau has won the honor of being valedictorian of the Lincoln high school class of 1935, and Harriet Jung will be salutatorian, it was announced at high school assembly Monday by Principal W. G. Claffy. Both girls, with an A- grade, averaged above 94 in their studies the past four years. The class numbers 131 prospective graduates, Mr. Claffy stated.

Named at the same time were twelve additional members of the honor roll, each of whom averaged above 91 thru the high school course. The list includes Donald Hermanson, Arthur Douville, Dorothy Traver, Corlan Dokken, Lucille Reidy, John Jaranson, Marjorie Thronson, Agnes Sandland, Fredrick Voth, Arnhild Fjelstad, Kenneth Brown and Norma Yatesund.

The two class leaders, in addition to their scholastic achievements, engaged regularly in extra-curricular activities. Dorothy Rau took part in declamation for three years and for debate in her senior year, also serving as junior class treasurer and a member of the Pep committee. In athletics she played basketball three years, winning a letter in her junior year, and also taking part in tennis, soccer, kittenball and volleyball.

Harriet Jung served as a member of the Progress staff for two years, and is a member of the senior Prowler staff. She won her athletic letter in her junior year, and played interclass basketball three years as well as taking part in freshman volleyball.

BIDS ON BRIDGE APPROACH TO BE OPENED APR. 26

State Project to Carry Out Plans Presented Here During Winter

While in the city Wednesday evening, A. O. Torgerson of Detroit Lakes, division engineer of the state highway department, stated definite information had been obtained from headquarters in St. Paul that bids on the reconstruction of the Johnson st. approach to the new bridge in this city will be opened by the highway department Friday, April 26.

The project will substantially carry out the plans presented to the park board and city council during the winter, and includes the construction of a new section of standard highway from Johnson st. to where the angle road starts its diagonal course.

The center parkway in Johnson st. will extend from near the bridge almost as far south as Bridge st. Also reported as included in the present project is the dredging of shallow spots in the river red and the use of the dirt thus obtained for terracing the low ground on the east shore of the river near the bridge. Parking of the triangle at the west end of the bridge is to be included as well.

It was indicated that the property necessary to acquire in connection with widening Johnson st., will be taken over thru condemnation proceedings.

Civic and Commerce Assn. Views Traffic Film Last Thursday

Following a brief business session last Thursday, members of the Civic and Commerce association adjourned to the council room to view a film dealing with traffic safety presented by representatives of the Aetna Casualty and Surety company, who were introduced by Robert J. Lund, local agent. The film illustrated some common causes of highway mishaps and pointed out the desirability of observing traffic rules and avoiding needless haste. The need of careful driving was emphasized by citing that 35,500 persons were killed by automobiles last year, while 1,214,000 were injured, 97,000 being permanently disabled.

CCC Enrollments to be Taken Here Rest of Week

Registrations are now being received at the county relief office for enrollment in civilian conservation camps, it was announced today. Young men who have been members for at least five months and not more than 13 are eligible for re-enrollment. Single men between the ages of 18 and 25 also are eligible. Registrations must be made before next Monday, April 15.

Group Confers on Plans for Music Contest Here

Supt. Morris Bye will meet with members of the district high school committee in Crookston today to make plans for the district music contest to be conducted at the Auditorium in this city Saturday, April 27. Members of the committee include Supts. Arnold Gloor of Crookston, P. W. Wentland of Fosston and E. P. B. Reishus of East Grand Forks.

Water Power Here This Week Continues in Use

The hydro-electric units of the municipal power plant have supplied most of the current needed for the city's needs during the past week, and present indications are that this source of power will be available for a number of days to come. Up to Wednesday the water wheels had so far this year produced as much current as they did throut 1934, Supt. Ole Legvold stated.

TIME LIMIT FOR CAR LICENSES IS FIXED AT MAY 15

House Passes Bill and Senate Expected to Take Similar Action

The lower house of the legislature Wednesday passed a bill extending from April 15 to May 15 the time for securing automobile licenses without penalty, and the senate was expected to endorse the bill, having previously taken similar action to grant an extension beyond April 15 to give time for publication of the new rate schedule and completion of other arrangements for administration. It was indicated that the senate might substitute a May 1 deadline.

Minnesota motor vehicle owners will pay from $300,000 to $400,000 more in taxes annually during the next two years than in 1933 and 1934 under provisions of the motor vehicle license bill repassed by the house Wednesday by a vote of 84 to 23.

The bill was amended as recommended by the joint senate and house conference committee to retain provisions relative to trucks which prevailed during the past two years but the base rate is made 2.2 per cent and allowance for depreciation for the second year ten percent and thereafter 15 per cent. The minimums are $5 and $7.50 for Class A and B cars, respectively.

WORKMEN'S GROUP DISCUSSES MANY MATTERS MONDAY

Requests Council to Seek Funds for Sewer and Disposal Plant

A variety of topics relating to bills pending in the legislature and congress were brought up for discussion Monday evening at a well attended meeting of the Workman's Protective association.

Game Warden Walter Quist outlined the proposed Mud lake refuge as a conservation and unemployment measure, and he scored the early-day exploiters of the country who depleted the game and forest reserves, making it essential to resort to a program of restoration.

Following a discussion by James Burrell of water level restoration plans proposed for the Red lake area and rivers flowing from it, the meeting went on record in support of the objective. It was also voted to request that Pennington county workers be allowed to share in any jobs arising from the Mud lake project.

Another resolution urged the city administration to seek federal aid for the construction of a new sewer main on the east side of the river to eliminate flooding of basements in low areas, and also to solicit federal funds for the construction of a sewage disposal plant.

Sons and Daughters of Sweden Defer Meeting

Owing to a conflict of dates the annual meeting of the Sons and Daughters of Sweden, originally scheduled for Friday evening of this week, has been postponed to a later date, Walter Quist, president of the organization, announced today.

SPRING AUTO SHOW DRAWS HUGE CROWDS

Estimate More Than 3,000 Present at Auditorium Saturday Night

LOCAL RESIDENT WINS AUTOMOBILE

Vaudeville Show Acclaimed as One of Best Ever Presented Here

The eighth annual automobile show and spring exposition sponsored by the local American Legion post at the Auditorium late last week reached a smashing climax Saturday night when a crowd estimated at more than 3,000 persons jammed its way into the building to be present for the announcement of the name of the winner of the Chevrolet coach that was given away as a feature of the event.

The hopes of all but one in the audience were upset when it was announced that the lucky winner was L. E. Peterson, proprietor of a babbitting shop in the city. Those in charge of the awarding of the prize were Elmer Lysaker, Twin Valley; Henry Gibson, Ulen; Freeman Olson, Argyle; Ted Thurson, Crookston; and Lawrence Hermanson, Ada.

Large audiences were present both Friday and Saturday evenings to enjoy the vaudeville performance, which was generally acclaimed as the best ever presented at a spring exposition. The program moved forward at a fast pace, costumes were attractive and there was nothing shoddy or off-color about performance.

Marie Early's Steppers and little Stepperettes proved to be highly adept at tap dancing and other steps, as did Jewel Helen Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warner, who was garbed in a miniature suit of men's evening clothes fashioned in black satin.

One of the biggest individual hits was scored by Lester Raymond, perhaps the most skillful juggler ever to be seen locally. Johnson and Dean, colored dance team with a record of more than 40 years on the stage, showed themselves to be light-footed and graceful dancers despite their mature years.

That the automobile show had a stimulating effect on car sales in the community is to be concluded from the fact that during the show and on the Monday following no less than 16 new cars were sold by local dealers, according to records in the office of Alex Campbell, deputy registrar of motor vehicles in this city. Sales of a considerable number of household appliances and other equipment were negotiated by firms having exhibits at the show.

Excavation Will Start Monday for Bungalow to be Built by H. M. Olson

Excavation work will start Monday for the basement of a new bungalow to be erected by H. M. Olson, manager of the men's clothing department of the Oen Mercantile company, on Markley av. at the intersection of Johnson st. The bungalow, of Spanish type, will be of brick construction with a tile roof, and will include five rooms. Plans for the residence were prepared by Henry C. Eckland, local architect, and Tom Nesland will be in charge of construction. This is the first substantial building project to be engaged in this season.

FIREMEN CALLED TODAY

The fire department was summoned at 8:20 this morning to the residence of Emil Ristau at 611 Knight av. N., when a chimney fire developed. The blaze was extinguished without any damage resulting.

Mayor Frank Rinkel States Policy on Assuming Office

Mayor Frank A. Rinkel, appointed to the office by the city council Tuesday night, yesterday issued the following statement:

"Thief River Falls as a growing community is confronted with many difficult problems. The continued progress of our city will depend largely on the manner in which, we, the citizens of this community, approach the solution of these problems.

"As mayor of Thief River Falls it will be my aim to encourage a spirit of harmony and cooperation among our citizens and to lend my support to those projects and activities which will best serve our community.

"In accepting the appointment to fill the vacancy in the office of mayor I assume the responsibility of the office with a full realization, not only of the difficulties to be faced but also of my own short comings. All I can promise is that I will do my best to give Thief River Falls the kind of service in this office which our good city deserves."

Land O'Lakes Employes Club Gives Program at Rocksbury Club Apr. 13

The Land O'Lakes Employes club of this city will supply the program at a meeting of the Rocksbury Community club in Valhall hall Saturday evening, April 13, it was announced today by Paul Engelstad, president of the Rocksbury organization, adding that the public is invited to the meeting. A group of songs will be supplied by the Land O'Lakes quartet, which includes Clarence Sande, Clarence Veves, Carl Brahs and Douglass Boorn, and there will also be songs by a girls' trio. Brief talks will be given by Harry Severson, Mr. Veves, W. Wheeler, Mr. Brahs and Mr. Sande.

WILLARD TELLS MUD LAKE AREA PROJECT STATUS

Asserts Proposed Refuge is Subject to Certain Conditions

A petition has been filed in district court at Warren for the acquisition by condemnation of 52,700 acres of land to be purchased and managed by the United States Bureau of Biological Survey as a Federal migratory wild fowl refuge. About authorization of the Minnesota conservation commission, the department of conservation is cooperating with the federal government in the legal action.

Authority for the proceedings was granted by a special law passed by the present state legislature so as to enable such lands to be condemned for the United States government.

E. V. Willard, commissioner of conservation, said that "it was found necessary to condemn rather than try to acquire title through negotiations with the owners because of the manner in which titles to the lands are involved by reason of tax delinquencies and other forms of indebtedness."

"An appraisal was made to determine the value of these lands and improvements at the time titles to the lands were examined," Mr. Willard said. "This appraisal shows the lands averaging $3.00 per acre."

"As a condition to the federal government's purchase of the area the State of Minnesota was required to tender the federal government the lands at a definite price as sub-marginal lands. The price at which these lands were offered and accepted by the federal government was the highest price the government would pay.

"Completion of the project will hinge on whether or not the land can be acquired for a price which can be paid by the federal government. The lands must be acquired for the amount set aside by the federal government which includes all costs of acquisition. If this cannot be accomplished, the conservation department may be compelled to dismiss the proceedings at any time it finds that it cannot proceed under the limitations prescribed in the act and at the same time fulfill its obligation to the federal government. It must be remembered that not one dollar of state funds will be expended.

"Local cooperation more than any other one factor is necessary to make the Mud Lake project a success. It is important that sportsmen and wild life conservationists give the enterprise their enthusiastic support."

Brage Chorus to Serve Supper Friday Evening

The Brage chorus is sponsoring a supper to be served in the Civic and Commerce association rooms Friday evening beginning at 6 o'clock. Proceeds of the event will be used to defray expenses in connection with the convention of the Red River Valley Singers association to be held in Thief River Falls in June.

25 Tracts Sold Here at State Land Sale

Twenty-five tracts of school lands in Pennington county, title to which has reverted to the state, were disposed of at a sale conducted at the court house in this city Monday by Anton Yaeger of the state conservation department, a former resident of Thief River Falls. The tracts were sold at prices ranging from $4 to $12 an acre.

In accordance with the custom established in recent years joint Good Friday services will be conducted at the Auditorium Friday afternoon, April 19, it was announced today. Sponsors of the services will be the Augustana, Trinity and Zion Lutheran churches.

HOSPITAL TAX CASE REFERRED TO STATE BODY

County Board Asks Tax Commission to Hold Hearing in City

CAN BE APPEALED TO SUPREME COURT

Several Delegations Appear Before Board to Ask Road Work

Following a discussion Wednesday of the claim of St. Lukes Hospital association for exemption from real estate taxes, the county board went on record as requesting the state tax commission to hold a public hearing in this city at which all parties interested in the matter can be heard and the status of the property determined.

If a decision adverse to local taxing units is returned, the matter then could be carried to the supreme court. County Attorney H. O. Berve was instructed to appear at the hearing for the county and to undertake to keep the property on the tax lists. The hospital previously had been declared exempt from personal property taxes in an action in district court.

The hearing of delegations from various parts of the county requesting highway construction occupied most of the board's time Tuesday, it being decided to lay over all requests until the state allotments are received. Delegations were present from Bray, Silverton, Hickory, Star and North townships.

Two sections of county aid road were established at the session, one being No. 56 in Bray from County Aid Road 1 west four miles along the section line between Sections 25 and 30. The second, No. 57, extends in Sanders six miles east from County Aid Road No. 1 at the quarter line of Section 30.

The board adopted a resolution opposing a bill in the legislature, House File 54, providing that townships should share in the distribution of gas taxes. Another resolution, adopted at the request of the Workman's Protective association, endorsed House File 120 known as the social security bill.

A request from the Goodridge Conservationists' club asking that a crow bounty be established in the county was laid over by the board.

RED NELSON WINS HARD BATTLE WITH E. STRAND OF ADA

Local Man Tuesday Requires 17 Minutes to Obtain First Fall

Topping the wrestling card presented by Bill LaVave at the athletic club Tuesday night, Red Nelson weighing 175, won two straight falls over Erling Strand, 190, of Ada, in a bitterly fought battle that frequently saw one or the other of the contestants thrown through the ropes.

The first fall came after seventeen minutes and thirty seconds of furious grappling, Nelson winning with a cross body lock. Rushing the second fall, Nelson quickly pinned Strand in one minute to win the match with a cross arm hold.

In the semi-final, Promotor Bill LaVave wrestled to a fifteen minutes draw with a masked opponent, whose identity was not made known. This feature of the card drew from the crowd frenzied roars as the men threw each other around in and out of the ring and numerous times drew referee Harry Johnson into the scrimmage.

In the one fall to a finish match between Marcus Olson, 142, of this city and Bob Christy, 142, of Angus, Olson pinned his man after wrestling him into a groggy state, in 27 minutes and 30 seconds. The winning hold was the head lock.

Other bouts were: Dale Johnson, 160, this city, vs Gorden Sunders, 164, of Frazee, Sunders winning with a body lock and cross Nelson in six minutes and fifty seconds. Harold Stroble 144, and Gaynor Eide, 150, Stroble winning in three minutes with a short arm scissors and half Nelson. In the boys matches, Ray Maldment, 109, threw V. Votava, 110, in eight minutes with a cross body lock; and Milton Hallteson wrestled to a draw with Peter Michalski.

Promotor Bill LaVave acted as announcer and Joe Soderberg and Harry Johnson refereed. Red Johnson has challenged Glen Olson, who has an unbeaten record on the mat, to headline the next wrestling card.

Withdrawal of State Seed Loans Foreseen, Auditor Fowler Hears

County Auditor Harry J. Fowler Saturday received word from State Auditor Stafford King that the county board should take no steps to provide state seed loans pending possible nullification of the law providing for the loans recently enacted in the state legislature. County boards in only a few counties have taken steps to qualify for the loans, and in the meantime federal seed loans are being made in this and other counties thru the offices of the county agents.

Two Avalon Matinees Sunday for "Roberta"

The musical comedy film "Roberta", based on the New York stage success of the same name, will be the offering at the Avalon theatre Sunday and Monday. The play, the scene of which is in Paris, presents dances by Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, songs by Irene Dunn and music by Jerome Kern. In the supporting cast are Randolph Scott, Helen Westley and Victor Varconi. Manager A. M. Holte announced today that there will be two matinee performances Sunday, the first at 1:30 and the second at 3:30.

Ice Not Due to Go From River by Average Date

It appeared yesterday that the ice in the river above the dam would not break up this spring by the average date of past years, which local authorities fix at April 12. The latest the ice has gone out in the recollection of M. C. Burns, pioneer resident of the city was April 20. Ole Legvold, superintendent of the power plant, recalled yesterday that in 1924 the ice above the dam did not break up at all, but merely gradually melted away.

FRANK RINKEL IS APPOINTED MAYOR OF CITY

Fills Vacancy Created by Resignation of Sen. Tungseth

GETS APPOINTMENT ON FIRST BALLOT, 5 TO 1

Paulson Suggests Improvement in Handling Crowds at Auditorium

Following a period of more than three months, during which the city government has been functioning without a mayor following the resignation from the office of Senator E. L. Tungseth, the city council Tuesday evening appointed Frank Rinkel to serve during the remainder of the year.

The appointment was made on the first ballot, which resulted in five votes for Mr. Rinkel and one for Paul Lundgren. The new incumbent, head of the Northern Chevrolet company in this city, has during his years of residence been active in all civic affairs, devoting particular attention to highway improvements affecting the interests of this community. Following his appointment Mr. Rinkel was summoned to the council chamber and was present during the latter portion of the session.

Chairman O. C. Paulson of the spring exposition sponsored by the local Legion post, appeared at the meeting to tell of the difficulty the huge crowd had Saturday evening in making its way out of the Auditorium. He suggested as a means of improving the situation that [illegible] be installed from the double [illegible] on the north side of the building and that the main floor be cleared thru this exit, leaving the front doors for clearing the balcony.

He further suggested that a portable check room be installed at the east end of the main floor eliminating the use of the council chamber for the purpose. The proposals were referred to the building committee with power to act.

Fire Chief [illegible] asked the council [illegible] room for the fire department [illegible] which members could [illegible] their meetings, following which the matter of remodeling the [illegible] hall was referred to the [illegible] committee for investigation. It was pointed out that [illegible] the building is badly in need of repairs.

Following a report by [illegible]anson, street commissioner, that the street department truck is virtually worn out and is in such a state that it endangers the safety of the men operating it, the council voted to call for bids on a new truck of one-and-one-half to two-ton capacity equipped with a hydraulic dump, the old truck to be applied on the purchase price.

The council confirmed the reappointment by the park board of Olaf Ryan to the position of park caretaker at a salary of $75 a month. William Farbst was granted a permit to remodel his residence at an estimated cost of $450.

A letter was read from the Workman's Protective association requesting the council to take steps to secure federal aid for the construction of a storm sewer on the east side as well as of a sewage disposal plant. Tentative arrangements were made for a meeting Monday evening at which these and other possible projects will be discussed with a view to securing aid thru the federal public works bill enacted into law by Congress last week.

CREAMERY ACTION IS HEARD BY JUDGE MONTAGUE FRIDAY

Briefs to be Filed; Decision Not Expected for Several Weeks

Judge J. E. Montague of Crookston last Friday conducted a hearing at the court house in this city on the application of a group of stockholders of the local creamery to restrain the board of directors from disposing of the creamery building to Land O' Lakes Creameries.

Testimony was submitted by Board President Hans Anton, Secretary J. M. Thelge and others as to the legality of the meeting in question at which the stockholders voted to authorize the board to sell the building. Following the hearing it was agreed that attorneys for the parties to the suit should file briefs, and a decision of the case is not anticipated for several weeks or longer.

Attorney Charles Boughton, Sr., of Red Lake Falls represented the plaintiffs in the action, while Paul Lundgren acted for the creamery board and Theodore Quale represented the intervenors.

SOCIAL ITEMS

Mrs. Ted Jenson Honored

Mrs. Ted Jenson was surprised at a parcel shower given for her Tuesday evening at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Aug. Bredeson. The hours were spent in a social way and lunch was served by the guests. A surprise shower was given for Florence Borgen at the E. Thomas home Friday evening. About thirty guests contributed toward the lovely gifts given the guest of honor. The evening was spent informally and lunch was served.

Large Audience Enjoys Scandinavian Festival Program Monday Evening

A large and appreciative audience attended the Scandinavian festival program Monday evening in the Sons of Norway hall under the auspices of the Thi Pi Fa Mu club and Thelma Holm Erickson. Musicians appearing in costume, together with folk dances under the direction of Miss Harriet Helquist and Miss Marion Peirson, carried out the spirit of the program, as did an exhibit of articles from Scandinavian countries.

Among other groups appearing on the program were the Woman's club chorus, Land O'Lakes male quartet and a boys' sextet directed by Miss Irma Springen, additional numbers including a violin duet by Gordon Overland and Justus Larson and an effective folk dance by Yvonne Peterson of Oslo.

Members of the music club presenting well executed piano solos were Eileen Rolland, Vivian Ward, Helen Rice, Jean Gustafson, Angeline Havel and Robert Douville, while Mrs. Chester Myrom supplied a soprano solo.

Growing With Your Child

I know a neighborhood where the question of the hours at which high school children should come home at night became so acute that the parents decided to meet and see if discussion of the problem would help to straighten out the tangle. They all agreed, in the first place, that it was nonsense for parties to begin so late—but what could they do about it? A party apparently isn't a party, nowadays, unless it starts at an hour at which on school nights the youngsters are just about ready for bed.

Almost all the parents who assembled had definite ideas, and some of them used definite methods. "If John doesn't have the car back in the garage at one o'clock, he doesn't use it the next time he's going out," announced one father.

"Oh, but that encourages them to drive fast. I'd never make a ruling like that," was the impulsive response of one of the mothers. "And then, too, how can he get home at that hour if the girl he took shows no inclination to leave in time?"

"Why, I think it's up to him to tell her the conditions under which he has the car," commented another woman. "She'd understand."

"But how a sixteen or seventeen year old boy hates to admit that he's not his own master! Won't the rest of the crowd think he's 'sissy' or whatever the current adjective is, if he acts anxious about getting home?"

"Well, but," interrupted another member of the group, "I don't think it should be the boy's place to tell a girl when it's time to go home. With us grownups, who is it that decides when to leave? It's the wives, every time, isn't it? It would certainly be more than most boys would do, to tell a girl that the evening was over. Why, the girl would think it was rudeness, or that he was tired of her company."

"I can think of circumstances in which the boy might very well be the one to do the suggesting, though. One of my friends always makes a remark to her daughter's escort about what time she'll expect him to bring the girl home. I don't mean she's officious about it, but she just somehow seems to make him feel that she's entrusting him with the responsibility."

"Is it ever excusable for the parents of the child at whose house the affair is going on to tell the poor sillies it's time to go home?" This, as might be expected, came from a mother whose children were not yet old enough to feel the embarrassment of being treated like children.

"Oh, you can get around that to some extent by having the closing hour as well as the starting time of the party announced beforehand. But that's only when you have a real party, with invitations." The mother who was speaking was one at whose home the young people loved to gather, so her little formalities were accepted as such, rather than as rigid rules, made to thwart and oppose their fun. "What bothers me is that there seems to be so little uniformity among what parents expect of their children. In one family, they want the youngsters to be in at eleven, in another the sky's the limit to the time they can stay out."

"But don't you think children have to get used to all the different standards of different families? I think they learn a lot from seeing how differently other people feel about questions they've always assumed their family was 'right' about."

"Well," summed up one woman at the end of the evening, "I don't suppose our having met will have a great deal of effect on the time Jim brings Jane home. They'll have to go to the sandwich shop, on the way home from this or that, just the same as before, and they'll take just as long to yell goodbye to each and sundry couples along the way. But I've learned something, anyway. I can see more clearly how it's a matter of gradual growing up. I think we expect too much all at once. Yesterday they were infants—and today we expect them to act like old sobersides, with no time at all in between for learning to grow up gracefully."

Good Cheer Club

The Good Cheer club will meet Wednesday, April 17, at the home of Mrs. Sadie Ayers with Mrs. Freeman Allen as assistant hostess. All members are urged to attend as there will be election of officers.

"Swell Cake, Sis! But you can't tell me you made it!"

FIVE BILLION DOLLARS

President Roosevelt now has approximately five billion dollars with which to prime the pump of industrial activity. Only in one respect can five billion dollars be looked upon as a comparatively trifling sum and that is in its relation to the sum total of business done in the country. But from the standpoint of its being an additional burden of debt, an additional amount of money which must eventually be "paid in the sweat of every man who labors", it is a huge amount. The quotation is from one of Roosevelt's campaign speeches. At that time he said:

> Taxes are paid in the sweat of every man who labors because they are a burden on production and can be paid only by production. If excessive, they are reflected in idle factories, tax-sold farms, and hence in hordes of the hungry tramping the streets, and seeking jobs in vain. Our workers may never see a tax bill, but they pay in deductions from wages, in increased cost of what they buy, or (as now) in broad cessation of employment. There is not an unemployed man—not a struggling farmer—whose interest in this subject is not direct and vital.

So the problem confronting the President in his spending program is to so spend this five billion dollars that it will do more good than harm. He himself is authority for the fact that such an expenditure will act as a retarding influence. To make the good out-weigh the evil in such a program every dollar will have to do its duty. His is no easy task.

WHY GRADUATE RATES

For further comparison of local electric rates with rates charged by other communities of approximately this same size, this week we present the schedule adopted the first of the year by Valley City, North Dakota. Valley City, like Detroit Lakes in this state, operates a municipal heating plant, which undoubtedly gives it some advantage in low cost production of electricity. The rates follow:

Residence Lighting

Five and one-half cents per kilowatt hour, minimum charge 75 cents per meter per month

Cooking and Heating

Two and one-fourth cents per K. W. hour, minimum charge $1.00 per meter per month

Optional One Meter Residential Rate for Cooking, Lighting and All Other Residential Purposes

First 35 kilowatt hours, 5½ cents per kilowatt hour.

Next 65 kilowatt hours, 2¼ cents per kilowatt hour.

Next 100 kilowatt hours, 2 cents per kilowatt hour.

All over 200 kilowatt hours, 1½ cents per kilowatt hour.

Minimum charge of $1.75 per month per meter.

This rate will apply upon application of the consumer. If any changes are required in the interior wiring this will be supplied by the consumer. This rate will also apply to commercial cooking (not lighting) if applied for by consumer.

Commercial Lighting and Power

For first 300 kilowatt hours, 4½ cents per kilowatt hour.

For next 300 kilowatt hours, 3½ cents per kilowatt hour.

For next 300 kilowatt hours, 3 cents per kilowatt hour.

For next 300 kilowatt hours, 2½ cents per kilowatt hour.

For next 300 kilowatt hours, 2 cents per kilowatt hour.

All over 1,500 kilowatt hours, 1½ cents per kilowatt hour.

Minimum commercial lighting charge, $1.00 per meter per month.

Minimum power charge $1.00 per meter per month for motors of 1 H. P. or less and 25 cents per H. P. for motors of over 1 H. P. Motors of over one H. P. rating not permitted on light meters.

Commercial customers to pay the same rate as residence lighting unless application is made for the commercial lighting rate, with a minimum charge of $1.00 per meter per month.

In the above schedule, as in those we have previously published, the rates favor the large consumer for residential as well as commercial purposes. There are those who question such an arrangement, charging that it is unfair to the small consumer. A little consideration of the facts, however, should convince any reasonable person that such a graduated scale of charges is justified.

For one thing, the cost of delivering the first few kilowatts of energy to the consumer is greater. Certain specific items of overhead expense must be distributed on a per consumer basis. For instance the cost of maintaining a line to various homes, reading the meters in those homes and keeping the proper records, are approximately the same per home regardless of the amount of energy used.

For another thing it is advantageous for the city or company selling electricity to have large volume and therefore rates are graduated downward on a quantity basis as a means of encouraging greater and more widespread use of electricity. It is the volume consumers that make low rates possible. It isn't the dollar a month customer that makes the power plant a paying proposition in Thief River Falls.

And finally the rates to heavy consumers must be in line with the cost of producing electricity on a small scale. There are several heavy consumers of electricity in Thief River Falls right now who are seriously considering installing their own power equipment as a means of reducing their power costs. One in particular has already taken the preliminary steps toward making such an installation and if rates are not reduced in the near future the city will lose the power business of this firm which now totals several thousand dollars a year. In order to keep the business of that firm the city will have to act quickly.

We had an example of a situation similar to this in the water department a few years ago. Being unable to get a reasonable rate on water, one organization in this city dug a well and installed its own water system. The city, with plenty of water to sell, lost a good customer. The same short sighted policy in the matter of power rates will have the same result.

Local rates must be reduced. On that there can be no question. How much they should be reduced is a more difficult thing to decide. Perhaps the sensible thing to do would be to reduce gradually rather than by an abrupt drop. By a series of moderate reductions we could feel our way as we go along, avoiding any drastic cut in the city's revenue, which certainly is an important consideration. But action must be taken in the near future to adopt a more reasonable rate structure and also to provide the additional power equipment which the steadily increasing demand makes so urgent.

IT PAYS TO BE TACTFUL

(Northfield News)

A ruler in the Far East who had a dream called in one of his wise men to interpret it. He told the ruler that the meaning was this: "All your relatives will die and you will be the last member of your family." The ruler was so displeased that he had the interpreter beheaded.

Calling in another of his wise men, the ruler asked him his interpretation, which was as follows: "You will outlive all your relatives." The ruler was so pleased with this interpretation that he rewarded the wise man with a handsome present.

Both interpretations were the same, the difference being only in the way they were given. The exercise of tact has a lot to recommend it and the proper use of this fine social quality has eased many a heartbreak and softened many a blow.

CAN'T FIGURE IT OUT

(Redwood Gazette)

One of the things we can never figure out. The postoffice department lays down strict regulations covering gift enterprises and drawings of any and all kinds which means that we can't advertise or even mention that certain ladies are raffling a quilt or that Mr. Roberts is offering grocery prizes at a drawing; but at the same time our Chicago paper and a good many others carry complete reports of race track betting activities, even to the odds on the next race and how much so and so is paying. Who hasn't seen the results of some Irish sweepstakes in print? This is no complaint against the regulation, except that what applies to a $20 turkey raffle ought to be worked just as firmly on a hundred thousand race of thoroughbreds.

GUEST PASSENGERS

(Springfield Advance-Press)

In December, 1933, two brothers were riding together in a car. Near this city they crashed into another car, killing three people. The driver was held responsible for the deaths but that isn't all. He was sued by his own brother, who was his guest, and despite the fact that the injured man was in the hospital only one day, he received a verdict of $2,400. Such things make your liability insurance rates high. Had the driver carried no insurance, the brother never would have asked a cent, and there are hundreds of cases just like that.

When two people go out riding, it should be assumed that both take the same chances and if the guest isn't satisfied with the driving, let him stay at home. Only gross or wilful negligence should be compensable. Speed alone should not be grounds for a suit. If the driver is going too fast, all the guest has to do is to ask to be let off. To ride fifty miles without objecting, and because the driver was speeding, should not be permitted. Only the objections of personal injury lawyers have prevented the legislature from changing this law. Many states do not permit recovery of damages in suits by guest passengers. Minnesota should have such a law. Liability rates would go down at once.

Such a bill is in the legislature now. The senate judiciary committee, composed entirely of lawyers, reported against the bill, but the laymen members of the senate out-voted the lawyers and rejected the report, which means that such a bill will pass that body.

One of the partisan arguments raised against the present omnibus tax bill to relieve the tax on real property is that its purpose is to reduce the tax on the real estate holdings of the "big corporations in the cities." If the big fellows do get some benefit the little fellows will get the bulk of the relief. The total real property in Minnesota amounts to $1,211,971,508, of which only $395,123,408 is city property in the counties of Hennepin, Ramsey and St. Louis. Considering the number of homes there are in those large counties, it is easy to see that four-fifths or more of the benefit of tax reduction will go to farms and small homes. The big corporations will get some benefit, of course, in tax reduction on their real estate holdings, but on the other hand will have to pay increased income taxes, which will probably more than wipe out their real estate tax savings. The greatest tax problem before the Legislature and before the people of the state today is to reduce the taxes on homes, and thus encourage home owning. The new tax bill is a step in that direction.—Morris Tribune.

A proper appreciation of conditions should lead the Minnesota legislature to put a sharp stamp of disapproval on every move either to create new boards or bureaus or to extend agencies of regimentation. The state is now so burdened with taxes that the legislature is now facing the most critical situation ever known in the need of lightening the tax load. From a common sense financial standpoint, to say nothing of the political and social welfare of the people, the legislature should engage in reducing the existing number of boards and commissions, and in restricting instead of expanding the activities of those remaining. One way to reduce the tax burden is to reduce tax spending, and a mighty good way to reduce tax spending is to reduce the large number of needless state bureaus, boards and commissions and the number of tax eaters on their payrolls.—Rock County Herald.

Government reports show that the American people spend twice as much money for moving picture entertainment than they do for electric light and power. That should suggest to some folks the idea of government ownership of the movie industry. Think of the monopoly that prevails in movie stardom—a mere dozen stars being in the big money! With government ownership one could become a star through political pull.—Belle Plaine Herald.

In the State Senate

By Sen. E. L. Tungseth

Last week I mentioned that I would write about the Omnibus Tax Bill in my next letter. I still find that it is a bit early to criticise it too severely as it is not yet in shape for presentation. However, it seems certain that it will be quite unsatisfactory except for the one feature of offering some relief for real estate and personal property taxation. Sales tax is not my favored replacement tax. Cross income tax would be a bit better and more simple in its operation. Personally, I favor plain income tax, beginning with a very small percentage in the low brackets, letting all have some part in the support of government. Then when income begins to reach the $2000.00 per year and over, increase the percentage tax rapidly. This system can nicely be so constructed that the main load will come on those who best can afford to carry it, which is the only reasonable solution.

Legislation for automobile license rates has run into a snag because of disagreement between the Senate and the House. The senate bill retains the license rate as it was the last two years. The House bill goes back to the old base of 2.4, but allows a lower minimum than the old rate before 1933. There has been a constant demand for detaining the low 1933-1934 rates. Farmer Labor Clubs have been busy writing in for the retainment of these low rates. As many of you know who have corresponded with me relative to this matter, I insist that the low minimums of 1933-1934 must be retained, and that the reductions per year for used cars be in accord with ordinary market value of the used cars, getting down to the minimum in not more than six years. I do not favor the former show 10 per cent annual reduction. I trust that a reasonable compromise between the Senate and the House can be affected. We in the Senate had a chance to vote on an amendment to our Senate bill not long ago, but it was the old show reduction rate. Otherwise the rate for new cars, 2.4 is all right. The large number of used car users in my district will not find me voting for unfair high rate on there second hand cars.

Notice that the Press today both praises and blames the Senate for retaining a 10 per cent reduction in the wages of the state employees. This as compared with the 15 per cent of the past two years. My constituents may use their own judgment as to the fairness of retaining this reduction. When it is told that the reduction only affects those that have more than $1320.00 per year. Those who have less than this amount have never suffered reduction. I know that I will be criticized for my vote by those who believe that even relief should be given at the high wage scale. But there are only a few people in my district whose wages exceed $1320.00 per year. As long as the most of my people must get along with less than that, I cannot vote for making my low-salaried constituents pay increased wages to such as already have more than these taxpayers. When the farmers and the wage-earners in my district on the average make more than $1320.00 per year, I shall vote not only to increase the percentage a bit on those above $1320.00, but also see to it that those in the low wage bracket get a substantial increase.

Farm and Implement News

Many are the compliments on the new 1935 Chrysler and Plymouth automobiles that come to us from the recent Automobile show. Not only because of outstanding beauty but more especially because of learning their essential and outstanding qualities and so many people have been under the impression the Plymouth automobiles are high priced, now to learn that you can buy a beautiful Plymouth coupe as we showed at the automobile show for only $670 delivered price and a sedan as low as $660.

Panel Bodies of Beauty and Distinction

Panel bodies for the Model C-1 truck are especially well built and of the most modern design. From the sloping windshield to the gracefully streamlined rear, these bodies present an unusually attractive appearance. Not only do International panel bodies meet the most rigid requirements of those who demand beauty and smart appearance in their delivery vehicles, but they are also roomy and sturdily constructed.

A careful inspection of the Model C-1 panel bodies, not only from the standpoint of appearance and finish but from the standpoint of construction as well, will convince you that International Harvester offers the most outstanding values in light-delivery panel-body trucks available today. Merchants will realize the advertising value of this trim delivery unit. It is without doubt the most attractive panel body on the road.

YOU'RE ALWAYS IN THE COMFORT ZONE

THE 1935 Ford V-8 brings you the most important Ford development since the introduction of the Ford V-8 engine—the new Full-floating Springbase with Comfort Zone Seating.

Wherever you sit in this new Ford V-8, you ride centerpoised—between the springs. Springs are longer, more flexible, and the springbase increased to 123 inches. The result is "front seat riding comfort" even for back seat passengers.

New riding ease in the 1935 Ford V-8 is matched by new driving ease. Control, steering, parking are easier. Starting and shifting have been made almost effortless. Braking requires surprisingly little foot pressure—yet is surer, smoother.

Here is a car that is styled to the minute—built for the years. Welded all-steel body, engine and chassis improvements make it more durable than ever. Safety glass throughout at no extra cost.

New Relief Funds to Aid Municipal Power Plants

Spending plans for the $900,000,000 of works relief money allotted to public works were outlined Tuesday by Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes as President Roosevelt hastened home to release a $4,735,000,000 job-making fund.

Ickes forecast a decentralization of PWA administrative responsibility. It would involve dispatch of legal, financial and engineering experts to the various states to pass upon projects before they are submitted to Washington.

The administrator promised that federal financing of municipal power projects would absorb some of the $900,000,000 fund. He expects workers on new public works projects to be recruited from persons on relief rolls instead of through the labor department re-employment service or from labor unions.

IT WAS HIS MISTAKE; HOUSEWIFE AT HOME

Windom— Magazine solicitors who offer to trade their products for chickens are unpopular in Windom. One farm woman noticed a man drive into her yard last week, but not caring to talk to anyone, remained in the house. He knocked, without response, then peered into a couple of windows. When he was satisfied no one was home, he went into the chicken house where he pulled a hen from her roost. The lady decided things had gone far enough and called out from the house. The man stammered a bit, but explained that he was only taking the hen to his car to compare it with some he had taken in previously in exchange for magazine subscriptions. Apparently the man occasionally took a chicken without making a trade, and the sheriff is looking for him.

REPORT WADENA TO BE HEADQUARTERS STATE WOOL POOL

Deal Would Not Affect Marketing of 1935 Clip, It Is Stated

On unimpeachable authority says the Wadena Pioneer Journal, it was learned Tuesday that the Minnesota Wool Growers' association will make Wadena its headquarters after the clip for the current year is bought.

It was reported that the Wool Growers have made an offer to Reid-Murdock company for its property in Wadena and that the offer has been accepted. Monday representatives of the Wool Growers and Reid-Murdock will meet in Wadena and the deal will be culminated.

If the Wool Growers purchase the building they will buy wool at Wadena and use the building for storage this year. The offices of the concern will be moved to Wadena after the 1935 clip. The spring season is the busiest time of the year for the Wool Growers' office force and to move now would disrupt the force when efficiency should be at its highest peak.

However, if the deal goes through, repairs on the building will be started immediately and everything put in shape so that the quarters will be in readiness after the 1935 wool is bought.

EARLY DUCK HUNTERS FINED $205.50 COSTS

Breckenridge—It cost five Wilkin county citizens $205.50 in fines and $22 in costs to yield to temptation when early ducks flew over Breckenridge recently, and they still face a possible federal charge. The five men were caught at 10:00 o'clock at night 11 miles north of Breckenridge with 11 ducks between them. They were brought to Breckenridge and immediately sentenced by Justice of the Peace Roberta Nelson, who gave the first man $50 and cost of 90 days in the county jail; the second $3.50 and costs for 60 days; the third $50 and costs of 90 days; the sixth $25 and costs of 60 days; and the fifth $50 and costs of 90 days. Their guns were confiscated and word is being awaited to see if the government cares to press a federal charge against them.

SO. ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK

(By U. S. Department of Agriculture Economics and Minnesota Department of Agriculture)

South St. Paul, Minn., April 9, 1935: (U.S.D.A.) Fat lamb trade opened largely 25c higher, about 900 choice 93-94 lb. wooled lambs selling at $8.25, a load of 98 lb. weights at the same money, medium to good natives down to $7.50. Medium to choice wooled ewes brought $3.00-5.00. One load of 69 lb. shearing lambs earned $6.60.

Hog trade was strong to 10c higher, better 180-300 lb. hogs going at $8.90-9.00, good to choice 150-180 lb. $8.50-8.90, 140-150 lb. mostly $8.00-8.50, slaughter pigs $7.50-8.00, good sows $8.10, a few light weights up to $8.25.

Cattle trade was very slow at the week's opening, with sellers asking strong to higher prices and with bids weaker. A few light weight slaughter steers sold at $10.25-12.00, common to medium yearlings $6.50-9.50, with best steers held above $12.00. Trade late last week was featured by the sale of two loads of long fed 1320 lb. Herefords at $14.00. Lower grade heifers earned $6.50-8.00, better lots up to $10.00, beef cows $4.75-7.00, cutters $3.50-4.50, common to medium bulls $4.50-5.50, medium to good vealers $5.50-7.00, choice $7.50. Cull and common sold at $2.50-4.50. Good to choice lightweight stocker and feeder steers realised $7.00-8.25, bulk plainer grades down to $5.50.

Forty Years of Peace

After Penn's famous treaty with the Indians of Pennsylvania not one drop of Quaker blood was ever shed by an Indian, and 40 years elapsed before a red man was slain by a white there.

Perplexing

LAND O'LAKES MEN CINCH TOP PLACE IN BOWLING LOOP

Oen Bowlers Are 95 Points Behind in Second Position

Twice winning two out of three games during the past week the Land O'Lakes bowlers are now assured of finishing the season in top position in the local league. They yesterday had a margin of 95 points over the Oens, in second place.

Bowling Wednesday evening of last week the Land O'Lakes men took two out of three games from the Glucks, Douglass Booren, 180 and Carl Wenneberg, 175, being high men. They repeated their performance Tuesday evening against the Oens, high scores being made by G. S. Bergland, 192, and Lyle Lanning, 200.

The Times team last Thursday night made it three straight against the Live Power men, Harold Olson, 200, and Art Lufkin, 199, making the best scores. Monday evening the Glucks won two out of three games from the Thief River Pharmacy team, high men being Carl Wenneberg, 193, and Hal Ekeren, 163.

League standings follow:

Mrs. Anton Dahl Rites Held in City Tuesday

Funeral services were conducted from the Larson chapel Tuesday afternoon for the late Thea Dahl who passed away April 5 at her home here. The service was read by Rev. R. M. Fjelstad and interment was made in Greenwood cemetery. At the time of her death Mrs. Dahl, who was born March 15, 1874 at Ornes Honerenke, Norway, was sixty-one years old. In 1900 she was married to Anton Dahl in Oslo, Norway, and two years later she came to America where she had lived in St. Paul, Dawson, Philips, Wisconsin and Appleton before making her permanent residence in this city in 1921. She is survived by her husband; three sons, Ever, Helge, and Paul, and one daughter, Thrina, all at home. Four sons and two daughters preceded her in death.

HUGE U. S. WORK RELIEF BILL IS SIGNED BY F. R.

Measure Designed to Create Work for 3,500,000 Men on Relief

The biggest peacetime appropriation in history—$4,880,000,000—was voted President Roosevelt Friday to carry out already well-defined plans designed to end the "dole" and put men to work.

Two and a half months of often-bitter struggle by congress over the bill ended with a final approval by the senate as darkness settled upon the capitol. Just a little earlier, the house had given its indorsement amid shouts by Republicans that congress was putting into the president's hands an implement to assure his reelection in 1936.

The votes ended a long row over the amount of money that should be spent for "direct" labor of some $900,000,000 to be allotted for state projects. Senate conferees at first said a third should be spent that way. Administration forces urged no restriction. A conference committee of senators and representatives agreed upon 25 per cent, with the president given leeway in deciding how this percentage should be divided between "direct" and "indirect" payments.

A board will be set up to handle the fund under the direction of the president. Likely members of the board are Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator; Rexford G. Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture; Secretary Ickes and Rear Admiral Christian J. Peoples of the treasury procurement office.

The final vote by the senate on the measure was 66 to 13. In the house the conference report had been approved by 317 to 70. The president signed the bill Monday.

The measure is designed to put 3,500,000 employables now on relief rolls to work on eight major types of projects. It gives President Roosevelt almost limitless power for two years, however, in using the fund.

The measure transfers $880,000,000 of unexpected funds from existing agencies to the hard-pressed relief administration to be used in tapering off the "dole" by next November.

The $4,000,000,000 fund is to be spent for federal and non-federal public works, highways, housing, rural electrification, farm improvement, education, "white collar" work and numerous other projects.

Four Arrests in City Last Saturday Night

The city coffers were enriched to the extent of $55 as a result of fines levied Monday in municipal court by Judge J. M. Bishop following arrests by the police Saturday night. Two men taken into custody on drunkenness charges were fined $5 each, one reckless driver was fined $5 and another $10.

Louis M. Olson, 44 Years Resident of Community, Passes Away on Friday

Louis M. Olson, a resident of Pennington County for forty-four years, passed away Friday, April 5 in a local hospital at the age of eighty-three. Funeral services were held from the Erickson and Lund Funeral Home Tuesday, April 9, at 10 o'clock with Rev. R. M. Fjelstad officiating. Interment was in Oak Ridge Cemetery. Louis Olson was born December 29, 1851 in Smaaland, Sweden and in 1880 he left that country for America where he made his first home in Watertown. In 1891 he moved to what is now Pennington County from Marshall where he had lived for two years and 11 years later he established a residence in this city where he has been until his death. His wife, one daughter, and three sons preceded him in death. Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Olga Sandstrom of Minneapolis, three sons, Arvid, John, and Elmer all of Baudette, one brother John of this city and nineteen grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Roland Christie Rites Are Conducted Tuesday

Roland Christie passed away at his home Saturday morning, April 6, at the age of twenty-nine. Funeral services were held from the Trinity Lutheran church Tuesday afternoon with Rev. R. M. Fjelstad officiating and interment was made in Greenwood cemetery. Mr. Christie was born August 2, 1905 at Oakis and twenty-nine years later, August 2, 1934, he married Ruth Jorde here in the city where they have made their home. Surviving are his wife, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Christie, three brothers, Kenneth, Glen, and Howard, and one sister, Mrs. H. Knadle all of this city.

Temperatures Range Higher During Week

Weather of a more springlike character prevailed locally during the past week, the mercury falling below the 25 above zero mark on only one morning, reaching a low mark of 18 above Monday, Observer Bert F. Umland reported today. The lowest reading this morning was 31 above. A substantial fall of snow arrived Saturday, but this has now disappeared, and, given a few days of warm weather, farmers will be able to start field work.

GRYGLA MAN IS KILLED WHEN CAR UPSETS IN DITCH

Olaf Sletten Dies Sunday in Mishap West of Alvarado

Olaf Sletten, 46 years old, of Grygla, Minn. was drowned near Alvarado Sunday when his light roadster overturned in a ditch filled with water approximately 20 inches deep.

His sister, Mrs. Clarence Basgaard of Northland, riding with him in the car, escaped without serious injury. After trying unsuccessfully to remove her brother from the wreckage, she ran to the nearest farm and summoned Charles Johnson, who went to the accident scene. Sletten already was dead when they arrived at the car.

Johnson said the accident apparently was caused by the slippery surface of the newly-graded road. The accident occurred three miles west of Alvarado at about 11 A. M. Sunday as Mr. Sletten and Mrs. Basgaard were on their way to visit the former's son, who was employed near Alvarado.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 P. M. in Our Saviour's Lutheran church in Hamre township 10 miles from Grygla, in Beltrami county.

Mr. Sletten leaves his wife; nine children, all at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Johnson of Grygla; four sisters, Mrs. Basgaard, Mrs. John Dalen of near East Grand Forks, Mrs. Edwin Olson of Grygla, and Mrs. Iver Anderson of Thief River Falls; and five brothers, Richard Sletten of Bottineau, N. D., and Oscar, Peter, Julius and Adolph Sletten, all of the Grygla community.

MINNESOTA FACES $18,000,000 LOSS IN FEDERAL GRANT

State Must Increase Highway Funds to Qualify, Says Elsberg

Although Minnesota probably will be allotted $21,800,000 of federal public works highway funds for 1935 and 1936 without the necessity of matching the money, the state will be unable to obtain the grant unless highway department revenues are increased sufficiently to meet incidental expenses, N. W. Elsberg, highway commissioner, informed the legislature this week.

His statement was based on the presumption that present federal regulations governing expenditure of emergency grant funds will remain in effect for the coming two years. Mr. Elsberg estimated that approximately $1,450,000 over and above revenues anticipated under the House-Senate conference report on license fees will be necessary if the state is to spend the full federal grant. This does not include any money for matching of regular federal aid set up in the Hayden-Cartwright act.

"Existing federal regulations", said Mr. Elsberg, "require the state to use its own funds for preliminary engineering, planning and other incidental work on an emergency grant program, and also to pay in full all property damages, condemnation awards and property purchases required to carry out the program.

"These necessary state expenses amount to from 20 to 30 per cent of the federal funds used. Using 25 per cent as an average, it will cost the state about $5,450,000 to spend the full federal grant of $21,810,000.

"With the approximate increase in department revenues of $300,000 a year provided by the conference report on motor vehicle license fees, we will have about $500,000 a year in state funds available for use with the federal grant. All the rest of state funds will be required for bond charges, maintenance and other necessary expenses.

"This would make $1,000,000 of state funds available for the two year period. Deducting this from the $5,450,000 needed, leaves a shortage of $1,450,000 for the biennium. The available $1,000,000 alone will enable us to use about $4,000,000 of the federal grant. Thus the state stands to lose nearly $18,000,000 of the grant unless additional highway income is provided."

Boxville Farm Club of Warren Wins District One-Act Play Contest

The Boxville Farmers club of the Warren community won the district one-act play contest held Saturday evening at Warren under the auspices of the recreation and leisure time department of the state ERA. The McCrea Farm Bureau, also of the Warren community, placed second, the Middle River Woman's club third and the St. Hilaire Woman's club fourth. The Boxville club will represent this district at the regional contest to be held in the Crookston armory Friday, the winner of which will enter the state finals.

University Economist Computes Rise in Food Prices Over Last Year

An indication of the trend of prices in Minnesota, and probably a reflection of returning agricultural prosperity is seen in a report by the School of Business Administration, University of Minneapolis at the end of February were 16.6 per cent higher than in January, '34 and 14.5 above those of February, '34. In the middle of February prices were up 17.7 per cent over '34 but later declines in eggs and potatoes caused a decline from the top.

Meat and fish prices have continued to rise, the report shows, and now stand more than 30 per cent above a year ago. Dairy products, chiefly butter and fresh milk, are at a level 21.9 per cent over the prices of January 1934. The series relating to dried fruits and vegetables and the miscellaneous category rose one per cent while cereals and cereal products declined one per cent. One category, fresh fruits and vegetables, is five per cent cheaper than it was a year ago.

Among the seventy eight products involved in the computation only eggs and potatoes made important declines in February, although in the middle of February eggs were 35.7 per cent above the figures for January 1934 and 40 per cent over February 1934. The decline in potato prices is said to have reflected a drop in quality as a true change in price.

POSTMASTER HOLDS JOB FOR 34 YEARS

Moose Lake—Many men have held a job for a long time, but few have stayed as long in the same place as Charles Olson, postmaster at Sturgeon Lake for the past 34 years. Olson was appointed by McKinley on May 11, 1901, and has served successively under Presidents Theodore Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Franklin Roosevelt. The position is now open, and although eight candidates have taken the examination on March 2, no appointment had been made, and it is likely that Olson will serve out his full 34 years. During his term in office, Olson has issued approximately 34,000 money orders, totaling close to $750,000. During 1917 and 1918 he sold approximately $50,000 worth of treasury certificates and war saving stamps.

BOY TIES SELF TO TREE TO FRIGHTEN FATHER

Fergus Falls—Admitting that he wired himself to a tree to frighten his father, Lawrence Anderson, 17 year old Fergus Falls boy, confessed that he himself was the perpetrator of a crime that had thrown his family into a panic. The boy was assisting S. H. Nelson, a neighbor, in doing some fencing work, and when Nelson returned after half an hour's absence, he found young Anderson securely bound to a tree with wire, with a story of being struck on the head and tied up by a stranger. Sheriff Henkes, investigating, found tracks of the boy leading to the tree, and no marks of violence on the boy. Anderson confessed after being held in jail that he had tied himself up to frighten his father, with whom he had not been on good terms. The boy was sent to North Dakota, where he will make his home with an uncle for a time.

TAX PROGRAM NOW IN LEGISLATURE TO HELP SCHOOLS

$14,364 Additional Aid to Accrue to Rural Schools in Pennington

The rural schools in this county will receive $14,364 in additional school aid from the state under provisions of the omnibus tax replacement program now being worked out in the Minnesota state legislature, according to an analysis received here today from the Minnesota Federation Associations for Tax Reform.

The federation has made a detailed study of the benefits that will accrue to the farming communities if the program is adopted, Constant Larson of Alexandria, president of the federation, wrote, and has discovered that taxes levied on the property of Minnesota farmers would be reduced 32.5 per cent. The additional state aid that would be distributed to the rural schools here is a part of this contemplated saving.

The omnibus tax bill provides for raising a fund of approximately $24,000,000, which will be used to reduce the tax levies on homes, farms and other general property throughout the state. Part of the fund would be used to replace the present state tax levy on general property, and the balance would be distributed to schools on the basis of the school census as proceeds of the net income tax is distributed. City and village schools also would share in the distribution.

"This program will provide real relief for the farming communities," Mr. Larson said. "The plan to eliminate the state tax levy on general property will cut approximately $6,400,000 off of the taxes on property in Minnesota townships as levied for the year 1934. Assuming that state expenditures will require the amount of the 1934 state tax levy, about $7,300,000 of the $24,000,000 replacement fund would be left for distribution to schools. The ungraded rural schools, on the basis of the number of children reported in the school census, would receive $2,750,000 of this fund.

"Elimination of the state tax levy, about $7,300,000 of the $24,000,000 replacement fund would be left for distribution to schools. The ungraded rural schools, on the basis of the number of children reported in the school census, would receive $2,750,000 of this fund.

"Elimination of the state tax levy and the additional school aid thus would mean a tax saving of $9,150,000 on the property in Minnesota townships. The total levy for all purposes in townships of the state for 1934 was $28,240,000. The reductions thus would represent a saving in taxes to farmers of the state of 32.5 per cent.

The three large cities would be levied to raise the replacement funds, Mr. Larson said, and the rural communities would get most of the relief in property taxes.

FIDDLER ROBBED, BUT FRIENDS PAY THE BILL

Madelia—Fewer bad people and more good ones than in any town in the state is claimed by Madelia. That there is at least one bad one is evinced by the fact that Billy McLaughlin, famous and well-loved one-time fiddler, was held up and robbed of $45.75 in cash one evening at 11 o'clock. The following day 101 people signed a petition, chipping in from 25 cents to $2.50 each, to reimburse Billy, and a total of $48.50 was raised. The money which was taken from Billy by force was intended for a horse, on which he had set his mind, so the Madelia folk bought the horse he wanted for $25 and placed the balance to his credit in a bank.

$1 A PINT WAS 'CHARGE' IN 1929 WITNESS SAYS

Ely—Spectators and court attaches at the Ely court had a respite from dry proceedings last week when one of the witnesses unconsciously pulled a "fast one". Edward Hoyle, counsel, was questioning a witness who revealed the facts that he had served a jail sentence in 1929 for violation of the prohibition laws. "What was the charge at the time you were arrested?" the attorney asked. "One dollar a pint", the witness replied innocently.

LEGISLATIVE LETTER
By R. W. Hitchcock

The biennial Legislative jam is on, and what a jam it is! Local bills and statewide bills are piled high in the jam, petty matters of burning personal import to someone and grave issues of serious public concern are locked together in a confusion that seemingly can never be straightened out. And only two weeks to break the jam! House and Senate are working at it night and day with ever lengthening hours of labor. To the on-looker it seems a hopeless mix-up. The Solons themselves are so in the thick of it that they seem to be a part of the hopeless jam.

The biggest issues of the session are still undecided and scores of minor matters struggle for place. So the public prints say and so most of us think.

But the actual fact is that most of the major issues of the session are already decided or are close in action. The eleventh hour jam of 1935 is no different from that of previous sessions; it will be straightened out just as it has in the past, and probably the average of success and failure will be much as it always has been.

Of late years some 3,600 or more bills have been introduced at each session and some 400 laws have come out of the hopper. These figures will be approximated by the Legislature of 1935.

The number of brand new laws is always small. Usually not even a baker's dozen. Two or three important departures in law-making or in important policies of government are a big grist for any state Legislature. Most laws enacted by a Legislature are remedial local legislation or amendments of varying degrees of importance of old laws.

The brain power of the Legislature of 1935, its average level of intelligence, is distinctly superior to that of any Minnesota Legislature I have seen. The members of the Legislature who were reelected in November 1934 were largely men of ability, while the new crop of 81 new members consisted more largely than usual of men of successful experience in public and private affairs. These men will be of great value if they return to the Legislature in 1937. An able, honest Solon, no matter what may be his particular brand of party politics, grows rapidly, with each year of experience, in usefulness to his constituents. The caliber of the men and women who have constituted the Legislature of 1935 is something for the people of Minnesota to warmly congratulate themselves upon.

The overwhelmingly important issue of the session, if we eliminate the indispensible and noncontroversial matter of relief, is taxation. No major tax issue of the session is yet settled. Nevertheless the settlement is near to the making.

Sweeping changes, so glibly proposed, and taken for granted by many, are out. Progress will be made, but it will be for succeeding Legislatures to extend, enlarge, amend, and in some cases restrict, tax reforms and changes which are about to be initiated by the Legislature of 1935. Perhaps this is the wiser course; experience is a great teacher; progress will be more sure if it is not too swift.

Tax limitation, so universally demanded, seemingly so inevitable in January, may not come out of this Legislature at all. The complications are almost infinite in number and the difficulties are enormous. It is inevitably on the way, however.

Relief for real estate, confidently proposed early in the session for every municipality and school district, will be confined to putting a quietus on the levy for state purposes, a total of $16,000,000, about 12 per cent of the total levy on Minnesota real estate.

The omnibus tax bill, likely of enactment by the Legislature and a poser for the Governor, does involve a great change in Minnesota's tax structure. It will give the Minnesota tax engine a three point suspension—reduced property tax, increased ability-to-pay taxes, and a new source of public revenue, the sales tax.

Questions of public education bulk large at this Legislative session.

It is still to be decided whether radical and Socialistic forces shall be free to force their theories into the public schools of the state.

Proposals that the state supply, in addition to the millions it is now pouring into the public schools, $22,800,000 additional for the biennium, thus making the state's contribution approximately 50 per cent of all public school costs, seem certain to fail at this session.

Substantial increase in the state support for schools, however, is likely. Not only has Minnesota, except for that behemoth of states, Texas, the largest state public school fund in the Union, a fund now amounting to more than $70,000,000 and steadily increasing, but it has provided other public school support with steadily increasing prodigality. In 1915 the state support to public schools was slightly in excess of $3,000,000 for the biennium; for the last biennium it was in excess of $12,000,000; for the ensuing biennium a measure, already passed by the House, provides a new increase of nearly $2,000,000. Never, since the state aid for schools was established, has it been decreased; it has been increased at every session of the Legislature.

Radical revision of the supplementary state aid to schools has been agreed to by the House and is pending in the Senate. This bill is for the poorer districts, and has been an inestimable blessing. The law now provides that to any school district in which a levy of 20 mills will not produce $40 per pupil, the state will pay the district the difference between what 20 mills will produce and $40 per pupil. The change sanctioned by the House greatly increases the aid to the needy districts. It provides that the state will pay the difference when a levy of 20 mills does not produce $60 per pupil in the intermediate grades and $100 per pupil in the high school grades.

For years a movement has been underway to promote county school districts in the interests of efficiency and economy. One such district, that of Lake county, now exists and is highly successful. Jealous of home rule, rural residents resist this change. A pending bill makes the county unit system permissive in counties which have the so-called "unorganized territory" school districts. There are some 16 such counties in Northern Minnesota.

Overriding the Governor's veto on the three Hibbing bills was a major sensation. Eight column streamers screamed the news from the first pages of the metropolitan press.

Speaker George W. Johnson made an investigation to discover that no veto of a Minnesota Governor has been overturned in both Houses since 1905, thirty years ago. That year Governor John A. Johnson vetoed S. F. 4 by Senator Horton, a bill which provided that the custody of the then new capitol should remain with the capitol commission for a period of two years. Governor Johnson's veto was reversed in both branches of the Legislature and the bill became a law.

Thus it remained for Hibbing, a mere village, to defy and to break the power of the most powerful Governor Minnesota has ever known, by overriding a veto for the first time in 30 years. And how! Seldom, perhaps never, has any Minnesota Governor been so decisively defeated in the Legislature.

Friday morning of last week picketing of the capitol and the Legislature began when nearly a score of picketers took up positions on the capitol steps, bearing banners urging the enactment of H. F. 120 for unemployment insurance. In a recent address Governor Olson intimated that state action on old age pensions and unemployment would probably have to wait on federal action, for the state law on each of these subjects must be made to dovetail with the proposed federal enactments.

Training Camp Opens at Fort Snelling July 3d

Announcement was made Thursday of plans for the annual Citizens Military Training camp at Fort Snelling and other places in this corps area.

Four thousand young men will be trained at Fort Snelling, and at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., Fort Lincoln, N. D., Fort Riley, Kan., Fort Des Moines, Iowa, Camp Pike, Ark., Fort Crook Nebr., and Fort Leavenworth, Kan., during the summer. The Snelling camp will be from July 3 to August 1.

When the C. M. T. C. was begun its ideal was to train young men into the basic principles of military so that if a national emergency arose there would be a reserve of men who could be immediately made into non-commissioned officers.

However, no obligation for future military service is involved in the training course, it was said. Travel expenses are paid to and from the camps. Food, lodging and uniforms are supplied.

Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation Meetings to be Conducted in May

The annual spring conferences of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation wherein farm leaders from more than 70 counties meet at eleven central points, will open on May 17, announces J. S. Jones, secretary-treasurer of the M. F. B. F. Conferences will be held at Grand Rapids, May 17; Bemidji, May 18; Crookston, 20; Fergus Falls, 21; Litchfield, 22; Clarkfield, 23; Slayton, 24; New Ulm, 25; St. Paul, 27; Owatonna, 28 and Lewiston, 29.

V. L. Vaniman, organization specialist of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will represent the national organization at six of the meetings. He will report on current activities of the A. F. B. F. and discuss membership building activities. Mrs. Lewis Minion, home and community director of the Minnesota Farm Bureau, will lead a discussion of Farm Bureau women's work and will stress ways in which the Farm Bureau can assist in junior farm leadership activities.

A. G. Meremess, director of organization, will report on the 1935 Farm Bureau membership campaign, which by April 1 had brought the organization the largest membership it has ever enjoyed. He also will assist in planning the annual fall roll call. Mr. Jones will tell of the part played by the Minnesota Farm Bureau at the 1935 legislative session and report on general activities.

Edited by Students of Lincoln High School, Thief River Falls, Minn.

VALEDICTORIAN SALUTATORIAN CHOSEN MONDAY

Dorothy Rau; Harriet Jung Lead Senior Class; Eleven Honor Students Chosen

Last Monday an assembly was held for the purpose of announcing the honor students from the Senior class. Mr. Claffy gave an introduction with the announcement that a few years ago a large group of bewildered, awestruck Freshmen entered the Lincoln High school. Since that time forty per cent of the group has dropped out, either because of sickness, death, or because they thought it too hard. At the present time there are 14 seniors.

It is usually the basket ball players, the declamation contestants, the football players, and the debaters that are seen on the stage, but Monday was the day for the scholarly members of the school.

The girls outshone the boys on the list, there being about twice as many girls as boys. Dorothy Rau, who has had an average of better than A for four years, receives the honor of being valedictorian. The honor of being salutatorian goes to Harriet Jung. The other members of the honor group and remarks about them by Mr. Claffy are as follows: Donald Hermanson, who was on the Beta honor roll nine times and the Alpha twelve times; Arthur Douville, the [illegible] boy; Dorothy Traver, the "shadow" of Lincoln High; Corian Dokken the "sarcastic member of the debating squad"; Leslie Reidy, who "had the misfortune of working for Mr. Claffy"; John Jorgenson, who asks and asks and by this time should know everything; Marjorie Thronson, whom Mr. Claffy doesn't know, although she has been around for four years; Agnes Sandland, an out-of-the-district student; Frederick Voss, another out-of-the-district student; Arnhild Fjelstad, the song bird of the school; Kenneth [illegible] and Norma Yatesund.

Mr. Claffy called upon some of the students to express their opinions. As the first speaker, Art Douville said that he has finally come to the realization that school isn't so bad after all. Corian added that instead of waiting until after graduating from school to do things, we should do them while we are in school by going out for extracurricular activities. A great deal has been learned by Don Hermanson in his four years of high school. The meaning of extemporaneous was one of the first things he learned. He learned also that you cannot always win, that you can make a book report without reading the book, and that you can't carve your initials on a desk and "get away with it." Many people have received the impression that Dorothy Rau does nothing but "poke her nose in a book." She sums up a person's feelings about school by the statement that, as a freshman or sophomore we say, "Only three or two more years left," but when we are seniors we wish we could do it all over again.

We are anxious to see how the Florida papers played up that story about the man who is turning into an ape in California.—Ohio State Journal.

HERE AND THERE

Miss Ellerg's English I classes have written their alcohol themes, "What Science Says About Alcohol." They studied this subject for a week before writing on it. The students have also been studying one-act plays.

After completing their debates, the pupils of Miss Stenerson's English II classes are now studying letter writing.

Miss Fletcher's beginning girls are sewing on their summer dresses. Their dresses are made of linen or cotton.

Miss Fletcher's advanced girls have made sick diets. Now they are studying special Easter diets, including salads, cookies, and cakes. Friday, they will decorate eggs in gay colors. These eggs will be suitable for children's parties.

This week the teachers of the Training Department are practice teaching in kindergarten.

Miss Stapleton attended the Rural Teachers' Conference at Bemidji State Teachers' College last Friday.

FORD MOTOR CO. PRESENTS SCENES OF WORLD'S FAIR

Motion Pictures Are Also Shown of Assemblage and Operation of Ford Cars

Scenes from the World's Fair were presented in the High School Assembly after school Tuesday, April 3. These pictures were given with the compliments of the Ford Motor Company.

The first reel showed models of the Ford, the first Model T up to the present 1935 model. There pictures also showed the advantages of the New Ford in speed, safety and efficiency of the parts of the motor.

The scenes of the World Fair started by showing people walking the streets of Chicago. The lagoon on which the Fair was built was pictured from the air. After showing crowds of people walking the streets of the Fair, the movie showed the colonial village including Mount Vernon, the home of George Washington. Streets of Paris were also shown. The Goodyear air-ship was shown and pictures this airship had taken from the air. Exhibits from England, Madrid, and Norway with ice skaters performing under the hot sun, were also shown. The new streamlined homes and busses were also exhibited. The Midget Building, Admiral Byrd's "Little America", freak animals, formal gardens, Italian villages and exhibits from Moscow were shown. The sky ride, later with pictures it had taken from the air, likewise were shown.

The movie then took us into the Ford Exposition Building where it showed the assembling of a Ford motor in less than ten minutes. It showed how a little "V8" from the radiator of the Ford turned into a little elf and commanded the parts of a car to be assembled to the schedule, namely the five-thousandth car.

Some of these share-the-wealth advocates might benefit by a little advice from Al Capone. He tried it and got 11 years.—Jackson, Miss., Daily News.

WEEK'S EASTER VACATION TO BEGIN APR. 12

Teachers to Spend Vacations in Various Places; Last 5 Weeks to be Review

A much-awaited Easter vacation will greet all Lincoln High School students on Friday, April 12th. Many of the students who reside out of town will spend this time at their homes. Other students will either visit friends or spend the time just "resting up."

After one week of vacation school will be resumed again on April 22nd. The students should be ready at that time to spend five weeks of solid concentration in preparing for the State Board examinations. So take a little hint, have your fun during vacation, but be prepared for work when you return.

The teachers, too, plan on a vacation. Many of them will spend the time out of town. Miss Landberg will visit in Minneapolis for a few days; Miss Edberg, at her home and in Duluth; Miss Greenland, in Clarissa, Minn.; Miss Diebel, in Minneapolis; Miss Leavitt, in Thief River Falls; Miss Peirson, at her home in Austin; Miss Fletcher, at her home in Grand Forks; Miss Wice, in both Minneapolis and Thief River Falls; Mr. Pope, in Fargo and other points in North Dakota; and Mr. Johnson, in the southern part of the state.

PROGRESS POKES ITS NOSE AROUND

Have you ever looked at the "Progress" of a few years ago, and compared things which happened then and things which are happening now? Your inquiring reporter has done this very thing and has discovered some interesting facts.

For an example, let's turn our thoughts to basketball. In 1931, the Lincoln High School Prowlers scored one surprise victory over Bemidji. On the return trip Bemidji retaliated and won over the Prowlers. This year the Prowlers scored two decisive victories over Bemidji in the regular season. However, the Prowlers were upset in the early stages of their march toward the state title. Bemidji won the regional championship and proceeded to place third in the state tourney.

In 1931 the Prowlers scored a victory over our neighboring town, Crookston. This was repeated twice during the seasons' play of 1935.

East Grand Forks bowed to the Prowler quintet twice during the season of 1931. In 1935 each team "evened up."

But 1932 was the one big year for Lincoln High School in reference to basketball. Winning every game of the season, the L. H. S. Prowlers advanced triumphantly through the district, regional, and state tournaments. In 1935 our boys didn't do quite as well, but L. H. S. expects another state championship in 1936.

Now we'll turn to the Declamation contest of 1932. In the finals Ruths Mathewson, Annette Simonson, and Elizabeth Jorde were victorious. In 1935 Kathleen Monsbroten, Dorothy Fowler, and Francis Engle represented our school in the district competition.

Debating has become more prominent in Lincoln High School the last few years than any time previous. In 1932 the L. H. S. debaters won a decision over Red Lake Falls, who always has a fine squad in action. This victory was repeated once more in 1935. Debating placed high in 1933. Coached by Mr. Carlson, the local debate squad emerged as regional champions. In 1936 we perhaps can again become regional champions by reasoning from cause to effect. We still have the same coach, a debate squad, and a fine record, so why not the championship?

Remember the junior class play of 1932? You're wrong. Three one-act plays were presented, the first time this was ever attempted in L. H. S. This year the juniors successfully staged the production "Growing Pains."

Track also was prominent in 1933. That was the year when the local track men became regional champions. We also anticipate a repetition of this in 1935.

So you see, it's quite interesting to look back over the years and see what progress really has been made in our school. But wasn't it a few years ago that Easter vacation always followed Easter, thus giving us an extra day of vacation. We'd like a petition of that also.

ROBERT BRIGGS GIVES PROGRAM OF DRAWINGS

Artist Draws Cartoons, Outdoor Scenes, and Vocal Selections

The last of the 1935 Lyceum circuit series of Assembly programs was given last Wednesday. Mr. Robert O. Briggs gave a program of artistry, cartoons, and vocal selections.

First he showed his cleverness in cartoons by drawing a frowning face, drawing a few additional lines such as whiskers, and a moustache and turning the picture upside down. Lo and behold! A little boy grinning so that you wondered how his face held together. Then he drew a loving cup, drew two faces on either side of the outlines of the cup, and there were a boy and a girl in a slightly romantic mood.

After these few preliminaries in a laughable mood, Mr. Briggs demonstrated his artistry in the drawing of two scenes, the first a southern scene, the second, mountains of Colorado. Both showed a true sense of color and beauty. Then Mr. Briggs sang an Irish ballad and two southern "coon" songs.

Mr. Briggs has traveled 32,000 miles, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, just to entertain boys and girls. His native home is in Chicago and he has studied art at the Chicago Art Institute and other art schools. He feels, however, that his travels have developed his art more than school.

Everyone so admired the pictures that they were hung in Mr. Claffy's office to allow everyone to get a closer view of them.

Marjorie Mathewson.

FAIR TEAMS PLAY IN POST-SEASON BASKETBALL GAMES

Teams Composed of Varsity and Interclass Players Rating High in Tests

Last week a series of post-season basket ball games were played under the direction of Mr. Chalmers. Four teams were made up after a series of tests were given in gym classes. The boys with the highest rating were placed on these teams.

The first game was won by Team I who completely overwhelmed Team IV by a score of 90 to 9. In this game Hermanson and Phil Prichard were high scorers for Team I with 16 and 14 points respectively and Holmgren led Team IV with 3 points. In this second game, which was also the closest game, Team III upset Team II by a score of 22 to 19. Nicholson set the pace for the winners with 13 points and Carl Lee with 11 points for the losers.

In the consolation game Team II defeated Team IV 31 to 20. In this game Team IV played the whole game with 4 players and Team II played half the time with 4 players. Carl Lee was high man for the victors with 18 points and Gunderson for the losers with 10 points.

In the final game Team I clearly outplayed Team III and won by a score of 58 to 12. Kielty and Nelson led the first team's attack and Nicholson was outstanding for Team III. In both of these last two games Mr. Chalmers tried out a proposed new rule which does away with the center tip-offs except at the start of each half.

The teams were made up of the following players: Team I—G. Mickleson, Jung, Kielty, Alf. Nelson, P. Prichard, Booren, Hermanson and Helquist. Team II—Van Pelt, C. Lee, A. Lorentsen, Salveson, Waag, Art Nelson, D. Lorentson and Legvold. Team III—R. Lee, Mil and James Nesse, Adkins, Stadum, O. Larson, Jaranson, C. Mickelson, and Nicholson. Team IV B. Prichard, Kelly, Gunderson, Olson, R. Nelson, S. Christofferson and Ken Holmgren.

VOX MAGISTRI

When we speak of getting an education, most of us immediately think of attending school somewhere. This involves several year's time and the expenditure of much money. We will all go to school as much as we can and get all we can out of the opportunities offered us. This is all very fine and worth while, but much of our education can be acquired in a different way as we go along with our school life.

You may well say, "how?" and "where?".

Most of our education is acquired through the eyes. Therefore, why not cultivate the habit of observation. You can learn something new almost every day, if you will just keep your eyes and ears open. How many of you see anything different from day to day as you come to school? There are many things of educational value that you will see, if you will but look. How many of the birds, flowers, trees, etc., can you name that you see many times a day?

How many of you use the facilities of our libraries? Most of the books and magazines there may be used without paying anything. Why not spend some leisure time getting acquainted with some of the good books. Your English teachers have given you good ideas on what is good and what you should read. Follow their suggestions.

Another means of education is the radio. I'm sure most homes have a radio nowadays. The newspapers carry a rather complete list of the programs given over the different hook-ups. Therefore, there's no need to listen to the poor programs. Some of the best artists in all lines are broadcasting. Why not get acquainted with them and their works. Most of these programs are very entertaining as well as being educational.

Most of us go to the picture shows—but how many of us pick out the really good pictures. If we should check over the pictures that we have seen in the last year, I wonder what the balance would be. There are many good reviews given in the current newspapers and magazines which we may read and follow. Most of these critics are quite fair in their evaluations of pictures and books.

Last but not least I want to mention the education obtained through traveling. Most of us have opportunities to take a few trips and no matter which section of the country we go into, there is always something worth while to see. Don't rush from one thing to another, but really take some time and know what you're seen. If you are traveling by train you will meet many new situations, such as eating on the diner, sleeping in the Pullman cars, studying out connections, taking care of baggage, tipping porters, and a hundred and one other things. Don't be afraid to ask questions of those in charge. You may make some mistakes or ask some seemingly dumb questions, but profit by your errors. One important point to remember in asking for information is courtesy. Don't forget your "please" and "thank you". Many times these mean more than a reward in money.

Let's all see the best, hear the best, and read the best in whatever amusement we choose.

Manie Wike

CLUB MEMBERS CONTINUE STUDY

Prepare Methane and Acetylene in Laboratory

The Charles Martin Hall Chemistry Club started this week the practical study of carbon compounds by preparing methane and acetylene. Methane was prepared by heating a mixture of sodium acetate and soda-lime. It was found to be a colorless gas without odor. Although this gas causes explosions in mines, none of the members of the club was able to obtain a real explosion. However, in the case of acetylene, the explosions were violent and spectacular. It was easy to understand that acetylene is no gas to have running free around the home. It was observed that acetylene will burn with a very smoky flame, whereas the flame burning methane was quite clean. Methane constitutes from 50 per cent to 95 per cent of natural gas.

GEORGE LEE SELECTED AS LINCOLN COACH

New Coach is Graduate of Concordia College; Coached at Park River

George Edward Lee of International Falls, Minnesota has been selected by the Board of Education as head Coach at Lincoln High School for the school year of 1935-36. Mr. Lee will also be an instructor in Social Science.

He comes to Lincoln High from the Walsh County Agricultural School at Park River, North Dakota where he is coaching at present.

Graduating from Concordia College of Moorhead, Minnesota in 1931, he has made an enviable record for himself. He was on "Cobber" football, baseball, and basketball teams for four years. Mr. Lee captained the Concordia gridders in 1930 and was on several all-state teams. He was a member of the all-state basketball team in 1931.

EDITORIAL

Entertainment

Last fall we purchased assembly program tickets for twenty-five cents. These tickets entitled us to see a series of eight different programs. Included in these programs were a variety of features that were both entertaining and educational. Violinists, actors, lecturers, singers, cartoonists, et al, appeared before us. It is safe to say that every student who bought a ticket did not regret the purchase after he had attended the last program. It is true that some of the programs were a bit dull, but on the other hand, some of them were extraordinarily interesting. Taking the series of programs as a whole, they were quite satisfactory.

Mr. Claffy has made arrangements with the sponsors of the Northwest Assemblies course for a similar schedule next year. An interesting variety of entertainment has been carded, so little difficulty is anticipated when the time comes to start the sale of tickets.

Debating

The Sophomore English classes have completed their debates and the Junior English classes will begin theirs immediately after the Easter vacation. Do the debaters in these class debates derive any appreciable profit from their work? In the former class the constructive speeches were between two and three minutes. The rebuttal speeches were confined to three or four sentences or never over one minute. The questions for debate are topics of national and international importance, and soon these students who are participating in these brief verbal controversies will be out in the world discovering that the things they debated are vital factors in shaping the destinies of nations. They will find that if they are to do their duties as citizens they will have to be well-informed on these topics. When this time comes, they will wish that they had conducted a more extensive research in order to better understand the causes and effects of problems and situations which now are to them very uninteresting.

The members of a high school debate team spend approximately five months in reading and writing on one single subject. Even at the end of their debate season they find that there are many phases of the question which they have not touched upon. Their constructive speeches are ten minutes, their rebuttal speeches five minutes, and they have to become masters of condensation in order to get their speeches within the time limit. However, when the debate season is terminated, they are well versed on their subject and have acquired much information which will inevitably be profitable to them in later years.

Of course, it is impossible for an English class to spend five months on debate. But they should spend more time than they do. If they devoted one or two weeks more to their work, more intelligent debates and a keener interest on the part of the debaters would result.

Honor

Last Monday at a special assembly fourteen seniors were honored for their scholastic achievements in their four years at Lincoln High School. These fourteen students represent the cream of the intellectual crop, the highest ten per cent in the class. They have worked diligently since the fall of 1932 and this recognition of their ability and self-application comes as a well-deserved tribute.

The valedictorian has an aggregate of 41½ honor points and the salutatorian, 40⅓. Each of the other honor students possesses from 28⅓ to 31 honor points. Mr. Claffy informed us that the general average of the 1935 senior honor roll is better than that of the class of 1934. Competition was especially keen this year and to those who were in the highest ten per cent of the class we again say, "Congratulations."

More Honor

Soon after school convenes following the Easter vacation, the National Honor Society and the National Athletic Scholarship Society for this year will be announced. Students who are scholastically high and are outstanding in character, leadership, and other admirable qualities will receive appointments to the former society. Eligible for the latter society are those boys who are scholastically high, possess certain required traits of character, and have earned a letter in some major sport.

L. H. S. Students anxiously await the time for the announcement of members appointed to these two societies.

Senior Pictures Cut and Mounted This Week

Last Monday and during the week the senior pictures were cut and mounted on mounting board. This work was done by the Associate Editors of the "Prowler".

The cutting was done with the help of a paper cutter and isinglass. The isinglass was the same size as the pictures will be when cut, 2¼ by 3 inches. The page will be only ½ the size as it was when mounted. There will be ten pictures on each page.

ROSEWOOD

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hanson of Bellingham, Wash., arrived for an unexpected visit on Monday with Mrs. Hanson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Alby. Mr. Hanson who formerly operated the old Sorenson farm left in 1921 for Washington and where he has since been engaged as a carpenter. He has purchased the farm of Brahala farm north of town, and according to present plans will move here this fall to take possession. They expect to bring two carloads of native Washington lumber for extensive repairs of all buildings.

From Washington the Hansons carried greetings from the Rev. and Mrs. Geo Larson, former pastor of the Rindal church here and the Zion church at Thief River Falls, and now located at Savannah, Wash. where Rev. Governmental Agencies Join in Wild Life Study

Arrangements have been made by the Minnesota Conservation Commission for the setting up of machinery which will make it possible for the United States Bureau of Biological Survey, University of Minnesota and the Minnesota State Department of Conservation to join together in conducting wild life research in the state.

A sum of $6,000.00 will be furnished annually by the Conservation Department to pay salaries, travel and other expenses of the technical assistants and laborers to be employed under the direction of the scientific staff of the University of Minnesota. Collection and preparation of specimens and materials for scientific study is also provided for from this fund.

Separate agreements will be entered into for fish research work due to the fact that the biological survey has jurisdiction only over game animals and birds. It is expected that additional species will be supplied to be used exclusively for fish research purposes.

An intensive study of the diseases of wild animals and birds will be undertaken with particular attention placed upon fluctuations and causes for such natural phenomena.

Lion's Upkeep $500 Yearly

To keep a lion costs about $500 a year, as most of them eat ten pounds of meat and bone a day, says a London animal trainer.

Skin Infection Found Among School Children of State This Spring

Among the most annoying contagions of the schoolroom is the skin infection known as "impetigo" which has appeared in a larger number of Minnesota schools this spring according to reports received by the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association.

This infection, according to today's bulletin from the committee, spreads very rapidly and may be accompanied by serious complications, if it is long neglected.

Impetigo begins as a small blister caused by a germ. It fills with pus and then dries leaving a yellow crust. The crusts usually curl up at the edges and look as if they had been pasted on the skin. The pus is extremely contagious and spreads easily in the course of schoolroom contacts and play from one child to another. Also from one spot to another on the victim's body.

Teachers and parents are warned in the bulletin to watch for the appearance of these crusts, and seek proper treatment to heal them and to prevent exchange of toys or books or direct contact between the victim and other uninfected children until the condition clears up.

Very little itching or disturbance of the general health accompanies impetigo and so it is sometimes allowed to progress to an advanced stage when control is difficult.

Another troublesome schoolroom skin trouble is ring worm, recently elevated to popular interest under the name of "athlete's foot". Ringworm is caused by a vegetable parasite and it may effect any part from the crown of the head to the soles of the feet.

Young children often suffer from ringworm of the scalp characterized by circular patches that are partly bald. On the smooth surfaces ringworm appears in round red patches accompanied by itching. Walking barefooted in public places is the source of most ringworm of the feet.

COUPLE CELEBRATE 73d WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Granite Falls—Mr. and Mrs. George E. Olds, Granite Falls, celebrated their 73d wedding anniversary March 30, but to them this day was nothing unusual and they laughed at the idea that they should make a special occasion of it. Friends dropped in to pay their respects, but otherwise it was just another day to the elderly couple. Mr. Olds will be 100 years old in another two months, and Mrs. Olds is now 95. After a married life of close to three quarters of a century during which time the country has seen many ups and downs, Mr. Olds sees nothing in the present to justify alarms, and feels that everything will pull through as it has in the past.

SEARCH FOR BURIED TREASURE IN LOGS

Mankato — Romance minded Mankatoans will find something to dream about in the tale of a buried treasure in that district—but strange to say, the treasure consists of black walnut logs, worth something like $100 per thousand feet. Two old settlers, Dr. William Frisbee and Dr. J. Lewis, years ago decided to fill up a deep gully which divided their land, and used the black walnut trees, which grew there profusely, covering them with dirt. According to experts, the walnut logs, which stand the test of time remarkably well, should be in an excellent state of preservation and well worth the time spent in hunting them. Although it is exactly known where the trees lie which filled the gully, expeditions of searching parties are endeavoring to locate them.

PLUMMER

JUNIOR CLASS PRESENTS PLAY FRIDAY

"Reach for the Moon", a romantic comedy, will be presented by the Junior Class of Pershing High School on Friday, April 12. The play centers around a disinherited son of an old English Earl who finds himself, love and his title while running a dude ranch in Colorado. Lloyd Hanson reaches the highest point in his dramatic career as the Englishman who goes West. His pal, Larry is acted by Donald Holberg. Florence LaVoi, La Ella Berg, Carol Kjos, Crescens Enderle, and Ethel Lanial share the feminine leads in what promises to be an all-star cast. Alvin Johnson capably performs the part of a brother who also finds love in the West. Deane Schoenauer, as an Easterner who has gone West with a vengeance, and Henry Erickson, as an Indian servant combine to take the part of Lochinvar and furnish the major portion of the laughter. Evelyn Childs, Eunice Noyes, Ed Langlie, and Charles Fellman have strong roles in the supporting cast. The play is under the direction of H. M. McCrady of the faculty.

PLUMMER P. T. A. HOLDS FINAL MEETING

The last meeting of the P. T. A. for this school year was held on Thursday, April 4th at the school house. Mr. Ohnstad gave a very interesting talk on "New Freedom in the Classroom." Mr. Lauer, President of the P. T. A. expressed the thanks of the school to the members of the community who had contributed to the success of the organization during the school year. A feature of the evening's entertainment was a short play, "Meeting of the Better City Campaign Committee" put on by a group of women of the community. The cast follows: Mrs. Rangle, Mrs. George St. Louis; Clara Clatter, Mrs. Ted Lemieux; Cynthia Cackle, Mrs. A. M. Ripple; Rose Rattletrap, Mrs. Jack Pahlen; Tessie Tackhammer, Miss Aagot Hanson; Dorothy Din, Mrs. James Jackson.

The Better City campaign committee demanded better roads with less taxes, better public buildings with less taxes; better schools with less taxes, and many other civic improvements with less taxes. The whole play was put on in a spirit which pleased the audience. Mrs. Geo. St. Louis entertained with a short skit, and Althea Krueger played a number of delightful selections on the piano.

After the program, a fine lunch was served by Mesdames Gilbertson, Ed Greenwald, Ben Muhla, D. H. McCullough, Gordon Hofius, Ida Froiland, Ray Groom and Miss Jennie Waldal.

School will close Friday for the Spring Vacation period. Miss Fairchild and Miss Fondell plan to go to their homes in Minneapolis, Miss Koed will go to her home at Askov, Mr. Lauer plans to go to St. Cloud, and Miss Bell to Big Lake. Mr. McCrady and Mr. Ohnstad plan on spending the greater portion of the vacation period in Plummer. Superintendent Ripple will leave on Friday to attend the Spring meeting of the Superintendents at the University of Minnesota.

The weather has been so unfavorable that the high school boys have not been able to get out for basketball practice. A number of high schools in the district are planning on organizing baseball teams, the Plummer High School will probably play a schedule of games.

Present Play Saturday Evening

Leo. J. Lauer and members of the cast motored to Woldwood Saturday evening and presented their one act play, "The Awkward Squad". The play was very well received by the audience.

Ah, how remote seems the time when everybody was eager to paste the old blue eagle in the window, instead of in the slats!—

W. C. T. U. News Notes

Upside down is right side up for a liquor glass in the hand of a worker. A stenographer, after drinking only one ounce of alcohol, works noticeably slower and makes 30 per cent more errors. Railroads for many years have refused to employ drinkers; they are too undependable in a business where precision and regularity are of prime importance. Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors Corporation, feels that liquor is a distinct handicap to industry and business. During Prohibition days he said, "Having been intimately connected with industrial problems for many years, I am thoroughly convinced that Prohibition has increased our national efficiency, has added to the purchasing power of the people, and given us an advantage in our competition in foreign trade."

Henry Ford for a long time has refused to hire men who drink either on or off duty. America's leading industrialist knows the inefficiency of liquor drinkers.

Big business is begining to see the evils of competition from the liquor traffic. For every one dollar spent on alcoholic drinks, one dollar is NOT spent for food, clothes, shoes, automobiles, movies, houserent.

Lord Ryder, an Englishman, after seeing a drunken man writes: "He had no hat; the hat trade was suffering. His coat was full of holes; the tailoring trade was suffering. He had holes in his shoes; the shoe trade was suffering. He had no shirt; the textile trade was suffering. He was dirty; the soap trade was suffering. Indeed, I can hardly mention an industry in this country which was not badly affected by that man's drinking."

Whenever you are near a liquor glass intended for beer, wine, whisky, turn it upside down, and be happy in the idea that upside down is sometimes right side up.—The Watchword.

Prairies

The name prairies was first given by the early French explorers to the north part of the Mississippi Valley because it was a vast and fertile plain. The French word was derived from the Latin word which meant meadow.

Eat Cat's Flesh

Cat's flesh is much favored in China as a specific for liver diseases, for which it is supposed to be as efficacious as cod-liver oil. Black cats furnish the best meat and in some districts are regularly raised for sale.

Red River Valley History

By Wm. V. Working

Old Crossing Treaty

In orienting readers with the historical developments that mark the transformation of this region from the wilderness found by the early explorers to the present highly civilized state we are presenting in these series outstanding historical events. Today we deal with the Old Crossing Treaty.

Although numerous treaties that were made with Sioux and Chippewa which opened lands in the state farther south and southwest to settlement there had been no cessions in the northern part of the state. The first pact involving land in this part of the state was made between the old Pillager band of Chippewa and Alexander Ramsey, territorial governor, in the fall of 1851. Governor Ramsey and his party of 10 civilians with a military escort of 25 dragoons from Fort Snelling left St. Paul August 18, 1851, and returned October 28.

By the terms of this treaty the Pillager band ceded to the government an area on the lower Red river 150 miles long and 65 miles wide, about half of this tract lying on each side of the river. The northern boundary of the ceded area was the 49th parallel of latitude and the southern boundary on the west side of the Red river was the Goose river, while the Buffalo river was the southern boundary on the east side. The government agreed to pay the Chippewa $30,000 cash and $10,000 annually for a period of 20 years. But when the treaty was placed before the U. S. senate that body refused to confirm it and its terms never were put into effect. By the way, the negotiations for this treaty were conducted at Pembina.

Since this pact was repudiated by the U. S. senate it was necessary to make another and this need brought about the famous Old Crossing Treaty of 1863. The writer has before him a map of the territory ceded by this pact. It shows that the eastern boundary of the area involved dipping westward reaches an apex just north of Thief River Falls. The official description of the land ceded follows:

"Commencing at the intersection of the international boundary with the Lake of the Woods; thence, in a southwesterly direction, to the head of Thief River; thence down Thief River to its mouth; thence south-easterly, in a direct line, toward the head of Wild Rice river to the boundary of a former cession (1855) by certain bands of Chippewa; thence along the boundary of said cession of 1855 to the mouth of the Wild Rice; thence up the channel of the Red river to the mouth of the Sheyenne; thence up the Sheyenne to Stump lake ('Place of Stumps', otherwise called Lake Chicot), near the eastern extremity of Devil's Lake; thence north to the international boundary and thence eastward to the place of beginning."

It will be noted from this description that the district embraced may be roughly outlined as being bordered some distance northeast of Roseau; that is, the part that lies on the Minnesota side. This covers what is perhaps the richest part of the state in soil fertility, favorable agricultural conditions, natural resources, wild life, outdoor life and other assets. Over on the Dakota side all of the rich Red river valley is included. It is clear that when the Chippewa chiefs and headmen ceded this land they little realized that they were giving away for a pittance the richest agricultural region in the world.

It should interest school children particularly to know that this great district of flourishing cities, railroads, broad highways and fine farms was once owned by Indians and that they virtually gave it away. Their interest undoubtedly would be heightened by newspaper accounts of efforts of Minnesota Chippewa to reclaim lands and to receive added payments for lands ceded. It appears that the Indians have consistently either misunderstood the terms of the treaties they made or have been defrauded. The writer, of course, makes no specific charges but believes that wrong may have been done the Indians unintentionally also.

The story of the making of the Old Crossing Treaty is an interesting one and many readers will recall that the 70th anniversary of the signing was observed June 25, 1933, at Old Crossing Memorial park at Huot, which includes the treaty site. At that celebration, it will be recalled a treaty memorial was dedicated. The interests represented indicate that the affair is rated as an important event of history. We shall deal with it further next week.—Northwestern Feature Service.

CITIZENS TO HAVE OWN STONES IN AUDITORIUM

Willmar—In order that citizens of Willmar can take more than a "passing interest" in their new auditorium, they are urged to do their bit toward building it by bringing in good looking stones, which will be used in the front wall. A good deal of interest is expected on the part of those who wish to have a part in the new building, and will look for their own stones after it is completed.

State Road Maintenance for March is Approved by Federal Inspectors

Engineers of the United States Bureau of Public Roads have just submitted to the state highway department specific reports on the condition of 73 different parts of the trunk system inspected during March, 1935, says a department bulletin.

Conditions on the inspected roads are reported as satisfactory to the federal bureau in 67 out of 73 cases. In the other six cases the United States engineers state that construction work is needed to bring the projects fully up to standard. In three of these six the inspectors specifically reported maintenance operations as satisfactory. Thus the federal O.K. was placed specifically on the maintenance of 70 out of 73 projects inspected, and the other three need improvements in grade or type of surfacing.

WILLARD CITES OBJECTIONS TO BIG FORK PLAN

Says Project is Impossible of Accomplishment at an Early Date

TELLS OF SURVEYS PREVIOUSLY MADE

Plan Had Been Proposed by Red Lake River Development Group

In a letter received Monday by Mayor W. J. Kirkwood of Crookston, an officer of the Red Lake River Development association, E. V. Willard, state commissioner of conservation, expressed the opinion that the Big Fork and Little Fork river diversion project is beyond the possibility of immediate accomplishment since it involves the issue of international waters. The plan had been proposed by the association as a means of restoring the water level in Red lake.

Mr. Willard's letter follows:

I acknowledge receipt of your letter of April 8th with attached resolution passed at a recent meeting of representatives from northwestern Minnesota directed to the Governor, Executive Council, Board of Control, Department of Conservation and Mr. L. P. Zimmerman of SERA.

The plan to divert waters from Big Fork and Little Fork Rivers from their natural drainage basins westerly into Red Lakes as a supply in Red Lake River, I take it, is being promoted and that this is the plan which prompted the resolution which was passed. I have on several occasions gone over in detail such a plan with Mr. O. E. French and at one time with Mr. H. L. Frisbie and am on record as to my views on the practicability of this plan. Even if it has merit from the standpoint of increasing water supplies, the issues which it raises as regards the diversion of International waters, make it beyond reach of immediate accomplishment.

As regards other phases of water conservation in this region, we are not lacking in surveys and investigations. The U. S. Geological Survey, acting for the Department of State, has conducted uninterrupted investigations of the behavior of run-off waters in the entire northwestern section of Minnesota for the past seven years having expended on such investigations perhaps in excess of $100,000.00. Gaging stations have been established and are being maintained on all of the streams in this section, from which have been recorded the run-off and other phenomena. A standard topographical map has been made of the water shed of Roseau River from Roseau to the International Boundary Line. The War Department has made a thorough survey of the Red Lake River from the outlet of Red Lakes to Thief River Falls, as a part of a flood control project contemplated many years ago. The Division of Drainage and Waters made investiga-

FULL CALENDAR OF SCHOOL EVENTS ON SPRING SCHEDULE

District Music Contest at Auditorium Saturday, April 27th

A full program of public school activities for the remaining weeks of the term, Supt. Morris Bye announced last week in supplying details to members of the teaching staff. The event in which the greatest number of pupils will participate is the district music contest scheduled for the Auditorium Saturday, April 27. Upwards of 700 pupils representing schools in this section are expected to take part.

Other coming events include the clinic for pre-school children May 4, a Music Week program at Central school May 6 and at Lincoln high school May 8, and the grade school music festival at the Auditorium May 10.

The junior-senior prom is scheduled for May 10 and the senior class play, "Tons of Money", May 17 at the Auditorium. Grade school track meets will be held May 22 and 23. Baccalaureate services for the senior class are set for Sunday, May 26, with commencement exercises Friday, May 31.

River Ice Goes Saturday; 10 Above Monday Morning

With a minimum reading of 26 above zero registered last Saturday, that day, to have the water freeze that, only to have the water freeze over again temporarily Sunday night and Monday morning when a fierce gale from the north brought the mercury down to a minimum of 15 above as recorded by B. F. Umland. The minimum reading this morning was 31 above. A drizzling rain and snow fell Wednesday, further delaying the start of spring field work in this section.

Elks Will Initiate 20 Candidates Thursday in A. Anderson Class

Honoring Postmaster Andrew Anderson, oldest past exalted ruler in point of service and one of the most active members of the local order, the Elks lodge here has designated as the Andy Anderson class a group of twenty candidates who will be initiated at the annual spring rally next Thursday evening. Guests will include brother Elks from Bemidji, Hibbing, Crookston, Grand Forks and Fargo. The program for the evening will include the serving of dinner at 6:45, followed by the initiation and entertainment and concluding with a Dutch lunch served at midnight.

MAY FIRST IS NEW DEADLINE FOR CAR LICENSE PAYMENT

Bill Went to Olson Wednesday after Passage by Both Houses

The lower house of the legislature Monday approved the revised motor vehicle license bill which had been sent back for minor amendments, and the senate took similar action Tuesday. The bill, which extends to May 1 the time for securing automobile licenses without penalty, was scheduled to be signed by Governor Olson Wednesday.

Under the terms of the bill Minnesota motorists will pay slightly higher fees than in 1933 and 1934 with the total giving the highway department about $300,000 more revenue than was received under the 1933-34 rates. The bill provides for the previous minimums of $5 and $7.50 and a 2.2 per cent basic rate on the factory price of new automobiles.

Opponents sought unsuccessfully to further delay the procedure and they got some slight help from un- of the increased gasoline tax bugaboo which developed in the house Wednesday when its motor vehicle committee reported out for passage a bill to add one more cent to the present three cent state tax.

Alex Campbell, deputy registrar of motor vehicles in this city, was notified this morning that Governor Olson had signed the bill setting license fees, and is now preparing to handle the rush of applicants in this section which will continue until the deadline May 1.

Seventeen Boys Apply for Membership in CCC Camps Late Last Week

With a Pennington county quota of 30 members set for admittance to civilian conservation camps this month, only 17 eligible young men submitted applications last week, Mrs. Trudie King, county relief worker, announced today. The group went to Warren Monday to undergo physical examinations, and the local office has not learned whether or not any candidates were rejected because of physical defects. A number of prospective members refrained from making application in the hope that they will be able to secure steady employment in this community in coming months.

Dr. and Mrs. B. C. Bernard Leave for Gulfport, Miss.

Dr. B. C. Bernard, for the past eleven years superintendent of Oakland Park sanatorium, left Wednesday with Mrs. Bernard for Gulfport, Mississippi, in which vicinity Dr. Bernard plans to engage in private practice. His successor, Dr. Baldwin Borrison, arrived Monday from Walker to take charge of the local institution.

Sheriff Will Collect Delinquent P. P. Taxes

A list of more than 250 delinquent personal property tax claims against Pennington county residents was being prepared this week by Clerk of Court Adolf Eklund, and in accordance with the law will be turned over for collection to Sheriff Arthur Rambeck next Tuesday unless payment is made in the meantime.

Radium Boy Wins State Farm Records Contest

Oscar Omundson, age 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Omundson of Radium community, who recently won a prize for Marshall county in a national farm record contest, has been designated as state champion entitling him to a cream separator or a $100 merchandise certificate offered by the International Harvester company, sponsor of the contest. His records of farm operations revealed that livestock and poultry made the best returns for investment and labor. Oscar has maintained records in connection with 4-H projects during the past four years.

SENATE DUE TO PASS OMNIBUS TAX PROPOSAL

Bill Approved by Lower House of Legislature Last Week

VETO BY GOVERNOR IS ANTICIPATED

Committee Approves Old Age Pension Proposal for Minnesota

State senate lines appeared to be holding on the omnibus tax bill Wednesday as consideration of the $21,700,000 measure began. Working on the bill as a special order, the senate planned to stay on it all day and for an evening session. The measure was approved in the lower house last week.

Following the majority caucus Tuesday night, it was announced only one change is decided in the bill as reported back by the tax committee. The 2-cent tax on bank checks goes out, and no other tax is proposed to replace it. The committee draft cuts the amusement tax to a 3 per cent rate, the same as the general sales tax.

Senate leaders said that they had counted noses, and have 38 votes to oppose amendments, with a possible loss of one or two on the sales tax. The necessary majority is 34 votes.

That the bill is headed for passage and then for a veto is considered almost certain, though the suggestion was made at the caucus Tuesday night that Governor Olson might sign the bill if clothing should be cut out of the sales tax and the 2 per cent taxes on gas and electric bills were eliminated.

An old-age pension plan for Minnesota was approved Tuesday by the House appropriations committee as it indorsed a bill carrying an appropriation of $1,500,000 for that purpose.

Effective July 1, if the Legislature enacts it into law, the bill anticipates extension of Federal aid for the security plan, and provides for maximum benefits of $30 a month to all approved applicants over 65 years old. The bill was built around the measure introduced in the House by Representative H. H. Barker of Elbow Lake.

The State Board of Control is made the supervising agency for the pension plan. Commissioner boards of each county are required under the proposed act to supply such pensions, cost of which will be paid half by the county and half by the state.

Any Federal aid allocated the state for the old age pensions will be pro-rated equally between state and counties.

Residence in Minnesota for five years or more within the nine years immediately preceding application for a pension would be required under the bill.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE OF EIGHT TEAMS FORMED MONDAY

Playing Season Scheduled to Open May 13, Messenger States

A Thief River Falls softball league consisting of eight teams was organized at a meeting Monday evening in the Civic and Commerce association rooms under the direction of J. G. Messenger, district director of the ERA recreation and leisure time department. The playing season will open Monday, May 13.

Teams entered include the Thief River Grocery, Ford, Land O'Lakes, Bill's Eat Shop, Bridgeman, Hartz, Al's Coffee Shop and Barzen. The two last-named teams take the place of the Hamiltons and Viking aggregations which were in the field last season.

Mr. Messenger announced that all teams must be registered by next Tuesday, April 23, and must have at least 13 players registered by May 1, with a maximum of 16 players permitted. Games will comprise seven innings, while four innings will constitute a game if called for any reason. All games will be called at 7 o'clock.

W. C. Fields at Avalon Sunday in "Mississippi"

Bing Crosby, W. C. Fields and Joan Bennett, respectively representing song, comedy and beauty, vie for honors in the musical film "Mississippi", which comes to the Avalon theatre Sunday and Monday. Others in the cast of the play, which deals with the old South in the days of crinoline, are Gail Patrick, Queenie Smith, Claude Gillingwater, John Miljan, Fred Kohler and the singing Cabin Kids. Miss Patrick plays the role of a girl who jilts Crosby when he refuses to duel for her love, and tries to win him back when he develops into the dueling terror of the river under the fatherly care of Fields, the blustering and lovable river captain.

Food Stores in City to Stay Closed Good Friday During Hours of 12 to 3

Members of the Retail Food Merchants association of Thief River Falls will close their places of business Good Friday between the hours of 12 noon and 3 o'clock, it was announced following a recent meeting of the organization. The court house and city offices, as well as the Carnegie public library will remain closed all day. The usual services will be maintained at the postoffice tomorrow, Postmaster Andrew Anderson announced.

GREAT NORTHERN WILL ARRIVE HERE AT 10 IN MORNING

Mail Service to be Improved by Change Effective Next Monday

The local postoffice was notified Wednesday by W. E. Baker, Great Northern agent here, that effective next Monday the Great Northern train from Crookston will arrive in this city at 10:01 in the morning instead of at 12:13 as at present.

The change in schedule will be of material benefit to local business places, Postmaster Andrew Anderson said, in that it will permit the morning distribution of mail sent from the Twin Cities late the preceding afternoon. It will also make possible the distribution of mail to postoffice boxes during the relatively slack morning hours.

The altered schedule will also be of special benefit to mail patrons in towns along the Great Northern north of this city, it was pointed out, these communities having led in the agitation for improved mail service.

Beginning Monday northbound mail must be in the postoffice before 9:30 in the morning in order to make connections with the train on its new schedule, Postmaster Anderson stated. No change will be made in the southbound schedule.

WORKMEN'S GROUP OPPOSES SALE TAX IN RESOLUTIONS

Rev. Cooke and Father Montgomery Talk at Meeting Monday Night

The Workman's Protective association at a meeting Monday evening adopted a resolution opposing the proposed sales tax now up for consideration in the legislature, declaring that it would throw nearly the entire burden of taxation on the consuming public of the state.

The resolution also urged increases in the money and credits tax, iron ore tax, railroad gross earnings tax, net income tax, and inheritance and gift taxes.

Rev. E. A. Cooke, addressing the meeting, declared that President Roosevelt's recovery program cannot be carried on continually on borrowed money, raising the question of who is to foot the bill. The one and only solution, he said, is to distribute profits directly to the worker and not thru the government.

Father Thomas J. Montgomery, another speaker, stated that the present unemployment problem is not the fault of the machine but of the misuse of the profit system. We must take the surplus out of the manufacturers' hands, he said, and give it to the worker, dividing the work among all so that they can get employment at a just wage. This is not socialism, he said; it is Christianity.

The next meeting of the association will be held Monday evening at 7:30 in the court room at the court house, President William J. Dugalla announced.

9,200 Cattle Tested to Date for Bangs Disease

Dr. I. R. Twete, in charge of the Bangs disease test now being conducted under federal supervision among Pennington county dairy herds, reported today that the test will be completed in about a month. A total of 9,200 cattle have been tested to date, with 90 herds remaining to test in the eastern part of the county and other scattered localities. Approximately ten per cent of the animals reacted and have been shipped out, these bringing a $20 premium in addition to the market value.

Shipping Association Markets Steer for $133

A steer consigned by Christ Nelson, living northeast of the city, last week netted $133 when marketed at South St. Paul by the Thief River Falls Livestock Shipping association, Nelson Brothers, managers, announced this week. This figure is believed to set a new high mark for one animal, and reflects the improved quotations in the livestock markets.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES WILL USHER EASTER

Exercises to be Conducted at Auditorium Tomorrow at 1:30 O'clock

REV. E. L. TUNGSETH WILL BE IN CHARGE

Special Services Arranged for Easter Sunday in Local Churches

As a prelude to Easter Sunday, April 21, the Zion, Trinity and Augustana Lutheran churches, in accordance with their annual custom, jointly will sponsor Good Friday services in the city Auditorium tomorrow at 1:30. Numerous local business places will be closed during the services. The Lenten season will reach its climax Sunday when special services will be held in local churches.

"The message of Calvary" has been designated as the theme of the Good Friday services, which will be conducted under the direction of Rev. E. L. Tungseth, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, with Miss Helen Newberry as organist.

Brief sermons will be delivered by Rev. R. M. Fjelstad, who will discuss "Calvary—A Message of Love"; Rev. H. L. Sjogren, whose topic will be "Calvary—A Message of Sacrifice"; and Rev. P. K. L. Buckle, who will talk on "Calvary—A Message of Salvation."

Reverend Sjogren will give the scripture reading and opening prayer and Reverend Fjelstad will give the closing prayer, while song selections will be given by groups representing each of the three hymns.

For Easter Sunday Trinity Lutheran church has scheduled festival services in English and Norwegian at 10:30 in the morning, with evening services at 8 o'clock. A sunrise service in English will be held in Zion Lutheran church Sunday morning at 7 o'clock, followed by Norwegian services at 10:30. The Augustana Lutheran church will conduct sunrise services at 6 o'clock Sunday morning and a vesper service at 8 in the evening.

The Community church will hold early services with special music Easter morning at 7 o'clock, with regular services at 11 o'clock, while St. John's Lutheran church will conduct Easter services in the English language Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

TRUCK COMPANY REPRESENTATIVES ADDRESS C. AND C.

Hearing on New Lines to be Conducted at Crookston May 2

Arthur Elsholtz of the Elsholtz truck lines and Mr. Ryan, representing the Janke line, appeared at the Civic and Commerce association at its meeting last Thursday and told of new truck lines which they propose to serve this community. A hearing on the proposals will be conducted by the railroad and warehouse commission at the court house in Crookston May 2 at 10 o'clock in the morning.

After recounting the history of his company, Mr. Elsholtz outlined plans for trucking service from this city to towns north of Warren and south to the Twin Cities by way of Erskine, McIntosh, Bagley and other towns. Mr. Ryan proposed a line from this city to Crookston. The matter was referred to the board of directors of the association for consideration.

Robert D. Brown, field representative of the federal housing administration, outlined the campaign for home improvement and modernization being conducted under the direction of Fred Schilplin, state director. The aim, he said, is to put men and money back to work, thus stimulating the building trades, the nation's second largest industry. Details of a local campaign were left in the hands of the board of directors.

Reminds Dog Owners to Get Licenses This Month

Local owners of dogs are required to procure licenses for their canines not later than April 30, City Clerk P. G. Pederson stated this week, adding that it will be the duty of the poundmaster to pick up all unlicensed dogs after May 1.

A grand total of one license had been issued up to the first of the week, the distinction of being first to make payment going to Postmaster Andrew Anderson. The fee is $2 for male dogs and $6 for females.

RELIEF COSTS IN COUNTY DECLINE IN PAST MONTH

Total Expenditures of Local Office Amounted to $5,684.97

Tapering off of the winter relief load in Pennington county is revealed in the March report of Mrs. Trudie King, county relief worker, showing total disbursements for the month of $5,684.97. This figure compares with expenditures of $6,282 in February.

A total of 216 families including 1,044 persons were on relief in the county last month in addition to 39 single persons. Of the total 146 cases were in Thief River Falls, 58 in the rural areas and 11 in Goodridge and St. Hilaire. An aggregate of 72 families were on work relief, while 144 were on direct relief.

During the month the local office received a large variety of commodities for distribution to clients, the major items being 5,605 pounds of fresh beef and 819 pounds of canned beef.

SOLONS VOTE FOR ENLARGED STATE HIGHWAY PATROL

Increase Group to 100 Men, Giving Patrolmen Full Police Powers

Minnesota legislators approved additional physical weapons for warfare against organized crime Monday, when the house voted to increase the state highway patrol to 100 men and gave them full police powers on the highway despite the vehement objection of labor members.

The senate bill, which was amended to increase the highway patrol from 70 to 100 members, weathered the onslaught of spokesmen of labor who declared it would create a state police force, and was passed by a vote of 86 to 30.

The companion house bill originally specified a total of 115 men but the senate measure specified 70, until amended by the proposal of Representative Warren Hastings of Two Harbors to increase the personnel to a maximum of 100 men.

Representatives William Bennett and Roy Wier, both of Minneapolis, declared the bill would permit use of the highway patrol against farmers who might engage in peaceful picketing although the measure contains a provision that the patrol shall not be used in strikes or industrial disputes. Representative Wier attempted to amend the measure to specify an exemption of farmers' disputes but the proposal was defeated.

County Farmers Can Get Black Amber Cane Seed From State, Quist Says

Game Warden Walter H. Quist was advised today by the department of conservation that ten pound lots of black amber cane seed are available to Pennington county farmers who will plant the seed, and, after cutting the crop, will let the cane stand in the field until the snow leaves next spring as a means of providing winter feed for birds. The value of the crop as livestock fodder will not be impaired by this method of handling, it was stated. Any local farmer interested in getting a supply are asked to communicate with Warden Quist at once, as only a limited supply is available.

Foresters to Organize District Group Monday

For the purpose of forming a district organization a joint session of courts of the Catholic Order of Foresters in this section of the state will be held in the club rooms in this city Monday evening, April 22, at 8 o'clock. Courts to be represented at the meeting include Red Lake Falls, Brooks, Gentilly, Argyle, Stephen, Waubun, Mahnomen and Detroit Lakes. Dr. J. A. Roy of Red Lake Falls, state vice chief ranger, will be the principal speaker.

PAULSON REPORTS ON THE FINANCIAL SUCCESS OF SHOW

Money to be Used by Legion to Finance Community Projects

In a preliminary report on the financial outcome of the spring exposition staged recently at the Auditorium, General Chairman O. C. Paulson Friday evening informed members of the local American Legion post, sponsor of the event, that a highly satisfactory balance would remain in the post treasury after all expenses have been paid. The proceeds will be used to finance one or more of several community projects now under consideration by the post. At the meeting Commander H. P. Orwoll was authorized to appoint a committee to make arrangements for the observance of Decoration day May 30. S. C. Olson, a member of the post, was declared to be high man in the post membership contest recently completed, and was presented with a pocket knife bearing the Legion insignia.

Schedule of Bowling League Ends With Land O'Lakes Team Winners

In a final flourish marking the end of the local league bowling season, the Times team, consistent holders of the cellar position, last Thursday evening won three games in a row from the Elofsons, Harold Olson, 199, and Elmer Helquist, 172, being high men. The preceding evening the Bratrud Clinics took two out of three from the Live Power team, John Jaranson and Morris Jaranson leading the scoring with 182 points each. The season's schedule closed with the Land O'Lakes firmly entrenched in first place with a margin of 55 points.

Assessors School to be Conducted Here April 26

Township assessors from thruout Pennington county are being notified to attend an assessors' school of instruction in the court room at the court house Friday, April 26, at 10 o'clock, at which time recent changes in laws governing the work will be outlined. The school will be conducted by County Auditor Harry L. Fowler, acting at the request of the state tax commission.

150 Applications for Seed Loans Are Filed

A total of 150 applications for federal seed loans had been filed by county farmers up to the first of the week in the office of County Agent R. M. Douglass. Approximately 100 have been forwarded to date, some of the remaining number being held up pending the securing of waivers by renters.

Novel "Factory" is Now Operating in This City

A new manufacturing industry that has developed in this city during the past ten days consists of a "putter" shop located in the warming house at the community skating rink. Operated by boys in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades of the local schools under the supervision of J. G. Messenger, the products include kites, boats, airplanes and toys. The place has been a hive of industry during the current Easter vacation, Mr. Messenger reports.

COUNCIL TALKS OVER PROJECTS TO MAKE WORK

Adopt Resolution Designed to Clear up Status of Two Projects

APPEAL DIRECTLY TO L. P. ZIMMERMAN

Light Rate Committee Will Meet With Council Next Tuesday Night

The city council at an adjourned meeting Monday evening adopted a resolution appealing to L. P. Zimmerman, acting SERA administrator in Minnesota, to order the assignment of relief labor for the Markley av. water main project and the park improvement on the block including the community skating rink.

Action followed a statement by Gilbert Fabrish, assistant in the office of H. I. Frisbie, district ERA engineer, that Mr. Frisbie would authorize the assignment of men on no further relief projects until the council has paid bills incurred in connection with the construction up Red Lake river last fall of a mess hall for the CCC camp stationed there.

In the discussion members stated flatly that the bills in connection with the project had never been authorized by the council, and to substantiate their statement pointed out that the bills had been first presented to CCC headquarters at Fergus Falls, where they were rejected, altho other similar bills in connection with the undertaking had been paid in that manner.

Earlier in the evening council members discussed proposed changes in the local schedule of electricity rates, others sharing in the debate being Mayor Frank Rishal, Paul Lundgren and W. H. Mann of committees appointed to make a study of the situation. It was agreed that the full committee should meet with the council next Tuesday and be prepared to submit a report.

Alderman M. T. McFarland advocated a revision of rates rather than a straight reduction. While conceding that light rates are too high, he contended that local rates for heat and power are, if anything, too low. The need of additional facilities in the power plant also came up for consideration, and some difference of opinion was expressed as to whether one large or two small units should be added. It was indicated that the proposal would be submitted to a popular vote before any definite action is taken.

City Attorney Theodore Quale was instructed to proceed at once to acquire for the city the property of the Northern Trading company south of the Auditorium, now under condemnation, rather than to wait for the matter to be disposed of at the October term of court.

CAST FOR SENIOR PLAY IS SELECTED BY MISS EDBERG

"Tons of Money" Will be Presented in Auditorium Friday, May 17.

The cast for the senior play "Tons of Money", which will be presented at the city Auditorium, May 17, has been selected by the director, Miss Victoria Edberg. Rehearsals, which were begun before Easter vacation, will be resumed after school is reopened following the ten day holiday period.

Included in the cast are four persons who played in both last year's junior class play and the senior one-act plays presented in the earlier part of the school year. These are Kathleen Monsebroten, Kendall Gustafson, Marvin Lindberg and Jerome Havel.

The senior play, a three-act comedy will feature Adele Holmstrom as Louise Allington; Kendall Gustafson and Marvin Lindberg as Aubrey Allington and Henery (which of the two will play Aubrey and which will play Henery has not yet been decided); Theodore Quale as Chesterman; Don Hermanson as George Maitland; Kathleen Monsebroten as Cousin Jean; Jerome Havel as Sprules; Dorothy Rau as Miss Mullett; Ethel Kivle as Simpson; and Arnt Wold as Giles.

H. A. Brumunds Return From Florida Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brumund returned Saturday evening from a two months sojourn in West Palm Beach, Florida, making a leisurely return trip by way of Savannah, Charleston, Richmond and Washington, D. C. While visiting the halls of Congress in the national capital they heard Congressman Theodore Christianson speak in the lower house and Senator Huey Long in the senate. Washington, Mr. Brumund said, was as crowded with tourists as was Florida.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

Upside down is right side up for the liquor glass in the hands of the cultured and courteous person. Liquor attacks the brain before the body. Our minds get drunk and wobble before our legs do. Alcoholized mental apparatus plays nasty tricks. A drinking person will make rude and uncouth remarks, get very personal in conversation, violate good etiquette. An alcohol drinker talks loudly and coarsely. He tries to be funny, but his efforts are usually pitiable instead of humorous. He likes to attract attention. He lolls over his lady and men friends. He often slobbers in a disgusting fashion. Many a time a heavy drinker will feel sick and vomit wherever he happens to be, in a street car or train, on the sidewalk, or in the living room of a friend's home. Alcohol drives out self-control. Politeness, courtesy, chivalry disappear when liquor arrives on the scene. Watch a heavy drinker the next time you are forced to, and check the truth of these statements.

School Trustees Asked to Renew Library Contracts

School trustees wishing to sign contracts for book service with the Carnegie public library for the coming year, should do so as soon as possible Mrs. Hazel Halgrim, librarian, announced today. Contracts now in effect carry over unless three months notice is given.

Reasonably accurate knowledge of districts to be served is essential, many weeks in advance, if the best service for all is to be guaranteed when the schools open next September, Mrs. Halgrim said. Because the work in this department is constantly increasing, co-operation in this matter will be appreciated. There are now thirty-one members. All of these interviewed have expressed complete satisfaction and their intentions of continuing their contracts.

Wheat Growers to Vote on Extending Contracts

Wheat growers of the northwest will vote by townships and communities on a plan to end federal wheat production control this year or continue it for an additional four years, it was disclosed Friday in St. Paul.

The nation wide referendum, announced at Washington, will proceed on the same basis as similar votes taken in the past, according to William A. Peters, crop specialist at the University Farm and associate of Professor Andrew Boss, who has headed production control work in Minnesota.

A series of educational meetings to inform wheat producers fully of results of the AAA wheat acreage reduction efforts in the past and of the proposed four year program, will precede the vote.

Light Rate in Detroit Lakes Cut to 4c KWH

Acting upon a recommendation of the water and light commission, the Detroit Lakes city council slashed light and power rates at a special meeting in the city hall Monday night says the Detroit Lakes Tribune.

City light rates were cut to 4 cents per kilowatt hour. Previously they were 5c for the first 200 kilowatt hours and 4c for over that amount. The new rate affects a majority of the users. Power rates in town were slashed from 3½c to 3c for the first 2,000 kilowatt hours. The rate is 2½c for all over 2,000. Electric cooking rates remain the same. They are 2½ cents.

Light rates outside the city limits were backed from 10c to 8c. Power prices were cut from 5c to 4c for the first 2,000. All over 2,000 is 3½c. The rates are effective May 1.

Patrol Urges More Care By School Bus Drivers

Members of the state highway patrol have received several reports recently of Minnesota school bus drivers failing to stop their vehicles at railroad crossings, J. P. Arnoldy, patrol chief, announced this week. "The Maryland disaster where fourteen children were killed because their bus driver drove in front of a train should serve as fresh warning to all school authorities to see that their bus drivers strictly observe the regulations for full stops at grade crossings," Arnoldy said.

LIVES ON SAME FARM 70 YEARS

St. Cloud.—Seventy years on the same farm is the record hung up by Henry A. Wiegand, Clearwater township resident, who died last week. Mr. Wiegand was born in the east 82 years ago, coming to Wright county in 1865, at the end of the Civil war, and remaining on the same homestead ever since. He was a substantial farmer, content with operating his farm and taking an interest in his community and church. He had been ill for the last year.

BASKETBALL EXPERT SETS A NEW RECORD

Alexandria.—Wilfred Hetzel has carried the name of Alexandria to half a dozen states and given basketball fans something to think about during the last few weeks. Touring the country via the hitch-hike route, Hetzel has given exhibitions of his free-throwing ability between halves of basketball games in larger cities. At Omaha he made what he claims is a world record by sinking 69 straight shots from the free throw line standing on one foot. At Sioux City, after making a run of 31 straight shots, he tossed eight consecutive one-handed shots. His best record on the trip was made at St. Louis, where he dropped in 127 shots without a miss. Hetzel covered 5400 miles on his trip in one month.

State Medical Group Offers Suggestions as to Healthful Diet

People are not always well just because they are not actually ill. The state of being half-well is often the direct result of faulty diet, according to a bulletin issued today by the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association.

"Diet is popular topic of conversation these days. Those who talk the most generally know the least about it", according to the bulletin, "And they are generally the very people who fall victim to fad-diets."

The net result of all of the talk as well as the exploitation in advertising of vitamins and calories and carbohydrates and calcium has been to persuade sensible people to drop all attention to diet.

The fact remains, according to the doctors, that diet is important. But the diet necessary to keep people from being only half well needs no weighing or measuring nor unpleasant routine and no nutritionist's knowledge of the place of calcium in the body economy.

Many of the half-well people who are not suffering from any specific organic ailment simply need to be sure that they drink plenty of milk; eat plenty of cooked and uncooked vegetables and fruit. Of course, they need plenty of sleep and a moderate amount of exercise, too. But their dietary difficulties including the modern bogey "acidosis" can be very simply solved. All of these foods provide the necessary alkaline material to keep up the alkaline balance of the body. Also they provide necessary vitamins and mineral salts.

The "half-well" people are also warned not to nibble all round the clock. Eating just to be doing something is especially frowned upon by the doctors.

"Back to Land" Trend Shown by Recent Sales

Sales conducted by the Department of Conservation since the first day of April indicate clearly the "back-to-land" trend. State trust fund, school, swamp and other lands belonging to the state were offered at public auction in 15 northern counties of Minnesota, beginning April 1. This resulted in the sale of 15,166 acres at an average price of a little less than $8.00 per acre. Fifteen per cent of the purchase price was paid in cash. Practically everybody that appeared at this sale was a farmer who desired to enlarge his holdings or to secure a home in northern Minnesota. The bidding for lands showed an excess of more than 7% above the appraised price of the land. There are six additional counties in which state lands will be sold.

THE BOARD IS DOING WELL

This is the season of the year when the county board is besieged with requests for new roads. It might be well, therefore, to call attention to the fact that in recent years the county has done well in handling its road problem. Not only have expenditures been limited to available funds but a substantial reduction has also been made in the road fund indebtedness. It is well to keep this in mind. In the nature of things the board cannot grant all the requests that are made for road improvements if the present sound financial policy is to be continued. All of the roads cannot be built at once. Some will have to wait. And as long as the board has proven the sincerity of its promise to put the county in a strong financial condition again, those who are interested in particular projects should make a special effort to be patient if results are not obtainable as quickly as they would like.

Right now, for instance, there is much merit to the argument of those who hold that no new roads should be constructed in the county until all old projects have been completed. At the present time there are some over fifty miles of new construction that are going to pieces because they have never been gravelled. If we are correctly informed some of these roads are now four years old and have already deteriorated a great deal because of the impossibility of properly maintaining them. And it seems reasonable that if a new grade is not gravelled and properly maintained then much of the original cost is wasted.

This is one of the difficulties which now confronts the board in arranging its road building program for the summer. If, in the interests of the county as a whole, the board decides it is good business to gravel grades already constructed before building new grades, the commissioners should not be criticised for delaying projects which, though needed, are as yet beyond our means.

While the council probably could have selected others for the office of mayor who are better known in Thief River Falls than Frank Rinkel, it is doubtful that they could have found anyone better qualified than he to serve as the diplomatic head of the city. His best recommendation is the fact that those who know him the best like him the most. As a director of the Civic & Commerce Association for several years and as chairman of the road committee of that organization, he has taken an active part as a private citizen in the affairs of the city. A quiet and unassuming worker, he deserves much credit for the progress that has been made in recent years in securing recognition of our road needs from the state highway department. While we hesitate in congratulating Mr. Rinkel upon an honor that will mean much work, many disagreeable situations and little or no compensation, we do congratulate the city on being able to secure a man of his qualifications to accept the responsibilities of the office of mayor. We know that as he goes along he will make friends not only for himself but for the city as well. And, after all, that's about all any mayor can do.

To say there has been a brisk movement of land in the county during the past two months would be to state the facts rather mildly. County Auditor Fowler reports substantial receipts from delinquent tax settlements since the first of March and these settlements are largely due to land sales. Bargains are being snapped up. Sale of twenty-five pieces of land by the state in its recent school land sale was a good indication of the interest among buyers. In other years such sales would attract but two or three curiosity seekers. All of which is a most encouraging thing. More land back on the tax lists is one mighty effective way of reducing taxes, which in turn will tend to further reduce delinquency.

Detroit Lakes made another slash in its light and power rates this week. Light rates were cut from five to four cents in the first step while power was reduced from three and one-half to three. Our neighboring city must find rate reduction justifiable from every standpoint. They ought to know. They have made several reductions in recent years.

This is the season of the year when it is excusable to be unreasonable in our demands on the weather man. The season is a little backward of course. Everyone seems to be agreed on that. But other seasons have been backward too and yet there was a harvest. There still is plenty of time to grow a good crop. The lilacs aren't due to bloom until the latter part of May. We had an exceptionally fine winter so let's be patient with the weather man for a little while yet.

For twenty-eight years Bill Parbst has kept a daily record of his personal experiences, expenditures and income. His diary should come close to qualifying as a record record. When we asked him the natural question about the truthfulness of his notes he assured us that some it was written in code.

We have heard legislators boast of perfect voting records but a visit to the state capitol last week, and an opportunity to listen to a portion of the debate on a proposed amendment to a proposed amendment to a proposed amendment to a proposed bill, set up a serious doubt in our mind as to the possibility of anyone being able to vote right on all the balloting that is required in an entire session. When a bill comes out of committee opponents start sniping at it in an effort to cripple it or kill it off entirely. Some of the amendments offered on the floor probably have merit. Most of them are offered for the purpose of hamstringing the proposed legislation. Under such a situation it is easy to understand why party organization is so essential to intelligent action. Without party organization little could be accomplished. And in view of the fact that party organization is so essential in a law making body, it seems rather strange that we should be so reluctant about electing our representatives by party designation. It is just another one of those absurd things in our political arrangement that is the result of emotional appeal rather than reason.

The proposal to reduce the size of our legislature would have some merit if by reducing the size we could improve the quality. But there is no reason to believe that the quality would be improved by a mere reduction in numbers. The average would still be approximately the same and the results probably would not be different. In fairness to our law makers, most of them undoubtedly are both honest and sincere and, considering the difficulties of the problems they are expected to solve, probably do a better job than they are generally given credit for.

NEARING THE LIMIT
(Rock County Herald)

Another striking example of the queer mental convolutions which must afflict the brain trusters who are directing the affairs of the Nation, is given this week in the announcement of completion of plans by the federal government to move a large number of families from farms in Northern Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan to the wilds of Alaska, where they will be established under sponsorship of the government. Large tracts of land have been purchased by the government, and 40 acres will be allotted to each family. The government will also finance the construction of buildings and the purchase of livestock and equipment.

Moving farmers from Northern Minnesota, where there are hundreds of thousands of acres of fertile land, accessible to schools, good roads and markets, to the wilds of Alaska, may be in keeping with the general plan of rehabilitation as formulated by the Brain Trust, and presumably appears sound to the promoters. But to everybody else it must appear as the ultimate in ridiculousness, exceeding, even the fantastic scheme of planting a hundred mile wide belt of trees from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico, to keep the winds from blowing.

The families from Minnesota—67 of them—are to be taken from the counties of Pine, Carlton, Itasca, Koochiching, Beltrami, Lake of the Woods, Cass, Mille Lacs and Kanabec, in nearly all of which the residents take great pride in their agricultural opportunities, and in the normally abundant rainfall they enjoy.

But the peculiarity of the government's action does not end there. It will be recalled that the government is now engaged in establishing community settlements in Itasca and other Northern Minnesota counties, taking families from the cities and putting them on farm plots where they are expected to work out their salvation. Can anyone imagine the cross currents of mental process which induces the government to open agricultural settlements in Northern Minnesota counties with one hand, and with the other hand to move farmers from these same counties to Alaska to establish agricultural communities there?

These are called government projects, but it must be remembered that it is the people who are paying the costs. The government finances them out of tax money taken from the public, and the chances are that at least the families sent to Alaska will become wards of the government for the duration of their stay there.

In all fairness, however, entire blame should not be placed upon the Administration. It should be remembered that it is congress that has voted the money for all the visionary experiments that are being launched. It is true that congress has blindly voted the billions upon billions of dollars asked for by the Administration, but this does not relieve it of its responsibility.

"THOU SHALT NOT KILL."
(Industrial News Review)

Last year the American people established one unenviable record. More people were killed and injured in automobile accidents than ever before.

The Travelers Insurance Company has analyzed the record in a graphic, illustrated booklet entitled "Thou Shalt Not Kill." It shows that the fatality total was around 36,000—and the injury total near the million mark. It is a fact that automobile registrations increased last year, as compared with 1933—but they increased but six per cent, as did gasoline consumption, while the death record soared 16 per cent.

The main reason for that ghastly record is excessive speed. Speed is not only responsible for the bulk of accidents—it also tends to make the consequences of each accident more serious. A heavy foot on the accelerator is the best friend that the Dark Angel has.

Last year, automobiles struck 337,000 pedestrians—and 16,000 died. There were 381,000 accidents in which two cars collided—resulting in the death of 8,500 people. Four thousand were killed as the result of cars striking fixed objects—and 1,100 perished in accidents involving cars and trains—a type of accident which is almost invariably the fault of the motorist.

Drivers who speed in improper places, who drive on the wrong side of the road, who usurp the right-of-way, who pass on hills and curves, who fail to give proper signals and who are otherwise reckless, menace the life, health and property of every American citizen. Are we to continue to permit such drivers to make a shambles of the public streets and highways?

MANY LITTLE MAKES A LOT

The gasoline sales tax during the ten years it has existed in Minnesota has painlessly extracted eighty million dollars from the people's pocket books and there has not been any noticeable holler. We concentrated the sales tax on this one commodity, imposed a tax rate that is terrific. Now we most all object to extending the sales tax principle, at a much lower rate, to other commodities. Nobody rebelled because of the gasoline tax. Neither will they at other sales taxes, give 'em time to get used to 'em. The sales tax fits in nicely with the great American easy payment plan, a little dab at a time but a lot in the long run, and you didn't realize that you had paid it.

Capitol News Review
By A. I. Harris

The system of "special orders" provides one of the most convenient methods of killing bills. At this late date, bills coming up in the regular order of business have very little chance of being acted upon. Two-thirds majority is necessary to place a bill before either House as a special order. Reactionaries can therefore kill legislation they oppose simply by preventing a two-thirds majority. In thus preventing a measure from coming to a final vote, they can save their own reputations and at the same time keep beneficial legislation at the bottom of the heap.

Harry H. Peterson, attorney general, is back in the State Capitol after spending several days before the United States Supreme Court in Washington arguing the constitutionality of the Frazier-Lemke bill. He assisted William Lemke, North Dakota co-author of the measure, before the court. The decision will not be known for a month at least, it is estimated.

A livestock weighing and grading bill was passed by the House last week by a vote of 98 to 23. The bill requires state supervision of all packing or concentration points in the state handling 250 or more head of livestock per day. More opposition is expected when the bill reaches the heavily conservative Senate.

A House sub-committee is still working on an old age pension bill. Representative Barker, who introduced a pension bill early in the session, will amend his proposal to require the state and federal governments to bear the entire expense since most counties would be unable to finance their share. Under the Barker plan, about 50,000 persons over 65 would be entitled to receive $15 per month.

So far the 1935 income of the office of David R. Arundel, state liquor control commissioner, is $132,000 in total receipts ahead of the same date last year. The total collected to April 1 almost hit $800,000. This rate means that, as in 1934, the control office will collect revenue to exceed legislative expectations. Recently the office broke up a ring of whisky counterfeiters in the Twin Cities and it is such action which brings much liquor revenue into the state treasury which otherwise would have escaped through bootleg channels.

The criminal apprehension bureau does not at present have its own broadcasting station like some states, but through the courtesy of KSTP and WCCO, commercial stations, it is not entirely without the service of the radio. All the bureau's operatives carry radios in their cars and when on duty out in the state are reached through the Twin City stations. Mr. Passolt of the bureau says that this courtesy has saved the state a great deal of money in travel charges and has expedited the capture of many dangerous criminals. The bureau also uses the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth police radios when necessary.

In some states when pickets appear, whether belligerent or peaceful, they are usually met by a reception committee of police or the military. In Minnesota, however, it's different. When unemployed workers picketed the Capitol last week urging the passage of the unemployment bill, House file 120, the Governor called them in and asked the whole sixty if they had money for food during the day. It developed that the majority did not. "Well," the Governor said, "have dinner on me." He dug down in his own pocket and paid for the meal, which, incidently, was eaten in the "elaborate" dining room with which the Senate investigating committee was so concerned.

A liberal-sponsored bill providing for state cooperative banks was virtually killed by the House banking committee when the authors were asked to redraft it. At this stage of the session it means that the bill is dead.

The first hearing of the Senate Committee on education to determine the fitness of three of the Governor's appointees on the board of education was held last week. Although no evidence of "communism" or "subversive activity" was unearthed, it was plain that the conservative senators are determined to force changes in the makeup of the board.

Mrs. Marion LeSueur of Minneapolis said she regretted the fact that none of the red baiters who toured the state last fall had seen fit to appear at the hearing to make their accusations, particularly the Rev. Alfred Crombie, who was unable to be present due to the fact that he is now serving a term for forgery at Stillwater.

Mrs. LeSueur assured the committee that she was not a communist nor a member of the socialist party, but that she advocated a program of education that would restore America to what it once was—the land of opportunity. She said she saw no reason why educators should not be "in politics" if such activity enabled them to introduce teaching methods abreast of the times.

The omnibus tax bill is encountering strong opposition from business interests whose products would be subjected to the "luxury taxes." At a public hearing last week theatre owners, representatives of tobacco companies, hardware men, and others stated their opposition to the provisions of the bill. It also developed last week that a proposed amendment to the omnibus bill would cancel the provision earmarking the revenue from the net income tax for the school fund and place it in the general revenue fund. Educational groups throughout the state are organizing against this attempt to cripple education for the benefit of large property owners.

Do you worry about being kidnaped? Are you fearful that you will suffer from a lapse of memory? If so you had better pay a call at the State Criminal Apprehension Bureau on your next trip to St. Paul and have your fingerprints taken. Melvin Passolt, bureau chief, announces that the public is welcome to have the whorls and lines in their thumbs and fingers recorded gratis. These will be kept in the state bureau and in the personal identification division at the national capital. It is a service inaugurated for the benefit of anyone who someday for personal, commercial or civic reasons might require such indisputable identification. The prints are kept separate from the criminal records.

Soil conditions in the northern sections of the state are better than they have been in a number of years, the Rural Credits Bureau, which keeps its eye on such things, reports. It is said that the Red River Valley country is in even better shape than it was at this time last year. What happens when farmers have a crop and receive prices somewhat commensurate with the cost of production was shown by the Credit Bureau's last year's records of receipts from the Red River Valley. Farmers pay their bills when they have it.

Chicago-Twin City Train Sets New Speed Record

In a test run from Chicago to St. Paul Saturday, one of the Twin Zephs of the Burlington road is believed to have set a record in railway speed for the midwest. Starting at Chicago, the Zephyr reached St. Paul in 6 hours and 33 minutes, averaging 77.5 miles per hour, including two stops. The complete round trip was made in 12 hours, 3 minutes, only slightly more than the normal one-way run between the two points. The top speed was 104 miles an hour between Dubuque and Prairie du Chien, Wis.

Thieves with less than the average conscience have been stealing red lanterns placed by the village of Baudette at excavations on the street.

SO. ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK
(By U. S. Department of Agricultural Economics and Minnesota Department of Agriculture)

South St. Paul, Minn., April 15, 1935 (U.S.D.A.): Most livestock sold lower at the week's opening, bids and sales of slaughter cattle being weak to 25c lower, vealers 50c-$1.00 lower. Medium to good mixed yearlings earned $8.50-10.50, a few good to choice grainfeds earning $11.00-13.00. Medium to good heifers brought $8.00-10.00, common down to $6.00, most beef cows $5.00-7.00, cutters and low cutters $3.25-4.75, common to medium bulls $4.75-5.75, beef bulls $6.00-6.50. Medium to good-light vealers brought $5.50-7.00, choice $7.50 or better, culls down to $3.00. Medium to good stocker steers earned $6.00-7.50, common down to $5.00 or under.

Hog trade was unevenly 10-25c lower, better 180-300 lb. $8.65-8.75, most 300-350 lb. $8.50-8.65, good to choice 140-170 lb. $8.25-8.65, desirable pigs $7.75-8.00, good sows $7.00 to mostly $8.00.

Lambs opened 25c lower, odd lots good wooled natives $7.50, most fed lambs being held around $8.00 or better. Good to choice wooled ewes brought $4.00-5.00.

New Ulm.—If you must have a fire, at least be courteous about it. That was the philosophy of Ray Munsell, Franklin farmer, when his cattle truck started burning on Minnesota street late Wednesday morning. Horn screaming and smoke belching from canvass bags in the rear of the truck, Munsell drove his vehicle right up to the fire station where the flame was put out by a fire extinguisher brought from a nearby store. The firemen didn't even know about it.

WOMAN SHERIFF DEFIES HOLIDAY ASSOCIATION

Morris. — What this country needs is more women sheriffs! That should be the philosophy of mortgage holders who want to foreclose, anyway, after Mrs. Helen Ryan, Stevens county sheriff, gave proof that a pack of simple "men-folks" can't bluff a woman. Called to conduct a farm foreclosure sale, Mrs. Ryan found the hall of the court house packed to capacity with an assembly of members of the Farmers' Holiday association. When they made known their plans to stop the sale, Mrs. Ryan promptly told them to mind their own business, and proceeded with her duties. No resistance was offered when it was found Mrs. Ryan called their bluff. In fact, the men were a little nonplussed, and didn't see what they could do about it.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Thief River Falls, Minnesota

The City Council of the City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, met in regular session in the Council Chambers in the Auditorium and Municipal building on April 8, 1935. The meeting was called to order at eight o'clock P. M. with all members present.

Minutes of the meeting of March 20th were read and were declared as approved.

O. C. Paulson appeared before the Board and thanked the members for their cooperation and help during the presentation of the Spring Exposition sponsored by the American Legion Post of the City and also recommended that there be an additional stair installed on the north side of the building leading out from the large ramp door in order that it might be possible to provide additional means of exit for large crowds as were present during the Exposition. He also, as a member of the Park Board requested an additional appropriation of $200.00 for additional labor in the proposed landscaping of Block 38 of the Original Townsite. A motion was made by Alderman McFarland that $200.00 be appropriated for this additional labor as requested. The motion was seconded by Alderman Christofferson and carried unanimously.

Leonard Hanson, Chief of the Fire Department, appeared before the council and requested the use of a room in the City Auditorium to be known as the Fire Department Room. The matter was referred to the Building Committee for investigation and report.

John Jaranson, Street Commissioner, reported to the Council that the International Truck now in use by the department was in poor condition and should be replaced. Alderman Jung introduced a motion that the City Clerk be instructed to advertise for bids for a new truck, 1½ Ton with hydraulic dump body. The motion was seconded by Alderman Knight and unanimously carried.

Monthly reports of the City Clerk and Municipal Judge were presented, as was also the Clerk's report of operations for the year 1934, and the same were on motion accepted and ordered filed.

Application was presented by W. A. Parbst for the remodeling of his residence situated on Lots 13 and 14, of Block [illegible], O. T. S. at an estimated cost of $[illegible] and the same was on motion duly approved and granted.

Alderman Christofferson introduced a resolution fixing the salary of the Superintendent of Parks, O. H. Ryan, appointment of whom had been made by the Park Board, in the amount of $75.00 per month, which resolution was unanimously adopted.

A communication was presented by the Workmen's Protective Association urging the construction of sewers on the East side and a sewage disposal plant. The matter was laid over for further consideration.

Alderman Gitchstein introduced a motion that the proposed ordinance establishing the regular stated meetings of the City Council be given its third and final reading. The motion was seconded by Alderman Christofferson and carried, whereupon the proposed amendment was read and adopted by unanimous vote.

The Council then proceeded to ballot for the election of Mayor to fill the unexpired term of E. L. Tungseth, resigned. The result of the ballot indicated a vote of 5 for F. A. Rinkel and 1 vote for Paul A. Lundgren. Alderman McFarland then introduced a resolution declaring the election of F. A. Rinkel as Mayor and moved its adoption. The motion was seconded by Alderman Knight and on roll call the resolution was unanimously adopted.

Alderman Christofferson introduced a resolution approving for payment various bills against the city and moved its adoption. The motion was seconded by Alderman Jung and unanimously adopted.

On motion duly made and carried the meeting was adjourned to Monday, April 15th at eight o'clock P. M.

WARREN FARMERS CLUB WINS FIRST IN PLAY CONTEST

Regional Event Conducted in Crookston Friday Evening

The Boxville Farmers' Club of near Warren in Marshall county was awarded first place in the regional SERA one-act play contest conducted Friday night in the Crookston Armory.

Second place was given the Clay county entry, presented by the Prairie View 4-H club, while the two remaining contestants, the Enock Farmers band from Kittson county and the Sunnyside 4-H club of Polk county, tied for third.

Judges were Maureen Pidden Rice and Mrs. F. E. McGregor.

An audience of about 500 persons witnessed the presentation of the four one-act plays each of which had won the right to enter the regional contest by winning first place in its district.

The Boxville Farmers' club, with its play, "Just Like A Woman," will compete in the state contest. The play is directed by Miss Ethel Munger and the cast includes Mrs. Christ Hustad, George Cheney, Donald Kurz, Grace Anderson, Helen Dahlquist and Clarence Dahlquist. J. G. Mersenger is recreational leader for the SERA in the district.

Submit Red Lake Project to National Congress

The project proposing to link the Big and Little Fork rivers with Red Lake for the purpose of controlling flood waters from the rivers has been submitted to the National Rivers and Harbors congress which convenes in Washington next month, Mayor W. J. Kirkwood of Crookston announced Saturday.

This project was one of several designed to conserve water resources in Northwestern Minnesota, which were approved at a recent water control meeting here.

Projects for the restoration of Cross Lake and for damming of Two Rivers, also approved at the meeting, have been sent to state officials and Mayor Kirkwood has been notified that these projects have been taken under consideration.

Total of 431,000,000 Gallons of Gas Is Used in Minnesota in 1934

Minnesotans bought 431,645,000 gallons of gasoline last year, an increase of 30 million over the 1933 consumption of 401,723,000 gallons, the American Petroleum Institute has discovered. Likewise the South Dakota total jumped nine million, from 100,840,000 in 1933 to 109,514,000 last year, and North Dakota three million, from 99,725,000 to 102,931,000.

The entire country was buying more gas last year than ever before, with the single exception of 1931. Last year 16,505,180,000 gallons were used while the record stands at 16,628,880,000. In 1933 the nation bought only 15,436,324,000.

The amount of gas people use is not dependent on any one thing, the institute says, but many, including such factors as business conditions, motor vehicle registration and the weather. Last year's increase is laid to a combination of all three.

Mrs. Agnes Stucy Dies at Home in Deer Park

Death claimed Mrs. Agnes Margaret Stucy Tuesday at her home in Deer Park township. Funeral services will be held at her home at 1:30 and at the Oak Park Lutheran church at 2:00 Saturday with Rev. Bjorgan of Goodridge officiating. Interment will be in Oak Park Lutheran cemetery. Mrs. Stucy who was fifty-four years old at the time of her death was born January 1, 1881 in Kilkenny. She moved from that place to Janesville in 1905 in which year she was married to Otto Stucy and came to Deer Park township here she had made her home for thirty years. Her husband, three daughters, Mrs. Margaret Ekwall of Star township, Marie and Ruth both at home, and five sons, Malcolm, Arthur, Kenneth, John, Harvey, all at home and her father John Costello, one sister, Mrs. Alice Conway of Waseca, one brother, Charles of Green Bay, Wisconsin, and two grandchildren are left to mourn her. Two sons preceded her in death.

WILLARD DISCUSSES PLANS TO IMPROVE N. W. WATER LEVELS

tions of the Red Lake River and Clearwater River flood situations in 1920-21 and 22 at a cost of $25,000 appropriated by the Minnesota legislature from which complete flood control plans were made and were adopted by the Red Lake Drainage and Conservancy District in proceedings to consummate such a project. Proceedings were dismissed however.

I refer to these investigations in order to show that what we need is not additional surveys but the bringing together of the data we have to bear upon a well conceived practical project or projects, which will accomplish results.

Two such projects are now definitely up for consideration before state and federal agencies and in my opinion embrace water conservation projects for this section of the state which can be immediately made of value and which are practicable in design and operation. One, the Roseau River project in the extreme northwestern part of the state, if carried out according to the plans prepared by the U. S. Geological Survey now pending before PWA as an all-federal project, when completed, will have created in this area an extensive reservoir in which to store flood waters as well as to furnish relief to large areas of lands which are disastrously affected by floods at each recurring stage of high water.

Another project contemplates the creation of a storage reservoir in the Red Lakes with the outflow so controlled as to discharge the total volume of inflow uniformly over the entire year and from year to year rather than to permit large volumes of water to waste in periods of plenty and develop a shortage in periods of deficient rainfall. This project too is pending before PWA and needs the undivided support of communities in northwestern Minnesota interested in an enhanced water supply. As I view it, they are extremely practicable and if approved as all-federal projects by PWA where they are now pending, will give to your section of the state an added assurance of water supplies just as dependable and more practicable than any other new schemes to be launched, promoted and planned as new ventures.

As already indicated, the Roseau River and the Red Lake River projects have been presented and argued before PWA in Washington and I believe are in a strategic place to receive favorable attention by the federal government as all-federal projects. They should have the undivided support of the communities which are interested in increased water supplies and added protection from floods.

Very truly yours,
E. V. Willard
Commissioner of Conservation

Call Outstanding 4th Liberty Loan Bonds

The balance of the Fourth Liberty Loan 4¼ per cent bonds are being called for redemption on October 15, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau announced last night. The bonds amount to approximately $1,250,000,000 and are those bearing the serial numbers ending in 8 and 1. In three previous calls about $5,000,000,000 of the bonds have been retired on this issue, leaving about $1,250,000,000 still in hands of owners. The secretary said that it is probable that prior to October 15 holders of the bonds will be offered the privilege of exchanging the bonds for other interest-bearing obligations of the United States.

Farm and Implement News

DON'T FORGET PHOSPHATE NOW

With the present moisture supply, a liberal application of Superphosphate is bound to pay big returns for this year.

You have no idea of its value unless you have past experience. Our supply on hand is limited.

The proper time to apply phosphate to the land is, whenever you have time to do it. But take time now and your profits are bound to be greater for the year.

The new No. 4 McCormick-Deering manure spreader is just the very best investment, to convert the old manure piles and rotted straw stack bottoms into canceled mortgages, and will enable you to buy many things you would like to own next fall.

Spread some phosphate in every load you haul on the field, meadow or pasture. Get full returns from your labors. These are worth while suggestions.

Spring is late, and what a rush it is going to be to get all the work done as it should be done. The good farmer has made himself a better farmer by better equipment. The new McCormick-Deering disk harrow is one of the most essential equipments on all farms, for best solution to this hurry up job in a thorough way.

We have been entirely sold out on McCormick-Deering Tractor Disk harrows, but by several long distance telephone calls to several of the Harvester Company branch houses, we have managed to get a new supply and able to take care of our unfilled orders and a few extra to spare. If you want the best disk harrow, come NOW. Yes we can prove that claim.

SHORTAGE

Overproduction and oversupply has been a common statement. But shortage is going to be the situation for 1935 in farm machinery, and is right now. Many of our late orders will not be filled. We have only two grain drills left and it is positively all we can get for this season. Shortage in some sizes of McCormick-Deering tractors. Especially the "F-12" Farmall. We have three sold not delivered, and waiting for a shipment of eight, ordered March 5th. That leaves only five "F-12" that we can get for this spring. If you want one buy now. We have two "W-30", 2 10-20 and one regular Farmall tractor on hand and that's the last of our supply for spring delivery. These are facts, and will be especially so on McCormick-Deering Machines. Unable to supply the demand for 1935.

Other indications also tend to shortage of grain and feed, and little danger of overproduction. So let us all work together for greater results, and this golden basket of the Northwest help supply.

NEW LIVESTOCK MARKETING BILL ADOPTED MONDAY

Governor Expected to Sign Bill Enacted in State Legislature

Establishment of a state system of livestock weighing and grading with licensing and bonding of buyers was approved by the state legislature Monday, with the passage by the house of the measure as amended by the senate in acting on the bill last week. The vote was 99 to 11.

The bill as it goes to Governor Olson for signature is statewide in its effect, the amendments of the original draft making it apply to the South St. Paul market as well as concentration points in other sections. Commission firms would be licensed and would be required to furnish a $2,000 bond.

Sponsors of the bill declared that the bond provision will safeguard the farmer from "shyster" buyers. Original objection to inclusion of the South St. Paul market was that federal regulation already is in effect there and that further supervision by the state would be unnecessary.

The measure applies to points at which the daily sale and purchase of livestock is 250 or more head.

Packing and slaughter houses are required to open their books for inspection by the state under the bill which Governor Olson is expected to sign as it had strong rural backing. Sponsors of the legislation said it assures the livestock producer better prices because it will require uniform weighing and grading throughout the state.

Rites Held Tuesday for Grygla Pioneer

Funeral rites for Martin Telgland who died April 9 were conducted Tuesday, April 16, from the Valley church, Grygla, with Rev. S. T. Anderson reading the service. Martin Telgland who has lived in the Grygla community forty-two years was born in Bergen, Norway July 24, 1868. He leaves his wife and five sons, Mike, Arthur, James, Melvin, and Allan, and five daughters, Mrs. M. A. Sorenson, Mrs. E. O. Swanson, Mrs. H. Tollofson of Grygla, and Mrs. J. Sandsmark of Waukegan, Illinois, and C. Nordby of Lockport, Illinois to mourn his departure.

Louis Wegge Funeral Rites Held April 10

Funeral services were conducted from the Nazareth Lutheran church Wednesday, April 10 for Louis Wegge, pioneer farmer of the Holt community who passed away at his home April 7 at the age of seventy-three. He was born in Posen, Germany, May 4, 1861. In 1882 he came to this country and settled at Henderson where he lived for one year before taking a homestead in Holt township where he has since made his home. He was married to Emilie Ohm, October 16, 1889 at Crookston and of the nine children born to them two sons and one daughter have preceded him in death. Surviving him are his wife, four daughters, Mrs. O. M. Mickelson of Leeds, N. Dak., Mrs. A. L. Carlson of Crookston, Lucy of this city, Irene of Fargo, and two sons Edgar and Dennis of Holt. There are also nine grandchildren. Interment was made in the Holt cemetery.

DUST STORM CUT AND RUIN CAR WINDSHIELD

Fairmont. — Almost unbelievable damage done by dust storms was illustrated last week near Fairmont when the car of Emil Johanson, paper salesman from Minneapolis, was literally peppered with buckshot driven by the wind. The fine sand and grit cut so deeply into his windshield that the non-shatter glass was ruined. The windshield and lenses of headlights will have to be replaced. An Indian insignia on the front of the car was stripped of all its red war paint, the license plate had its paint cut away, and the dust cut the paint of the hood, radiator and front fender so deeply that a new job of painting is in order.

Book Missing 15 Years is Returned to Library

A book borrowed on November 15th, 1920 was returned to the library recently and will be put back into circulation after a vacation from the shelves of nearly fifteen years. The return of any other books that have once belonged to the Public Library, will be welcomed, Mrs. Hazel Halgrim, librarian, said today, adding that early action is desired as the annual inventory will shortly be taken.

John Olson Funeral Rites Conducted in City Monday

Funeral rites for John Olson who died April 12 in a local hospital were conducted from the Erickson and Lund Funeral Home Monday, at 2:00 o'clock, with Rev. E. M. Fjelstad officiating. Mr. Olson who was seventy-seven years old at the time of his death, was born December 23, 1857 in Smaaland, Sweden. After coming to this country, he made his home in Watertown before moving to Marshall county where he lived until 1902. At that time he moved to this city where he has since made his home. He leaves two nephews, Godfrey Carlson of this city, and Emil Carlson of Fordville, N. Dak., to mourn his departure. One sister, Mrs. C. C. Carlson and one brother, Louis, who passed away last Friday, preceded him in death. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

Senate Rejects Two on State Education Board

Governor Floyd B. Olson said Wednesday he will present new appointments to the state board of education before the legislature adjourns to replace the rejected names of Mrs. Marion LeSueur of Minneapolis and Miss Florence Rood of St. Paul. Senate disapproval of Mrs. Le Sueur and Miss Rood followed the recommendation of its committee on education, which made an investigation of the department.

Liquor Blamed in Eight Per Cent of Car Crashes

Improper speed, driving on the wrong side of the road, "cutting in" and making left turns without signalling were primary factors in automobile accidents studied by the state highway patrol in 1934, according to an analysis of patrol records just published. The analysis shows that 86 per cent of the drivers involved in accidents were physically fit to drive, and that 85 per cent of the automobiles involved were mechanically fit to be driven. Intoxicating liquor figured as a contributing cause in about 8 per cent of all accidents studied.

RITES HELD SATURDAY FOR SANATORIUM PATIENT

Funeral services were read by Rev. Bratrud in Oslo Saturday, for Roy Gjelhaug who died April 9 at the Oakland Park Sanatorium near this city. Interment was in Big Wood cemetery. Deceased was born December 11, 1909 in Clay county. He made his home in Oslo. His father and one sister, Mrs. Alec Aballa survive him, his mother and one sister having preceded him in death.

Interstate Rate on Land Bank Loans Reduced to 4¼ Per Cent April 10

Interest rates on all federal land bank loans made after April 10 will be 4¼ per cent, the lowest rate at which farm mortgage loans have been made since the establishment of the land bank 18 years ago.

This announcement was made today by President Ray A. Nelson of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, who said that the same rate goes into effect simultaneously throughout the United States. This is the second reduction in the interest rate on land bank loans made with 3 weeks, the rate of 4½ per cent having been announced March 25.

The new low rate applies to loans made through National Farm Loan associations, but not to commissioner loans which will continue at 5 per cent as they have ever since establishment of the commissioned loans. Loans made direct by the Federal Land Bank to farmer borrowers will also enjoy a reduction, and hereafter will be at 4¾ per cent. Direct loans bear interest at ½ of 1 per cent above the association loan rate.

Planting List Suggests Hardy Trees and Shrubs

Trees, shrubs, and vines for Minnesota, that can "take it" in hard winters and dry seasons are shown in a list prepared by L. E. Longley of the division of horticulture, University Farm, St. Paul. Based on years of observations and studies, the list includes 250 trees, shrubs, and vines, and specifies which ones are hardy, which are tender and which are classed in between.

A tree labeled as hardy means that this tree can survive the average normal winter and begin regular growth in the spring. In winter the trees not only suffer from the cold, but they also suffer from a shortage of moisture. To be considered hardy, a tree must stand the cold weather and be able to supply itself with moisture during the dry periods in winter.

A free copy of Mr. Longley's planting list can be had by writing to the Division of Horticulture, University Farm, St. Paul.

Former Warren Woman Awarded $10,000 Prize

Mrs. Edgar M. Nelson of St. Peter, Minn., formerly of Warren was announced Monday as the winner of a $10,000 prize offered by a Minneapolis flour mill in a radio baby naming contest. Mrs. Nelson submitted the name "Norita," with the explanation that it was a derivative of the English name Norry, meaning foster child, and the Gypsy name Norita, meaning to nourish or care for.

Bound Over on Charge of Driving While Drunk

George Snyder, local resident, early Sunday evening was taken into custody by Police Chief A. B. Stenberg after the car which he was driving had crashed into and snapped an electric light pole near the intersection of Johnson st. and Kendall av. Brought before Judge J. M. Bishop in municipal court Monday morning on a charge of driving while drunk, Snyder was bound over to district court, his bond being fixed at $500. He sustained a fractured nose in the collision.

WACONIA MAN IS DEALT PERFECT HAND IN BRIDGE

Waconia.— William Lipp was one of the most surprised men in the world recently when he picked up his hand at a nice innocent game of bridge and found 13 spades. The perfect bridge hand, according to Ripley, comes only once every 2,600,000 deals. The average citizen only has to play bridge about 2,000 years to reach his percentage in getting such a hand, and when they come the man who picks up the hand generally faints dead away, or bids seven no trump and goes down 13 tricks.

MINNESOTA LEADS IN SALE OF FARMS

Seventy-two farms have been sold in Minnesota by the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul up to April 10, according to a summary just made by the bank, Minnesota leading the other 3 states of the district in sales for the year thus far with Michigan a close second.

HEADACHE GROUCH THROWS ROCK INTO LIQUOR STORE

Janesville—A piece of cement block about six by nine inches was hurled through the glass door of the Janesville Liquor store at an early hour of the morning recently—either by someone with a terrible headache and a grouch, or someone who wanted to have a headache. Marshall McIver heard the crash of glass and investigated immediately, but found no one near the premises. Apparently no liquor was stolen, although it is believed that someone was licking his lips around the corner, waiting to see whether the crash was heard before he entered the store.

SHORT COURSES PLANNED AT N. W. SCHOOL IN JUNE

Tenth Annual Women's Camp is Scheduled for June 10th to 13th

Southwest School officials have announced a series of regional short courses to be held on the campus during June. The week of June 3-8 has been set aside for a young people's interdenominational conferences for church seniors and young people of the Red River Valley. This conference will be held under the direction of the Minnesota Federation of Churches.

June 10-13 has been designated Women's Camp week. This will be the tenth annual women's short course and will include a series of lectures and demonstrations dealing with the home together with an attractive recreation program.

In arranging the junior short course which will be held the following week, it has been decided to hold two separate meetings, one for northern counties and the other for southern Red River Valley counties. This has been made necessary due to the rapid increase in enrollment during recent years. Last year with nearly 1200 students in attendance the facilities of the school were taxed far beyond capacity. By holding one short course June 17-19, and a second group June 20-22, the lecture and demonstration work can be handled with greater efficiency.

Another special event of the month will be the annual summer reunion of Northwest School alumni which has been scheduled for Saturday, June 29. With the steady increase in number of graduates, the summer reunion has become one of the more important events of the vacation period.

All who wish to reserve rooms for the school dormitories for the June short courses are advised to communicate with the Northwest School at Crookston.

"BUSTER" REAL RAT POISON

Red Wing—If the Pied Piper was active in this day and age he would find plenty of competition in driving away rats with "Buster", a small fox terrier owned by Joe Schlundt of Hay Creek. The terrier it is reported, has established the record of slaughtering 75 rats on the Schlundt farm a few days ago. Not satisfied with the record "Buster" went to the Joe Persig farm where he disposed of 117 of the rodents in short order. Only two rats escaped the little terrier in his campaign at the Persig farm.

Red River Valley History

By Wm. E. Wehking

(Old Crossing Treaty)

Elaborating the sketch presented last week concerning the Old Crossing treaty we quote from an early account:

"This treaty (of 1863) was ordered held 'at the old crossing of the Red Lake river'. The probabilities all are that Congress meant the site of the treaty to be the crossing of the old Kittson Trail, the trail mapped by Capt. Pope, since that was the first Red River cart trail, the old trail of 1844. This crossing was near the present site of Fisher, perhaps a little to the westward. There being in 1863 two crossings of the Red Lake river, Congress particularly designated the 'old' crossing as the council ground.

"Yet the treaty was not held at the 'old crossing', but at the crossing of the new trail, up near the site of Huot, in Red Lake county. At the time that was the crossing best known, and probably this was the reason for its use. June 5, 1914, the people of the country celebrated the event by a large meeting at which appropriate exercises were held and an endurable monument placed in position. There is no question that this is the place where the treaty was held, since it must be presumed that the participants in the celebration knew the facts and what they were doing. A soldier, Benjamin Dobiec, of the Mounted Rangers, who was present at the treaty was also present at the celebration. The preamble to the treaty says it was made at the 'old crossing,' but it certainly seems that this is a mistake."

The writer has learned from John Saugstad of Crookston, an outstanding authority on the treaty facts and an important figure in the dedication in 1933 and activities leading to it, that it is believed the term "old crossing" arose from the fact that there was a slight change in the course of the trail after the "new" crossing was chosen, this fact relegating the first "new" passage across the river to the status of old crossing to the immediate viewpoint of persons using it at that time. This would fix the treaty site as at the first "new" crossing. Resuming the quoted account, we read:

"At all events, on October 2, 1863, while war with the Sioux to the westward was yet being waged, the treaty was concluded. The government commissioners were the then Senator Alexander Ramsey and Ashley C. Morrill, representing the government, and the chiefs and head men of the Pembina and Red Lake bands of Chippewa for the cession of a large tract of country".

The territory ceded contained an estimated area of 11,000,000 acres. The treaty, with amendments, was ratified by the U. S. senate March 1, 1864 and was approved by the Indians in April. President Lincoln confirmed the pact on May 5. Now we next learn the terms:

"As finally confirmed, the treaty provided that the Indians should receive for their lands ceded as above $10,000 annually to the Red Lake band and $5,000 to the Pembina band, to be distributed equally per capita among the members of the band. The government also agreed to expend annually, for 15 years $8,000 for the Red Lake band and $4,000 for the Pembina band in the purchase of fishnet twine, dress goods, blankets, provisions, farming tools, etc. The government also agreed to furnish each band for 15 years with a blacksmith, a physician, a miller, and a farmer, as also $1,500 worth of steel and iron and other articles for blacksmithing purposes and $1,000 for carpentering."

There were amendments to this treaty added later and other agreements were made with the result that the Chippewa of the Red Lake reservation have been petitioning the government ever since for the righting of wrongs they assert they have suffered through these treaties. Incidentally, we glimpse a gesture of hostility on the part of the Chippewa at the time of the Sioux massacre in 1862. In that year, on August 25, just eight days after the beginning of the outbreak, the Chippewa were to have met at the mouth of the Red Lake river to meet government commissioners and negotiate for a treaty. The Indians were on hand but the commissioners were turned back by the hostile Sioux. We know the Chippewa were not active against the whites in 1862, but we learn from the historian Holcombe that when news of the uprising was received Chief Hole-in-the-Day and other Chippewa leaders acted "menacingly and threateningly". But the most hostile move was made when Chippewa who had assembled for the treaty parley became hungry. Norman W. Kittson was passing through the region with an oxcart train carrying $25,000 worth of furs. The train also carried a quantity of supplies, including flour and canned goods. The hungry Indians seized what eatables they wanted, but they insisted that Kittson was their friend and that they took the supplies in payment for the use of their thoroughfares, asserting there should be a penalty for trespass on their lands. They promised that they would pay for the supplies taken from sums they received for their lands by treaty. They kept this promise. It should be noted here that the terms of the Old Crossing treaty provided that $100,000 should be provided as compensation to persons whose goods had been seized by the Chippewa. Some of the victims were Hudson's Bay traders. An amended treaty in April, 1864, provided $25,000 to enable the signatory chiefs to buy presents for their people.—Northwestern Feature Service.

Sportsmen's Show Opens in Minneapolis Apr. 20

Everything connected with outdoor life and recreation, from from equipment and costumes to demonstrations, contests and displays of wild life will be brought together to make up the second annual Northwest Sportsman's Show at the Minneapolis Auditorium starting April 20 for eight days.

Exhibits of outdoor life include the fish display, in 90 foot glass tanks and the display of wild life, ranging from the moose to rabbits. On the auditorium stage the state forestry department will have a forest of more than 500 trees brought in from northern Minnesota for the show and representing every type of tree found in the state.

Miniature paths, a camping scene, a log cabin, mounted birds and animals will be located in the forest, which will be an exact replica in every detail of an ideal spot in a forest reservation.

CONCRETE CAN TAKE IT

'TWAS A HARD WINTER FOR ROADS

With the spring thaw many roads—of materials that can't take it—have become almost impassable from "frost boils," "boney pots," ruts, bumps and chuck-holes.

Soon you will see load restriction, warning and detour signs—while repair crews spend the equivalent cost of miles of needed new pavements!... But on concrete roads, please notice, there was no "spring break-up." Year after year concrete roads can take it—with lowest maintenance.

Twelve months a year concrete carries you swiftly, safely, economically, saving gas, oil, tires and car wear every mile you drive.

PLAN FOR VOTE ON DIESEL UNIT AT EARLY DATE

Committee After Study Reports Urgent Need of Added Facilities

QUALE INSTRUCTED TO LAY ELECTION PLANS

Permits Granted by Council to Construct Two New Residences

The first definite step in the direction of holding a special election in this city to determine the attitude of local citizens with respect to a proposed addition to the generating equipment of the municipal power plant was taken at a meeting of the city council Tuesday evening when City Attorney Theodore Quale was instructed to study the legal phases of the election and prepare the necessary resolutions for consideration at an adjourned session next Tuesday.

It was indicated that the election will be held in the near future so that in the event of a favorable vote on the question of a bond issue to buy the needed equipment, installation of the new unit or units can be completed in time to handle the peak load next winter.

Action by the council followed a report submitted by Paul Lundgren of a committee recently appointed to make a study of electricity rates, other members of the committee present including Mayor Frank Rinkel and L. S. Hera.

Mr. Lundgren stated the committee had been informed that the 750 horsepower McIntosh & Seymour engine installed five years ago is now operating at full capacity and pointed out the necessity of providing additional equipment to take care of the steady increase in current consumption in the city.

The committee also recommended the adoption of a one-meter system locally with a graduated scale of rates, and the opinion was expressed that a 25 per cent reduction in light rates could be put in effect without crippling the local plant. Rates should not be reduced until new facilities for producing current are provided, the committee held, owing to the increase in use of electricity that may be expected when lower rates are put into effect.

The council at its meeting granted to H. M. Olson and M. T. McFarland permits for each to erect a residence. Mr. Olson's home will be constructed at the corner of Markley av. and Johnson st. at an estimated cost of $4,500, while Mr. McFarland's house, to cost an estimated $2,500, will be built on Duluth av. between Third and Fourth sts. It will provide five rooms and attached garage, and the exterior will be finished in stucco.

Mr. Quale was instructed to represent the city at a hearing on the St. Lukes hospital tax exemption application which will be conducted later. Mayor Frank Rinkel announced the reappointment of Oliver Oftelie to serve as poundmaster for the ensuing year.

The parking for long periods of stock trucks and other large vehicles on streets adjoining the downtown district came up for discussion, and it was suggested that a comprehensive ordinance be drawn up to deal with the problem. In the meantime the matter was referred to the police department and the council street committee.

Jack Brendecke, operator of a shooting gallery on LaBree av. was present to object to being forced to cease operating in the evening at 11 o'clock when many other lines of business were permitted to continue. The matter was referred to Mayor Rinkel for a recommendation.

Firemen Respond to Two Alarms on Monday

The fire department was summoned Monday noon to the home of Omar Williams at 704 Horace ave. N. when a chimney fire developed, the blaze being extinguished without any damage resulting. When an automobile in the Weinez shop on Main av. caught fire Monday afternoon the department was again called out, but by the time it arrived at the scene the blaze had been quenched.

DEKKO OUTLINES GOOD PROSPECTS FOR BALL SEASON

Gary Manager Plans to Open Season in City May 12th or 19th

The independent baseball team that will represent Thief River Falls this season will shortly start practicing, and the season will open either May 12 or May 19, Manager M. E. (Shorty) Dekko of Gary informed the Times this week.

While the lineup is not completed, Mr. Dekko said, plans have advanced sufficiently to insure a strong team. The pitching will be done by Heiberg, former captain of the St. Olaf team, with Halmack, last year on the Red Lake Falls team, as an understudy, as well as a colored player to be added later.

Gronningen of Concordia college will be catcher, and Will Langlin, last year a catcher with Crookston, will be in the field. In Nordby and Eng Dekko has two promising men for the first base position, and for second base and shortstop he has in Haugen and Thordal an excellent double play combination.

Three men are under consideration for third base, while the outfield will be taken care of by Thordal, Lawrence, Langlin and Brevick, the last named being a former St. Olaf college boy.

LOCAL BURG STORE AND 2 OTHERS SOLD TO BRAINERD MAN

Will be Operated as Popular Priced Ben Franklin Store

Announcement was made today that A. J. Dondelinger of Brainerd had bought from the receiver of the Burg company chain of stores the Thief River Falls unit as well as stores in Little Falls and Sauk Center.

Following extensive remodeling and restocking of the local store which is expected to be completed within the next three weeks, it will operate under the name of the Ben Franklin store, featuring merchandise in a price range from five cents to $1.

While no announcement has yet been made as to who will be local manager, it was made known that the general manager of Mr. Dondelinger's chain of stores will be W. W. Backus, associated with the Burg company and Kresge chains for the past twenty years.

Coupe Nearly Goes Thru First st. Bridge Rail Late Monday Afternoon

A coupe driven by Carl Gutterud of Excel township, Marshall county, narrowly escaped landing in the river late Monday afternoon when, driving east on First st., Gutterud at the approach to the bridge lost control of his car, which mounted one of the sloping bridge girders and then settled back against the outside railing, which fortunately did not give way. Gutterud, taken into custody by Police Chief A. B. Stenberg on a charge of driving while intoxicated, was brought before Municipal Judge J. M. Bishop Tuesday morning when he waived preliminary examination and was bound over to district court under $200 bonds. The case is scheduled to be heard by Judge M. A. Brattland Friday.

LEGISLATURE SETS HIGH LEVY FOR STATE TAX

Real Estate Owners to Pay 14.95 State Levy for Current Year

GOVERNOR VETOES OMNIBUS TAX BILL

Budget for Coming Biennium Shows an Increase of $6,000,000

The 1935 session of the Minnesota state legislature adjourned late Wednesday night after approving a state budget of $41,911,736 for the coming two years, approximately $6,000,000 more than for the last biennium.

Due to Governor Olson's veto Wednesday of the omnibus tax bill designed to relieve the burden on real estate and to a failure to agree on any substitute fund-raising program, the state tax rate on real estate for 1935 was set at a new high mark of 14.95 mills, approximately three mills higher than last year. The levy for 1934 was set at 14.05 mills.

Governor Olson fired his omnibus tax bill veto message at the state legislature just before the two houses recessed for dinner Wednesday.

In his message to the legislature, Governor Olson declared that his reason for the veto was his opinion that the bill as drawn would fall heaviest on those least able to pay.

Charging that it goes so far as to place a sales tax upon persons dependent on public relief, Governor Olson said his principal objection was that the bill is not based upon the means and ability of the persons taxed to pay the taxes imposed.

"Those who can least afford to pay are taxed the most and those who can most afford to pay are taxed the least or not taxed at all," the governor's veto stated.

He said that if the bill became law the state would be imposing an added burden upon people already impoverished by reason of the depression. He stated that through its sales tax feature the bill would also increase the burden of the farmer who, he said, would pay 36 per cent of the sales tax or 6 per cent more than he now pays under the property tax.

The bill, he said, is unfair to the average independent merchant inasmuch as he would find himself at an even greater disadvantage in competition with out-of-state mail order houses. He also protested against other features of the measure.

The veto came after a long series of conferences with the governor in which joint committees of both houses of the legislature sought to amend the bill to gain the chief executive's sanction.

WERSTLEIN HEADS FORESTER GROUP IN N. W. DISTRICT

120 Members Attend Meeting in This City Monday Evening

George Werstlein Monday evening was elected chief ranger of a Northwestern Minnesota district group of the Catholic Order of Foresters at a meeting in this city attended by 120 members representing courts at Detroit Lakes, Brooks, Red Lake Falls, Gentilly, Argyle, Stephen and Thief River Falls.

Other officers named include J. H. Keyes of Detroit Lakes, vice chief ranger; Bert Pomerleault of Red Lake Falls, recording secretary; and Theodore Lalelerte of Brooks, treasurer. An executive board made up of two members from each court completes the organization.

Dr. J. A. Roy of Red Lake Falls, state vice chief ranger, discussed the Foresters' boys camp which is being established near Anoka. Other talks were given by Father Lemire of Red Lake Falls, Father Paquin of Terrebonne and Father Proulx of Brooks, as well as members of the various courts. Dinner was served at the close of the meeting, one of the principal purposes of which was to lay plans for the state convention of the order in Detroit Lakes in 1936.

CARLIE JOHNSON REPORTS ROADS GOOD TO RED LAKE

Carlie Johnson, who made his first trip of the season to the Red lake narrows Monday, reported finding the roads in good condition all the way, and said that the water level in the lake apparently was slightly higher than last fall.

Rail Men Present Case Before C. & C. Meeting

Say Truck Lines Would Unfavorably Affect Payrolls of $290,000 Here

Following the recent appearance before the Civic and Commerce association of representatives of truck lines seeking to extend their services to Thief River Falls, representatives of the two railroads serving this community were present at last Thursday's luncheon to present their side of the argument.

Perhaps the outstanding consideration brought out by Louis Gauthier, traveling freight agent of the Great Northern railway was his statement that the Soo Line and Great Northern together employ 185 local men with an annual payroll of $290,000. In addition, he asserted, six local draymen would be adversely affected by a local truckline connection.

As an example of changes his company is making to expedite service Mr. Gauthier cited the improved schedules now in effect on the Great Northern line here and told of the overnight freight service now available to this city from the Twin Cities, Duluth and Fargo. He asked the individual members of the association to bear these facts in mind in judging the merits of the truck line application.

A. M. Bettstad, speaking for the employes of the Soo Line, said they are vitally interested in the matter, and contended that with the improved railway freight service now available thru speeding up of schedules, the truck lines are not needed in this community.

H. A. Pratt, local Soo Line freight agent, also cited improvements in service already made or now pending and pointed out that if an increased volume of business is provided more local men can be given employment. W. E. Baker, Great Northern agent, spoke briefly, endorsing the statements made by Mr. Gauthier.

SUPERINTENDENT BORRESON TAKES OVER NEW DUTIES

New Head of Sanatorium Takes Charge Last Wednesday

Dr. Baldwin Borreson, former assistant superintendent of the state tuberculosis sanatorium at Walker, last Wednesday assumed the post of superintendent of Oakland Park sanatorium, succeeding Dr. B. C. Bernard, who left that day for Gulfport, Mississippi.

Dr. Borreson, a graduate of the University of Minnesota medical school, was associated with Dr. Theodor Bratrud in Warren before enlisting for service in the World War. Following his discharge he engaged in private practice in Bemidji and Remer before going to the Walker sanatorium six years ago. He is married and has two sons.

Previous to their departure for the south Dr. and Mrs. Bernard were guests at a farewell party given in their honor by members of the sanatorium commission and their wives. At the close of the evening Dr. O. F. Mellby, president of the sanatorium commission, presented the honor guests with a set of table linen as a memento of their connection with the local institution during the past eleven years.

Heavy Downpour of Rain Continuing Over 2 Days Delays Spring Seeding

That there will be little April seeding on Pennington county farms this spring was indicated following general rains from Tuesday morning up to today amounting locally to an estimated inch and a half of precipitation. With the soil now in excellent condition in respect to moisture supply, the grain fields when seeded are expected to make up for their rather late start. The mercury dropped below the freezing point to 29 above only on Saturday during the past week and reached a high minimum for the week of 47 above this morning, according to the records of B. F. Umland, local observer.

Will Rogers Coming in "Life Begins at Forty"

Will Rogers, perennial favorite of local movie audiences, will return to the Avalon theatre Sunday and Monday in his latest film, "Life Begins at Forty", in which he plays the role of a country newspaper editor who gets involved in a series of perplexing situations. In the supporting cast are Richard Cromwell, George Barbier, Rochelle Hudson, Jane Darwell and Slim Summerville. Two matinees will be given Sunday afternoon, the first at 1:30 and the second at 3:30.

Orange Sale Saturday Will Pay Way of 2 Boy Scouts to Washington

Oranges are going up in price in the city Saturday, but it's all in a good cause, say Olaf Nesset and Clarence Sande of the local Boy Scout committee. They explained that members of the local troops are undertaking to sell 1,000 oranges to 1,000 local residents at ten cents each, the profits of the sale going into a fund to finance a trip by two local Scouts to Washington, D. C., in July when a national Boy Scout jamboree will be held in that city. It was announced that the boys who will make the trip have not yet been definitely selected, the choice depending in part on the salesmanship demonstrated by the boys Saturday. Each buyer of an orange will be given a tag so that he will not be solicited more than once.

EPWORTH LEAGUE CONVENTION HERE SET FOR MAY 3-5

To be Attended by 175 Members From 23 Northwest Towns

Approximately 175 members of Epworth leagues in 23 Northwestern Minnesota communities will assemble at the Community church in this city Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 3, 4 and 5 for the annual convention of the Fergus Falls district, Rev. E. A. Cooke, district president, announced today.

The local league, headed by Edna Gilchrist, is in charge of arrangements for the meeting, the program for which has been arranged by the district cabinet. The theme of the sessions will be "Christian Youth at Work and Play".

Featuring the Friday evening will be the presentation by the local league of the one-act play "The Lost Church". Saturday will be devoted to business sessions, concluding with a banquet in the Civic and Commerce association rooms. Services will be held in the church Sunday morning at 7 o'clock and again at 11 o'clock when Rev. W. J. Barr, district superintendent, will be the speaker.

New District Engineer, Here from Grand Rapids, O. K.'s Delayed Project

A. P. Benson, district ERA engineer at Grand Rapids, last week took over the post of acting engineer in this district, No. 2, succeeding H. L. Frisbie. For the time being Mr. Benson will divide his time between the two cities. One of his first official acts here was to assign a group of relief workers to the water main project on West Second st., which had been held up by Mr. Frisbie as a result of a controversy with the city council over unpaid bills in connection with the CCC camp up Red Lake river last fall.

Pennington Fair Board Takes Steps to Replace Stock Barns on Grounds

Looking forward to the 1935 county fair the board of directors at a meeting Wednesday afternoon authorized the building committee to get estimates on the cost of replacing the stock barns destroyed by fire last fall. Action was taken to approve a contract with Ernie Young who will present the revue featuring the performances in front of the grandstand. It was also decided to repeat the practice established at the 1934 fair of awarding a car and $200 in cash prizes.

First Pastor of Local Presbyterian Church to Speak Here Sunday, May 5

Rev. James H. Nicol of Beirut, Syria, who was the first regular pastor of the Presbyterian church in this city and who left here 30 years ago to engage in missionary work in Syria, will return to Thief River Falls for a brief visit Sunday, May 5, when he will speak at evening services in the Community church. Reverend Nicol, who has charge of all American missionary work in Syria, is married to Rebecca Van Cleve, granddaughter of the first white child born in Minnesota. He last visited here 22 years ago.

GRAND FORKS FIRM AWARDED P. O. CONTRACT

Carl G. Steen Company Bid Accepted in Amount of $36,236

SECOND LOWEST OF 14 BIDS SUBMITTED

Low Bidder is Permitted to Withdraw After Error is Discovered

Word was received Monday from Washington by Postmaster Andrew Anderson that the Carl G. Steen company of Grand Forks had been awarded the contract for the construction of the new postoffice building in this city on LaBree av. at Second st. The information was contained in a copy of a letter to the Steen company from W. E. Reynolds, assistant director of procurement in the public works branch of the treasury department.

The Grand Forks company's bid, the second lowest of fourteen submitted, was in the amount of $36,236, this figure covering all labor and materials in connection with the construction of the building according to specifications.

The contract had been tentatively awarded, following the opening of bids February 11, to the Hyldeen-den Boer company of St. Paul, low bidder, but the treasury department recently granted the request of the company to withdraw its bid on the ground that certain items had not been included in its bid.

The Steen company will be given ten days in which to supply a bond in the amount of $18,200, and it is expected that if no further difficulties arise, preparations for the construction work will get under way within the next few weeks to permit completion of the structure before cold weather sets in. Under the contract the company is allowed 300 days in which to finish construction.

HEALTH ROUNDUP FOR PRE-SCHOOL CHILDREN MAY 4

Doctors and Dentists Co-operate in Checkup at Lincoln High School

The annual summer child health round-up sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association for pre-school children will be held at the high school on Saturday, May 4th from 10 a. m. noon.

The summer round up is a campaign to send to the entering grade of school or kindergarten a class of children as free as possible from remediable defects. Parents of pre-school children are urged to bring their children for a general physical examination by their doctor who will be present and teeth will be inspected by a local dentist. There will also be an opportunity for children who have not been immunized against diphtheria to be inoculated. A light lunch will be served.

There is no charge and the committee in charge expressed the hope that many parents will take this opportunity to have their children examined so that if there are remediable defects of which parents may not be aware, they may be corrected before the child enters school in the fall.

On the committee in charge of arrangements are Supt. Morris Bye, Miss Harriet Lamson, Miss Ruth Mickelson, Mrs. O. G. Lynde, Mrs. Victor Norquist, Mrs. H. P. Orwoll and Miss Florence Parsons, school nurse.

Jungs Bakery Workers Go to Bread Baking School

Harry Moline and Horace Prugh of Jungs Quality Bakery left Sunday for Minneapolis where they are taking a ten day course of study at the General Mills' specialty bread school. The school offers for the first time complete courses for bakers, under practical instructors, on every phase of baking, packaging and selling of scores of new bread specialties.

POSTOFFICE SELLS TOTAL OF $22,575 IN SAVING BONDS

Brisk Response in First 2 Months, Postmaster A. Anderson Says

A total of $16,931.25 has been paid in at the local postoffice since March 1 for the purchase of United States savings bonds with a maturity value of $22,575, Postmaster Andrew Anderson announced today. The difference between the two figures represents interest that accumulates during the ten-year interval before maturity.

Mr. Anderson stated that during March $6,112.50 was received from the sale of bonds with a maturity value of $8,150, while in April sales were $10,818.75, representing a maturity value in ten years of $14,425. Few withdrawals, he added, were made from postal savings accounts to finance the purchases, most of the funds coming from other sources.

Bonds with a maturity value of $25 are sold for $18.75; $50 for $37.50; $100 for 75; $500 for $375; and $1,000 for $750, the difference in each case representing the accumulation of interest, compounded semi-annually, over the ten-year period to maturity. The bonds are registered in the owner's name and are not transferrable.

W. E. Day Speaker at F. L. Club Last Friday

At a meeting of the local Farmer-Labor club in the court room at the court house Friday evening W. E. Day of Bagley presented his side of the contest he instituted against Representative Marius Waldal following the election last fall. He criticized as unfair the handling of the contest by the elections committee of the lower house of the legislature.

Farm Jobs Open for Men and Women in This Area

Seven men were given employment on farms in this section late last week thru the agency of the national reemployment service, Howard Davidson, county manager, announced today. He added that employment was available on local farms for four additional men and five women.

Highway Department to Open Bids May Third on Project East of Bridge

The state highway department Wednesday in St. Paul announced that one of five highway projects totaling approximately $125,000 on which bids will be opened May 3 is the grading of Johnson st. east of the new bridge on Highway 32. The call for bids specified that the project will be 1.2 miles in length, and will include 21,000 cubic yards of excavation, 5,600 cubic yards of gravel lift and 11,400 linear feet of concrete curb. No estimate of the cost of the work is made in the announcement of the call for bids.

Three Soloists and Chorus of 283 Directed by Wm. McPhail

LOCAL PIANISTS TO BE ACCOMPANISTS

700 Young Musicians to [illegible] in Various Events of Contest

A group estimated to number nearly 700 school musicians from thirteen Northwest communities will assemble in the municipal Auditorium Saturday for the District 10 contest of the Minnesota Public School Music league, Supt. Morris Bye, in charge of local arrangements, announced today. Included in the contest will be 93 pupils from the local schools.

The varied program of events in the contest will begin in the morning at 8:30 and will continue thru the afternoon. William McPhail, prominent musical authority and head of the McPhail School of Music in Minneapolis, will judge the vocal numbers, while Gerald Prescott, director of bands at the University of Minnesota, will judge the instrumental offerings.

The outstanding feature of Saturday's program will be provided by the presentation in the evening at 8 o'clock of "The Erl King's Daughter" with three well known soloists and a massed chorus of [illegible] voices and with Mr. McPhail as guest conductor. Thelma Helen Erickson and Doris Halvorson Pope, local pianists, will furnish the two-piano accompaniment, in addition to which there will be an orchestra of twenty members.

Soloists in the cantata include Agnes Jorgensen [illegible], contralto, of Moorhead, who will fill the role of the mother; Helen DeLaris Evans, soprano, of Grand Forks, who will sing the title role; and Andrew V. "BLUE FOX" CAPTURED BY ANNANDALE DOG

Annandale.—A "blue fox" was captured last week near Annandale, and Clarence Sonsteby has a curiosity which is causing considerable interest. Aroused early one morning, Sonsteby went out into the yard to find his dog fighting with some kind of wild animal. It was impossible in the dim light to tell what it was, but the dog had exhausted his opponent, and Sonsteby threw the animal into a coop. Local sportsmen, called in the next morning, after considerable discussion decided it was a blue fox. The animal apparently appears to be somewhat tame, as it is contented in the pen and drinks milk readily.

In Memoriam

In memory of Mrs. A. E. Lufkin who passed away three years ago April 30, 1932.

A wife she was, a mother dear,
Whom we all loved
Who was so fair.
This small space her memory bears
Though gone from us
We think her near.
In fancy now we hear her sing,
The new song of that land
In honor of her Lord and King,
Amid that happy band.

MILITARISTIC HEN LAYS EGG LOOKING LIKE BOMB

Bagley—Some of the hens on the J. J. Ondrasek farm, near Bagley, must have been reading about the war clouds in Europe lately. At any rate, one perfectly innocent Buff Orpington hen recently laid a perfectly good bomb. The egg is of ordinary size, but shaped just like a bomb. One end is black, and from this end extends out a pliable fuse-like string, making the resemblance to a bomb extraordinary. The Buff Orpington clucked away with a good deal of pride at the results of her work, but has shown no other militaristic tendencies.

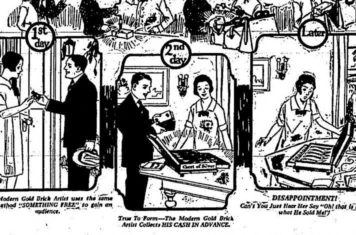
FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION OF THIEF RIVER FALLS

Do you remember the days of the Gold Brick Artist?



The Modern Gold Brick Artist uses the same old method "SOMETHING FREE" to gain an audience.

True To Form—The Modern Gold Brick Artist Collects HIS CASH IN ADVANCE.

DISAPPOINTMENT! Can't You Just Hear Her Say "Oh! that is NOT what He Sold Me!"

YOU surely have heard the story of the Gold Brick Artist—who sold his gold bricks to the city visitor—and in many cases "wise guys" bought them.

His methods were crude—but similar to those of the Modern Gold Brick Artist. Both of these slickers fool the public.

Today's Gold Brick Artist finds it easier to prey on the Housewife who is not as well posted on the tricks of the trade. Here you find him at the door offering the bottle of silver polish--FREE. Oh yes! Absolutely Free--with ONLY ONE Requirement--that he be allowed to CALL BACK and Demonstrate the Polish--and when he returns he brings with him his Gold Bricks--the Chest of Silver, Watches, Flat Silver, etc. This STRANGER tells you all about the SAMPLES he is showing (what you receive on an order may be different) and with his Clever Manner and Glib Tongue he induces you to pay a CASH-IN-ADVANCE down-payment, which as a rule is the salesman's commission on your order.

YOU WOULD NOT THINK OF BUYING A DIAMOND FROM A COAL DEALER--or From An Absolute Stranger.

WHY? -- Because you Lack Confidence in His Judgment!

Confidence In Your Jeweler

If real service is being rendered to the Public by your Jeweler—sooner or later you will appreciate his efforts—and he then has your confidence.
YOUR JEWELER has his stock of watches, chests of silver, precious stones, etc., right in his store—for your examination and selection. There is no room for disappointment—you secure the very article you desire—no substitutions.

Besides You Receive The Service You Deserve!

If your watch is not keeping exact time, you are not required to send it in to the FACTORY for an adjustment and be without a timepiece for several days or weeks. Your Jeweler will fix it for you today.
If the Chest of Silver you order from your local Jeweler as a gift for a friend is not the pattern desired you can exchange it. Your Jeweler expects to stay in business in your city and any courtesy extended to you, naturally will bring you to HIS STORE in the future—The Gold Brick Artist may never see you again—and why should he—he has your Cash Deposit on the order—he has gone!
Your Jeweler properly protects his goods. His silver pieces are wrapped in flannel rolls—bearing the store name—which often carries a certain PRESTIGE—thus enhancing the value of the gift.

"Your Money Buys More When You Trade at the Store"

Do NOT confuse representatives of local institutions with the itinerant peddler . . . for they represent legitimate business houses who are furnishing employment to local people, pay local taxes and are entitled to an interview. Protect yourself. Ask the man who calls at your home for credentials from local firms.

U. S. CHIEF FLAYS HIGH PRICE ASKED ON MUD LAKE LAND

Jay N. Darling Says Government May be Forced to Give up Plans

Abandonment of the federal project to develop Mud lake, in Marshall county, as a waterfowl refuge was threatened last week by Jay N. "Ding" Darling, chief of the United States biological survey, because of the alleged machinations of land profiteers.

Mr. Darling's statement was made at the same time he launched an attack against the government and threatened to quit his job, charging it had failed to carry out his wild game and waterfowl conservation program.

Mr. Darling informed E. V. Willard, Minnesota game and fish commissioner, that "certain selfish individuals" are attempting to raise prices on land the government plans to buy for the Mud lake project, and unless their efforts to profiteer are halted the government will be forced to abandon the plan.

"Mud lake constitutes one of the finest potential waterfowl refuges in the country," Mr. Darling said. "Both the United States bureau of biological survey and the Minnesota conservation commission are anxious to carry through this project which will result in important benefits to the local population. But certain selfish individuals, who do not represent the community at large, are doing their best to prevent the establishment of the project by attempting to raise prices to an impossible level.

"We want every dollar spent for land in Marshall county to go directly into the hands of the rightful owners, and we are anxious to protect landowners from the machinations of these misleading persons, whose only wish is to extract a private 'rake-off' from the amounts due the local citizenry.

"It rests with the land owners of Marshall county as to whether they will permit these obstructionist tactics to prevent them and the community at large from benefiting from the land purchase and development."

The government proposes to purchase more than 60,000 acres of land surrounding Mud Lake and to reflood the lake bed as a refuge.

Alex Campbell's Office Busy Place This Week

Following the fixing of automobile license fees by the legislature last week and the setting of May 1 as the deadline for securing licenses without payment of penalty, the office of Alex Campbell, deputy registrar in this city, has been a hive of industry, several hundred applications being taken care of each day. The peak of the rush is expected to be reached over the coming week-end.

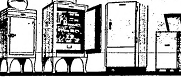
HOW LONG WILL A REFRIGERATOR LAST?

G-E Refrigerator
DISPLAY WEEK
March 25th to March 30th

Pre-Showing of New 1935 General Electric Refrigerators
All with "ageless" sealed-in-steel mechanism—All with 5 Years Performance Protection

A Dozen Models to Select from . . . Any Style! Any Size! Any Price!



New MONITOR TOP Model X a for small homes
New G-E MONITOR TOP —the standard of excellence
New G-E FLATOP ornament of modern styling
New General Electric LIFTOP

THE NEW 1935 G-E refrigerators are on display this week—a dozen models to select from. All three types of refrigerators are here to see and to compare . . . Monitor Top, Flatop and Liftop models.

Performance year after year is what counts

The low operating cost and dependable performance year after year of G-E's "ageless" mechanism outweighs in value all other refrigerator features combined. Choose your refrigerator, not only on style and features but on how long and how well it will serve you. Look to the mechanism first . . . that's what determines how long it will last! Every General Electric sealed-in-steel mechanism carries 5 years performance protection for only $1 a year.

AN APPEAL TO REASON

H. B. Finch, president of the Nash Finch Company, is head of one of the largest and most successful wholesale grocery organizations in the country. From a humble beginning in the fruit business in Grand Forks, the company, of which Mr. Finch was one of the original partners, now operates over a large territory. It's volume of business totals many millions of dollars a year. The Thief River Grocery is only one of many branches that now are a part of this great organization.

This week, while visiting with the manager of the local branch, we were invited to read a circular letter written to employees by Mr. Finch. It was an appeal for temperance. Most of such appeals are so unreasonable that occasionally we wonder if the average temperance crank doesn't really do more harm than good. But this letter written by Mr. Finch sounded so much like an experienced man of the world giving advice to a son whom he loved and whom he wanted to help that we asked permission to reproduce it and here it is:

Gentlemen:

By looking backward over the years that have passed that represent my experience I occasionally make a review of the business. It being a little quiet in my office this afternoon I have been trying to make such a study. In recalling some of the things we have done that represent progress I have also remembered some of the mistakes.

While doing this my mind turned to the successes and failures among the men with whom at one time or another during those years, many of them still being active, I have been associated. I find it not at all difficult to analyze and understand why some men, and the number is large, have made a success of themselves and of their work. When one attempts to search out the reasons for the failures the task is not so easy.

In some cases the men who have failed were not fitted for this type of business. These men were unfortunate in becoming connected with an enterprise for which they did not have the needed ability. Put these men in the type of work where they belong and they will succeed.

As to the individuals not lacking in intelligence and resourcefulness that represent the [illegible] cases, some of these men failing because they were not willing to apply themselves, were not willing to work; perhaps they were overly fun-loving, therefore, did not take responsibilities seriously. Whatever the [illegible] they were men who did not properly devote themselves to the business. While not [illegible] able to understand such cases, in respect to them we should not be too critical.

To me the tragic cases are those where [illegible] natural ability is destroyed by personal habits. I am thinking particularly of [illegible] and its effect when used excessively. I [illegible] that some of the brightest men that have been connected with this organization [illegible] themselves out of it, and further so degraded themselves that they had no place in any useful occupation. As citizens they became more or less valueless, in some cases [illegible] so.

It is because I have been thinking of these men that I am writing this letter. Liquor can do as much damage today as at any time in the past. Its excessive use is sure to destroy. It represents a danger that all of us at all times should be on guard against.

We all know that the use of liquor easily becomes a habit, one that can be formed almost without our knowledge. No one becomes a drunkard by choice. I am not attempting to offer a temperance lecture; I am trying to do no more than point out a danger that for all of us exists.

There are many things in life that are dangerous. When properly used they are harmless. If improperly used, or used to excess, they are injurious. The wise man realizes that danger exists and proceeds cautiously. All around us we see people who in respect to liquor are not recognizing this danger. It seems to me we should make sure we are not one of those who is so heedless.

Yours truly,
H. B. FINCH, President.

AND LARRY HO KNOWS

Ted Christianson, former governor of Minnesota and now representing the fifth district in Congress, is attracting national attention and has been mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for the Presidency. The following tribute written by "Larry Ho" Hodgson, prominent Minnesota Democrat, calls attention to Christianson's growing prominence and reminds us, as only Larry Ho can, that Christianson still represents that solid type of statesmanship so much needed at the present time.

Minnesota, of whatever political persuasion, must feel a keen sense of pride in the prominence being achieved in the East by former Governor Theodore Christianson. The wide acclaim given him for his speech to Havard students—his selection to be the real key-noter at the rehabilitation gathering of the Republican party—these things reflect glory on our state as well as on the congressman himself.

I do not happen to be of his political faith, nor of his political philosophy, but I rejoice to see so splendid a man honored. "Ted" has the qualities of a real statesman. He can think, and he can express his thoughts. But, personally, I honor him most for the simple fact that no power can coerce him against his own judgment; no influence can scare him, and no prospect of vote-getting can prevent him from expressing his opinion even when it is unpopular.

His strict integrity of intellect, his genuine respect for the opinion of others, his infinite patience in arriving at the truth that is dictated by facts and not by emotions, make him an unusual man, and the kind of a man we so greatly need in these days. The Republicans have few leaders so entirely safe as he, so fine a mingling of progressive hope and historic caution. He has something of the splendid impersonal regality of genuineness that characterized Speaker Tom Reed, greatest of modern Republicans. Minnesota will never be ashamed of Ted.

If you know of a garage or a barn around town that isn't being occupied and that could be converted into an emergency dwelling on short notice, let us know about it at once at the Times office so that we can at least direct somewhere the people who are pestering us every day to find them a place in which to live. One young fellow was nearly delirious yesterday. He was moving to town. His family and furniture were on the way. When we saw him last he had given up the idea of finding a place in which to live. He was making a frantic search for a place to store his furniture and couldn't even locate a vacant basement.

The building season is under way again. Several new homes are already under construction. But many homes will have to be built to meet the dwelling shortage in town. Many people wonder why more homes are not built. Why doesn't someone put up an apartment building or two, they ask. But be patient. Economic pressure will bring the desired results. Renters will start competing with each other and rents will go up. As rents advance home ownership will become more appealing. The process is always a little painful. But in this case it is the pain that produces the cure.

UNDERSTAND YOUR TIME
(Times, Monroe, Wisconsin)

"There are no educated men. There never have been. There never will be."

Considering the millions of dollars expended on public education in the United States annually, this quotation might lead many persons to conclude that we might as well cut appropriations abruptly—with the objective of educated men called so unreachable.

But Glenn Frank, even now tussling with budget problems to keep the University of Wisconsin operating as he believes it should, did not mean to express futility when he gave expression to the words quoted above.

He meant, rather, to help people to see education with an adjusted point of view—to inspire them to new understanding of its place in life.

"The men we may most justifiably call educated are simply the men who have never stopped in their pursuit of the flying goals of information and insight," amplified the Badger state's university head.

And he went on to point out that "Education suffers from calendaritis."

"Diplomas and degrees carry the subtle suggestion that a man's education is finished at a certain age and that he can then stop learning and begin living," he explains.

But, when all is said and done, learning is a life job. Education is endless. A true education registers men at the cradle and graduates them at the grave."

Here is an important point that Mr. Frank makes:

"In many ways the adult years are better than youth for learning. There are things we learn more effectively when years have enriched us with experience. Research has proved that the best time to learn anything is just before we need to use it. And, finally, there are no better clues to learning than the difficulties that vex our personal, professional and public lives.

"An effort to understand one's time makes learning a living adventure."

Understand your time.

Is that not the real key to the meaning of education and to progress in dealing with current problems?

With an understanding of human experience as interpreted in historical records, with an eye to the generations that are to follow, we of today must, on a basis of common sense and disciplined thinking, deal definitely with the problems that block our paths in community, state, nation and world.

What greater adventure could anyone ask than the privilege of being active in a part of this vital scene?

The opportunity is open to any one, anywhere if he has but the will to spur on his mental processes and participate in neighborhood or community affairs.

FEEDING PREJUDICES
(Register-Herald, Pine Plains, N. Y.)

Most of us who consider ourselves broadminded are anything but that. Otherwise, how can we account for the fact that we are seldom interested in reading "the other side" of any question.

We read almost exclusively such books, periodicals and newspapers as we know in advance will generally coincide with our own views. Few Republicans subscribe for a red-hot Democratic newspaper, or vice versa. People take church papers only of their own denomination. Capitalists take few labor papers, and laboring men would hardly look at one that reflects the capitalistic viewpoint.

In other words, we all have more or less confirmed opinions on nearly every important subject and do not admit that there may be some virtue in the opposite view.

As a recent writer has said, "The only facts we can tolerate are those we already know." We read, not really to learn anything new, but for the purpose of confirming ourselves in our present beliefs and prejudices.

CALLED SIMPLE MINDED
(Litchfield Independent)

A story is related of a Meeker county young farmer who asked for direct relief and who gave as one of his reasons for making such application that he had two simple-minded brothers. The investigator called at the place to check up and before closing the papers asked about the mental condition of the simple-minded brothers. The farmer was surprised at the question but sent the investigator to the barn where the two young men were hard at work. While they were not of the conversational type the investigator could find nothing that pointed to simple-mindedness. The investigator later took it up with the man who applied for the relief and asked in just what way these men were simple-minded. The reply was "anyone who tries to make a living on the farm working hard like my brothers when they can get 55 cents per hour on relief must be classified as a moron." And he challenged the investigator to deny it.

These are hectic times. If you are poor, extended sympathy is lacking; if you make a success at anything, you get criticized and maligned; if you are down and out, you are called a dumbell; if you have made a few nickels, you are called a self-centered plutocrat. A person can hardly be anything and get away with it. If he stays home, he is a dead one; if he gets about with a little initiative, he is "trying to run the town."—Eveleth Clarion.

If the American people will attend to the things that need attention in this country they won't have much time to give to reforming other countries.—Foley Independent.

A Buffalo attorney told us this one yesterday. A man came into his office with one eye black and the other about closed. In addition to this his face was covered with bruises and scratches. "What in the world is the matter," the attorney asked. "Well," the fellow replied, "nothing much, except that I talked when I should have been listening."—Monticello Times.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

The annual national convention of the W. C. T. U. was held recently in Cleveland. It has been some time since this organization met in the midst of more depressing external conditions. Repeated setbacks have been suffered by the causes for which it stands. Repeal sentiment as indicated by the last election seems to be growing rather than diminishing. Kansas remained loyal to Prohibition, but a number of other states repealed their constitutional or statutory laws against the sale of liquor. Legalized gambling is on the increase, and various forms of vice seem to be taking on new life. This situation was accepted by the good ladies of the W. C. T. U. as a challenge rather than a discouragement.

In the State Senate
By Sen. E. L. Tungseth

My attention has been called to some criticism relative to an article written under date of January 25th and which had reference to the Governor's Inaugural address. In this letter I quoted the Governor as being opposed to further moratorium and tax bargainings. This letter was written on notes which I took while listening to the Governor at that occasion and I am glad to make any corrections necessary since I did not have in mind to reflect disfavorably upon his Excellency. I shall quote from his address relative to tax bargainings and moratoriums so that any misunderstanding may be fully cleared up. In reference to tax delinquencies the Governor said, "I recommend that you refrain from enacting further bargain Statute after the manner of L. 1933, C. 414, Sec. 1" this because "this Statute is clearly unconstitutional in that it violates Art. 9, Sec. 1 of Minnesota Constitution which requires that 'taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects.'" With reference to the mortgage moratorium that Governor said "I recommend that the mortgage moratorium act be so amended as to provide that whenever the owner—occupant of a farm seeking court relief from mortgage foreclosure or eviction, following the expiration of the period of redemption, offers to turn over to the owner of the mortgage upon such farm one-fourth of the crop production of such farm for the calendar year as a payment to apply upon existing indebtedness to such mortgagee, it shall become mandatory upon the court to restrain any attempted foreclosure or eviction." These quotations I believe will rectify any misinterpretation of which I may be accused, and which were entirely unintentional in the newspaper articles which I have written. I have endeavored to be fair to all concerned and I have also endeavored to make them unpolitical, inasmuch as favoring or disfavoring any particular group as I have occasionally said I am not here to oppose or obstruct anyone's program which to me appears to be for the best interest of our people.

Last week we passed a Weighing and Grading Bill in the Senate which had formerly passed the House. This bill was bitterly fought by the opposition which seemingly came from the large interests. It was bombarded by amendments some of which were adopted and which weakened the bill to a very large extent. It still retains some of the original merits but is not as effective as it should have been. Strangely enough some of those who raised bitter opposition on the floor, crawled on the band wagon and voted for the bill when they saw it was getting a majority. This bill, if approved by the Governor will have to be further strengthened in the interest of our farmers at our next legislative session.

Together with Senator Cravens, I introduced a bill to cancel the pension for our Judges and Justices. This may not be considered a very high item for the State of Minnesota and yet every item adds to the final completed budget. My principal reason for being a coauthor of this bill was that I do not believe that anyone class should receive a pension while most of our retired and disabled people must go without. Giving a pension for certain people is legislation which can only be termed as class legislation. Our district judges perhaps are not over paid as compared with the earnings of high class attorneys. Nevertheless, their wages are way above the average and should make it possible for them to lay aside a few dollars for their declining years. In this connection it was interesting to read an editorial in the Red Lake Falls Gazette, the other week: "We cannot for the life of us see why the state should be called upon to pay retirement pensions for judges any more than it should for state senators and representatives, state auditors, treasurers and the like. Our supreme court justices get $8,500 a year with the exception of the chief who gets $9,000. The district court judges get $6,000 and traveling expenses. It would seem that out of these good salaries the judges should be able to save enough to provide for annuities for themselves in their old age just as well salaried men in private life often do. The judges are well paid for their services and no citizen begrudges them their salaries, which are admittedly high enough to attract high class men. But the state should show them no favoritism over other employes by paying them a pension of 60 per cent of their salaries." The bill was killed in committee.

My latest bill is Senate File No. 1660 which is an act levying a capital tax upon the interest accruing on all bonds, warrants and other written obligations heretofore or hereafter issued by the state and its subdivisions. This bill which is an emergency act, taxes all such interest in an amount equal to all of said interest in excess of 3% per annum and the amount of such tax shall be deducted and retained by the State or any and all subdivisions issuing such written obligations. This bill is intended to strike a blow at the high rate of interest which the State and its subdivision must pay on borrowed capital and I am convinced that prosperity cannot return nor be retained if it does return while credit is as expensive as it is under our present interest rate system. This bill should have been introduced earlier but it was difficult to obtain the necessary and authentic legal advice for its drafting. I have reasons to believe that the Governor of our State is in sympathy with this act.

"TERRORISTS" PUT MARK ON EACH FAIRMONT HOUSE

Fairmont—Residents of this city had visions of being marked by a gang of terrorists last week, when every house in town was found marked with a number from one to four. Police, investigating a series of five robberies of homes the night before, immediately saw a connection, and citizens began buying new locks for their doors and oiling up their shotguns. But it all turned out to be just a group of soap salesmen, who canvassed the city giving away coupons for soap. There were four young men in the group, and apparently to avoid duplication, each left his number on the house he had visited. Police received dozens of calls about the numbers, but it was not until late in the day that anyone could be found who had seen the salesmen write their number on the house.

ROSEWOOD

An unusual hog litter is reported from the farm of Mr. and Mrs. John Heider where a Chester White yearling sow gave birth to 16 small pigs last week. Being unable to take care of all these by the mother, bottle feeding is used. Heiders are members of the national hog-corn program.

Seeding on the sand ridges begun the middle of the week, and the prairie lands will be tillable in a few days. Practically every farm in the community is under lease and there prevails very healthy indications of rural prosperity. According to the recent U. S. census survey the New Solum township in 1935 had 95 separate farm units in comparison with 67 in 1931.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Thief River Falls, Minnesota

Pursuant to adjournment the City Council of the City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, met in session in the Council Chambers in the Auditorium and Municipal Building on April 18, 1935. The meeting was called to order at eight o'clock P. M. with all members present.

Paul A. Lundgren, representing the Commercial Club of the City, appeared before the board with regard to the possible revision of electric light and power rates and the Committee was asked to bring in a formal recommendation at the time of the next regular meeting.

The Council was advised that the District SERA Engineer, H. L. Frisbie, had refused to release any relief labor on the two water and sewer projects to be undertaken by the City Council due to refusal of the Council to approve for payment certain bills incurred by him on the Red Lake River Project. Alderman McFarland introduced resolution calling the attention of Mr. Frisbie's attitude in his refusal of release of labor to the State Engineer, Mr. Zimmerman, calling the attention to the various bills incurred by Mr. Frisbie and charged to the City and also calling to the attention of the State Engineer certain bills for services on Air Port Project by SERA Engineers which had been advanced by the City with the understanding that the amounts would be refunded and moved the adoption of the same. The motion was seconded by Aldermen Christofferson and adopted unanimously.

On motion duly made and carried the meeting was declared adjourned.

P. O. MYHRUM,
President of the Council.

Attest: P. G. Pederson,
City Clerk.

MAKES PROPOSALS FOR TOWN AND CITY BEAUTIFICATION

N. W. School Man Suggests Best Varieties of Trees to Set Out

Cities and towns throughout the Red River Valley are being urged by T. M. McCall, Northwest School and Station horticulturist, to formulate definite long time civic beautification programs with a view, not only of obtaining the greatest returns from temporary relief labor, but to insure maximum beautification results. Such projects may include street tree planting and maintenance, improvement of parks and waterfronts.

Many of the fast growing trees, such as box elder, cottonwood and willow, which were used as street trees in the original planting of town sites are now past maturity and should be replaced with more permanent species. These should include the American elm, green ash, hackberry, basswood or tree type Chinese elm. Evergreens do not make desirable street trees. Since but few cities have ordinances regarding species to use, it is highly desirable for property owners to cooperate with city officials.

Permanent trees should have the right of way which means that it may be necessary to move pole lines, or if this is not possible, only medium height trees such as Mountain Ash should be planted. Street trees should be allowed to develop their full form and should not be bobbed or topped to accommodate telephone lines. The chief pruning necessary for street trees consists of starting a central leader and then cutting off low branches which interfere with traffic. According to Professor McCall, permanent trees of the larger growing species should be spaced from thirty to forty feet apart in the line of row, while smaller trees such as Mountain Ash and Chinese elm may be planted from 25 to 30 feet apart.

Final County Corn-Hog Money for '34 Arrives in Amount of $3,159.17

The third and final payment on 1934 corn-hog contracts was received Saturday in the office of County Agent R. M. Douglass for distribution to signers of contracts in Pennington and Red Lake counties. A total of $3,159.17 is being distributed to 141 Pennington county signers, while $4,052.23 goes to 203 signers in Red Lake county. Expenses of the local corn-hog association, aggregating .28 cents per hog, were taken out of the current payment of $2 a head on the adjusted annual average of hogs produced for market.

Delinquent P. P. Taxes Turned Over to Sheriff

Clerk of Court Adolf Eklund Tuesday turned over to Sheriff Arthur Rambeck for collection a total of more than 230 delinquent personal property tax attachments. While a few large items are included in the list, most of the attachments average from $5 to $6. If no response is received to mailed notices it will be the duty of the sheriff to levy on the property involved for the amount of the taxes due.

FUNDS AVAILABLE FOR MORE BANG'S DISEASE TESTING

Additional Applications Are Now Being Taken From Cattle Owners

Minnesota has received $800,000 from an appropriation of $8,500,000 recently made by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to the Bureau of Animal Industry for the eradication of Bang's disease (contagious abortion) of cattle, W. J. Fretz of St. Paul federal veterinarian in charge of livestock disease eradication work in Minnesota, announces.

This fund is in addition of $1,900,000 previously allotted to this state by the Bureau of Animal Industry for the eradication of this disease. The additional fund will enable the state and federal government to test many herds not yet reached by this program, and to retest many herds in which the disease has been found active in two previous tests. Indemnities will be paid herd owners, on the same basis as under the original program, for diseased cattle removed from herds in accordance with government regulations. No distinction will be made in the payment of indemnities between animals reacting to a third and fourth retest, to be provided with the additional fund, and those found in the original test and first retest, Dr. Fretz says.

Local Bang's disease committees are now accepting applications from cattle owners, both for first tests and for retesting, Dr. Fretz says. In approving applications for first tests, however, preference is being given to herds in which the disease is active and especially to those whose owners intend to continue testing, either under state or federal supervision, until their herds are free from disease.

"When the Bang's disease program was first started, its purpose was primarily that of enabling farmers to cull the least efficient cattle from their herds so scant feed supplies could be conserved for the more efficient animals and the nation's total supply of beef and dairy products could be adjusted to the effective demand," Dr. Fretz explains. "As the campaign has progressed, however, farmers have become more and more interested in it as a disease eradication measure, and many will probably continue the testing of their herds and the disposal of their diseased animals, even after the federal program is ended."

Progress Being Made in District Scout Work

At a special meeting of the district Boy Scout committee Monday evening in the Carnegie library, Peter DeJong, area executive, explained plans for sending Boy Scouts to the national Jamboree in Washington, D. C. Bert Kirkconnell reported the formation of new troops at St. Hilaire, Plummer, Goodridge and Steiner, and G. H. Mayer-Oakes was named to act as installing officer for a troop to be established at Greenbush Friday evening. Others present at the meeting were Chairman B. O. Norby, Olaf Nesst, Rev. H. L. Sjogren and Clarence Sande.

Bull Leaps Onto Hood of D. V. Snelling Car

While driving toward the city five miles west of Thief River Falls Sunday evening, D. V. Snelling had the unpleasant experience of having a bull leap from the side of the road and land on the hood of his car, the animal apparently being befuddled by the glare of the headlights. The car was moving at a moderate speed at the time and was quickly brought to a stop. The windshield and a headlight of the car were broken, but the bull was apparently none the worse for his experience.

Auditor Fowler Confers With Senate Committee on Pending Tax Bills

County Auditor Harry L. Fowler returned Sunday from St. Paul where he was summoned late last week by the senate tax committee to confer regarding pending tax bills. An agreement was reached to set July, 1936, as the time for the forfeiture sale of lands tax delinquent for the years 1926 to 1929, the bill being in conference the first of the week. Mr. Fowler stated that the recent supreme court decision involving discount tax sales affected land owners only and not the buyers of tax certificates. It was expected that before the legislature adjourned a curative bill would be passed to clear up the situation.

Details Completed for Elks Initiation Tonight

All details have been attended to in connection with the annual spring roundup of the local Elks lodge this evening, Secretary O. C. Paulson announced today. Following the serving of a banquet in the Civic and Commerce association rooms at 6:15, the members will adjourn to the lodge rooms where, at 7:30, Exalted Ruler J. O. Yotter and his official staff will proceed with the initiation of 20 candidates, designated as the Andy Anderson class. Refreshments will be served following the ceremonies.

Charged With Operating Overweight Truck Here

The case of L. E. Blake of Sessner, operator of a truck for W. R. Cave, who was taken into custody by the state highway patrol north of Thief River Falls last Thursday, is scheduled to be heard in municipal court this afternoon. In addition to being charged with carrying a load heavier than permitted by highway restrictions, Blake is charged with carrying a heavier load than his license calls for. The gross load was reported as weighing 17,050 pounds at the time he was halted.

MINNESOT ORICAL

LOWER HOUSE OF CONGRESS O. K.'S OLD-AGE PENSION

Legislation Urged by President Now Goes to Senate

The administration's social security bill—designed to promote what President Roosevelt has termed the "more abundant life"—was passed Friday by the house and sent to the senate. The vote was 372 to 33.

In two days of consideration, 42 amendments were offered. Not one which lacked the support of the administration was adopted and the two written in were of a minor nature.

The vote against a republican motion to return the measure to committee—offered by Representative A. T. Treadway (dem. Mass.), was 146 to 258.

Following is a brief summary of what the social security bill would do:

Grant aid to states for old age pensions to persons who have reached 65. The federal government contribution would be limited to $15 a month on a dollar-for-dollar matching basis.

Establish taxes on payrolls and earnings to pay annuities of as much as $85 a month to persons now working after they reach 65.

Levy federal taxes on payrolls for unemployment insurance administered under state laws. The employer could deduct from the federal taxes up to 90 per cent of what he paid to a state for job insurance.

Grant various small sums to states to help them in aiding dependent children, crippled children, public health work and the vocational rehabilitation of persons injured in industry.

The house rejected, 128 to 65, an amendment by Representative D. A. Reed (rep. N. Y.) to strike out the annuity taxes which actuaries estimate will bring in $1,877,200,000 by 1950.

After a period of inactivity Minnesota anglers are anxiously awaiting the opening of the annual stream trout fishing season which occurs Wednesday, May 1, in all counties of the state except Lake, St. Louis, Itasca, Koochiching, Carlton and Cook. In these counties, the season will get under way on May 15. All county auditors of the state have a supply of 1935 fishing licenses on hand. No change in license fees has as yet been made by the present legislature now in session.

University Sets May 11 for Mother's Day Event

President L. D. Coffman has set Saturday May 11, as Mothers' Day at the University of Minnesota and has sent letters to the mothers of all students urging them to pay a visit to the campus at that time.

Many mothers also will come to the campus on Thursday, May 16 for Cap and Gown Day when the senior students will appear in the traditional academic garb of those who are about to graduate.

Mothers' Day is set aside each year to give the mothers of students a chance to inspect any part of the university. Whether their curiosity concerns classes, teachers, living quarters, meals, buildings, laboratories, the president, the deans or the athletic plant, they are encouraged to ask questions and to tell what things they would like to see.

The Mothers' Day dinner at night in the ballroom of the Minnesota Union will be the culminating event of the day.

CITES BENEFITS GIVEN BY FEDERAL LAND BANK LOANS

Total of $87,000,000 Debts Paid in This Manner up to January 1

Funds drawn from investors in many parts of the country and secured by mortgages on Minnesota farms have enabled farmers of this state to pay off approximately $87,147,000 in debts in the period from May 1, 1933 to the beginning of January this year. These figures have just been released by the statistical division of the Farm Credit Administration of St. Paul.

This nationwide market for the mortgages of Minnesota farmers was obtained through the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul and the land bank commissioner, which pooled these mortgages by the thousands and put them up as security for bonds, which were sold to the public. The bank is now paying the interest on these bonds and deriving funds for that purpose out of the small payments made by borrowers. The borrowers have 10 to 33 years in which to pay off the principal in semi-annual installments, but these installments may be deferred on land bank loans until July 1938 and commissioner loans for the first three years, provided there is no default, so that only interest is regularly required at this time.

Counties, townships, cities and the state itself have received $2,508,000 in taxes out of the total shown above, and mortgage investments made through the department of rural credits have also been refinanced through the land bank. Commercial banks and bank receivers got more than $28,700,000. Other creditors who have participated in the refinancing of these Minnesota farmers are insurance companies, merchants, individuals and several other classes.

About $10,345,000 in addition to that mentioned has been obtained from the land bank and the commissioner for the purchase of land, equipment, farm improvements and other agricultural uses.

FAMED SWIM CHAMP ALMOST DROWNED FOUR YEARS AGO

Chisholm.— Four short years ago, Anne Govednik, 19-year old St. Cloud Teachers College student and now trying out for the Olympic swimming team, had to stay away from anything resembling deep water. The potential "champ" not only could not swim, but got out beyond her depth in the water and had to be saved by her sister. Anne was in bathing in a pond near her home, getting into trouble when she waded out beyond the safe limits. Her sister, Mary, arrived in time to pull her out, after another friend had almost been dragged down by the struggling girl. The experience was enough, and Anne immediately began learning to swim. Today she has not only learned the art to perfection, but holds two world records and four American records in the breast stroke, all taken without a single professional lesson.

2 SHORT COURSES AT N. W. SCHOOL PLANNED IN JUNE

4-H Club Members From Northern Counties to Attend June 20-22

Plans for the annual Junior Short course to be held at the Northwest School of Agriculture during the week of June 17 to 22 are rapidly taking form, according to District Club Leader H. A. Pflughoeft. Because of the marked increase in attendance during recent years it has been decided to hold two short courses in place of a single session as has been the case in the past. Four-H club members from the southern Valley counties will attend June 17 to 19, while the northern counties will be in attendance June 20 to 22.

Southern counties include Clay, Otter Tail, Becker, Norman, Polk and Mahnomen. The northern group of counties will include Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, and Clearwater. By arranging two separate short courses Mr. Pflughoeft expects to hold each group to a maximum of not over six hundred, thus accommodating approximately twelve hundred club members during the week.

In addition to the regular class and laboratory work in agriculture and home economics, a special recreational program is being arranged by Coach R. J. Christgau. Other features will include special group stunts, county contests and entertainment. Mr. Pflughoeft has also announced a special conference of 4-H club leaders to be addressed by State Club Leader T. A. Erickson and other leading officials. Registration of club members will be supervised by J. W. Milnar, Northwest School registrar, and members of the school staff will assist with the educational program.

Duluth Man Appointed by State Officials to Handle Soldier Relief

Over the negative votes and serious doubts of Farmer-Laborites, Gov. Olson and Atty.-Gen. Harry H. Peterson as to the legality of the move, the three Republican members of the state executive council Friday voted out of the hands of the board of control the distribution of soldiers' relief and created a new state department to function for the same purpose.

Lining up solidly behind Republican Auditor Stafford King, Republican Treasurer Julius Schmahl and Secretary of State Mike Holm voted with King to pass by three to two vote his resolution abolishing the board of control war veterans' relief agency, established by the legislature two years ago, and creating an entirely new bureau to perform the same duties. Two of the board of control members are Gov. Olson appointees.

Immediately upon passage of the resolution, King announced the appointment of George B. Sjoselius, Duluth attorney and one-time American Legion post commander there, as head of the bureau. He will perform the duties now controlled by David Lundeen, Minneapolis.

The legislature recently authorized the executive council to expend not less than $750,000 nor more than $1,250,000 for soldiers' relief purposes during the next biennium.

Wood Lake.—A flourishing business is being conducted by C. H. Kennedy, Murdock, in old, disabled, and unwanted horses. Believe it or not, Kennedy has shipped out ten carloads of old Dobbins since January 1, and there are going to be a lot of dogs throughout the country that will find that Dobbin doesn't make such a bad meal after all. The demand for commercial dog food is growing each year, and in 1934 some sixty-seven million dollars worth was sold in the United States. Kennedy puts in his time dickering with farmers for the horses, buys them by the head at various prices and then ships them to Rockford, Ill.

EGGS, CREAM SCRAMBLED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Fosston.—Forty dozen eggs and five gallons of cream, rolled together in a ditch when a car overturned near Fosston recently, gave plenty of opportunity for anyone so inclined to add a little salt and baking powder and bake a cake right in the ditch. The accident occurred when the car in which Mrs. A. R. Behlke and her son were bringing their produce to market slid from the pavement onto a soft shoulder in the road and rolled into the ditch. The farm products were a total loss, but the birds nearby stuffed themselves. Injuries to the occupants of the car were slight, and damage to the car is largely the result of the smashed eggs and spilled cream.

Red River Valley History

By Wm F. Working

Early Census Figures

Early census figures show that this region, particularly Pennington county and its immediately adjacent areas, rated low in population in the frontier period. Contrary to general belief, Indians were not numerous enough to cause congestion and whites, of course, were few. It will be noted in the subjoined paragraphs that reference was made to Polk county, but readers will find the explanation that Polk then embraced the Thief River Falls area. Census figures are eloquent in that they give us a cross-section of the life of the period covered. For that reason a study of the census figures here is recommended. The paragraphs are quoted from an early account.

"From 1850 to 1860 there was some development and occupation of the country within the present limits of Polk county. Indeed it seems from certain known circumstances that settlements were made in different parts of the country's present area before 1850.

In 1858, when Polk county was created by the Minnesota legislature, its declared boundaries included all of the new area of the county, and also the following described territory: All of Pennington, Red Lake, Mahnomen, Clearwater and Norman counties; the great part of the north half of Clay county; 12 miles off the northern part and a strip three sections long from north to south by one section wide off the west side of Becker county; the southwest part of Beltrami county; 12 miles off the southern part of Marshall county and all of the Red Lake Indian reservation—an area of about 2,000 miles.

"When in 1849 and 1850 a census of the people of Minnesota Territory was taken whatever civilized population existed in this region was counted in the returns of Pembina county, to which county what is now Polk then belonged. But in 1860 Polk county was in existence, a separate county, and in the census of that year it was enumerated separately. The commissioner was Oscar Taylor, of St. Cloud, who was a lawyer, but during the Civil and Indian wars was a captain in the First Minnesota Mounted Rangers; later he was a member of the legislature for several years and a prominent attorney of St. Cloud. His enumeration was made in the month of July.

"At the time of the enumeration there were four postoffices in the then Polk county: Georgetown, Rice River, Red River Junction and Red Lake. Of these only Red River Junction, now East Grand Forks, is a Polk county town and post office. The population of the county was listed as to their post office addresses, and the total was 266, of which 140 males and 100 were females.

"Of course, each of these post offices was the site of one or more trading houses and the enumerated inhabitants were for the most part connected in some way with them. Perhaps a majority of those counted, especially those at Red Lake, were Indians or mixed bloods. The rule was to count all of white blood, and also all Indians and those of mixed blood that had adopted the habits and customs of civilization.' This definition was held to include all that had professed Christianity, no matter if they still went blanketed and moccasined and yet dwelt in tepees and wigwams. The number of mixed bloods reported was 94, leaving the total white population 146.

"These figures are from the manuscript copy of the census, as reported by Commissioner Taylor and now on file in the office of Public Documents in the capitol building at St. Paul, and also as reported in the state legislative manual for 1871.

"The population of Red River Junction (believed to have been East Grand Forks) was 40, including one negro and 12 mixed bloods. Total males, 25; females, 15.

"Georgetown post office reported 65 people, of whom three were mixed bloods; Rice River, 46 whites and four mixed bloods; Red Lake had four white (traders) and 80 mixed bloods and one Indian, John Tumbay.

"The exact residences of the people of these various post offices cannot here be definitely given. It is probable, however, that for the most part those of Red River Junction lived at or near the Junction. The place was called Red River Junction because it was the junction of the Red river with its principal tributary, the Red Lake. What eventually became of all these Red River Junction people is not known to the present writer. We know that Charles Cavileer (as he always wrote his name) went to North Dakota and laid out the town of Pembina, was its first postmaster, and died there in 1902. He was prominent in early North Dakota affairs and the county of Cavalier (with the reformed spelling) was named for him".

"Self Preservation"

"Self Preservation" is nature's first law.

Every territorial unit on earth today is realizing that Self Preservation must come first. Each nation and section is endeavoring to hold within its borders every possible activity. It is endeavoring to give employment to its own people, and to send outside only those things which it is impossible to do at home. It wants to keep its wealth at home, its money in circulation at home, its own people employed. The more they are able to do that, the greater is their contribution to overcoming the depression with which we are battling.

The closer to home our products can be processed, and the more the distance of marketing back to the consumer is shortened, the more the consequent saving to all the people.

The Northern Packing Company is doing its part in this work. This company has in the past few years, conducted a business in this Northwest aggregating over $10,000,000. It has given employment continuously to approximately 125 people, which means that upwards to 500 individuals have depended upon this industrial institution for their living. This company has paid to the farmers of this section over ten million dollars for livestock. It has paid out to employees over two million dollars. A very large amount of money has thus been kept at home for the support of this immediate Northwest section, which would otherwise, have gone to distant sections for the building up of their wealth, and the support of their population. This company has furnished, and is furnishing, a daily market for hogs, cattle, calves, sheep and lambs.

Necessarily, the price that we pay must equal or exceed competitive markets; otherwise, we would not have been able to build the business here that we have. Our sales tonnage now is running about 18% ahead of last year.

Today's price level paid by this company stands at still higher level compared with other markets than ever before; and as a result, a larger percentage of livestock available in this section is being marketed here than in former years.

Shipping livestock to distant markets costs the producer money in shrinkage, commissions, yardage, insurance and freight; and the shipping back from those markets places an additional burden upon the consumers of this Northwest.

Farmers within a radius of 50 to 100 miles will net more for their livestock, whether it is one animal, a truck load, or a car load, here at the Northern Packing Company than at any other market, and you can market any time and receive cash for your livestock.

We want especially your hogs and cattle. Check our prices, which are published daily in the newspapers, and are given over the radio.

EXHIBITS MA[illegible] FINAL MEETIN[illegible] OF P.T.A. GROUP

Home Economics Classes Present Style Show Monday Evening

A. M. SENSTAD NEW ASSOCIATION HEAD

Supt. Morris Bye Outlines Development of Modern High School

A. M. Senstad was named president of the Parent-Teacher association, succeeding Mrs. H. O. Norby, in the annual election of officers conducted Monday evening at the final meeting of the year. Other officers elected include Miss Agnes Tandberg, first vice president; Fred Protz, second vice president; Miss Esther Larson, secretary; and Gaston Ward, treasurer.

A feature of the program, over which C. W. Pope presided, was the presentation of a style show by girls in the home economics classes under the direction of Miss Ruth Fletcher, in which the students modeled a large collection of garments made during the year, including attractive dresses of various styles, pajamas and shorts.

Musical numbers included songs by the seventh grade mixed chorus and the Central school boys' chorus under the direction of Miss Erma Springen. Miss Florence Parsons, school nurse, submitted a report on the summer roundup for pre-school children held last Saturday.

Supt. Morris Bye gave an informative address on the evolution of the modern high school from the time of the founding of the first secondary public school in Boston three hundred years ago. He pointed out that the early schools were not for the masses, but charged tuition and set up class distinctions.

The next step, he said, was the establishment in 1751 of the academy, a private institution charging tuition, which aimed to prepare the student for life rather than for college. The first institution known as a high school, Mr. Bye stated, originated in Boston in 1824, and was tax supported, charging no tuition.

As evidence of the rapid development of high schools thruout the country, he cited the fact that in Thief River Falls since 1910 the population has increased 15 per cent, while the high school enrollment has increased 250 per cent and the number of graduates 500 per cent, indicating not only that a much larger number of children are attending high school but that a far higher percentage is completing the full course of study.

Following the formal program the large audience adjourned to the home economics and industrial training departments to inspect the varied assortment of products of the past year's work by the students. The excellence of the exhibits testified to the practical value of the departments. Lunch was served at the close of the evening by students in the home economics classes.

NOTED SPEAKERS TO ADDRESS N. W. EDUCATORS HERE

Senator LaFollette to Speak at Convention in City Next October

An outstanding array of noted speakers has been secured for the program of the Northern Minnesota Educational association convention to be held in the Auditorium in this city October 17 and 18, Supt. Morris Bye, member of the executive committee, announced today.

Headlining the list is Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin, who will deliver an address the evening of October 17. Other speakers earlier in the day will include Dr. Lotus D. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota; Lloyd C. Douglas, author of "Magnificent Obsession"; and Dr. Clyde M. Hill, chairman of the department of education at Yale university.

Speakers the second day of the convention will include Dr. John G. Rockwell, state commissioner of education, and George E. Sokolsky, newspaper and magazine writer. The program will close with an evening concert by the Little Philharmonic orchestra of Chicago.

Wallace Beery Here in Flying Picture Sunday

Wallace Beery plays the part of a hard-boiled flying instructor training American army aviators in his latest picture "West Point of the Air", which comes to the Avalon theatre Sunday and Monday. In the supporting cast are Robert Young, Maureen O'Sullivan, Lewis Stone and James Gleason.

Local People Receive Flood of Send-a-Dime Chain Letters in Mail

A large number of local residents during the past week have been recipients of "send a dime" chain letters as well as a smaller number asking that a quarter be sent. Postoffices in the larger cities have been flooded with the letters and postal inspectors are reported to be making a checkup. The person receiving a letter, on which five names appear, is to "make five clear copies of the letter, leaving off the top line and adding your own at the bottom, and mail to five other persons you know." You merely send a dime to the person whose name is on top, and in turn when your name finally gets to the top, after five movements of the chain, you will receive, provided the chain is not broken, 15,625 letters containing a dime apiece, or $1,562.50.

CONSIDER PLANS FOR AN ENCLOSED ICE RINK IN CITY

Local Group Inspects Similar Structure at Hallock Sunday

Tentative plans for the construction of an enclosed skating rink in Thief River Falls are being sponsored by the local American Legion post, which is enlisting the support of the city administration and various civic organizations, it was announced today.

Included in a group that journeyed to Hallock Sunday to inspect an enclosed rink erected in that village last fall were Councilmen P. O. Myhrum, Carl Christofferson, Emil Griebstein and W. K. Knight; S. P. Orwoll, Alex Campbell, O. C. Paulson, William LaFave, W. L. Carlisle, W. E. Dahlquist and Alvin Christofferson.

The visitors were favorably impressed by the Hallock structure, which was built under a public works grant and which accommodates a skating rink 70 by 170 feet in dimensions. The group was informed that during the past winter the rink cleared $2,500 to apply on the indebtedness.

Sponsors of the building here indicated that if ways and means can be worked out a structure approximately 100 by 200 feet in size would be constructed of tile, stone and steel, and that it probably would be constructed at the rear of the Auditorium.

TWIN CITY TRAIN SCHEDULE ON SOO LINE IS IMPROVED

Train to Leave Minneapolis at 7:45 and to Arrive Here at 3:45

A new and faster schedule for the northbound Winnipeg train from Minneapolis, No. 109, designed to expedite the handling of mail and fast freight, will go into effect Sunday, May 19, W. H. Mann, Soo Line superintendent here, announced on his return Wednesday from Minneapolis where he conferred with company officials.

Under the new schedule the train will leave Minneapolis at 7:45 in the evening instead of 5:45 as at present, and will arrive in Thief River Falls at 3:45 instead of 2:30 in the morning, reducing the running time by 45 minutes.

In addition to permitting the carrying of late afternoon mail from the Twin Cities, the new arrangement provides for the handling of fast freight out of Minneapolis for Thief River Falls and connecting points.

DISCUSS PLAN TO BOOST R. C. FARM INCOME

Arens Heads Delegation That Meets With Field Men in This City

PLAN A CAMPAIGN ON NOXIOUS WEEDS

Broad Program Outlined by Rural Credit Chiefs Here Saturday

A broad program looking well into the future, designed to reduce weed infestation on farms controlled by the department of rural credit and to create sources of pure seed supply for the farms was outlined Friday and Saturday in this city at a meeting of rural credit farm managers presided over by Theodore H. Arens of St. Paul, conservator of the department.

Speakers at the meeting Friday included Ralph Crim, agronomy specialist of University Farm, St. Paul, who discussed pure seed production; Theodore H. Mellem, of Ulen, who told of his work along that line; Sam Hammerbeck of the weed and seed section of the state department of agriculture, who talked on methods of weed control; and T. C. Hanigan, potato specialist with the department of rural credit, who outlined plans for producing seed potato stock.

The underlying purpose of the program, Mr. Arens said, is to increase farm income, thus enabling borowers better to meet their obligations and to facilitate the sale of lands owned by the department.

Northern Minnesota, Mr. Crim said, is ideally adapted to clover production, but that cash returns are reduced by the prevalence of weed infestation. The big problem in the immediate future, he said, is to clean up the fields, and this in most cases must be accomplished by degrees.

Mr. Mellem, prominent seed grower, recommended the use of Mindum durum, Gopher and Anthony oats and Peatland barley, and urged the importance of treating seed grains for smut. He also discussed his experience in the growing of early maturing varieties of corn, particularly the Crookston strain of Northwestern Dent and the Haney strain of Minnesota 13.

In introducing Mr. Hammerbeck, Mr. Arens told of plans to conduct practical weed demonstrations on some of the department's farms designed to ascertain the best methods of combating leafy spurge and other noxious weeds. Mr. Hammerbeck advised against the use of "bargain" seeds as unlikely to give satisfactory results. He stated that the two hardest weeds to eradicate are the creeping Jenny or wild morning glory and the leafy spurge, two to three years of hard work being required to clean up an infested field.

Mr. Arens said the department is going to insist that rural credit farms be kept free from weeds as far as possible, and that noxious weeds be kept from going to seed. He instructed the farm managers to familiarize themselves with the weed and seed laws and with the best methods of weed eradication.

Mr. Hanigan recommended the Bliss Triumph, Irish Cobbler and Early Ohio potatoes as being excellent early varieties, for which there is a brisk seed demand in states farther south. He is now engaged in promoting the growing of seed stock on rural credit farms adapted to this crop.

It was indicated that Mr. Mellem will have charge of a project to grow pure seeds on small plots on northwest farms to be supplied for use on department farms that have fields properly prepared for the purpose.

C. H. Gaarenstroom, attorney for the department, explained features of a new law providing for the sale of rural credit farms on the crop payment plan.

700 to Join in Grade Music Festival Friday

Pupils of Northrop, Washington and Knox to Appear at Auditorium

Approximately 700 pupils of the Knox, Northrop and Washington grade schools will participate in a music festival in the municipal Auditorium Friday afternoon at 2:30 under the direction of Miss Erma Springen, public school music supervisor. The event will be a part of the local observance of National Music week.

As was done for the festival last year, the stage will be extended to accommodate the massed group of younger singers. An added feature of the program will be two selections, "Anitra's Dance" and an American patriotic medley, by a toy orchestra made up of pupils in the third grades. Directors will be Kathleen Scanlan and Paul Aasby, and Miss Harriet Lamson will serve as accompanist.

Five selections will be rendered by massed groups of singers representing each of the three participating schools, and each of the six grades in each school will join with those in other two schools in presenting a group of selections.

The program will close with the singing of "America", "Hail, Minnesota", "Home, Sweet Home" and "The Star Spangled Banner" by pupils of the combined schools together with the toy orchestra.

Commissioners Named by Judge M. A. Brattland

O. L. Ihle, George Werstlein and Robert J. Lund last Thursday in district court were appointed by Judge M. A. Brattland to serve as commissioners to appraise damages to owners of property in the block including the community skating rink now being acquired for park purposes by the city under condemnation proceedings. The three men qualified Monday and began the work of appraisal the following day.

My Mother

There's an old-fashioned house
At the end of a lane,
That has always seemed heaven to me;
For an old lady lives there,
Just simple and plain—
An angel, if ever there be!
Her eyes are pure well-springs
Of sweetness and love—
The sun it just shines in her smile!
And I know the Lord sent her
From up there above,
To brighten this world for a while!

Her sweet face is crowned
With a halo o' white—
Her robe is a calico dress;
And she goes about singing,
From morning till night—
Her voice like a soothing caress;
And there isn't a queen
In this world anywhere,
Can look any finer than she,
When "Ma" sits on her "throne"—
Just an old rocking-chair,
And smiles at her worshipper—me!

There are folks who think heaven
Is some far-off place—
They're hoping they'll find it somewhere;
But I'm right here to say,
If they'd glimpse mother's face—
They'd think she was already there!

Head of Syrian Mission Tells of Conditions in Near East

A large audience at the Community church Sunday evening enjoyed an interesting discussion of conditions in the Near East given by the Rev. James H. Nicol, who came to this city in 1903 to serve as the first regular pastor of the Presbyterian church, and who now is in charge of Presbyterian missions in Syria, where he and his family have lived for most of the past 30 years.

In justification of the need of Christian missionary work in the Near East, Reverend Nicol cited the fact that the natives are not happy under the prevailing Mohammedan form of religion, pointing out the uncertain marital status of women and the resulting lack of stability in the home. He added that the work of the missions not only includes caring for the spiritual needs of the people, but also their physical wellbeing.

The speaker said that a new mode of life for women on more modern terms is now opening up in the Near East and that the day of the woman with veiled face is slowly passing. Higher education for women, he added, is now available thru an institution established in Beirut by the mission he represents.

Reverend Nicol also spoke to the students of Lincoln high school in the assembly room Monday morning. He left that evening for Minneapolis, and with Mrs. Nicol will sail in July from New York city on their return trip to Syria.

JORDAN STEVENS CO., MINNEAPOLIS OPENS PLANT HERE

Ernest Barzen Named Manager of Wholesale Grocery Branch

The Jordan Stevens company, wholesale grocers of Minneapolis, this week are establishing a Thief River Falls branch with Ernest Barzen as manager, it was announced today by R. A. Bihler, a director of the company, which is successor to the Anthony Kelly and W. B. and W. G. Jordon companies of Minneapolis. The local branch will utilize the tile warehouse built last year by the Math Barzen company and will have its offices above those of the Barzen company.

Mr. Barzen stated that Ary Roese will have charge of country sales, while E. M. Hammang will also be on the sales staff and Ames Peterson will be in charge of the warehouse as foreman, in addition to which there will be two assistants. Handling a complete line of groceries under the Time O'Day and Tonka brands, the branch will for the time being serve present accounts thruout this section. The Jordan Stevens company is associated in a buying organization with 44 wholesalers thruout the United States, Mr. Bihler said.

Carl Gjernes, with the Math Barzen company the past 11 years, will succeed Mr. Barzen as manager of the company. After serving as manager of the Barzen elevator at Oklee, he became associated with the company in this city as seed buyer and later took charge of all seed operations in the local plant.

Local Concerns Given Subcontracts on New Postoffice Building

Carl Steen, Grand Forks contractor, was in this city last Thursday to inspect the site for the new postoffice building here for which he was recently awarded the contract by the treasury department. While here he arranged with H. P. Lund & Son to handle the excavation work for the new structure, and also awarded the contract for the millwork to the Northern Woodwork company. He stated that work would get under way immediately following official approval of his bond, which was forwarded to Washington Monday of last week. Fred Gardiner of Grand Forks will be in charge of construction, he stated.

Creamery Operators Meet This Afternoon

Creamery operators of Districts 3 and 4 will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the former Elks hall. A feature of the meeting will be a discussion of the new Minnesota cream grading law, speakers including C. M. Pesek, state dairy and food inspector, and Ben Ommodt, Land O'Lakes field man in District 17.

Cleanup Time Now Here, Health Officer States

Dr. O. F. Mellby, city health officer, announces today in an official notice in the Times, that cleanup time has arrived, and that it is the duty of every property holder in the city to clean up his premises and eliminate any unsanitary conditions now prevailing. The notice calls for the completion of the work not later than Saturday, May 25.

OMMODT RESIGNS AS FIELD MAN TO ACCEPT NEW POST

Promoted to Minneapolis Office in Charge of All Field Men

Ben J. Ommodt, Land O'Lakes field man in District 17 with headquarters in Thief River Falls, will leave with his family next week for Minneapolis to accept a promotion to the office of directing head of the entire staff of Land O'Lakes field men and creamery contact service.

In commenting on the nature of the new office the Land O'Lakes News says, "The field service in the Land O'Lakes Creameries has become such an extremely important factor in the development of the organization that it has become necessary to correlate this service under one head so far as possible".

Mr. Ommodt has been serving in his present capacity for the past two and one-half years, having come to this city from Valley City, N. D. The Land O'Lakes board of District 17 met in this city Wednesday to act on the appointment of a successor, but withheld announcement of its choice until approval has been received from the Minneapolis office.

100 Delegates Attend Epworth League Meet in City Last Weekend

Approximately 100 delegates from thruout Northwestern and Central Minnesota attended the annual Epworth League convention of the Fergus Falls district in this city Friday, Saturday and Sunday. A feature of the gathering was a highly successful banquet held Saturday evening in the Legion rooms in the Auditorium. Much favorable comment was expressed following the presentation Friday evening of the one-act play "The Lost Church" by members of the local league. Election of officers of the district group was postponed until the institute is held at Park Rapids the last week in June.

LUND AND SON LOW BIDDER ON APPROACH JOB

Submit Figure of $34,995 for Johnson Street Project

ENGINEER TORGERSON HERE TO FIX DETAILS

Contract Calls for Completion of Project Before August First

H. P. Lund and Son, local road contractors, submitted the low bid on the bridge approach project in and adjoining this city, it was announced following the opening of bids by the state highway department in St. Paul late last week.

While the definite award has not yet been made, pending disposal of certain details, it was indicated that the local bidders, whose figure of $34,995.08 was approximately $1,200 under that of the next low bid, would be given the contract.

The completion date for the project, which involves 1.2 miles of construction, has been set at July 15, but Division Engineer A. O. Torgerson of Detroit Lakes, in the city Wednesday, stated that it might be necessary to extend the time two weeks if there is any delay in acquiring the additional property on the north side of Johnson st. necessary for the widening of the parkway.

Representatives of the state highway department were in the city Tuesday and Wednesday negotiating with owners of three dwellings on the north side of the street which it will be necessary to move, and it was indicated last night that satisfactory progress is being made toward an agreement. Other tracts needed will be acquired under condemnation proceedings.

Mr. Torgerson met with the city council in special session Wednesday evening, and went over final details of the undertaking. He stated that the grade level of the new highway will deviate very little from that of the present one, so that no special problems will be met in that respect.

Harry Lund of H. P. Lund & Son said this week that if awarded the contract they are prepared to start work almost immediately, and that work will start at the west end of Johnson st. and proceed east.

Sen. Tungseth Speaks to Rotary Club at Its Meeting Tuesday Noon

At the Rotary club luncheon Tuesday Morris Bye, retiring president, handed over the official gavel to his successor, Dr. Edward Bratrud. Senator E. I. Tungseth, who recently returned from St. Paul, gave a summary of work accomplished at the recent session of the state legislature. O. C. Paulson and Alex Campbell appeared in behalf of the local Legion post to outline plans for a proposed skating rink similar to the one built at Hallock last fall. At the meeting a number of members of the local club arranged to journey to St. Paul for a district meeting of the organization to be held early next week.

State Law Supplement With Times This Week

Distributed to local subscribers with this issue of the Times is a 36-page supplement containing all laws and resolutions of the 1935 session of the Minnesota state legislature as compiled by the state commission of administration and finance. The supplement includes 394 laws and 23 resolutions, with a complete index on the last page. Many of the laws relate only to local matters in various sections of the state.

Spoiled Bananas Are Not Always What They Seem, Carlisle Finds

When W. L. Carlisle, manager of the Thief River Grocery company, extended his hand Monday in the warehouse to remove what appeared to be a spoiled banana from a recently received bunch, the "banana" stuck out a flickering red forked tongue in his direction. A tropical snake nearly four feet in length and with faint diamond markings was then carefully removed with the aid of a broomstick, and was deposited in a box, later being forwarded to a Minneapolis woman who collects snakes for exhibition purposes. When warmed on a radiator in the office of the grocery company, the snake became pugnacious and struck violently at objects brought near it. Company employes several years ago discovered another snake in a bunch of bananas, which also was captured without mishap.

MORE THAN FIFTY CHILDREN JOIN IN HEALTH CHECKUP

Pre-School Children Examined Saturday Under P. T. A. Auspices

A total of 52 children, accompanied by their parents, participated in the annual summer health roundup for pre-school children at Lincoln school. Miss Florence Parsons, school nurse, was in charge of arrangements for the event which was sponsored by the Parent-Teacher association.

Nearly all of the children examined were found to be in good condition, Miss Parsons stated, altho there were a number of instances of infected tonsils and other defects. Forty-three children were immunized against diphtheria.

Physicians aiding in the checkup included Dr. O. G. Lynde, Dr. O. F. Mellby, Dr. A. M. Smith and Dr. R. V. Sherman, while the assisting dentists were Dr A. E. Jacobson and Dr. H. J. Rice. A group of six nurses, together with teachers and mothers, also assisted in handling various details. Refreshments were served by a group of students from the home economics department.

LUTHER LEAGUES OF LOCAL CIRCUIT MEET HERE FRIDAY

Many Church Workers to Assemble for Three-Day Convention

Members of Luther Leagues in the Thief River Falls circuit of the Norwegian Lutheran church extending from this city to the border will assemble in this city Friday evening for a three-day convention, the theme of which will be "Winning Others". Sessions will be conducted in Trinity Lutheran church except Sunday afternoon and evening, when the meetings will be held in the municipal Auditorium.

The Friday evening program will open at 7:30 and will include papers on aspects of the convention theme by Ardell Olson of St. Hilaire and Allen Lee of Karlstad. Rev. O. T. Haslund of Baudette will conduct a Bible hour, and Arnhild Fjelstad will supply a vocal solo.

On the Saturday morning program opening at 10 o'clock, papers will be given by Helen Pearson of Baudette and Frances Sundet of Roseau, followed by a Bible hour conducted by Rev. J. Askeland of Baudette and a piano solo by Celeste Crown.

Rev. H. O. Peterson of Viking will conduct the Bible hour at the afternoon program at 2 o'clock, followed by a business meeting and

Power Output Gains 10 Per Cent a Year

Steady Increase in Output Shown in Records for Past 11 Years

An average gain of more than 10 per cent a year for the past eleven years in electric current production in the municipal power plant is revealed in a study of records in the office of City Clerk P. G. Pederson. The steady growth in demand is of interest in connection with the vote on bonds for a new power unit scheduled for May 28.

The figures reveal that the production of electricity increased from 992,701 kilowatts in 1924 to an all-time high mark of 2,282,865 kilowatts in 1934. At the same time production of current by the water wheels declined from a high mark of 1,540,915 kilowatts in 1928 to a low of 62,100 kilowatts last year.

Following are the production figures for the Diesel engines and water wheels for each of the past eleven years as taken from the city clerk's records:

	Diesel	Water	Total
1924	702,340	290,361	992,701
1925	426,100	622,711	1,048,811
1926	320,240	805,595	1,125,835
1927	454,900	730,346	1,185,246
1928	14,110	1,540,915	1,555,025
1929	204,100	1,349,520	1,553,620
1930	815,890	876,700	1,692,590
1931	1,633,510	387,000	2,020,510
1932	1,878,730	107,600	1,986,330
1933	1,879,450	101,300	1,980,750
1934	2,220,765	62,100	2,282,865

SOCIAL ITEMS

Woman's Club Notes

The Penates group of the Woman's Club will have an election of officers for the coming year at their next meeting which will be held May 14 at the home of Mrs. Ralph McCain with a committee of assisting hostesses. Roll call will be taken with "Best Books". A short discussion closing this year's travel program will be given and suggestions for next year's program will be submitted.

Mrs. J. A. Wennergren, Mrs. G. W. Booren and Mrs. J. M. Bishop led the discussion at the last meeting of the Current Events group which met at the home of Mrs. Theo Quale Tuesday afternoon. The topic was "Islands" and included the Hebrides, Orkney, Shetland, Faroe, Cape Breton, Sable, Anticosti, and Prince Edward.

The Modern Drama group of the Woman's Club will be entertained by Mrs. Wm. Korstad at her home tonight. The play, "The Lake", by Dorothy Massingham will be read by Mrs. W. L. Carlisle.

Mrs. W. W. Prichard, Jr. will be hostess to the members of the Music group Monday at her home. Miss Erma Springen will have charge of the program.

Birthday Party

Mrs. Luther Hodgen entertained at her home Monday afternoon in compliment to her daughter, Mary Lou, whose second birthday was on that day. The guests presented the guest of honor with many gifts and after a social time, lunch was served with a pretty birthday cake as a centerpiece. Included at the party were Barbara and David Peet, Jr., Roger Tundberg, Donald Baker, Lois and Evelyn Tunmerdahl, Lou Berne Winberg of Warren, Robert Tollefson of Red Lake Falls, and all the children's mothers. Mrs. Edgar Longren, Miss Ruth Lee, Phyllis Norbeck and Katherine Monsebroten were also present.

Mrs. Rev. Peterson Surprised

After the services in Esterdal church Sunday afternoon, the members of the Esterdal and Bethlehem churches and their friends pleasantly surprised Mrs. Rev. Peterson. She was presented with a lovely spread and a purse of money as a remembrance from those present. A special program of songs had been arranged for the occasion and lunch was served.

For Rev. J. H. Nicol

Rev. J. H. Nicol was honor guest at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Rice Monday evening when they entertained him and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bishop at dinner. Mrs. P. D. Brouard, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Rice, and Mr. Brouard of Minneapolis, at one time taught under Rev. Nicol during their work in Syria.

Following the church services at the Community church Sunday evening, a lunch and social time were enjoyed to give those who wished an opportunity to meet Rev. Nicol and become acquainted with him.

For Mrs. La Salle

Mrs. Alvin LaSalle who had been visiting in this city the past two months was guest of honor at a farewell party given last week by friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Baker. As tokens of remembrance, Mrs. LaSalle was given many lovely gifts, and lunch was served by Mrs. Oscar Baker, Mrs. Ames Peterson and Mrs. John Baker. Guests present were the Mesdames Omar Williams, George Williams, Bernard Mitchell, N. Holzknecht, Clara Holzknecht, Ole Engelstad, Emil Griebstein, Morris LaSalle, Carl Carlson, Martin Strom and Miss Emma Carlson.

For Mrs. Alvin LaSalle

Mrs. Morris LaSalle entertained Saturday at her home for her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Alvin LaSalle, who left Sunday for her home in Couer d' Alene, Idaho. The evening was spent in card playing and lunch was served by the hostess at midnight. The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Baker, Misses Elizabeth and Evangeline Baker, David Strom, Chester Ness, and Mr. and Mrs. Ames Peterson, and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Baker.

For Mr. and Mrs. Otto Stenberg

Miss Eunice Thoreson Wed to Gus Younger in Trinity Church Sunday

A program of organ music played by Mrs. Mildred Engen Hamilton preceded the beautiful wedding ceremony that was solemnized before an altar banked with cybotium ferns, palms, spring flowers, and candelabra by Rev. R. M. Fjelstad when Miss Eunice Thoreson of Goodridge became the bride of Gus Younger of Havre, Montana in a double ring ceremony at the Trinity Lutheran church Sunday. Harvey Anderson of Fargo, N. D., also sang "I Love You Truly."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, M. G. Thoreson, was gowned in white satin fashioned with shirred monk sleeves and a train falling from the waistline. She wore a train length tulle veil with a cap of seed pearls that was caught at either side with orange blossoms, and her flowers were white roses and lilies of the valley fashioned in a shower bouquet. Miss Hazel Thoreson, sister of the bride, and maid of honor, wore blue net trimmed with organdy, and carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. Miss Thoreson had chosen as her bridesmaids, Miss Opal Halvorsen, a cousin, and Miss Luella Furcht, of Fargo, N. Dak., who wore lovely models of pink lace trimmed in blue organdy buttons, and pink net with a shoulder cape, respectively. Their flowers were arm bouquet of pink roses. Little Dorothy Mock, niece of the bride and flower girl wore yellow organdy and carried a basket of sweet peas and roses. Acting as best man was Ben Younger, brother of the groom; Felix Harrar and Gordon Kaercher of Fargo, N. Dak., were the attendants. Also of Fargo were the ushers, Robert Landbloom and Lynn Carlson.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given for sixty guests at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Thoreson, with baskets of yellow and white flowers used in decoration. Mrs. Thoreson wore a dress of black and white and a corsage of roses and sweet peas while Mrs. Alfred Younger, mother of the groom, was dressed in black crepe and also wore a similar corsage.

Mrs. Younger is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Thoreson of Goodridge, and is a graduate of the Moorhead Teachers College where she was made a member of Pi Delta Society. Mr. Younger is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Younger of Campbell, and a graduate of the North Dakota State College where he was a member of Delta Tau Epsilon fraternity. He is now employed at the Gamble Store in Havre, Montana, where the couple will make their home after a two weeks' wedding trip at Glacier National Park.

Progressive Whist Party

Mr. and Mrs. Cy Thompson entertained Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lund, Mr. and Mrs. Hjalmer Hostvet, Arthur Rambeck and Miss Mildred Hanson at their home Friday evening. Progressive whist was played at two tables, Miss Hanson and Mr. Lund winning high score and Mrs. Hostvet and Mr. Rambeck winning low. Lunch was served by the hostess.

For Mrs. Knutson and Daughter

Complimenting her daughter, Mrs. M. S. Knutson, and her granddaughter, Mary Hedvig, of Ellendale who have been guests at the Rice home for two weeks, Mrs. H. J. Rice entertained six mothers and their children at her home Saturday afternoon. All enjoyed a social time and a delightful lunch served by the hostess.

Senior Honors at 'U' to be Awarded on Cap and Gown Day May 16

From every Minnesota county and from hundreds of communities throughout the state young men and women who have been attending the University of Minnesota will put on the formal cap and gown that designate the bachelor's degree and will take their places in the solemn Cap and Gown day procession on Thursday, May 16th.

On that day approaching graduates assume their full dignity as seniors. In Northrop Auditorium, where the exercises will take place, several hundred names will be announced of those elected to honor societies, or who have won the many scholarships, fellowships, special honors and prizes that are awarded on Cap and Gown Day.

Membership in such honor organizations as Phi Beta Kappa in the Arts College, Sigma Xi, scientific honor society, Tau Beta Pi in Engineering, or Gamma Sigma Delta in Agriculture will be awarded to many undergraduates and to some graduate students at these exercises and prizes amounting to several thousand dollars, all of them endowed by gifts from interested supporters of education, will be distributed.

Cap and Gown Day also offers one of two occasions in the spring when the president of the University, Dr. L. D. Coffman, has an opportunity to present a message to the departing class of seniors, the other being at the June commencement exercises.

The procession is one of the most colorful of the year. It is led by deans and faculty members, wearing full academic costume, many of them in the gowns and hoods representing English, French, German and Italian universities, with decorations that date from the era of medieval pageantry. Bachelors, masters and doctors of philosophy in the student body will be designated by markings on their costumes, stripes of color, or hoods for those with the highest degree.

Lodge Officers Present at Meeting in Warroad

A. G. Gabrielson, district deputy grand patriarch; Dr. P. L. Vistaunet, chief patriarch; Leonard Hanson, senior warden; C. H. Jung, junior warden; and Adolf Eklund, scribe of Riverside Encampment of Odd Fellows, attended a district meeting in Warroad Friday evening, at which Mr. Gabrielson was endorsed for reappointment to his present post. Messrs. Moser of Roseau and Wilson and Warden respectively were named president, vice president and secretary of the district organization. The next district meeting will be held in this city in October, when the Warroad team will exemplify the degree work.

Rockbury Club to Give Program Next Saturday

The Rockbury Community club will hold its annual meeting Saturday evening, May 11, at which time a one-act play, "A Wedding" will be presented as well as a May pole dance by the younger children. As an added attraction a piece quilt made during the winter by the ladies of the club will be given away. The public is invited to attend.

Daughters of Norway

A program which included a welcome address by Mrs. Bernard Knudsen, songs "By the Land O' Lakes quartette, and a drill by the Daughters of Norway, preceded a social time that was substituted for the regular meeting of the organization Tuesday evening. At the close of the entertainment lunch was served.

Mother's Day

Sunday
May 12th

A day consecrated to devotion and duty to the noblest of all God's creation — THE MOTHER — for the sacrifices she has made, no tribute is adequate to lay upon the altar of her love, care and solicitude of a lifetime. Only the most beautiful gift within the power of man is worthy of a mother's love. Let FLOWERS speak the message of your heart—the love so deep that words can never tell it.

With adequate means in growing flowers in our Greenhouses, we are not only able to furnish you with fresh flowers, but at lowest prices.

IN MEMORY OF MOTHER

How often when a child, I sought the fields and woodlands through
For when, where sunshine warmest fell, I found their opening eyes,
How eagerly I gathered them and carried home the prize!
And there triumphantly I'd seek my earliest sweetheart's knee
And she, to make my joy complete, would kiss the flowers and me.
Oh, Mother! Years have passed away, thy face no more I see.
No more, with childish trophies I stand beside thy knee;
Yet memory weaves garlands fair of never-fading flowers,
And then your spirit comes to me with balm for lonely hours;
And so today again I'll be a-[illegible] at your knee and wear
Upon my heart a flower, in memory of her.

Northwest Experiment Station Distributes Big Quantity of Seed

The distribution of pure seed has been one of the important projects carried on by the Northwest Experiment Station since its establishment more than a third of a century ago. In 1914 about forty thousand pounds of alfalfa seed were distributed to 629 farmers scattered throughout Red River Valley counties. Reports submitted by these growers during the following three years indicated only nine failures, which is a remarkable achievement especially in introducing a new plant with which producers are not thoroly familiar. In 1918, 218 cooperative pure seed plots were established on Northwestern farms. The following year Mindum wheat, noted for its high yielding ability and excellent macaroni qualities, was released from this station.

The total amount of pedigreed seed grain furnished to farmers for foundation seed during the fourteen year period, 1921-34, was in excess of 32,000 bushels. This was distributed to 1715 growers. Increases from fields planted to this seed have in most cases been used for seed purposes. Through this method of distribution, improved varieties have become thoroly established in every county of the Red River Valley.

According to R. R. Clark, state pure seed specialist, 3,786 bushels of Mindum were furnished to farmers for seed purposes during the last fifteen years. Improved varieties of wheat, oats, barley, flax and corn, developed by the Minnesota Experiment Station in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture, have been increased and distributed from time to time as they became available.

The following are regarded by Mr. Clark as among the more important releases: Minota, Gopher and Anthony oats; Thatcher and Marquillo wheat; Velvet barley; and Red Wing and Chippewa flax.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

REGISTRAR URGES OFFICERS TO "DO DUTY"

In a recent release to the press, Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles for the commonwealth of Massachusetts, spoke in challenging words of the "slaughter on the highways"—25 killed and more than 1,200 injured by automobiles in one week. "Eighteen of the people killed last week, and probably 750 of those injured", he said, "were pedestrians, and most of them elderly people, victims of drunken drivers, and of speed maniacs. Last year the number of people killed was 150 more than any other year, and perhaps it was because of the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Perhaps we shall have to tighten up again on liquor selling. I hereby make an appeal to all the law-enforcing officers in this state to do their duty, because no ordinary situation confronts us. The casualty lists are greater than they were during the war, notwithstanding the fact that they are not plastered in big headlines across the tops of the newspapers, but are submerged in obscure corners, because the killing of people on the highways is no longer news."

Rites This Afternoon for Mrs. O. E. Berge, Passed Away Saturday

Funeral services will be conducted this afternoon at two o'clock from the Trinity Lutheran church for Mrs. Rena Helgeland Berge who passed away suddenly in a Crookston hospital Saturday following a brief illness. Rev. R. M. Fjelstad will officiate and interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Berge, who was sixty eight years old at the time of her death, was born June 1, 1866 in Worth county, Iowa and lived at Northwood, Iowa during her childhood. In 1896 she was married to O. E. Berge in Sharon, N. D., and they came to Graceville to make their home where they lived for several years before establishing a permanent residence in this city in 1907.

Her husband preceded her in death December 4, 1933, while one sister, Betsy Ringham, and three brothers, Halsten, Lars and David had also passed away. Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Levi Nelson of Northwood, Iowa and Mrs. H. P. Kenison of Albert Lea; four brothers, Thomas, Ole, Andrew, and Severt, all of Northwood, Iowa.

Other relatives attending the funeral are two nieces, Mrs. J. H. Noakes of Mandan, N. Dak., and Miss Bernice Berge of this city; three nephews, A. M. Ringham of Buxton, N. Dak., Lawrence Nelson of Northwood, Iowa and George Berge of this city.

Mrs. Martha Johnson, St. Hilaire, Died Sunday

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha Johnson, a resident of St. Hilaire, were conducted from the Norwegian Lutheran church May 8, with Rev. M. L. Dahle officiating. Mrs. Johnson who was born July 20, 1866 in Stavanger, Norway, died at her home in St. Hilaire Sunday at the age of 68. She has been in this country fifty-five years, fifty-one of which she has spent in the St. Hilaire community. Two sons, Carl of Arvilla, N. Dak., and Arthur of Mapleplain, and one daughter, Elesa, at home; one brother Caspar of Wylie and six sisters, Mrs. Anton Anderson of Wylie, Mrs. John Maskrud of St. Hilaire, Mrs. Rena Slodsvold of Crookston, Mrs. Hannah Berg, Seattle, Wash., Mrs. Hilder Sederberg, Couer d' Alene, Idaho and Mrs. August Forsell, also of Couer d'Alene, Idaho, are the surviving relatives. Her husband died June 17, 1931.

Sewer Rental Law Will Promote River Cleanup

The movement to clean up the public waters of Minnesota will be promoted by the new sewer rental law passed by the recent Legislature. Under this law, (Chapter 221, Laws 1935), sewer systems and disposal plants may be operated as public utilities, and a charge made for the service, like water and light bills, instead of throwing the cost on the general taxpayer. Under the new law, charges may be made directly in proportion to benefits, which was not possible under the old plan. The new law applies to all cities and villages, except cities of the first class, which already have such a law, and cities of the second class with home rule charters.

STATE INCOME TAX RETURNS MUST BE FILED BY JUNE 15

75,000 Blanks Being Sent This Week to State Citizens

Deadline for filing returns and payment of the first half of the state income tax was set for June 15, as the state income tax bureau started mailing out 75,000 individual blanks early this week.

Collection of the first half of the state income tax has been delayed since March because the state legislature failed to act on proposed changes in the law and on an appropriation for the bureau's work.

The law was changed by provisions of the omnibus tax bill passed by the legislature, but Governor Olson's veto nullified this act and, consequently, the income tax schedules remain unchanged this year from those of last year.

Penalty for failure to file a return and to pay the first half of the income tax on or before June 15 is $10 and 6 per cent interest per annum on the tax due, except where intent to defraud is shown, in which case an added penalty of 25 per cent of the tax is imposed.

The rate of taxation is as follows: On the first $1,000 of income, 1 per cent; on the second $1,000, 1½ per cent; third $1,000, 1½ per cent; fourth $1,000, 1¾ per cent; fifth $1,000, 2 per cent; sixth $1,000, 2½ per cent; seventh $1,000, 3 per cent; eighth $1,000, 3½ per cent; ninth 1,000, 4 per cent; tenth $1,000, 4½ per cent; all over $10,000, 5 per cent.

An unmarried man has a personal exemption of $1,200. A married man, or the head of a household, has an exemption of $2,000, with an allowance of $250 for each dependent. There is no age limits on dependents.

Opening Game in Local Softball League to be Played Monday, 7 P. M.

Play in the Thief River Falls men's softball league will open next Monday evening at 7 o'clock on the Lincoln athletic field, J. G. Messenger, in charge of arrangements, announced today. Eight teams comprise the league, and games will be played regularly on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings. The opening game Monday will be played between the Ginaks and the Bridgemans, while the Land O' Lakes and Al's Coffee Shop teams will compete Tuesday; Bill's Eat Shop and Barzens Wednesday; and Ford V-8s and Harts teams next Thursday.

Grade School Softball League is Formed Here

Teams representing Knox, Northrop, Washington and St. Bernard Schools are now being organized into a grade school softball league and will open a schedule of games Monday on the playing fields of the various schools, J. G. Messenger, district director of the ERA recreation and leisure time department, announced today. A junior high school baseball league of four teams is also being formed, he said, with each team being sponsored by a local business institution. Play is expected to start next week.

More Rain Arrives Locally This Week

Another spell of rainy weather arrived in this section Tuesday night and continued intermittently Wednesday and this morning. The rain was accompanied by unseasonably cool temperatures, a minimum of 35 above zero being recorded this morning. The lowest minimum of the past week as reported by H. F. Umland, local observer, was 31 above last Saturday.

RED LAKE RIVER JOB APPROVED AT CAPITAL MEETING

Rivers and Harbors Congress Favors Work at Maple Lake

Red Lake river conservation and Maple Lake restoration projects were among those recommended by the National Rivers and Harbors congress in Washington when it acted favorably on $888,583,900 worth of projects and commended President Roosevelt's conservation and work relief programs.

Ninety of 181 projects submitted to the thirteenth annual convention of the congress were recommended for completion while many others were rated as meritorious or considered worthy of a survey dispatches.

Would Construct Dam

The Red Lake River conservation project, which has been an objective of all the towns along the river using it as a water supply source, provides for the construction of a control dam at the mouth of the Red Lake.

The Maple Lake restoration project provides for dredging the lake to eliminate large quantities of mud and weeds now in the lake bed, and construction of a dike to cut off one of the lake's bays, thus lessening the evaporation. It is believed that springs at the bottom of the lake may be clogged by mud and that dredging the lake will renew their flow.

Writer of Bad Checks Taken at Detroit Lakes

After fleeing from the chief of police at Ada, Lawrence Evenson, 26, Ada, was recaptured last week in Detroit Lakes by Deputy Sheriff John Steinkopf. Evenson was arrested at Warren on a forgery charge and jailed. While being taken out to supper, he fled from the officer. He obtained a ride from Ada to Twin Valley then to Detroit Lakes. He is alleged to have passed forged checks, printed at Crookston on the Hawley Produce company. Similar checks were cashed recently at several Thief River Falls business places, and were returned unpaid.

Local Scout Leaders Inspect Camp Sites

W. H. Quist and G. H. Mayer-Oakes of the local Boy Scout committee, together with C. W. Mattson and Peter LeJong, area Scout executive of Grand Forks, Sunday inspected prospective summer camp sites at Twin Lakes, Bass Lake and Itasca state park. The camp is scheduled to be held early in June, probably at Itasca park if the necessary arrangements can be made.

Organization Gives Out 7,500,000 Bibles in '34

A distribution of 7,517,548 Bibles, Testaments, and Portions of the Bible during 1934 in 148 languages and dialects and in more than forty countries was reported at the 119th annual meeting of the American Bible Society held in New York City today. The report stated that since the institution of the Society in 1816 a total of more than 261,000,000 Scripture volumes had been placed in circulation.

Washington Trip Their 4-H Reward

LILA BLOCK COTTONWOOD COUNTY
EDNA TAN CARLTON COUNTY
ADRIAN RIES WINONA COUNTY
EARL DRAHEIM RENVILLE COUNTY

Four young people with 4-H records totaling 33 years, and each of whom has been a state winner in 4-H projects or contests, have been chosen to represent Minnesota at the National 4-H Club Encampment at Washington, D. C., June 13, to 20. According to established custom, the quartet includes two girls, Edna Tan of Carlton county and Lyla Block of Cottonwood county, and two boys, Adrian Ries of Winona county and Earl Draheim of Renville county.

Four alternates for these trips have also been named by T. A. Erickson, state 4-H leader, University Farm. These are Audrey Fox, Verndale, Wadena county; Agnes Hanson, Worthington, Nobles county; William Stickler, Euclid, West Polk county; and John Quinn, Shakopee, Scott county. All of these alternates rank very high in Minnesota 4-H clubdom and will be eligible to go to Washington in case any of the first group selected are unable to make the trip. Moreover, there is always a good chance, says Mr. Erickson, that an alternate may be chosen as a first choice another year. Miss Edna Tan, for example, was an alternate for a Washington trip in 1934, this year emerging as a delegate.

The Washington encampment trips are regarded as the highest honor that any Minnesota 4-H club member can win. The delegation attends the camp in company with state 4-H club leaders, making many interesting stops and side trips on the way to Washington and return. While there, they have an opportunity to spend a week with delegates from every state in the Union, from Hawaii and elsewhere. The program emphasizing leadership and citizenship is featured by sight-seeing around the nation's Capitol, a visit to the White House, elaborate banquets, and other affairs of lasting interest.

FISHING SEASON FOR PIKE OPENS IN STATE MAY 15

Northwest Fishermen Ready for Season Opening Wednesday

Disciples of Sir Izaak Walton residing in this section are anxiously waiting the opening of the wall-eyed pike season in Minnesota on Wednesday, May 15. It will then become legal to also take sand pike or saugers, pickerel, great northern pike, yellow perch and muskellunge by angling. Stream trout may also be taken commencing May 15 in Lake, St. Louis, Itasca, Koochiching, Carlton and Cook Counties.

Eight wall-eyed pike may be taken in one day with 16 permitted in possession. These limits also apply on sand pike or saugers. Pickerel and great northern pike have daily limits of 10 and a possession limit of 20. Two muskellunge may be taken per day. Fifteen stream trout is the daily limit and 25 trout or 20 pounds are allowed in possession.

It is now legal to take by angling bullheads, catfish, garfish, whitefish, not less than 16 inches in length, carp, dogfish, redhorse, sheepshead, suckers, eelpout, and buffalofish. These species may be taken by angling all year with the exception of the months of March and April.

Resident fishing licenses cost 50 cents for individual and $1 for family. Non-resident fishing licenses are $3 each. It is un-lawful for a resident over 18 years of age or a non-resident over 16 years of age to fish without a license.

All game fish, regardless of size, may be retained and counted, with the exception of stream trout all of which must be retained in possession and counted. Stream trout fishing is permitted from one hour before sunrise until 9 P. M.

Hearing on Truck Line Applications Deferred

The Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission announced Thursday that the hearing in the matter of the applications of the Janke and Elsholtz truck companies for the establishment of lines thru this city has been postponed from today to Thursday, June 13. The hearing will be held at the court house at Crookston at 10 a. m., before the commission.

Use of Word "Sino"

Sino (pronounced Si-no, long i and accent on the first syllable) is used in preference to Chinese in such combinations as Sino-Japanese, Sino-Soviet and Sino-Russian, mainly because it is more euphonious, writes G. B. Turner in the Kansas City Times. Nevertheless, there is sound etymological reason for the use of this word, for it is derived from Sinai, the Greek and Latin name used by ancient writers in referring to the people of China. It is for this reason, in fact, that we use the word sinology to describe that branch of knowledge that deals with the Chinese language, literature, history and characteristics.

GROWERS SHOULD CONSIDER WHEAT SITUATION FACTS

Six Factors Are Cited by County Agent R. M. Douglass

Before wheat farmers go to the polls on May 25 to vote in the wheat adjustment program referendum, they should consider at least six important facts, says R. M. Douglass, the county agriculture agent.

The first is that our export demand is small and is likely to continue so. Foreign countries have placed high tariffs and quotas against our wheat. Our own tariffs against foreign goods have also made it difficult for foreign countries to buy our wheat. Every effort is being made to increase export markets, but this is a slow process.

Second, is the fact that world prices are not materially higher than when the wheat adjustment program began. Our two short crops have kept us on a domestic price basis which is materially higher than the world price. Unrestricted production in the face of the world situation, would probably cause our prices to slump at least 30 to 35 cents a bushel.

Third, there is still enough wheat land available to produce bumper crops and surpluses. Drought caused heavy losses, but farmers do not expect drought every year.

Fourth, domestic consumption of wheat remains relatively constant. Efforts are being made to improve the quality and appeal of bakery products. Use of wheat for livestock feed is ordinarily increased only when wheat is cheap in relation to other crops.

Fifth, farmers are protected, through the adjustment payments on their domestic allotments, against low world export prices.

Sixth, the drought, while solving some of the immediate surplus problems, has not changed the fundamental causes of the wheat problem, which are the large potential causes of the wheat acreage, and the difficulty of re-opening export markets.

FISH LIVES SIX MONTHS IN HEAP OF LILY WEEDS

Luverne—A gold fish which remained very much alive and healthy far removed from water for a period of six months was the unusual discovery of Anen Skeland, Luverne, last week. Skeland, a landscape gardner, has had many unusual experiences in his profession, but the prize of them all came when he was unpacking some water lilies from winter storage, preparatory to placing them in the lily pools at his home. As he picked up a handful of the flowers from the sodden heap in which they had rested since last November 1st, out jumped a gold fish, wriggling and very "much alive." For nearly six months the fish had managed to successfully hibernate with the lilies, despite the absence of the quantity of moisture normally required by the finny tribe.

Morals of British Victorians

The great mass of the British Victorians were from childhood taught that certain moral and social standards are in the highest sense valid. These inbred convictions enabled the Victorians to make their social adjustments easily and without thought of hypocrisy. They developed a code of social conventions based on mutual consideration, and the code was so closely interconnected with their moral standards that it enabled them to practically utilize their morals without need of discussing them.

State Leads U. S. in Road Jobs Completed With Federal Grants

The Minnesota Highway department is leading the United States in amount of road construction completed with federal grant funds made available last year, according to a tabulation completed by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads. Receipt of the tabulation was announced by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner.

These figures show construction progress in every state in the Union as of March 1. Although Minnesota's allotment of federal road funds last year was less than half that of some other states, the amount of money put to work in completed, federally approved projects at the time of the tabulation was nearly three times greater than the second ranking state.

As one of the prime considerations of the government in making the grants was to get work under way as quickly as possible, the record places Minnesota in an unusually favorable light. Out of the state's allotment of $5,425,551, there had been completed March 1, $1,456,525 worth of construction. Some states as of this date had not completed any work, while several others had less than $100,000 of completed projects to their credit, according to the government figures.

JUMPS FROM PLANE TO PAY COURT FINE

Rochester—There are lots of better ways to pay court fines than jumping out of an airplane, and most prisoners would object, but not so Roy D. Webb, of Rochester. Hailed into court on a charge of passing a check for which he had no funds, Webb convinced the judge last week that if he were allowed one more day, he would make a parachute jump at Austin the next day, receive his unusual fee of $150, and cover the bad check. The complainant was interested only in getting his money back, and agreed to the proposition, and Webb was released on his own cognizance to make the jump. He is a professional parachute jumper for fairs and exhibitions, and made 72 jumps last year, receiving up to $150 per jump. On Webb's promise to square his debts, Judge Gates deferred sentence until May 15.

EASTER BUNNY CRASHES THROUGH WINDSHIELD

An Easter rabbit arrived in an unusual fashion for George Grovedahl, of Sargeant, on the day before Easter. Grovedahl, with his mother, was riding along the road near Sargeant when a rabbit suddenly appeared on the road. The bunny, quite bewildered, did not know in what direction to go, so he took a flying leap and when he came down it was through the windshield and into Mrs. Grovedahl's lap.

TOUGH HOMBRE KICKS OUT PLATE GLASS FRONT

Lakefield—The type of hobo that seeks a hand-out at Lakefield believes that the world owes him a living, but isn't content to wait for it to drop into his lap. And just to show that one of them isn't the least bit "soft", a Ho kicked a plate glass window out with his foot last week after being refused a dime. The Ho, somewhat under the influence of liquor, entered the George Rost liquor store. An argument ensued, at which time he grabbed a liquor bottle by the neck and threatened a customer. He was evicted, and after some more abusive language, an attendant knocked him down. After the attendant re-entered the store, the Ho tried to kick a headlight off a parked car. Unsuccessful in this, he tried to break the plate glass window in the store with dirt. When this failed, he walked up to the window and kicked it out with his foot. He was arrested.

DIGS POTATOES, REPLANTS AS SEED ON SAME DAY

Farmington—Some kind of a record was broken last week at Farmington when a farmer plowed up last year's potatoes, used them for seed, and replanted them the same day. The potatoes had remained unfrozen in the ground all winter and were as fresh as they were last fall. The farmer was George Schafer, who last year had another unusual planting experience on a different farm. After it appeared that the drouth would ruin his crop of potatoes, he replanted corn. More moisture followed than anticipated, with the result that he raised an excellent crop of corn and large potatoes in the same patch of ground. The corn stalks shaded the potato ground and prevented the sun from sapping the moisture, Mr. Schafer stated.

THE IDEA DESERVES SUPPORT

Members of the community skating rink committee have looked hopefully forward to the time when Thief River Falls would boast among its many assets a fine enclosed rink. For obvious reasons, however, the project has been considered a rather remote possibility. An enclosed rink would require a substantial investment and the community has not been in the mood for this type of spending. In the meantime the open air rink has been maintained as well as possible and some progress has been made in reviving local interest in skating and hockey.

Recent developments have changed this situation. The rink must be moved and the committee faces the problem of finding a new location. And along with the problem of finding a location that will be permanent has naturally come renewed interest in the possibility of immediate action on a permanent enclosure for the rink. Several factors favor immediate action, the most important of which is the possibility of securing a substantial amount of federal aid at the present time that probably will not be available a few years from now.

With this in mind the committee, with a delegation of other interested citizens, journeyed to Hallock Sunday to inspect the rink built there last year. The figures presented by the Hallock people were most reassuring. The Hallock rink, a federal relief project, was built for considerably less than ten thousand dollars, the government paying most of the labor costs. The first season's receipts indicate that it is very much a self liquidating proposition that will pay for itself in only a few years. It is a municipal enterprise that promises to be a good investment not only from the standpoint of healthful recreation but financially as well.

Those who made the journey to Hallock returned home convinced that Thief River Falls should take immediate action on a similar project and are busy now trying to muster support for a plan that will give us an enclosed rink for next winter. With the view of interesting various organizations in the possibilities the committee is being enlarged and in the course of the next few weeks this enlarged committee will probably come forward with some definite recommendations. There undoubtedly is much merit to the idea and it is to be hoped that ways and means will be found to make the proposal a reality. We can well afford to invest a few dollars in a form of recreation that will make more pleasant and materially shorten our long winters.

RELIEVING REAL ESTATE

Much has been said and written during the past few months of the efforts of the legislature to relieve the tax burden on general property by replacing the state taxes on general property with other forms of taxation. The need for such relief is generally recognized and on this phase of the question there has been no argument. Real estate now carries nearly the entire burden of local government costs, maintaining the schools and the many other services provided in the interest of the public as a part of township, village and city government. No one disputes the fact that this burden on real estate has reached a point where the taxes are practically confiscatory. Increased delinquency proves that this form of taxation has reached the point of diminishing returns. Confronted with these facts the legislature attempted to provide some relief by substituting other forms of taxation for that portion of the general property taxes levied for state purposes. Because the principal substitute consisted of sales taxes, the governor vetoed the tax bill and, for the time being at least, the tax situation is still as it was.

In order to get a more clear idea of the problem with which the legislature was confronted, it is well to consider the various sources of tax revenue on which the state now depends. The following figures show the state's sources of tax revenue for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934.

General Property Taxes	$12,415,852.33
Gasoline Taxes	10,293,074.71
Motor Vehicle Taxes	7,041,870.06
Gross Earnings Tax	4,811,180.00
State Income Tax	1,505,542.73
Insurance Company Tax	1,571,089.16
Inheritance Taxes	1,201,800.50
Liquor Stamp Tax	919,557.00
Occupation Tax—Iron Ore	473,010.41
Royalty Tax—Iron Ore	330,035.85
All Other Taxes	243,663.29
Chain Store Tax	221,087.10
Total	$41,363,573.04

It is the first item of the above list for which the legislature tried to find suitable substitutes, and finding twelve and a half million dollars of new tax revenue in Minnesota is no easy problem. Gasoline and motor vehicle taxes go directly into the highways and revenue for general purposes from this source is out of the question. Of the gross earnings taxes paid last year the railroads contributed nearly four million dollars or about four-fifths of the total. To increase this tax would be to place a further burden on a form of transportation service that is already having difficulty meeting competition. Any further taxation on transportation should be spread uniformly over all forms of common carrier service. A straight tax on all carrier charges would be an effective revenue producer and probably would distribute costs as equitably as any tax could, but it would be a sales tax.

Income tax revenue could be greatly increased too if the politicians would quit playing politics with it and establish it on a proper basis. By eliminating all exemptions and collecting some tax, even though it is just a little, from all income earners, a large volume of revenue could be obtained from this source. The present practice of confining this tax to the higher income brackets makes the tax ineffective for the simple reason that there are not enough incomes in the higher brackets to produce volume.

Aside from the possibilities of further increases in the taxes on the iron industry the possibilities of large volume tax revenue from other sources are limited unless some form of sales tax is applied. And as far as the iron industry is concerned the state must consider the burden of local taxes now being paid by the mining companies. The total of occupational and royalty taxes alone paid by the mining companies during the past year totaled more than eleven million dollars and if this industry is going to be permitted to continue operations in the state then some consideration must be given to the ability of the industry to pay.

So considering the difficulties involved in an attempt to shift a tax burden of twelve million dollars from general property to other sources it is not to be wondered at that the legislature ran into trouble. Everyone agrees that the burden should be shifted but no one is willing to take over a part of the load. Unfortunately the problem cannot be solved by political legerdemain.

Minneapolis has a candidate for the office of mayor who deserves more than local recognition. He refuses to let any other candidate out-promise him and judging by his stand on the river development project the other candidates will have to travel fast to even keep up with him. He isn't going to let this matter rest with only one nine foot channel. He wants two of them, one to run down from Minneapolis to the gulf and the other to run down from the gulf to Minneapolis. This will relieve traffic jams on the river, he argues. Summing up his promises he concludes, "Since political campaigns are only empty bragging campaigns anyhow, there is no good reason why a good job should not be made of it." If we happen to be in Minneapolis on election day he is going to get our vote.

Those who had the idea the recent session of the legislature was a gathering of the do-nothing society will perhaps modify their views somewhat when they start reading through the session laws distributed with this week's issue of the Times. If due consideration was given by each of the law makers to the many questions involved in the legislation that was adopted, along with the larger number of proposals that were rejected, then they undoubtedly put in a fairly busy ninety days.

HOPE FOR THE SICK

(Grand Rapids Herald-Review)

The most inspiring thing of the past generation has been the study of causes of disease and the prevention of disease. It was not so long ago that diphtheria took whole families, almost over night. We seldom hear of it. A great physician told us some time ago that the doctors in his hospital might have difficulty in diagnosing typhoid fever because some of the newer doctors had never seen it.

Spinal meningitis is one of the most tragic of diseases. It deforms many of its victims, mentally and physically. There are not many cases of this disease at present in the United States. Last year at one time there were only 49 cases and something like 200 cases in the nation at the present time.

The germ which causes spinal meningitis and which attacks the membrane covering the brain and spinal cord was isolated in 1887. The great Dr. Flexner perfected a serum in 1908. Before that time three-fourths of the people who had spinal meningitis died, after that only about fifty per cent.

A week or two ago Dr. Newell S. Ferry carried investigations still further. In the near future it can probably be known as to whether a child is susceptible to meningitis. If susceptible, three treatments can prevent the disease. Treatment of unfortunate boys and girls is now so successful that but one out of four die.

The next disease that will be conquered will be cancer.

DESTRUCTIVE SPRING BURNING

(St. Paul Dispatch)

It has long been suspected that the loss occasioned by Spring burning of meadow and brush lands is wholly out of proportion to the amount of benefit derived.

That this practice is more destructive than useful is sustained by the recent warnings of University of Minnesota scientists that such fires do irreparable damage to soil, native plants and wildlife. Heed should be taken of statements from the department of botany that Spring burnings destroy a considerable part of the humus in the soil along with millions of native plants and shrubs. Equal victim of this destruction is the wildlife of the burned areas. The museum of natural history at the university points out particularly the damage to quail, prairie chicken, ruffed grouse, pheasants and other game birds resulting from the firing of the brush in which they find food, shelter and nesting places.

Thus a three-fold destruction is achieved by the thoughtless burning of meadow grass and underbrush in this season. Some valuable conservation can be accomplished by refraining from a practice which is of doubtful use anyway.

"THE BATTLE CRY OF A CENTURY"

(Chaska Valley Herald)

Governor Floyd B. Olson will not be a candidate to succeed himself as chief executive of this state. This statement was made emphatically to the editor of the Herald last Wednesday afternoon at St. Paul. The Governor and the writer have been personal friends for a number of years. The Governor told us frankly that he would be a candidate for the United States Senate to succeed the present senator, Thomas D. Schall. You have heard of "the battle of the century," but you little imagined that it would occur in Minnesota. Well the stage is set for the act and we can assure you it will be worth living in this strenuous and tempestuous age to witness.

DOG FINDS LOST WALLET WITH $96

Breckenridge—Some folks do not care for dogs, but they don't have a dog like the one owned by Ed Evenson, Foxhome resident. Evenson believes that the dog is the smartest animal on earth, and has some reason for believing so. Evenson lost his billfold containing $96 not long ago. Nick Hennenfent discovered a dog playing with a billfold. Nick had the dog give him the pocketbook, and when he found $96 in it, he brought it to Evenson. There is one dog in Foxhome that will not go hungry if Evenson knows about it.

Effects of Gulf Stream

As for the reputed effects of Gulf stream changes on American climate, scientists reassure us that the effect of the Gulf stream on the climate of the United States Atlantic coast is negligible. Wind which really controls climate comes prevailingly from the Northwest, that is from the land, and the Gulf stream lying several hundred miles off shore cannot moderate the climate. The winds that pass from the sea over northwestern Europe do transport warmth that the Gulf stream has carried over there and Europe does thus have some of its climate made in the Gulf of Mexico.—Kansas City Times Science Service.

Porpoise Means Pig Fish

Our word "Porpoise" comes from the French "porc poisson," meaning "pig fish."

Bald Eagle Is Branded as Coward, Thief, Dirty

As a national emblem, the eagle is not peculiar to the United States. It is now the emblem of several countries, and was the principal device on the standards of some ancient nations. The eagle became the United States emblem when it was placed on the great seal adopted by the Continental congress, June 20, 1782. It was suggested as part of the seal by William Barton, a citizen of Philadelphia. Barton's eagle was crested, not the American or bald variety. Charles Thompson, secretary of congress, who modified the design, put the eagle as the central figure in the device, and specified that it should be an American eagle.

Benjamin Franklin thought the eagle was too common for a national emblem. He preferred the turkey, a peculiarly American bird. In a letter dated January 26, 1784, Franklin wrote to his daughter: "For my part, I wish the bald eagle had not been chosen as the representative of our country; he is a bird of bad moral character; he does not get his living honestly; you may have seen him perched on some dead tree, where, too lazy to fish for himself, he watches the labor of the fish-hawk, and, when that diligent bird has at length taken a fish, and is bearing it to his nest for the support of his mate and young ones, the bald eagle pursues him and takes it from him. With all this injustice he is never in good case; but, like those among men who live by sharping and robbing, he is generally poor, and often very lousy. Besides, he is a rank coward; the little kingbird, not bigger than a sparrow, attacks him boldly, and drives him out of the district."

Grindstone Aids Science

An Indiana grindstone came to the aid of a scientist at the Smithsonian institution when he sought to learn whether the years actually had seasons 250,000,000 years ago, when coal was being formed. He found the answer in the light and dark banding of the stone. More carbon was in the thin dark layers and he concluded they resulted from warm dry summers with considerable deposition of plant and animal remains. The wider and lighter-colored bands he attributed to wet winters that were colder, when more sediments were deposited in the streams and less carbon from once-living forms.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Canada's Place Names

All decisions in connection with geographic nomenclature and orthography in the Dominion rest with the Geographic Board of Canada, which was established by the Dominion government in 1897. With regard to names of geographical features along the international boundary, or which cross the boundary line, the Geographic Board of Canada maintains a close co-operation with the United States Geographic board in the adoption of names which are acceptable to both countries.

Near and Far East

The Near East comprises Turkey in Europe, Asia Minor, Armenia, Georgia, Azerbaijan, the south Russian republic, Persia, Syria, Palestine, Mesopotamia, some of the islands of the Mediterranean, and perhaps Arabia and Egypt. Greece, Bulgaria and Albania are also included in the term, as it is understood by the Near East relief. The Far East comprises Japan, China and other countries on or near the eastern coast of Asia.

GOODRIDGE

Class Play

A large and appreciative audience enjoyed the senior class play Friday evening. It was indeed a mystery play, and one didn't want to be nervous as the "Drums of Death" would sound every so often and make your blood run cold. We can't mention any one character who was better than the rest as they all were very well suited to their parts and played them well. It was so much different from the class plays that have been presented here the last few years, most of the audience enjoyed the change.

Base Ball

The Goodridge high school base ball team played their first game on the local diamond Tuesday evening, with the St. Hilaire team, and the boys were beaten by a score of nineteen to twenty-six. On Saturday afternoon the team went to Oklee and were again defeated, but they played ten innings and the score was 15 to 16. Here's hoping their luck changes when they play the return games.

Birthday Party

Mrs. H. Christianson and Mrs. O. E. Ronken shared honors at a birthday party on Friday afternoon at the home of the former. Both ladies received presents from their friends and a lovely lunch was served with an appropriate birthday cake. The guests present were Mrs. Albert Halverson, Mrs. J. A. McEnelly, Mrs. Anne Frodahl, Mrs. Tillie Bratland, Mrs. Martin Olson, Mrs. Carl Edseth, Mrs. O. O. Bjorgan, Mrs. Ben Habedank, Mrs. Gena Stephenson, Mrs. Joe Christianson, Mrs. Carl Christianson and Miss Sena Christianson.

Play Day

The weather man was more kind to the pupils and teachers who had to take part in the play sports which was held here Saturday, and while not as large a crowd attended as some years, there were enough to make it interesting any way. The juniors of the local high school sold ice cream and lunches all day.

Some of the junior class enjoyed a theatre party in Thief River Falls Saturday evening. They were chaperoned by Miss Grace Bratlee high school instructor. The juniors included Pearl Nelson, Beth McLeod, Olaf Bratland, Iver Gonnering, Oscar Fjeld, Loren Christianson and Stanley Tollefson.

A state highway bridge crew moved into town Monday from Roseau. They are going to build a new bridge on Highway No. 1 two miles east of town. —Mr. and Mrs. Guy McEnelly and children visited Sunday at the home of the latter's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Selmer Myklejord at Gonvick. Mrs. Myklejord will be remembered as Esther Hanson, a former high school student here.

Miss Mary Maney of Grygla was an overnight guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Josephson, Friday when she attended the class play. —Mr. and Mrs. Owen Olson and son Kenneth and the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Olson of Wilpen who have been visiting here the past ten days drove to Wilpen Tuesday. —Mr. and Mrs. John Hoppe were business visitors in Thief River Falls Saturday. —Mrs. Alice Brandt returned home Saturday evening from Thief River Falls where she had received medical treatment.

Misses Rebecca and Stella Halverson spent the week end at their home near Thief River Falls. They were accompanied by Marian Kast. —Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Josephson and sons were guests for dinner Sunday evening at Albert Rohrer's home near Germantown. —Mrs. Obed Sabo and son left last week for Duluth to visit relatives and friends.

Alfred Hammerstein attended a telephone meeting at Erskine on Tuesday. He was accompanied by Mrs. Martin Engen who visited at the home of Mrs. Peter Bergh.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Iverson and Mrs. Olga Peterson were business callers in Thief River Falls Saturday. —Mrs. Elmer Peterson, Mrs. Anne Frodahl, Mrs. A. B. Josephson were shopping in Thief River Falls Saturday. —Mr. and Mrs. Ole Peterson and daughter Adelaire, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Peterson and Patricia Louise of Grygla were callers in town Sunday afternoon. They brought Billy Peterson home, after he had been visiting at Grygla for several days. Bertil Peterson returned home also. He had been at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hirtao at Germantown over the week end. —Mrs. V. C. McLeod, Misses Grace Bratlee and Elizabeth Holappa were shopping in Thief River Falls on Saturday. —Gerhart Kast and Miss Elma Savig of Thief River Falls were visitors Sunday at the home of the former's brother, Mr. and Mrs. John Kast. —Mr. and Mrs. Owen Olson and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Olson were visitors in Thief River Falls Monday.

Wedding Reception

The out of town guests who attended the reception for Mr. and Mrs. Gus Younger which was held at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Thoreson Sunday afternoon at five o'clock and during the evening were: Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Younger and family, Douglas Brown of Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. George Goodearl, Miss Luella Furcht, Bob Landbloom, Art Alm, Earl Synder, William Ostrom, William Tempa, Edward Boulger, Russell Comvie, Harvey Anderson, Donald Ward, Felix Farrar, all of Fargo, N. Halverson and daughters Opal and Phyllis, and sons Percy and Lester.

School Notes—The seniors had their class motto "Heights Beckon Us" painted and hung in the assembly. The motto is done in the class colors, blue and gold.

The chorus and orchestra are practicing for the musical program which will be given May 23.

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Thoreson and daughters Hazel and Mrs. A. F. Mock and children Dorothy and Freddy and Gordon Kaercher were guests for supper Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Halverson. —John Gonnering and Frank Race attended to business in Bemidji on Tuesday. —Rev. and Mrs. J. O. Hoyum and son were guests Sunday evening for supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theo Nelson. —Carl Christianson, Osmund Urdahl, T. A. Disrud and V. C. McLeod, spent Saturday at Erskine, Plummer and Oklee looking at community halls to gather ideas and plans to see what can be done in regard to a community hall here.

Mrs. M. G. Thoreson and daughters Hazel and Mrs. A. F. Mock and children, and Gordon Kaercher, were visitors at the E. M. Bennes, O. D. Oxtby and Rev. Schroeder homes in Thief River Falls on Monday. — Mrs. John Gonnering will entertain the St. Ann's Guild Thursday afternoon, May 16th. Everyone welcome. —Mrs. John Gonnering and daughter Gladys and sons Iver and Arnold and Mrs. H. I. Rod and Loren Christianson attended the show in Thief River Falls Sunday.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Thief River Falls, Minnesota

Pursuant to adjournment the City Council of the City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, met in session in the Council Chambers in the Auditorium and Municipal Building on Tuesday, April 30th, 1935. The meeting was called to order at eight o'clock P. M. with Aldermen Gribstein, Knight, Myhrum, Christofferson, McFarland present and Alderman Jung absent.

Alderman Christofferson introduced a resolution calling a special election for vote on the question of purchase of additional electric generating equipment, setting the date for same as the 28th day of May, 1935 and prescribing the form of ballot and moved the adoption of the same. The motion was seconded by Alderman Knight and unanimously adopted.

The following were appointed to serve as Clerks of Election for the said Special Election:

First Ward: Florence Gollist, Mrs. [illegible]

Second Ward: Ada Ahre, Ida [illegible]

Third Ward: Mrs. Emil E. Zeh, Mrs. Roy Bothel.

Fourth Ward: Borgel Iverson, Mrs. L. G. Larson.

A motion was made by Alderman McFarland that the proper officials of the city be authorized and instructed to enter into lease of land owned by the city in Rocksbury Township to Fred Roskolid for the period ending on March 31st, 1936 at a rental of $[illegible], payable at the rate of $[illegible] per month in advance, with provision that no dirt, gravel, sand, or manure be hauled off the premises. The motion was seconded by Alderman Gribstein and declared unanimously carried.

On motion duly made and carried the meeting was declared adjourned.

P. O. MYHRUM,
President of the Council.

Attest: P. G. Pederson,
City Clerk.

RESOLUTION

At an adjourned regular meeting of the City Council of Thief River Falls, held April 30, 1935, and members of the Council Gribstein, Knight, Myhrum, Christofferson, McFarland and the City Clerk being present, and Alderman Jung absent.

Alderman Christofferson, seconded by Alderman Knight introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED, By the City Council of the City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, that,

WHEREAS, The Requirements for Power of the Electric Light and Power Plant are continually increasing and the amount of water available for generating of power is decreasing, and,

WHEREAS, the facilities of the Electric Light and power generating plant and of the water plant are inadequate, and,

WHEREAS, the Council deem it necessary and expedient to purchase a diesel generating unit together and other equipment and improvements for said Electric Light and Power Plant, and,

WHEREAS, There are not sufficient funds in the treasury of said City available for such purpose with which to pay the cost of such diesel generating unit and other necessary equipment and improvements,

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the City Council deem it expedient and necessary and do hereby determine to issue and sell the negotiable interest bearing bonds of said City in a sum not exceeding [illegible] Thousand [illegible] dollars bearing interest at the rate of four and one half (4½%) per centum per annum in order to provide funds for said purpose.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the proposition of issuing said bonds shall be submitted to the qualified electors of said City at a special election to be held in said City on the 28th day of May, 1935.

SO. ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK

(By U. S. Department of Agriculture and Minnesota Department of Agriculture)

South St. Paul, Minn., May 6, 1935 (U.S.D.A.): Hog trade opened unevenly weak to 10c lower, light lights steady to strong, pigs strong to 25c higher. Better 200-300 lb. hogs brought $8.50-8.60, several lots $8.65, better 160-200 lb. $8.25-8.60, good sows $7.75-8.00, pigs $7.75-8.00 or better.

Cattle trade was slow, medium to good lightweights going at $8.50-10.50, many held up to $11.00 or above. Lower grade butcher heifers brought $5.75-8.00, good yearlings to $10.00, beef cows $5.25-7.25 or better, cutter grades $3.50-4.75, desirable weighty sausage bulls $5.75-6.10, vealers $3.50-7.50 for medium to choice grades, cull and common $3.50-5.00. Medium to good stockers brought $6.50-7.75, common down to $5.25. Common to medium stock heifers realized $5.00-6.00. Demand was fairly broad for dairy cows, common and medium milker and springer cows going at $45.00-65.00, with good shippers up to $85.00 and above.

Lamb trade was firm but slaughter ewes were 25-50c lower. Some good to choice 78 lb. wooled lambs brought $7.75, some good to choice 74 lb. clipped lambs $7.00, better wooled ewes $4.50 down, choice clippers $3.50 down.

Quotations by the Northern Packing Co. of Grand Forks, Tuesday, May 7.

HOGS—Market is steady with the well finished butcher hogs weighing from 190 to 300 lbs ranging in price from $8.15 to $8.40 paid for the best kinds weighing 210 to 260 lbs. Packer sows are quotable at from $7.00 to $7.40.

CATTLE—Market is steady at the recent decline. Medium to good fed steers, heifers and yearlings are salable here at prices ranging from $8.00 to $8.10. Common and fair steers and heifers ranged mostly from $4.50 to $5.50; butcher cows sold mostly at from $4.00 to $5.00. Canners and cutters ranged from $4.00 downward. The best heavy bulls sold at $5.25 while medium and light kinds ranged from $4.50 downward.

CALVES—Market is steady with a fair local demand for strictly good vealers which are salable at $6.00 to $6.25; the common calves and medium vealers are in considerably less demand and prices ranged mostly from $2.50 to $4.00.

SHEEP—There were none offered. The market is steady; strictly good killing lambs are salable here at $6.00 to $6.50; other kinds are not in demand.

Boy Scouts Will Serve Waffle Supper Friday Evening in C. C. Rooms

Following the success of its recent orange sale as a means of raising funds to finance a trip for two Boy Scouts to Washington in August to attend the national jamboree of the Scout organization, local Scout leaders announced this morning that a waffle supper will be served Friday evening in the Civic and Commerce rooms between the hours of 4:30 and 7 o'clock. In addition to delectable waffles the menu will include wieners and coffee. An advance ticket sale is being conducted today.

W. P. A. ARRANGES MEETING TO TALK OVER POWER ISSUE

Workman's Group Will Meet in Auditorium Next Monday Night

When more than 100 persons were crowded out of the meeting of the Workman's Protective association Monday evening at the court house, William J. Douville, president, announced today that the next meeting will be conducted in the Auditorium Monday evening, May 13, at 8 o'clock.

The meeting, he stated, will be devoted to a discussion of the forthcoming special city election set for Tuesday, May 28, when citizens will be asked to express their views on the matter of authorizing the city council to issue up to $60,000 in bonds for the purpose of adding another unit to the municipal power plant. Members of the city administration will be present to discuss the issue, following which there will be an open forum discussion.

Speakers at last Monday evening's meeting included Frank Ellis and F. J. Emme of St. Paul, union organizers; Father A. I. Merth; Mayor Frank Rinkel, who discussed the proposed bond issue; and Senator E. L. Tungseth, who talked on the work of the recent session of the legislature.

TAXERAAS IMPT. CO. NOW LOCATED ON MAIN AV. SO.

Takes on Agency for Hudson and Terraplane Lines of Automobiles

The Taxeraas Implement company moved Monday from its former location on West Third st. to the commodious and well located garage building on Main av. S. formerly occupied by the used car department of the Northern Chevrolet company. Service offered the public included car storage and a repair shop.

At the same time O. E. Taxeraas, proprietor, announced that the company had acquired the agency for the Hudson and Terraplane lines of automobiles, which will be distributed locally together with the Allis-Chalmers line of farm machinery and DeSoto and Plymouth automobiles.

The new Hudsons and Terraplanes have arrived and are now on public display for the first time. Featured by lower, longer lines with more power, even finer performance and two of the latest developments of the industry, the new cars are expected to create a tremendous amount of interest. The two developments which are entirely new to the industry are the steel-roofed body which incloses the passengers in a silent, solid steel compartment with perfect ventilation and the new electric gearshift which entirely clears the front compartment and gives real finger-tip control of the car.

For 1935 the Hudson Motor Car Company will build a Special and DeLuxe series Terraplane 6 on 112 wheelbase and a complete series of Hudson cars on three wheelbases, namely, 116, 117 and 124 inch wheelbases. New for 1935 is the Hudson Big Six with a 93 horsepower engine mounted on 116 inch wheelbase chassis. There are five models of the Hudson Standard 8 on 117 inch wheelbase with 113 horsepower, and three models of the Hudson DeLuxe 8 on the 117 inch wheelbase with 113 horsepower. In addition there is the Big 8 which will be produced in two models—Custom Club Sedan and Custom Brougham on 124 inch wheelbase, also with 113 horsepower.

Independent Baseball Team Will Hold First Practice Next Sunday

Work of preparing a diamond on the fair grounds for the Thief River Falls independent baseball team is scheduled to get under way today, and if the grounds are in shape by Sunday, a practice session will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, according to word received today from Manager M. E. Dekko of Gary, who extended an invitation to local players wishing to try out for the team to appear at that time. Mr. Dekko also stated that the local season will open Sunday, May 19, at 2:30 when the Thief River Falls team will compete with Park Rapids.

FLAW FOUND IN STATE OLD AGE PENSION LAW

Action by Legislature Held Necessary to Clear up Situation

A special session of the state legislature will be necessary, it became evident Friday night, if Minnesota's old age pension law is to become operative.

A check-up Friday proved the truth of the charges made by State Senator B. G. Novak of St. Paul, the author of the bill in the state senate.

Senator Novak charged Thursday night that the bill signed by the governor was not the same one that was passed by the legislature.

Responsibility for the mix-up Friday was laid on an unidentified clerk in the legislature who failed to remove an amendment that was stricken from the bill when it was finally passed. But in the bill, as Governor Olson signed it, the amendment is included.

As a result, Attorney General Harry H. Peterson in an informal opinion held the law invalid and that no pensions can be granted under it even though it is in the statutes.

County Auditor Harry Fowler reports having received numerous inquiries from prospective applicants desirous of qualifying under the new law, which had been scheduled to go into effect July 1. He explained, however, that he has received no application blanks, and it is unlikely that any will be sent out until the legislature reassembles to clear up the situation.

Elks to Hold Mothers Day Rites Tonight; to Grand Forks Saturday

At a meeting of the local order of Elks this evening at 8 o'clock the Mothers day ritual will be exemplified by officers of the lodge, Exalted Ruler J. O. Yotter announced this morning. A large group of members is expected to accompany the officers to Grand Forks Saturday evening, May 11, when they will perform initiation rites for a class of 19 entering the Grand Forks lodge. The local lodge has gained a wide reputation during the past year for the excellent manner in which it presents the initiatory work.

Odd Fellows, Rebekahs Anniversary Services

All local Odd Fellows and Rebekahs are requested to attend anniversary services at the Community church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, it was announced today. Members will meet at the lodge hall at 10:30 in the morning and will march in a body to the church.

L. B. HARTZ STORE CHAIN ADDS FOUR UNITS TO SYSTEM

Group With Headquarters in City Now Includes 16 Stores

Opening of four new stores in northwestern Minnesota and North Dakota is announced this week by L. B. Hartz, proprietor of L. B. Hartz Stores, Inc., with headquarters in Thief River Falls. The new stores bring the number in the Hartz group to a total of 16.

A store recently opened at St. Thomas is the first in North Dakota, altho more are scheduled to follow as locations can be developed, Mr. Hartz said. A unit was opened at Williams Monday, and another will open its doors at Karlstad Friday, while arrangements are now being completed for a store at Fosston.

Member stores are supplied with bread and fancy bakery products by the L. B. Hartz Bakery in this city, which employ six persons. A twelve-ton semi-trailer van is being added to the company's truck fleet to facilitate warehouse delivery.

Construction of New Building for the O. K. Service Station Begins

Preliminary work got under way this week on the construction of a new one-story building to house the O. K. One-Stop service station at the corner of Main av. and First st., replacing the structure partly destroyed by fire last winter. Rasmus Oen of the Oen Mercantile company, owner of the property, said that the building when completed will be 50 by 90 feet in dimensions and will be built of tile under the supervision of Albert Larson. The service station will continue in its present quarters while construction work is in progress.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR N.W.S. SHORT COURSE IN JUNE

4-H Club Members Will Assemble in Crookston June 17-22

A wide variety of educational and recreational contests will feature the 4-H Club Short Course to be held at the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, June 17-22. District Club Leader H. A. Pflughoeft has announced an expanded crops program which will include crops judging. This feature proved so popular last year that arrangements are being made for a large increase in entries in this division. Practice in livestock judging will also be given daily as a preliminary to the final contests in dairy and general livestock judging.

Last year every county in the Red River Valley took part in the recreational program consisting of an athletic tournament, dramatic and music contests. Based upon preliminary reports, Mr. Pflughoeft expects even greater interest this year. County eliminations will be held to pick the winning plays and music number for competition in the district event. Many counties are also arranging play days to pick representatives for the athletic events. The winning plays and music numbers at the Northwest School 4-H Club Short course will take part in the state contest to be held at St. Paul during State Fair Week. Each county will be entitled to enter two girls in a "Well Groomed Girl" contest. Points to be considered will include the suitability of the clothes worn by the individual while at the 4-H short course, and personal grooming.

Winners in the various events at the Northwest School 4-H Club short course last year included the following crops and general livestock judging: Clearwater county; dairy judging, West Otter Tail; dramatics, Roseau; music, Roseau, athletics, Roseau. Roseau also received the banner for winning the highest number of points in all [illegible] county ranked second. Pennington county won [illegible] with a [illegible] band, and second on a one-act play.

Because of the marked increase in attendance during recent years, two separate 4-H Club short courses will be held at the Northwest School this year. Club members from six southern Red River Valley counties will attend June 17 to 19, while those from the seven northern counties will attend June 20 to 22.

CONSCIENCE TRAPS ILLEGAL FISHERMEN

Lewiston—Illegal fishing doesn't pay, but it isn't always the game warden who makes that saying true, and a group of early fishermen at Lewiston had the strange experience of being caught by their conscience. The group had made arrangements with a farmer to go thru his yard to the lake. One night last week they started out, but the farmer was not at home and they proceeded to the lake, caught their fish, and were returning thru the yard when the hired man, who knew nothing about the "deal" heard them coming. Believing those in the car to be chicken thieves, the hired man got out the gun and ordered them to stop. Conscience smote the illegal fishermen, who believed the hired man to be a game warden, and they "stepped on it". The hired man opened fire, and shot up a couple of tires, making the fish a rather costly catch.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

State liquor control revenues for the first four months of this year total $179,830.49 over the total for the same period of last year, David R. Arundel, commissioner, reports. April receipts alone totalled $259,753.97, or $48,714.23 more than April, 1934, netted. Total receipts for the four months this year is $1,002,160.30. Commissioner Arundel predicted the year's collections would be well over $3,000,000.

The executive veto was attached by Governor Olson to 13 bills during the last Legislature. In the case of the Hibbing North Forty bills, the Legislature overrode the veto. The following are the bills vetoed:

1, 2, and 3.—The Hibbing North Forty bills; 4.—Transfer of the division of physical rehabilitation from the department of education to the University of Minnesota; 5.—"Unwise" curtailment of powers of the board of pardons; 6.—Appropriating $67,000 to lawyers for bringing highway suits (for political purposes) that the attorney general wanted to institute and that lay within his province; 7.—Chisholm per capita limitation bill (similar to North Hibbing bill); 8.—Amendment to corporation act which Governor contended was special legislation to please one faction of only one corporation in Minnesota; 9.—Applying to bonded indebtedness of municipalities, likely to be used to cut teachers' salaries and other school funds; 10.—The Omnibus sale tax bill; 11.—Local settlements of poor relief; 12.—Legalizing expenditures by the Board of Dental Examiners that have been held illegal by the courts; 13.—Eliminating time while on relief from eligibility time of state sanitoria.

Lost in the last minute rush of the Legislature was a bill urged by Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner Knud Wefald which would have placed upon telephone companies the burden of proof in establishing valuations in rate cases. This measure, which successfully passed the Senate, would have enabled the Commission to institute rate reduction actions, now made difficult because of lack of appropriations to conduct costly valuation surveys which must precede rate decisions.

Following on the heels of hypocritical reactionary politicians' complaints that the Farmer-Labor Administration is favorable to applicants who are members of that party, Staff King, Republican State Auditor, showed 'em a few points in the operation of the spoils system.

One of the fastest coups of the Republican statehouse faction in years, made possible by a rider in the relief bill put there by the conservatives, pulled the soldiers' relief board away from the board of control, where it always has been, and handed it over to Auditor King.

Immediately, wholesale discharge of employes followed, no attention being paid whatever to those who had given long and faithful service. The customary notice with pay was forgotten. It's an ill wind that blows no good, and so if staff's "courageous" action will have any effect, it at least will show why the reactionaries refused to pass a civil service bill for state employes, as recommended by Governor Olson.

Investigators from the State Securities Division in cooperation with the County Attorney of Ramsey County, nipped in the bud a scheme that had all the earmarks of a new racket that might have grown to enormous proportions. Warrants were issued and arrests made Thursday of certain individuals procuring money from St. Paul citizens under the guise of investment in a property development project, when in truth and in fact the "investors" were by misrepresentation and fraud coerced into signing contracts to purchase lots in the outskirts of the city at grossly excessive values. Prompt action was made possible in this case because the general public are gradually becoming aware of the fact that the Securities Division is ready and willing at all times to stamp out fraudulent deals if given the facts before the harm is done.

In a radio address explaining his stand on the so-called omnibus tax bill, which he vetoed, Governor Olson last week made two things very clear: he will call a special session of the Legislature to tackle the problem of tax revision so that the present heavy burden on real estate will be lifted, and he will not affix his signature to any tax revision scheme which will throw the burden on those who have not the ability to pay.

Making his appeal particularly to those legislators who voted for the omnibus bill because they were obliged to do so as the result of alignment with the reactionary majority without actually believing in the bill themselves, the Governor said he will meet them more than half way in an effort to effect real and equitable tax revision.

"From the reactionary leadership which railroaded the bill through, there is no hope," the chief executive declared. The omnibus bill, he said, was "conceived in the habitats of the wealthy and spawned in the committee meetings of the reactionaries."

Minnesota Ranks High in Number of Horses

With 738,000 horses on its farms, valued at $57,662,000, Minnesota ranks second among all the states in the number of horses, says A. L. Harvey, horse authority, University Farm, St. Paul. Mr. Harvey cites the figures from a recent statement by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, which shows that only Iowa has more horses than Minnesota, and only Iowa and Illinois surpass Minnesota in the total value of horses on farms.

"Though Minnesota is rightly considered a leading dairy state, the total value of horses on Gopher State farms exceeds the total value of milk cows and heifers by more than $12,000,000," says Mr. Harvey. "The combined total value of sheep and hogs in Minnesota is just a little over one-third the total value of horses.

"In spite of the fact that automobiles and tractors have replaced a great many horses during the last 15 years, Minnesota farmers have continued to use and raise horses, and as a result are fairly well supplied with horses now when there is a shortage of draft animals in the United States. Horses are bringing higher prices this year than at any time since the world war. Prices will undoubtedly stay up until horse breeders are able to raise enough colts to provide and maintain adequate replacements," Mr. Harvey predicts.

SAVES SPLINTERS FROM CYCLONE IN YEAR 1889

LeCenter—Wood splinters driven into walls of buildings by the cyclone of 1889 form a unique collection of Mrs. John E. Krenik, Le Center. The pieces comprise red oak, maple, basswood, elm, poplar, and crabapple, and bring back memories of the big wind that swept everything in front of it. The cyclone just missed the farm buildings of Mrs. Krenik's father, but took heavy damage in the neighborhood. Mrs. Krenik wrapped the pieces together in an old newspaper, which carries the date of 1894, and has saved them for over 41 years.

TAXPAYERS GROUP SUPPLIES RELIEF EXPENSE FIGURES

One Out of Every Five in Minnesota Given Aid, Statement Shows

Human emergency relief costs constitute one of the major financial problems of federal, state, and local governments in the depression. An analysis of the Minnesota relief case load indicates significant trends. Rural cases have shown a great increase, growing from 8,536 relief cases in Minnesota, as of December, 1933, to 55,372 in December, 1934, according to a report just issued by the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

During the same period total relief cases in Minnesota including both rural and urban mounted from 41,231 to 106,074. The growth in the cities from December, 1933, to 1934, was from 32,695 to 51,602. It is estimated that as of February, this year, there were about 115,000 relief cases in the state, of which 112,000 cases are family units. In other words, one out of every five persons in the state have been receiving relief in one form or another, the report shows.

During 1934 the total cost of relief in Minnesota mounted to $36,918,124. The federal government played an important part in contributing to the 1934 relief burden $28,600,414 or 77.74 per cent of the total. While local communities shifted a great part of the burden to the federal and state units, the cost to the localities was $4,702,095 or 12.74 per cent of the total load. These figures do not include the CWA costs of the federal government which from October to March, 1934, amounted to $18,413,709. Neither do the figures include the PWA costs, which were partly intended for relief work purposes.

It is interesting to note that the relief cost per case on monthly average for six months in the three metropolitan counties was much higher than in the rural counties. Ramsey's cost was $39.38, Hennepin's, $37.30, while the average rural county spent around $20 to $25 per case depending primarily on local conditions, counties in the drought area being relatively higher, according to Minnesota Taxpayers Association officials.

Turkey Lays Three Eggs in Twenty-four Hours

There is a potential 700 egg-a-year turkey on the farm of Harris Ellis in Benton County.

As reported by Mrs. Ellis, The St. Cloud Sentinel correspondent, "a neighbor turkey hen made her nest in the corn stack. This turkey hen laid three eggs in two days. Mr. Ellis brought in one egg on Sunday evening and the hired man brought one in at 11 o'clock on Monday and when he went back to work at one o'clock the turkey hen was on again. When the hen got off the nest about two o'clock there was the third egg.

"Believe it or not," Mrs. Ellis reports in the vein of Robert L. Ripley, "but this is the honest truth as the neighbor has only one turkey hen, and chickens, as he says, don't lay turkey eggs."

The Stresa conference was held on an island, where it was a case of agree or swim ashore.

EXPENSE BILLS IN LEGISLATIVE CONTESTS PAID

Legislature Grants Aid to Five Parties in 65th District

State Senator E. L. Tungseth who were reimbursed during the was one of five state legislators closing day of the legislative session for sums spent by them in defending recount proceedings brought after last November's election. The senate awarded $450 to Senator Tungseth for his expenses in the proceedings, while his unsuccessful opponent, Paul Harris, also of Thief River Falls, was awarded $216.10.

The house awarded Marius Waldal $800 for his expenses and also awarded $800 to Walter E. Day, unsuccessful candidate for the seat. Waldal had put in a bill for $1,871.80 and Day for $2,178.22. Representative J. O. Melby was awarded $50 for expenses. He had put in a bill for $500.

Altogether the state paid $684.10 for the senate contest and $1,650 for the house contest making a total of $2,314.10 it cost the taxpayers for the contests in the 65th district alone.

ANT-EATING ARMADILLO FOUND AT FARMINGTON

Farmington—An ant-eating armadillo, with its natural coat of armor, was found on a straw stack on the Howe farm in East Castle Rock recently. The armadillo, common in the south but rarely seen north of the southern Iowa line, and whose habitat is South America, "probably due to severe dust storms in the South decided to move to a good country and 'hitch-hiked' to Minnesota," according to Mr. Howe. It is a harmless creature and lies buried in the earth throughout the day, moving about only in dark hours. Like a turtle, it withdraws into its hard shell when danger threatens, rolling away from its enemy.

SYNOPSIS OF SENIOR PLAY "TONS OF MONEY"

Class Play to be Given in the Auditorium on May 17th at 8 o'clock

The Seniors will present their play in the municipal auditorium on the 17th day of May. It is an English comedy written by Evans and Valentine.

As the story opens, the maid is about to leave Allington residence; she never receives her wages, the Allingtons being the sort of people who never pay their bills. Mr. Chesterman (Theo. Quale) brings to Aubrey the startling news that he has just inherited $470,00. Their joy is cut short by the realisation that their numerous creditors will make short work of the fortune. Mrs. Louise Allington (Adele Holmstrom), Aubrey's wife gets a startling plan. Aubrey will apparently blow up in his work shop, but he will really go away and come back as George Maitland, his cousin who is to inherit the money on Aubrey's death. Meanwhile Sprules (Jerome Havel) has a bright idea to disguise his brother as George Maitland and get the money. At the end of three weeks Jean Everard (Kathleen Monsebroten) comes to keep Louise company.

When Aubrey arrives as George Maitland, he looks so real that Jean calls him her long lost husband. This unexpected complication calls for a new idea. Aubrey will drown and come back as a different character. Aubrey is left in the middle of the river in a very bad fashion. Sprules' brother then comes as George Maitland. Jean again claims him to be her long lost husband. The rest is rather complicated; therefore, if you wish to see the end of it come to the auditorium May 17. The admission charge is 5c-20c. As usual there will be a matinee for grade school children.

FROSETH AND GUSTAFSON HEAD EIGHTH GRADE

Valedictorian and Salutatorian are Announced Monday Morning

Valedictorian and salutatorian of the Central School of 8th grade was announced at an assembly program Monday morning, by Miss Lyda Batten, principal. Delores Froseth was chosen as valedictorian and Ralph Gustafson was chosen salutatorian. Honorable mention are Clara Mae Grey and June Ystesund. There are one hundred candidates for graduation, which will be held May 31.

Monday the students taking shop put the results of their last semester's work on display. The fine array of projects in woodwork, metal, and concrete is unusually complete this year, as nearly all of the students are nearing the end of their projects. Mr. Pope estimates that there will be little or no unfinished work at the end of the school term.

The annual Industrial Arts and Home Economics open house was held Monday evening at the regular P. T. A. meeting at which time the work of the two departments was on display.

With Junior Erickson and Darlene Rosen as announcers, the style show opened with a display of pajamas by the Junior High School girls under the direction of Miss Inez Lunder, then followed the pajamas, shorts, wool and silk dresses, and finally the cotton and linen dresses of the High School girls.

The Home Economics Department is indebted to Eileen Holland for the music; the Erickson Funeral Home for the grass; H. Nelson for the porch furniture; The Bootery for shoes; Kelley's for equipment; Penneys for stands; and Oens for stands, scenery, and furniture.

PROWLERS LOSE TO ST. HILAIRE

Nicholson and Helquist Pitch; Score 10 to 9

The Prowler baseball team opened practice a week ago and thus far has shown considerable progress. In a practice game Sunday, players were tried out in several different positions. Among the candidates are pitchers: Mickelson, Helquist, Adkins, P. Prichard; catchers: Nesse and Olson; infielders are Lorentson, Jaranson, Mickelson, Alfred Nelson and Sahl; outfielders are J. Nesse, Lee and Milton Nesse.

All players are playing on interclass teams and have varsity practice when there are no interclass games. Last Monday the Prowlers were scheduled to go to St. Hilaire and Wednesday to East Grand Forks.

In the first game of the season the Prowlers lost a loosely played game to St. Hilaire 10 to 9. Going into the last half of the last inning a bad break and three errors gave the game to the "Saints." Nicholson and Helquist pitched for the Prowlers with Olsen and Milton Nesse receiving.

In interclass games the Sophomore "A" team was off to a flying start by defeating the Junior "A" 7 to 2. Helquist and Adkins for the Sophs and Lorentson and Prichard for the Juniors were the pitchers. In other games the Soph "B" team defeated the Frosh "A" 6 to 5 and the Seniors beat the Junior "B".

Girls Kittenball Prospects Sign up

Those girls interested in Kittenball signed up for it Monday night after school. Those who signed up were: Yvonne Anderson, Mae Anderson, Lillian Amundson, Lorraine Amundson, Lillian Samuelson, Eileen Buoen, Iris Ayers, Ardith Gulseth, Lorraine Lechelt, Dorothy Blanchard, Eunice Mullen, Merten Ward, Margaret McKechnie, Mary Chommie, Caroline Lillevold and Fae Belcher. Because so few turned out for the first time, the girls didn't chose captains, but they played Kittenball for about an hour. Each girl who turns out for every practice will be given one hundred points towards a numeral or letter.

Cast of Junior Play Journeys to Warren

Miss Edberg together with the cast of "Growing Pains" and many members of the production staff went to Warren last Friday night hoping to attend the Senior Class Play, "Growing Pains." Because of the death of a sister of a girl and boy in the cast, the play had been called off for two weeks.

Miss Edberg believes that no one will attend the play because "Tons of Money" is to be given on that evening.

Interclass Tennis Tournament Started

The interclass tennis tournament was begun last week on the high school tennis courts. The tournament was delayed because of the bad weather conditions but with the return of warmer weather, the tournament promises plenty of action this week.

The winners of the first round games last week were Don Olson, Milton Nesse, Adrian Jaranson, Vic Jung, Art Nelson, Donald Anderson, James Nesse, Carl Lee, and Alfred Nelson. Other participants in the tournament games played were Harold Schroeder, James Cosgrove, Leonard Helquist, Wendell Pope, Jack Booren, Lynn Booren, Bobby Smith, Martin Jurde, and Don McFarland.

The pairings for this week's games are Norman Legvold and Harley Kelly, Phil Prichard and Bruce Prichard, Lowell Nesse and Jerome Salveson, Gordon Caldis and "Dutchy" Douville, and Jerome Havel and Art Douville.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING HELD MONDAY NIGHT

Election of Officers, Two Speeches, Music and Style Show on Program

A general meeting of the Thief River Falls Parent-Teacher Association was held in the Lincoln High School Auditorium on Monday evening.

"Northmen" by Avery and "Twilight" by Scott were sung by the seventh grade chorus, under the direction of Miss Erma Springen. A short business meeting followed. The annual report by the treasurer was given.

The nominating committee composed of Mr. Skarstad, chairman, Miss Vaughan, and Mrs. Quale reported the following candidates for officers for the coming year: President, A. M. Senstad; vice president, Agnes Tandberg; second vice president, Mr. Prota; secretary, Esther Larson; and treasurer Gaston Ward. This ballot for the officers mentioned was unanimously accepted.

Miss Parsons gave a report of the summer round-up held on May 4th.

Following this was a "style show" by the girls of the Home Economics Department under the direction of Miss Ruth Fletcher and Miss Inez Lunder.

The boys of the seventh grade glee club sang "Friendship" under the direction of Miss Erma Springen.

Mr. Bye gave a very fine address on the subject, "The Evolution of the High School up to the Present Time."

After the program there was an opportunity to see the Home Economics and Manual Training exhibits before partaking of the lunch served by the Home Economics Department.

PROGRESS POKES ITS NOSE AROUND

Now that we've finally discovered an ideal school, let's look around and see exactly what the school presents as a modern structure.

Lincoln High's ideal school has four main entrances. Inlaid in the marble blocks are the words "Welcome." That is to make the student lose any of his pessimistic feelings about attending school. The old fashion mats have also been done away with. Instead, each student is equipped with a new pair of shoes, so that no traces of dirt will be found in the school.

Once inside the building we notice an outstanding change. In place of stairways, which always did make too much work, we notice elevators and escalators. Needless to say, this is a welcome improvement.

The first floor is used for the dancing classes. Because of this, there are no classrooms. These classes are held in a huge, special-built auditorium. Wayne King and his orchestra provide the music. Helen Anderson is in charge of all dancing. Her assistants include Ana Hermanson, Lois Engen and Yvonne Anderson.

On the second floor we find the dramatic classes. At the time we are visiting, the students are preparing for a special play to be given at a benefit program. Because the directors are too busy to be bothered, we observe the room itself. In one corner is a huge stage, on which is located a microphone. This is explained by the fact that many classes broadcast over Thief River Falls' broadcasting station. In the far end of the room are studio lamps and cameras. Didn't you know that many of the Hollywood films are produced here? In fact, the entire motion picture "Why Go to School?" was directed and produced by Lincoln High's own teachers. These teachers (more rightly called professors) include Joan Neset, Adrian Lorentson, Carmen Windmueller, Ethel Rambeck, and Donald Hermanson.

Now the elevators carry us down to the basement floors. Here are conducted the radio and salesmanship courses. Every day is "open house" in these rooms, for the instructors welcome criticism. Announcer Malcolm Magnuson greets us, saying that the day's classes are soon to begin. After being comfortably seated we notice that Mary Margaret Cosgrove and Gilbert Mickelson have also been hired as special instructors. It occurr to us that the present day students are certainly getting a fine education.

Now that our tour of the school is finished we are taken to the first floor, where a dancing party is in progress. On the second floor preparations are being made for a tea. But we again come back to the basement floor; for here an amateur hour is well on its way.

So our visit to the Lincoln High Ideal School is closed. Don't you wish we could attend a school that has these modern conveniences?

SOPHS AND SENIORS WIN IN BASEBALL

Varsity Picked From Best Interclass Players of Week

Leaving basketball in the dust we now turn our interests to baseball. In the first game the Soph. A overpowered the Junior A 7-2. Helquist and Adkins pitched for Sophs, while Prichard pitched for Juniors.

In the second game Soph. B won from the Frosh. A by one point, the score being 7-6. For the victorious Sophs, Holmgren and Westphal filled the pitchers' box. For the not-so-lucky Freshmen Sollid and Olsen "hurled 'em in."

In the third and last game of the week the Seniors defeated the Junior B 10-4. For this contest the Seniors used Nicholson as pitcher and Adrian Lorentson pitched for the Juniors.

Varsity line-up is as follows:

Nicholson, pitcher; Olson, catcher; Mickelson, first base; Lorentson, second base; Prichard, third base; Jaranson, short; Adkins, center field; M. Nesse, right field; J. Nesse, left field.

The varsity pitching staff looks fairly good. It consists of Prichard, Adkins, Helquist, Nicholson and Lorentson. Joe Sollid, Freshman, looks promising and may be advanced to varsity. The catchers are M. Nesse and Don Olson.

Let's hope for a good outcome to our first game of the season to be played with St. Hilaire.

COACH GEORGE LEE ADDRESSES GRID PROSPECTS

Players Given Rule Sheets, Fall Season's First Game With Red Lake Falls

Last Friday, George Lee, Lincoln High School's new athletic coach gave a talk to the boys who plan to go out for football next fall. He gave them all a sheet of plays which he considered the fundamental ones, to study in preparation for next fall's games.

Spring football could not be started this year because the football equipment has been sent away to be repaired. However, he stated that he would be here September first to start practice and that they only had two weeks to practice before the first game, which is to be with Red Lake Falls.

In closing he stated that he wanted the boys to be sure to come back next fall in perfect form to play real football and not ping-pong.

REV. JAMES NICOL SPEAKS TO PUPILS

Former Local Pastor Tells of Missionary Workings

On Monday, the students were entertained by a talk given by Rev. James H. Nicol. Rev. Nicol lived in Thief River Falls thirty years ago when he was the minister of the First Presbyterian Church. During the last years he has been a missionary in Syria.

He spoke of the customs, language, means of transportation, etc. of that country. If one were to travel in Syria, it would be possible to travel by donkey, camel, or auto over the large expanse of desert. However, perhaps the most comfortable and enjoyable way is by auto.

In the large cities, the people and their customs are the same as in the United States. The children are dressed like our school children and even play the same games.

In closing, he stressed the point that the citizens of America should befriend the peoples of the less fortunate countries by helping them as the refugees were helped during the World War.

PROM TO BE HELD FRIDAY EVENING

Junior Class President Presents Invitation

Monday, May 6, the Seniors were called into session after school for a short Senior class meeting. Francis Engle, the Junior Class President, told the Seniors that the Junior class was putting on the annual Junior-Senior Prom, Friday evening, May 10 at nine o'clock at the Sons of Norway Hall. He presented the invitation to Art Douville, Senior Class President, who read the invitation to the class and thanked Francis in behalf of his classmates.

Prom

Tomorrow evening the Junior class sponsors the annual Junior-Senior Prom. During the past week, we have observed that the Juniors have been especially busy with their preparation for tomorrow's affair. Their plans for making the event the most successful of its kind have been kept very much a secret. However, they promise us that we shall not be disappointed with the arrangements that they have made.

Pay your class dues and prepare yourselves for an evening of pleasant diversion from the burdensome task of making ready for approaching state board examinations. (Probably we are making bold assumption when we infer that students are antipathetic to devoting time to acquiring knowledge.)

Remainder

When we glance at the calendar for the remainder of the school year, we discover that there are as many events packed into the last three weeks of school as are ordinarily included in a three month's period. A glance at the list will verify this statement: baseball games, announcement of National Honor Society and Athletic Scholarship Society, tennis tournaments, a district track meet, a regional track meet, a Senior Day, an extracurricular activities' banquet, a Senior class play, the presentation of the 1935 "Prowler", awarding of athletic and other activities' letters, enrollment for next year, and final examinations.

Finale

Next week, the present staff of the "Progress" will publish its last weekly resume of Lincoln High news. This issue will be the "grand finale" for the Editor, the Associate Editors, the City Editor, a headline writer and a feature writer of the present staff. It will mark the completion of three years' work for several of the above-mentioned persons.

Next week, the "Progress" announces the staff for the coming school year. The present Editor and the Advisor will pick a group of students whom they believe capable of carrying on the job of bringing approximately six hundred students and as many parents a true account of what goes on at Lincoln High (usually accompanied by sage remarks on what is wrong and what to do about it.)

These persons who are "honored" with berths on the staff of next year's L. H. S. periodical will also take upon themselves a real task, one that is accompanied with no little amount of work. They will deserve the support and the cooperation of the student body.

Concha

A concha, meaning shell, was originally a shell-shaped ornament, usually silver, though sometimes of leather. It is a common adornment for saddles, bridles, and chaps in the Southwest, and is also the name given to the button-like ornament that conceals the clasps on the lower leg of tight fitting Mexican trousers.—Literary Digest.

Red River Valley History

By Win V. Working

Prehistoric Man in Minnesota

While scientists have made at least cursory archaeological studies of the entire state, in most cases their findings are not particularly interesting to the layman, but the achievements of Dr. A. E. Jenks, professor of anthropology at the University of Minnesota, not only are rich in interest but are of transcendent importance. The writer has corresponded in the past year with Dr. Jenks relative to his discoveries in different parts of the state. Some time ago the university savant supplied the writer with material used in the publication, Science Service, dealing with the discovery of Browns Valley Man. Recently a copy of Dr. Jenks' report on a long period of explorations in the state was received. This same report was made before the Minnesota Historical society in March.

Because much of the report deals with ancient cultures that existed in the Thief River area and because startling facts, or perhaps we should say well-founded theories, are presented, the report will be presented in part in this series. We wish first to direct attention to the fact that Dr. Jenks not only ventures to date both the Minnesota Man and Browns Valley Man, but also shows that finds in this part of the country indicate that there were outposts of the far-flung Aryan empire here back in pre-Columbian times. Also, the scientist furnishes convincing proof of Eskimo culture in this region in the pre-historic period.

We shall start with Dr. Jenks' statements concerning the Minnesota Man. He says:

"I begin with the find which is oldest in prehistoric time and consequently the most important archaeological find in the western hemisphere at this time. I give the Minnesota find this distinction because so far as it has been published it is accepted, and because it is the only find of glacial age man now accepted for the western hemisphere.

"On June 16, 1931, a maintenance road crew found a human skeleton in glacial lake silt nine feet and nine inches below the present land surface near Pelican Rapids, Otter Tail county. Documentation of that silt had been published by Dr. Frank Leverett, the foremost glacialist in America, 17 years before the skeleton was found. Other documentation fixing the depth of the silt below the surface had been made and filed away in the state archieves three years before the find. Still further documentation of a startlingly descriptive nature occurred in a daily dated notebook kept by the road boss at the site on the day of the find. Geologists agree in dating the skeleton in the silt as in glacial time about 20,000 years ago. The skeleton of 'Minnesota man' confirms in its primitiveness the geological evidence that it is of ancient age.

"The people of whom the Minnesota man becomes the type specimen were very much more primitive Mongoloids than are the Mongoloid American Indian, American Eskimo, Asian Chinese, Japanese, and Mongols proper, or any other group having Mongoloid blood which has wandered afield from the probable Asian nest of the ancient primary Mongoloid race. At the time our specimen lived the Mongoloids were much more prognathous, or muzzle-faced than any now known. The skull also in the occipital region is more primitive than any other specimen of Homo sapiens yet published."

We note that Dr. Jenks is more daring than most anthropologists in fixing dates. Geologists usually refuse to commit themselves definitely than some date within a few million years, but in this case it appears that Dr. Jenks has utilized the findings of geologists in reaching his own conclusions. Of the Browns Valley Man and his age he tells us:

"We cannot claim glacial age for the Browns Valley man. It has, however, unique distinction because it is the type specimen of American Indian who made the oldest types of flint artifacts now classified in America. The age of the Browns Valley man is probably somewhat less than 12,000 years.

"As was noted in Science for August 31, 1934, I had the good fortune on July 28, 1934, to confirm a private report that a human skeleton in association with beautiful flints had been rescued by Mr. William H. Jensen of Browns Valley from a gravel pit burial on the western border of Minnesota in Traverse county. In our confirmation of the report, we found 17 additional fragments of the skeleton, some of which contact with parts earlier rescued, and a sixth flint artifact, which was of Yuma-Folsom type, as were the five others obtained by Mr. Jensen.

"While Browns Valley man is not so primitive as Minnesota man, it is more primitive than more recent Indians whose skeletons we have obtained from mound burials of the same area. In its long head and in its narrow nose it more closely resembles the marginal Indians of America, the Greenland Eskimo, and the Asiatic Mongoloid Chukchi than it does the mound-buried and living Indians of the Browns Valley area, who have broader heads and broader noses. The skull is also somewhat primitive in its strong supraorbital ridges, associated with the deep depression above the nose, and in its long frontal segment of the skull arch. The peculiar feature seen in the extremely wide lower jaw, associated with the great width of the floor of the skull, also probably should be considered as a primitive feature. I speak of the wide lower jaw as a 'peculiar feature'. When it is noted that the Browns Valley jaw is wider than the gigantic jaw of Heidelberg man, though it is not otherwise comparable in primitiveness, the reason for my statement will be clear. The Heidelberg is the largest jaw known among paleolithic men." We shall deal with Dr. Jenks' report further next week.

MOTHER ABANDONS 10-DAY-OLD BABY

Crookston—A tiny baby girl, believed to be about 10 days old, was left on the steps of St. Vincent hospital at Crookston recently, wrapped in two fresh blankets to which was pinned a note signed "A heart-broken Mother". The note was addressed to "The Person Who Finds this Baby" and stated "Please take care of my darling baby as I have tried and can't make enough money. A mother can starve herself, but can't see a tiny baby suffer. May God always be beside her and I know you people will do your best." No clues are available as to the baby's identity.

Start Fighting Flies Early in Season, State Medical Group Advises

It is not the fly but its habits which menace the health of humans. This statement is contained in a spring bulletin on flies issued this week by the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association.

When the fly eats, it steps into the food and not only eats all it wishes but covers legs, body and wings. In this manner it may collect typhoid germs, tubercle bacilli, germs of diarrheal diseases or even infantile paralysis from no one knows what filthy spot and deposit them on the milk pitcher, the baby's bottle or his face, or on uncovered bread or cake.

Once the fly enters the house, it is impossible to provide protection from the germs which enter with it. Therefore it is necessary to take measures in early spring not only to keep the flies outside but to reduce their number in the neighborhood to a minimum.

The elimination of flies will be assured if all breeding places are eliminated. This means the removal or disinfection of all refuse—manure, garbage, wet papers and rubbish of all sorts. Decaying grains, rotting fruits and vegetables. Waste cotton or woolen garments, sacking and paper all provide breeding places, especially when moist and warm.

There are several methods of overcoming the fly nuisance including modern methods of garbage and sewage disposal, fly traps, chemical treatment of refuse and screening. All of these should be considered now instead of later when millions of flies have already had a chance to breed. Flies love the garbage pail so that receptacle should always be kept tightly covered.

RAILWAY PENSION ACT IS DECLARED INVALID MONDAY

United States Supreme Court Hands Down Adverse 5 to 4 Decision

The United States supreme court Monday declared the railway pension act unconstitutional in a 5-4 decision.

The verdict brought from rail labor leaders a statement that another retirement measure would be introduced soon.

Terming the benefits of the act "legislative largeness," the majority of the court—Justices Roberts, McReynolds, Sutherland, Butler and Van Devanter—found the law invalid for two principal reasons:

It held that its provisions requiring railroads to contribute to a pool from which retirement benefits would be paid deprived the carriers of property without "the due process of law" guaranteed by the constitution.

It ruled, too, that the "social" purposes of the bill, however laudable, were unrelated to efficiency and safety of operation and for this, and other reasons, were not sustained by the clause of the constitution giving congress power over interstate commerce.

Boy Killed Northeast of Warren in Collision Late Sunday Afternoon

Wallace Wilson, 17 years old, of Warren, was killed almost instantly late Sunday afternoon in an automobile collision five miles northeast of Warren. A coroner's jury Monday afternoon found that death was accidental.

While his companions escaped serious injury, Wilson was pinned beneath the car in which he was riding with Canton Bergstrom and Lloyd Styrlund of Warren. His death was attributed to a skull fracture.

The car, driven by Bergstrom, turned over on the road after it crashed into the rear of another auto driven by Frank Truhn, who had slowed to turn into his farm, according to Deputy Sheriff Marshall Kays who investigated the accident.

A car driven by Karl Gast of Newfolden had just passed Truhn and the latter was practically at a halt when Bergstrom's car struck his machine, Kays learned.

Wilson lived in Warren with his mother and three brothers. Funeral services will be held today.

"No wonder you chose Hudson and Terraplane to sell!" That's what our friends are telling us as soon as they try these 1935 Hudson-built cars.

Here are some of the features that made us decide that these cars—above all others—offer most of what this year's buyers want in a car. Come in and see these features for yourself. Drive these cars. Compare them with what other cars offer. Special showing all this week.

America's Only Bodies All of Steel!—Floors, sides, sills, pillars, doors and even roofs of solid steel. Only Hudson-built cars give you this complete protection.

Rotary-Equalized Brakes!—They always STOP you safely, in a short, straight line. Tests by Detroit police proved that Hudson-built cars stop 40% faster than police require for perfect stopping.

Record-Breaking Performance and Ruggedness!—In February, a Hudson stock car at Daytona Beach added seven new official performance records to the scores already held by Hudson-built cars. Ruggedness proved as no other cars ever proved it—in the recent 175,000-mile Ruggedness Runs.

More of Everything!—Balanced riding . . . more power from less gasoline . . . oil economy doubled . . . up-to-the-minute streamlined style that will stay in style . . . extra wide seats with plenty of leg room . . . and . . .

THE ELECTRIC HAND
The year's only basic mechanical improvement. Easier, safer driving. Smoother, faster gear shifting without taking a hand from the wheel! Standard on Hudson Custom Eights; optional at small extra cost on all other 1935 Hudsons and Terraplanes.

AND LOOK AT THE PRICES! $585 and up for Hudson-built Terraplane (88 or 100 horsepower) . . . Hudson Six $695 and up (93 or 100 horsepower) . . . Hudson Eight $760 and up (113 or 124 horsepower). All prices f. o. b. Detroit for closed models.

WORKMEN HEAR DISCUSSION OF POWER STATUS

Figures Cited to Show Peak Load is Almost up to Plant Capacity

ARNOLD SPEAKS FOR C. C. ASSOCIATION

Mayor Rinkel Tells of Possibility of Securing Federal Grant

A group of speakers that addressed an open meeting of the Workman's Protective association Monday evening in the Auditorium, while differing on minor points, agreed that it will be necessary to add a new unit to the equipment of the municipal power plant to take care of the anticipated peak load next winter.

The meeting had been called for the purpose of discussing the special election to be held in this city Tuesday, May 28, to vote on the question of issuing not more than $60,000 in bonds to finance the purchase of new equipment. William Douville, president of the Workman's group, was in charge of the meeting.

Lincoln Arnold, speaking for the electric light committee of the Civic and Commerce association, briefly outlined the situation that confronts the local plant. He stated that the three units of present equipment have a total capacity of 810 kilowatts and that the peak load last winter ranged up to 750 kilowatts.

He also pointed out that thus far this year the load has increased 11 per cent over last year, indicating a peak load next winter estimated at 811 kilowatts if the present increase is maintained. He added that light and power rates can be reduced only in the event that additional equipment is installed.

Mayor Frank Rinkel read a letter from W. N. Carey, state public works engineer, stating that he had received authority to accept applications for new federal grants for non-federal projects. Mayor Rinkel stated that the council would take advantage of any possible federal loan or grant in connection with acquiring a new unit if the voters authorize the purchase.

D. P. O'Neill, a former resident of the city who was present at the meeting, expressed the opinion that in the present market the city could sell its bonds at an interest rate not higher than four per cent.

C. E. Helquist said that adequate power is a necessity, and that the new unit should be large enough to care for the peak load. He also expressed the hope that a federal grant could be obtained.

R. M. Aalbu commented on the failure of members of the council to be present to explain their stand on the proposal. He said he had always advocated ample power capacity.

Mr. Douville read a letter from Council President P. O. Myhrum in which he expressed the opinion that a sewage disposal plant was more urgently needed in the city at this time than additional power equipment. He also stated that the water power equipment might in the future be depended on to carry a large share of the load.

ACTIVITY BEGINS ON PREPARATION OF NEW CITY PARK

More Than 800 Trees, Shrubs to be Planted, Dr. A. E. Jacobson Says

Work of leveling off the block including the community skating rink recently condemned by the city for park purposes got under way Tuesday, and Dr. A. E. Jacobson, president of the park board, announced that the work of setting out trees and shrubs probably will get under way today or Friday.

A tractor and scraper are being used in the leveling-off process, following which the block will be plowed to work the black soil up to the surface. The services of 15 workers will be utilized thru a relief project which has been approved, Dr. Jacobson said.

Plans to be completed at this time call for the planting of more than 800 trees and shrubs in the block, as well as a number of flower beds, in addition to which there will be a children's play ground and wading pool.

CHIMNEY FIRE SATURDAY

A chimney fire that developed Saturday afternoon at the home of H. P. Lund, 422 Kendall ave. N., was extinguished without any damage resulting.

CALL MASS MEETING NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

To call attention to the special election to be held in this city Tuesday, May 28, a mass meeting of local citizens has been arranged for next Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Auditorium by the electric light committee of the Civic and Commerce association and the citizens light rate committee. Speakers will be present to discuss various phases of the local light and power situation and will outline the situation with respect to the need for additional generating equipment. At the coming election voters will be asked to express themselves on the matter of authorizing the issuance of not more than $60,000 in bonds to finance the purchase of another unit or units. Among the speakers will be a representative of the city council, it was announced. The committees in charge of the meeting Monday are hopeful for a large attendance.

LOCAL WOOL POOL WAREHOUSE WILL OPEN WEDNESDAY

Manager Lund Anticipates That Large Share of Clip Will be Pooled

The Thief River Falls warehouse of the Minnesota Co-operative Wool Growers association is scheduled to open its activities for the current season next Wednesday with the arrival in the city of John Riley of Boston, who will again serve as grader, Robert J. Lund, manager of the local concentration point, announced today. Hans Anton will continue to serve as warehouse foreman.

Mr. Lund stated that no notice had been received as to the basis of advance payments to be made on deliveries of wool, but that announcement will be made at the opening of the pool. As in past years, advance payments will be made here at the time the wool is delivered. It has not yet been determined whether the wool forwarded from this city will be stored in Duluth or at the recently acquired headquarters warehouse in Wadena.

Mr. Lund said he anticipated that a large percentage of this season's clip would be pooled because of the present weak market, which gives indications of improvement later in the season. Last year a total of 580,000 pounds of wool was pooled thru the local concentration point.

GUSTAFSON BEGINS CONSTRUCTION OF LARGE ADDITION

Excavation Began Tuesday for Building 50 by 70 Feet in Size

Another major improvement in the downtown business district got under way Tuesday morning when excavation work was started for the basement of a large addition to the quarters of C. Gustafson & Son, local automobile and implement dealers, at the corner of Main av. N. and Fourth st.

C. D. Gustafson, manager, announced that the addition, which will bring the present building out to the street frontage, will be 50 feet wide and 70 feet deep, with a full basement, which will also be extended under the present workshop, increasing the present floor space by approximately 150 per cent.

The main floor of the addition, which will be of brick construction, will be utilized for display purposes, while the basement will add to the storage facilities. With the new addition the Gustafson building will have a frontage of 75 feet and a depth of 140 feet. Excavation is being done by the H. P. Lund & Son dragline, and Nels G. Olson will superintend construction.

It was announced that while construction work is in progress, the shop service department will be conducted in the Gustafson warehouse on the Soo Line tracks.

State Examinations for Rural Schools May 27-29

The schedule of May state board examinations for rural schools was announced this week by County Superintendent A. C. Matheson. The tests open Monday, May 27, with general mathematics 2 at 10:15 in the morning and seventh grade geography at 2 in the afternoon. On Tuesday, May 28, will be held the eighth grade English test at 10:15 in the morning and general science 2 at 2 in the afternoon. The eighth grade social studies test will be held Wednesday, May 29, at 10:15 in the morning.

Poppy Day Observance Held Saturday, May 25; Mrs. Orwoll, Chairman

In common with workers in other communities thruout the United States, members of the Thief River Falls Legion auxiliary unit will distribute little red poppies Saturday, May 25, which has been designated as Poppy Day, it was announced today by Mrs. S. P. Orwoll, poppy chairman of Elmer J. Eckland unit. Manufacture of the poppies began in January in many veterans' hospitals and workrooms thruout the country, the work giving beneficial occupation as well as an opportunity to earn money to hundreds of disabled veterans of the World War. More than 10,000,000 paper replicas of the famous Flanders Field poppy are being made, the earnings of the disabled men totaling approximately $100,000.

TAX COMMISSION HOLDS HEARING IN CITY WEDNESDAY

Takes Testimony on Plea of St. Lukes Hospital for Tax Exemption

A hearing on the plea of St. Lukes hospital association for tax exemption was conducted in the court room at the court house Wednesday by George E. Wallace, chairman of the Minnesota tax commission, the taking of testimony not being completed until almost 10 o'clock in the evening.

A transcript of the testimony will be forwarded to St. Paul to be considered by the entire tax commission, and attorneys for parties to the action were given until May 25 to file briefs. The hospital association was represented at the hearing by H. O. Chommie and P. W. Murphy, while the city's interests were represented by City Attorney Theodore Quale, with County Attorney H. O. Berve acting for the county board.

Much of the time was devoted to the questioning of Robert J. Lund, secretary of the hospital association, as to details of its founding and organization. Testimony was submitted for and against the contention of the hospital that it operated in part on a charity basis.

The Civic and Commerce association, represented at the hearing by W. E. Dahlquist, recommended that the institution be placed on a tax exempt basis, putting it on an equal footing with other hospitals in this section.

Postoffice Excavation Will Get Under Way in This City Next Monday

Fred Gardiner, who will supervise for the Carl Steen company of Grand Forks the construction of the new postoffice building in this city, announced this week that excavation work will get under way next Monday, this part of the project to be handled by H. P. Lund & Son. Mr. Steen and Mr. Gardiner arrived in the city Tuesday to supervise the work of marking off building lines and erecting a tool shed on the sidewalk adjoining the site on the north. The contractors received word from Washington Monday that their bond had been accepted and that they were authorized to proceed with the work.

BOY SCOUTS NET $20 FROM WAFFLE SUPPER

The waffle supper served by the local Boy Scout troops last Friday evening in the Civic and Commerce association rooms was well patronized, and as a result $20 was added to a fund to send two Scouts to the national Jamboree in Washington, D. C., in August.

AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT ADDED TO H. S.

School Board Takes Favorable Action on Report by Supt. Bye

SPECIAL GRANTS TO PAY MOST OF COST

Report States 22 Per Cent of Boy Students Come From the Farm

In common with 86 other Minnesota high schools, the Lincoln school in this city next fall will add an agricultural department to its facilities as a result of favorable action taken by the board of education Monday evening on a report submitted by Supt. Morris Bye. Similar courses are offered in seven other northwestern Minnesota schools, with enrollments varying from 25 in Lancaster to 123 in Bemidji.

Mr. Bye stated that the net cost to the school district for the instructor's salary would be $516, after deducting state aid of $500 and federal aid of $1,015. If there is a good enrollment in the course, he said, the cost to the district per pupil will be less than in academic subjects. Cost of new equipment needed for the department was estimated at $418.

"Out of the 261 boys enrolled in Lincoln high school," Mr. Bye said in a statement to the board, "57 or approximately 22 per cent come from the farm. There were eleven farm boys in last year's graduating class, and ten of these are now back on the farm. It is fair to assume that most boys from farms will be interested in studying agriculture, and it is also likely that a number of boys now living in town will be interested in the subject."

Among the aims of the department the report mentioned the development of an appreciation of agriculture as an industry and of the cost, effort and equipment necessary for the production and distribution of food; development of intelligent co-operation in economic activities; and to participate in worthy rural civic and social activities.

Mr. Bye informed the board that progress on painting the exterior of the Central school building had been delayed because of rains following the beginning of work May 4. The building is being painted white. It was also stated that 16 elm trees had been planted on the Northrop school grounds.

Lund & Son Definitely Awarded Highway Job

Announcement was made Wednesday by the state highway department that H. P. Lund & Son of this city had definitely been awarded the contract of grading 1.2 miles of highway in Thief River Falls east from the new bridge on their bid of $34,993. The work is expected to get under way within a few days.

COUNTY BOARD LAYS OUT 1935 ROAD PROGRAM

Bids to be Opened May 31 on Grading and Graveling Projects

PLAN 13.95 MILES OF NEW CONSTRUCTION

Board Appropriates $625 for Maintenance of Public Library

The county board at its May session ending Wednesday afternoon laid out its complete road construction program for the current year, and called for bids to be opened Friday, May 31, on three grading jobs totaling 13.95 miles and seven projects aggregating 28¼ miles.

Action followed receipt of notice from the state board of allotment that the county had been allotted $25,500 as its share of gas tax funds to be spent on county aid roads, and $10,116 from the state one-mill tax for use on state aid roads. Of the gas tax funds 50 per cent is set aside for maintenance, while 25 per cent of the state aid funds is devoted to that purpose.

Grading jobs on which bids are being called for today include six miles on State Aid Road 4 in Kratka and one in Cloverleaf; 3.2 miles on County Aid Road 11 in Bray; and 3.75 miles on County Aid Road 26 in River Falls.

Included in the graveling projects, all of which are on county aid roads, are four miles on No. 24 in Highlanding; 3 miles on No. 2 in Highlanding and Star; 11 miles on No. 6 in Wyandotte and Mayfield; two and one-fourth miles on No. 15 in River Falls and Wyandotte; two miles on No. 14 in Polk Centre; one mile on No. 18 in Silverton and four in Smiley; and one mile on No. 19 in Silverton.

Delegations from nine townships were present to request that road work be done this season in their respective communities.

The board received and ordered filed a communication from the Workman's Protective association asking that the county proceed with the construction of a new court house to be financed, if possible, by a public works loan and grant.

Members of the library board appeared before the commissioners to request an appropriation of $750 to aid in maintaining the growing needs of the institution. After some discussion the board voted the sum of $625, compared to $500 a year ago. The American Legion post was voted $65, the same amount as last year, to aid in defraying the cost of Memorial day observances in the county.

TOWNSEND CLUB FRIDAY

The Townsend club will hold a meeting Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the court house, it was announced today.

Opening Ball Game of Season in City Sunday

Dekko's Independents to Tackle Park Rapids at Fair Grounds at 2:30

Heralded by the municipal band and with Mayor Frank Rinkel throwing the first ball, the local baseball season will get off to a flying start next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 when the Thief River Falls Independent team under the managership of M. E. (Shorty) Dekko of Gary crosses bats with the strong Park Rapids team.

The game will be played in front of the bleachers at the fair grounds, where the work of preparing the diamond got under way Wednesday, with assurances that the work will be completed in ample time for the contest. To assure the presence of a large crowd for the opening game, an advance ticket sale will be conducted Friday, it was announced.

While the lineup has not been announced definitely by Mr. Dekko, it is expected that Heiberg, former captain of the St. Olaf team will be in the pitcher's box, while Gronningen of Concordia college fame will be behind the bat. Several players of this community also will be in the prospective lineup.

Announcement was made this week that the famed House of David team will play here the evening of June 5 under electric lights, the visiting aggregation supplying the necessary lighting equipment. The widely known team was developed at the Hot Springs, Mo., baseball school.

AWARD CONTRACT FOR FAIR GROUNDS LIVESTOCK BARN

Central Lumber Co. to Start Work at Once on Large Structure

The Pennington county fair board at a meeting Tuesday afternoon awarded to the Central Lumber company the contract for rebuilding the large livestock barn on the fair grounds that was destroyed by fire early last winter. Construction is expected to get under way immediately and will be supervised by the building committee consisting of S. E. Hunt, Emil Griebstein and Roy Lambert.

The new barn will be built on the same foundation as the old one, and will include a main section 117 by 28 feet and two wings, each 60 by 28 feet, with shingle roof.

Secretary Robert J. Lund announced that distribution of prize tickets in connection with the 1935 fair will commence shortly, following a conference between a fair board committee and the merchants' committee of the Civic and Commerce association.

It was also announced that Alex Campbell had been appointed assistant secretary of the fair board, and that he will gradually take over the major portion of the duties now attended to by Secretary Lund.

Many Fishermen Take Out Licenses This Week

That local citizens are aware that the pike fishing season opened Wednesday is indicated by the fact that 110 fishing licenses were issued up to the opening day from the office of County Auditor Harry Fowler, in addition to a considerable number issued at the Oen Mercantile company and Kelly's hardware store. Many anglers are planning week-end trips to the haunts of the finny tribe.

COUNTY ALLOTTED TOTAL OF $35,616 FOR ROAD WORK

To Get $25,500 From Gas Tax and $10,116 From State One-Mill Tax

Pennington county this year will receive $10,116 from the state one mill road tax for use on state aid roads and $25,500 from gas tax funds for use on county aid roads, a total of $35,616, the state board of allotment announced Wednesday. Last year this county received $10,185 from the one-mill tax and $24,000 in gas tax funds in addition to a special allotment of $5,000 for construction near Highlanding.

Minnesota counties will receive approximately $200,000 more from the state road and bridge fund this year than in 1934. The state board of allotment, consisting of Julius Schmahl, state treasurer, N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner and Stafford King, state auditor, has determined the available 1935 fund to be $4,411,647, compared with approximately $4,200,000 last year. The amount is an estimate made by the board of receipts from the one-mill state road tax and one-third of the state gasoline tax in the current year.

The one-mill tax is expected to yield $1,011,647 this year, or about the same as last. The allotment board estimates gas tax receipts for the counties at $3,400,000 as against $3,200,000 in 1934.

Allotments to other counties in this section include:

	One-mill	Gas tax
Marshall	$10,116	$58,500
Red Lake	10,116	25,000
Polk	10,116	73,500
Clearwater	10,116	25,500
Roseau	10,116	30,400
Beltrami	10,116	44,100

SEEK PERMISSION TO ORGANIZE NEW BANK IN THIS CITY

Hearing on Petition Will be Conducted June 4 in St. Paul

An application for a certificate authorizing the Northern State bank of Thief River Falls to transact business under that name in this city will be considered at a hearing before the state commerce commission June 4 in the state office building in St. Paul, it was announced today.

The petitioners are E. M. Bennes, Rasmus Oen and O. D. Ostby, who for many years have served as directors of local banks; and George A. Belto of Gonvick, president of the Northern State bank in that city.

Mr. Belto is also director of the First National bank of McIntosh and first vice president of the American State bank of Erskine. The three banks with which he is connected all weathered the depression and opened immediately following the bank holiday in March, 1933.

The notice of the hearing was issued Monday by H. Paul Skahen, commissioner of securities, and is published elsewhere in this issue of the Times.

Track Meets for Grade Schools Set for Next Wednesday, Thursday

The first, second and third grades from the Washington, Knox and Northrop schools will hold their annual track meet at Lincoln athletic field next Wednesday afternoon under the direction of Miss Marion Peirson, while Thursday afternoon the three upper grades will compete. Events Wednesday will include the dash and three jumps for boys and girls, a potato race for girls and wheelbarrow race for boys. Upper grade boys and girls will compete Thursday in the dashes and jumps, while the boys also will have a baseball throwing contest.

NEW BUILDINGS APPROVED FOR TOTAL OF $16,200

Nine Applications Granted by City Council Tuesday Evening

BUY 1½ TON TRUCK FROM GUSTAFSONS

Quale, Legvold Named to Represent Council at Mass Meeting Monday

Indicating a growing interest in new construction, nine applications for building permits calling for a total estimated expenditure of $16,200 were submitted at the regular meeting of the city council Tuesday evening. All were approved.

The permit calling for the largest expenditure was that for $8,560 issued to Gustafson & Son, covering an addition to their present quarters on Main av. Other permits were issued to Carl Kierk for a residence on Horace av. N. between Fifth and Sixth sts.; Phillips 66 Oil company, for a cream station and store on East Third st. to cost $1,600, and for an adjoining service station estimated to cost $1,500; Fred Will, remodeling residence, $1,000; Carl Johnson, remodeling, $400; Severt Hanson, remodeling, $700; Alfred Hanson, remodeling, $400; and A. B. Stenberg, garage, $100.

Following the opening of bids for the purchase of a new one-and-one-half ton truck with dump body for the street department, the contract was awarded to C. Gustafson & Son on their net bid of $708 for an International truck after deducting an allowance made for the old truck turned in on the deal. Two other bids were received from local dealers in the net amounts of $780 and $661.

The council adopted a resolution asking the state highway department to furnish a site on Johnson st. at the east bank of the river for the proposed Boy Scout cabin. The department previously had indicated unwillingness to have the structure erected on the north side of the street at the west end of the bridge as originally planned.

John Lager, Lancaster, Is Appointed New Land O'Lakes Field Man Here

John Lager, buttermaker in the Lancaster co-operative creamery for the past two decades, this week assumed the duties of Land O'Lakes field man in District 17 following his appointment Wednesday of last week by the district board of directors. He succeeds Roy J. Ommodt, who left with his family Tuesday for Minneapolis, where he will serve in a supervisory capacity with the Land O'Lakes organization. Mr. Lager, who has gained wide recognition for his high ranking in efficiency contests, will bring his family to the city as soon as living quarters are arranged for.

M. C. HARLOW, 35 YEARS RESIDENT, DIED WEDNESDAY

Funeral Rites to be Held Friday Morning From St. Bernard's Church

M. C. Harlow, for 35 years a resident of Thief River Falls, died Wednesday evening at a local hospital following a week's illness. He was 61 years old. Arrangements were made to conduct funeral rites Friday morning at 9 o'clock from St. Bernard's church with Rev. Father A. L. Marth officiating.

Born in Sheboygan county, Wisconsin, September 17, 1873, Mr. Harlow was graduated from the Oshkosh, Wisconsin, state normal school, following which he engaged in teaching and farming in Spink county, South Dakota. He was married in 1892 to Rose Meisenberg at Litchfield, and then engaged in the hotel business in Armstrong, Iowa, until 1900 when he came to Thief River Falls, where he engaged in the real estate business. He also served on the city council.

Mrs. Harlow died in October, 1932, and there were no children. The only immediate surviving relative is a brother, J. F. Harlow of Redfield, S. D.

TRIBUNE REPRESENTATIVES ENJOY DINNER IN CITY

The carriers, roadmen and all representatives of the Minneapolis Tribune in this territory, including Crookston and Red Lake Falls, enjoyed a dinner in the Log Cabin Tavern at the Palm Garden Cafe Wednesday evening of last week. Charles Collison, agricultural editor of the Tribune who was here from Minneapolis, addressed those present. There were twenty-five in attendance including F. R. Fryer who is traveling through the Northwest in the interests of the Minneapolis Tribune.

Entertains at Bridge

Miss Evelyn Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Nelson, entertained eight friends at bridge at her home Tuesday evening. The invited guests were Mrs. Donald Chalmers, Mrs. Hal Ekeren, Mrs. Rudolph Sagmoen, Miss Lucille Larson, Miss Thordis Johnson, Miss Irene Klewel, Miss Gladys Williamson, and Miss Selma Mickelson. Lunch was served at twelve o'clock.

Entertains Bridge Club

Mrs. S. Brandon and Mrs. A. M. Johnson were hostesses to the members of their bridge club at the home of the latter Thursday evening. Mrs. Chas. Alexander won high prize and Mrs. Elmer Adolphson low. Others present were the Mesdames Beaurgaard, A. Merritt, L. Cerny, H. Hostvet, and P. Hawkins.

CLUB WOMEN OF NINTH DISTRICT MEET IN WARREN

Mrs. R. W. Franklin, Parkers Prairie, is Elected President

Mrs. R. W. Franklin, Parkers Prairie, was elected president of the Ninth District Federation of Women's clubs at the closing session of their annual convention held in Warren last Wednesday and Thursday, says the Warren Sheaf.

Other officers elected Thursday include Mrs. Bernard B. Brett of Warren as recording secretary and Mrs. Peter Sharp of Ada as auditor. Hold-over officers include Mrs. R. G. Price of Moorhead, vice president and Mrs. John Rohaldt, Beltrami, treasurer.

The feature presentation of the convention took place Wednesday evening in the Warren high school auditorium with a drama and musical festival in which various clubs and many individuals from all parts of the district participated. The outstanding number of the evening's program was the singing of lullabies representative of a dozen nations followed by the presentation of Whistler's portrait, "Mother" in life, enacted by Mrs. R. D. Manchester, with dialogue by the Misses Margaret Powers and Edith Brett and music by Miss Signe Carlson. A short playlet was also one of the outstanding features, as were various musical numbers. The entire evening program was arranged by Mrs. A. A. Trost of Warren and Mrs. Jessie Askegaard of Moorhead.

Surprised on Birthday

Miss Marjorie Ose was pleasantly surprised on her birthday, May 10, by the following friends: the Misses Clara and Ella Overum, Josephine and Adeline Nabben, Judith and Alice Wold, Margaret Trochmann, Mathew, Hardy, Alfy, Percy, Victor and Erling Nabben, Clifford, Ansel and Raymond Trochmann, Clarence Benhard, Erving and Reuben Wold, Norman Newland, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rude, and Leroy and Lawrence Groven. A social time was enjoyed and lunch was served by the self-invited guests.

For Rev. John Anderson

Members of the Mission church honored Rev. John Anderson who has been their pastor the past year and a half, at a farewell party in the church parlors Saturday evening. A short program of musical numbers and talks was given and a purse of money was presented to the guest of honor. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the church. Rev. Anderson will devote his full time to his church work in Crookston, and his place here will be filled by Rev. George Peterson of Maple Ridge.

Bethlehem Y. P. S.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend the program that will be given by the Bethlehem Y. P. S. Sunday evening, May 19, at eight o'clock. Refreshments will be served at the close of the evening.

Wold-Refsnes

Peder Refsnes and Dina Wold were married Saturday in the Probate Court by Judge Andrew Bottelson, in the presence of August Wold and Esther Klemmetson.

Birthday Party

Mrs. Pelmer Tommerdahl entertained a few friends informally at her home Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. Tommerdahl whose birthday was on that day.

Fourthirty Luncheon

Mrs. Philip Hawkins entertained Mrs. H. S. Dahlen and Stanton Dahlen, Mrs. Martin Evenson and Mrs. Ray Hanson at a four-thirty luncheon last Wednesday.

Miss Gladys Sorenson Weds Minneapolis Man Monday of Last Week

The marriage of Miss Gladys Sorenson, daughter of Soren Sorenson of this city and Earle W. Malchow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Malchow, 3749 Emerson avenue N., Minneapolis, took place Monday, May 6, at 9:15 a. m. in St. Bridget's church of that city. Rev. James Donahue read the service in the presence of relatives and friends. Spring flowers banked the altar and candelabra with white tapers were on each side.

The bride's gown was fashioned on early Victorian lines of white satin with a long train. The tight fitting lace sleeves extended over the hands. The tulle veil hung in train length and was caught at each side with orange blossoms. She carried a prayer book, a gift from the bridegroom.

Miss Mary Sierson, Winona, a cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Marjorie Keene, were bridesmaids. Their gowns, of yellow taffeta and pale green taffeta respectively, were fashioned with fitted skirts, flared below the knees, with several rows of ruffles and capes of the same material. They carried talisman roses and sweet peas.

Little Thomas Manske was ring bearer, carrying the ring on a white satin pillow. Miss Joan Swanson, the flower girl was dressed in pale pink net over pink satin and carried a colonial bouquet.

Mr. Malchow was attended by his two brothers, LeRoy and Francis Malchow. The ushers were Harold Udseth and Gerald Bierbaum. Mrs. Malchow, mother of the bridegroom, wore a powder blue crepe jacket dress and a large white hat. Her corsage bouquet was roses and sweet peas.

After the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the bridegroom's parents for the immediate families.

Mr. and Mrs. Malchow went on a wedding trip to Chicago. They will be at home in Minneapolis at 3725 Penn avenue N., after Saturday, May 25.

Auxiliary Notes

As a tribute to Mothers' Day, a Junior auxiliary with a membership of twelve charter members was organized May 11 under the direction of Mrs. Claude Evenson, Unit president, Mrs. W. Powell, and Mrs. Leonard Hanson. It is hoped all will make an effort to increase the membership to twenty-five by Decoration Day. The hostesses for the occasion were the Misses Joan Lynde, Dona May Twete, and Sara Maud Hanson. All auxiliary members having daughters, regardless of age, are urged to bring them to the regular meeting of the auxiliary Thursday evening, May 16. The Brownies under the direction of Mrs. Orrin Lynde will furnish entertainment for the evening and the hostesses will be assisted by the newly elected officers of the Junior auxiliary.

Drum Corp Rummage Sale

The drum Corps will sponsor a rummage sale to be held Saturday, May 25, on the band stand, south of the Gamble store on Main ave. The sale will last all day. Local people are asked to cooperate as usual with the drum corps in putting over the sale.

Silver Creek Ladies' Aid

The Silver Creek Ladies' Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. Oscar Gutterude Sunday, May 19.

Names Painted on Cliffs

Ships, entering for the first time the port of Muscat at the entrance of the Persian gulf, leave a public "calling card" by having their names painted in large white letters on the sides of the 400-foot perpendicular cliffs that surround the harbor. These cliffs, with their hundreds of names, look like gigantic billboards.—Collier's Weekly.

DISTRICT TRACK MEET TO BE HELD HERE MAY 18TH

Teams From East Grand, Alvarado, Crookston, and Thief River to Compete

Saturday, May 18, Lincoln High School will be the host to the District Track Meet, with teams from Crookston, East Grand Forks, Alvarado, and Thief River Falls competing. The winners in this meet will represent this district at the Regional Meet at the Bemidji State Teachers College, May 24. Medals will be given to first and second place winners in each event and the winning team will receive a cup.

In the hundred-yard dash, James Nesse, Gustafson and Jack Adkins will represent the Prowlers. James and Milt Nesse and Gustafson will enter the 220-yard dash. Running the low hurdles for Lincoln High are Gunderson, Mickleson and Lee. The 440-yard dash will be run by Mickleson, Lee and Berge; the half mile by Gunderson, Magnuson, and Dicken. Aspirants for shot and discus honors are Jonle, Lee, and Jung. Adkins, Lee, and Mickleson will toss the javelin. Fabrick and Westphal are Lincoln's pole-vaulters. Contestants for the high jump crown are Fabrick, Sahl and Nelson. James Nesse is Lincoln High's best bet for broad jumping honors. Broad jumpers will be J. Nesse, M. Nesse, Magnuson and Nelson. Those who will run the high hurdles are Fabrick, Magnuson, Nelson, and Jung.

There will be a great deal of competition for first places, and each team has an even chance of winning. The local tracksters who are expected to be spectacular are James Nesse, on the hundred-yard dash; Gustafson, in the 220 dash; Fabrick, in the high hurdles; Berge, in the 440 dash; and Jonle, in the short and discus.

All events will be worth watching. Don't miss them.

Historical Outing in Marshall Co. June 14

The executive committee of the Marshall County Historical society has selected a site on the banks of the Red River at a spot known in the early days as Big Wood Landing for the second annual picnic of the society which will be held June 14. The site of the picnic is about six miles north of Oslo and was one of the first settlements in Marshall county.

Elsberg Calls for Bids on Baudette Highway Job

Bids on state highway projects to total approximately $115,000 have been called for May 24 by the Minnesota highway department. Included in the call is a grading project on Highway 72 from Baudette seven miles northwest to Wheeler's Point, involving 98,731 cubic yards of excavation.

St. Vincent Local Put Back by Great Northern

Improved train service giving Warren and towns along the St. Vincent line of the Great Northern an additional passenger train daily connecting with fast city and Duluth freight and mail trains will be inaugurated on Monday morning, May 20, according to an announcement made last week in the Warren Sheaf. In addition to the new local train, the Winnipeg Limited on the Great Northern will be speeded up considerably with only one or two stops between Crookston and the Canadian border, the train being scheduled to leave St. Paul at 7:30 at night instead of 5:15 as at present, unofficial information reaching Warren reveals. The local will operate between Fargo and St. Vincent.

The Baltic sea, into which flow more than 200 fresh-water streams, is tideless.

Make Their Own Scars

Anything in the nature of a scar is viewed as a distinct blemish in Europe, but African girls make a parade of these scars as tokens of loveliness. To obtain the desired effect, they slash their faces with sharp shells and rub black paint into the wounds. When these self-inflicted injuries heal, they leave a beautifully raised mark.—Pearson's Magazine.

Ever-Normal Granary Plan Fills Farm Need, Secy. Wallace States

The ever-normal granary plan proposed by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace represents a combination of methods long advocated by farmers to provide short-time agricultural credit on farm stored crops, to curb speculative profit, and to build up adequate crop reserves, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, Washington, D. C., asserts.

Legislation permitting the perfection of this plan is contained in one of the amendments to the Agricultural Adjustment Act now being considered by Congress. A statement by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration about this plan and the amendment follows:

"In high production years the surplus over domestic and export demands would be pledged to the Government as security for loans," the statement says. "Under seal on farms it would be definitely removed from the market, and would not therefore, become a price-depressing factor. Moreover, waste of the product and the expense of moving it would be avoided if the product were so stored.

"In years of crop shortage, the farmer could pay off his loan and take the resulting profit by selling on the higher market. But if the crop again were large and the price so low that the Government should become owner of the stored collateral. The Government could hold it on the farms and turn it back to producers as compensation for a reduction in acreage in the following year.

"This payment in kind for adjustment is provided for in an AAA amendment now before Congress. If the farmer wished, he could be paid with corn for adjustment in corn acreage, with cotton for cotton acreage adjustment, and with wheat for wheat adjustment. On the other hand, if he preferred cash, he could still obtain it. Payments partly in kind and partly in cash could also be made.

"Under the ever-normal granary plan only producers cooperating in the adjustment program concerned would be eligible for commodity loans. Thus the tendency toward overproduction in time of higher prices would be curbed. One phase of the ever-normal granary plan was illustrated by the 1933 corn loans, under which farmers in the Corn Belt stored 270,000,000 bushels in sealed cribs, and were advanced $120,493,000 against this collateral," the AAA's statement reads. "They finally sold it on a favorable market, paying off the loans and gaining, through the increase in corn value, $82,90[illegible] above such costs as interest and insurance. The corn thus carried over provided valuable feed for the next year, when the crop was short."

Funeral Rites Friday For Charley Olufson, of Gatzke Community

Charley Olufson, thirty-five years a resident of Marshall county, died May 13 in a local hospital at the age of sixty-seven. He was born May 30, 1867 in Norway and came from there to Wisconsin where he lived awhile before taking a homestead in Gatzke where he has lived since. He was married December 8, 1903 to Anne Haugen in Gatzke. Surviving him are his wife and three children, John, Hannah, and Oscar. Other surviving relatives are one sister, Mrs. Berger Sohstrud of Montana, California, and a brother, Martin, of Gatzke. Funeral services will be held Friday from the home at one o'clock and from Lutheran church, Gatzke, at 2:00 with the Rev. H. T. Anderson and Rev. E. O. Sabo officiating. Interment will be in Landstad cemetery.

Rev. Hildahl, Fosston, Dies After Auto Mishap

The Rev. K. O. Hildahl, Fosston, died at a hospital in Bemidji Monday from injuries received in an automobile accident near Solway, 13 miles west of that city Sunday night. The machine in which the Rev. Hildahl was riding was driven by a daughter, who struck a cow in a herd being driven across the road by Frank Kolley and his son, after dark. The Rev. Hildahl got out of the machine to inspect the damage. Just as he stepped onto the road another car, owned by Elmer D. Perkins of Cass Lake and driven by his son, Arthur, struck the pastor. Almost simultaneously the car hit a horse ridden by the cattle herder.

Largest Gold Nugget

The largest gold nugget of which there is authentic record was the "Welcome Stranger," found in a shallow cart rut near Moligul, Victoria, Australia, February 5, 1869, which weighed between 2,270 and 2,280 troy ounces.

HOME PLANTER'S NOOK

The What, When and How of flowers, lawns, and shrubbery, by L. Sando and L. E. Longley, Division of Horticulture, University Farm, St. Paul.

Fertilizing Lawn and Shrubbery

To keep it in good shape, the lawn needs some fertilizer, either a manure compost or a commercial mixture. The compost should be applied at the rate of one cubic yard to 2,000 to 4,000 square feet of lawn surface. This is much better than using the maure without composting. Manure applied directly is unsightly and encourages dandelions and clover.

Except for farm dwellers, commercial fertilizer will usually be cheapest. Either a well balanced fertilizer may be used or a nitrogen fertilizer alone, such as sulphate of ammonia or nitrate of soda.

A lawn that is being reseeded but not reworked, should be fertilized some days before seeding and the ground thoroughly soaked immediately. If the lawn is being respaded, however, the fertilizer should be well worked into the soil to a depth of several inches. And in this case about 50 pounds of 16 per cent superphosphate should be applied per 1,000 square feet of lawn. Unlike other kinds of fertilizer, phosphorus must be worked into the soil before seeding to be of much value.

Lawn fertilizer should always be high in nitrogen. Light applications three times a year are usually best; the first as early in the spring as possible, the second in late June, and the last in late August. The market offers a number of garden fertilizers analyzing approximately 1 per cent nitrogen, 8 or 10 per cent phosphorus, and 4 per cent potash. Of these, 15 pounds should be applied per 1,000 square feet of lawn. One good method is to use such a fertilizer for the first or the last application, using sulfate of ammonia for the other applications, at the rate of 2 pounds per 1,000 square feet. Probably the best lawn fertilizer would be one having 6 or 7 per cent each of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash, using 10 pounds per 1,000 square feet. Apply the fertilizers dry, but at once soak the lawn heavily to prevent burning.

For lawns infested with crab grass it is advisable to make only two applications, one of sulfate of ammonia in very early spring, and one in late August, using a complete fertilizer. The two applications can be increased enough to provide nearly as much plant food as the three ordinarily recommended. The "trick" is to feed the June grass to stimulate heavy growth before the crab grass seed germinates and again after the crab grass growing season is past, also to have very little fertility available during the crab grass season.

For fertilizing shrubbery, manure or compost may be spaded into the soil around the shrubs. If fresh manure is used, this is best done in the fall. Or a complete fertilizer of the approximate formula of 4-10-4 or 5-12-5 may be used. This should be well worked into the soil around the shrubs using 30 or 40 pounds per square feet of surface covered. Fertilizer of this type should only be applied when the soil is fairly moist. If the soil is dry, water it both before and after applying.

Full instructions on making compost, fertilizing lawns, and handling other lawn problems are given in Minnesota Special Bulletin 170, "Making the Home Lawn". Copies are free from county agents or the Bulletin Office, University Farm, St. Paul.

Classified Ads Get Results Before Published in Times

In two instances during the past week Times want ads produced results without being published, giving further proof of the recognition the Times is gaining as a clearing house for users of classified advertisements.

While visiting in this city last Friday Mrs. J. Peterson of Greenbush lost an envelope containing valuable papers, and she immediately called at the Times office to leave an ad for this week's issue. Meanwhile the envelope was found by Dorothy Noel of St. Hilaire, who was in Thief River Falls for the day, and she promptly brought it to this office, where she was rewarded by the grateful Mrs. Peterson.

In the second instance Isaac E. Wilson of Hazel late last week lost an automobile tire and rim, following which he mailed an ad to the Times for publication this week. However, Police Chief A. B. Stenberg had already filed in the Times office an ad stating that he had found a tire, and it proved to be the one lost by Mr. Wilson.

Verily, it pays to advertise in the Times.

AUGUSTANA LUTH. CHURCH MEETING HELD AT HALLOCK

Pastor and Two Delegates Are Present From Local Congregation

The 23d annual convention of the Red River Valley conference of Augustana Lutheran churches Sunday at Hallock closed a four-day session which attracted an attendance of 200 delegates and pastors from 95 churches.

Present from this city were Rev. H. L. Sjogren, pastor of Augustana Lutheran church; Emil Johnson, delegate from the local congregation; and Miss Anna Alberg, delegate to the Women's Missionary society. The sessions closed Sunday afternoon with services conducted by Dr. Peter Peterson of Chicago, president of the Illinois conference.

In the annual election of officers conducted Friday Rev. Oscar Gustafson of Alexandria was renamed president for his fourteenth term, while Rev. Walfred Erickson of Hallock was named vice president; Rev. Elmer Dahlgren of McIntosh, secretary; and Emil Gahlon of Alexandria, treasurer. Charles Naplin of the St. Hilaire community was named a member of the board of charities.

BOOST FOR BASEBALL

One of the favorite topics of discussion at the winter evening sessions of the stove league locally is the baseball rivalry that existed here twenty or more years ago between Thief River Falls and neighboring towns. And if half the stories some of the old timers tell about baseball in the good old days are true then baseball really must have been a major sport in the community at one time.

But that was many years ago. Since that time several half hearted attempts have been made to revive local interest in the great national game but the home talent exhibitions failed to attract customers. This year a more serious effort is being put into the attempt to re-establish baseball. A professional team has been hired to represent the city. Good teams will cross bats at the Fair Grounds diamond and fast ball will be played.

Local citizens who are sponsoring the team this year are hopeful that the community can be made sufficiently baseball minded during the next year or two to justify city representation in a regular league. Several hundred dollars have been donated to defray the expenses of this year's experiment. If the experiment indicates that there are a sufficient number of fans in the community to justify professional baseball then an attempt at league baseball will undoubtedly follow.

On Sunday afternoon you will have the first opportunity to see the Thief River Falls team in action. If you like baseball and would like to see the game developed in this community, then journey out to the fair grounds Sunday afternoon and help give the Thief River Falls team a real reception.

THE NEED IS RECOGNIZED

At a mass meeting sponsored by the Workmen's Protective Association at the Auditorium Monday night the question of authorizing the council to purchase additional power equipment, to be decided at a special election May 28, was discussed at some length. There seemed to be no difference of opinion among those present as to the need for more equipment. All who expressed themselves recognized the fact that if more equipment is not provided the city probably will not be able to supply the demand during the months of heavy consumption next fall and winter.

Some of those present, however, did question the method proposed for financing the purchase, objecting to a bond issue because it would be a general obligation of the city and urging purchase by a conditional sales contract, as attempted by a previous council two years ago, pledging only the earnings of the plant. It might be well, therefore, to compare the cost of the two methods of financing.

The bid of Fairbanks-Morse & Company, of which so much was said and written two years ago, offered to install a diesel engine and a pump at a total time price of $57,164, to be paid for in monthly installments over a period of several years, the unpaid balance to draw interest at the rate of six per cent. The cash price for this same equipment was $53,990, or in other words the city was paying a premium of $3,174 for the privilege of financing its purchase at a six per cent rate. The fact that the earnings of the light plant were pledged in payment of this debt did not change its status as a general obligation of the city. This was the decision of the court that decided the questions involved in the injunction proceedings at that time. So the conditional sale contract was in fact just as much a liability to property owners of the city as a bond issue would have been.

The present council, appreciating the advantage of being able to pay cash, is seeking the authority of the voters to issue not to exceed $60,000 in bonds which will draw interest at the rate of not to exceed four and one-half per cent. It is thought likely that this issue can be financed for less than four and one-half per cent, and the council proposes to get the money as cheaply as possible but under no circumstances is the rate to exceed four and one-half per cent. And it may not be necessary to issue the full amount of $60,000 which would be authorized.

A comparison of these two methods of financing leaves no doubt as to which is the cheaper. There is no question but that there is a big advantage in being able to pay for cash. The experience of two years ago proves it. And the bond issue is the one way in which the city can get the necessary cash at a reasonable rate of interest to make this purchase.

RATE REDUCTION MUST WAIT

Several people have told us that if the council would reduce light rates they would gladly vote for the bond issue to purchase additional power equipment. This is putting the cart before the horse. Rate reduction is impossible until adequate power equipment is assured. According to Ole Legvold the three engines now operated by the city were barely able to meet the peak demand of last winter. And with this demand steadily increasing at a rate of more than 10 per cent over last year, the city will not be able to take care of the peak load this winter with its present equipment. Which means that if more equipment is not added, dark streets will be a common thing during November and December. So under the circumstances, rate reduction is impossible until an adequate source of power is assured. Once this is assured then rate reduction must come.

Once upon a time, so many years ago that everyone has forgotten the date, a congressman promised the good people who live in the city of Thief River Falls that he would build them a fine post office building. Many congressmen have come and gone and before each election the same promise has been made. Thief River Falls would certainly have a post office building. And now all of these promises are being fulfilled. At any rate the betting odds are now even that work on the building will be started before fall. There are skeptics among the villagers, of course, who are still willing to wager that an order will come out of Washington holding up the work temporarily pending a settlement of the controversy over the freight rate on putty, but these skeptics are now but a small minority. The contractor is now on the ground. Stakes have been driven. And by the end of the week the basement will be dug. Certainly a hopeful attitude toward the project is now justified.

ADVOCATES CLOSED SEASON
(Wadena Pioneer Journal)

Sportsmen's organizations advocate a closed season on migratory waterfowl for one year to prevent the utter destruction of North American ducks and geese. To our way of thinking this is by far the best remedy that has yet been proposed for the preservation of our waterfowl, which is threatened with extinction because of unwise drainage, also from overshooting, drouth and disease.

To be effective the application should be national in its scope. Indeed, Canada should be invited to join us in the campaign to preserve the greatly reduced residuum of what once was considered an inexhaustible supply of wild game. Every effort should be put forth to prevent our migratory waterfowl from following the bison, passenger pigeon, and heath hen. We owe at least that much to those who are to come on after us.

VOICING A SENTIMENT
(Morris Tribune)

When it comes to maintaining friendly relations with our neighbors to the north and the south, President Roosevelt certainly has his international policies on straight. Because the military affairs committee of the House so much as heard the testimony of General Kilbourne regarding the establishment of a powerful aviation field which would be a threat to the Canadian border and for that reason was to be camouflaged, the President promptly and righteously exploded.

In expressing the jealous care with which we maintain our good faith in the 3000 miles of unfortified frontier, the President voiced one of the deepest convictions of the American people.

AN APPEAL TO THE BAR
(St. Paul Pioneer Press)

A call has been issued by Attorney General Cummings "to every bar association, to every court whether in state, city, county or magisterial district, to give the United States government the aid and co-operation necessary to purge the legal profession." In the Attorney General's opinion it cannot be accomplished without the pressure of public opinion. As a preparatory step it seems to be up to the vast majority of ethical attorneys to demonstrate that the profession honestly stands for clean practice to the extent of fighting crooked practice.

As Federal officers have looked more deeply into the underworld, crooked lawyers have been exposed not only as the aider and abettor of crime but sometimes as actual participants. Here and there bar associations are showing signs of recognizing this newly emphasized responsibility. Some of the most notable offenders have been cracked down upon in New York. Six criminals licensed to practice law have just been disbarred in Philadelphia. One was a state senator and the extent to which they had served other criminals as planners, advisers, fixers, look-outs and handlers of "hot securities was startling.

In the same city 28 minor magistrates have been placed on the grill by the local Criminal Justice Association. Not one of them is an attorney but all are rated as political servitors most conveniently placed for the advantage of racketeer politicians. Last year these magistrates handled 103,277 criminal cases in which they had summary jurisdiction and approximately 90 per cent of them failed of conviction.

Minnesota is lagging in this matter. A lack of funds for making investigations and reports has slowed up or prevented the submission of evidence upon which the Supreme court can act in disbarment cases. Even the commitment of an attorney to Stillwater for an offense committed in his practice does not necessarily mean that he ceases to be a member of the bar. It is different in the medical profession where practitioners' annual fees provide ample funds for penalizing unethical practices.

NO SLASH IN POSTAGE RATE
(Belle Plaine Herald)

Often during the depression one heard the statement that telephone rates should come down because other things had come down, regardless of the fact that the depression had wiped out all profits and piled up deficits to the extent of making bankruptcy a possibility for all but the strongest companies. Similar views prevailed in regard to other utilities, and sentiment for municipal, state or federal ownership spread over the land, because it was argued by politicians that, if they were in control of the utilities, rates would be slashed during a depression. But there is one public service that is government managed and has been for over a hundred years. It is the postal service. If the familiar blah-blah of the politicians were true, postal rates should have come down with the drop in the public's income. But did they? They did not. Up they went fifty per cent.

STOCK SWINDLING
(Review of Reviews)

Experienced investors are not immune these days to the subtle appeals of stock selling racketeers, and the number of fraudulent sales in the country is going up by leaps and bounds. The securities bureau of New York state now has as many complaints and convictions in a month as it formerly had in a year. Twenty-five million dollars is taken by stock swindlers every year in New York alone.

The racketeers and security bootleggers are making use of the legislation which has handicapped legitimate security dealers. Among their methods are the old-time bucket shop, in which the customer really bets against the house, since his orders are never filled; and the switch-and-sell racket in which the gullible investor trades blue chip stocks for those artificially puffed up and promoted.

A new type swindle is that of unearthing corporations still legally alive, but, for all practical purposes, dead. The shares are bought up in large lots, for little or nothing, then unloaded at high prices. Needless to say, the high pressure promoters then disappear.

Island of Rhodes Still Point of Great Interest

In the beginning of the Fourteenth century the Crusaders and the Knights of St. John occupied the island of Rhodes, crossroads of the occident and the orient and once the great intellectual centre of the ancient world, and made it one of the strongest fortresses of the Middle ages. About 200 years later the Knights were overwhelmed. Then for centuries the island was forgotten, until in 1912 the Italians defeated the Turks and occupied the island and kept it by the treaty of Trianon after the World war. With such a colorful background, the place retains many influences of its early history. Wandering around the mighty walls visitors have to look out not to stumble against one of the stone cannon balls which are lying in the grass, half overall covered by the earth of 300 years.

Nearly every peasant has his own windmill, and on Sunday evenings the whole population gathers on the terrace in front of the old orthodox church, in their colorful, gold-embroidered costumes. They are a simple people, satisfied with the pleasant routine of life on an island in the Mediterranean, and oblivious to the fact that their home is a half western, half eastern city with fascinating medieval fortifications and walls.

Curacao

Curacao is 40 miles long and three to seven miles wide. It lies 41 miles north of the coast of Venezuela. The island is very dry and produces little vegetation. Sometimes there is no rain for several months. Nearly all food has to be imported, even drinking water being brought from the mainland for those who can afford it. Others, as in the case of Bermuda, drink rain water caught from the roofs of houses and stored in immaculately clean cisterns. The most conspicuous tree in Curacao is the sapodilla, the fruit of which is delicious, but peculiar in flavor. Here also grows the bitter orange, the peel of which is shipped to Amsterdam or Hamburg for the manufacture of Curacao liquor, popular throughout the world, but not made in Curacao.

'Little House of Divine Providence'

The "Little House of Divine Providence," a home for the sick and destitute—in Turin, Italy, is a monument to faith in humanity. It was started more than 100 years ago with four beds. It takes care of 10,000 inmates at a cost of more than $13,000 a week. Yet every cent that it has received in its history has been voluntarily deposited by benevolent souls in a money box stuck in the wall near its front door.—Freling Foster, in Collier's Weekly.

Six Species of Hickory

Six species of hickory are native to the woodlands of the eastern states. The wood of all six species possesses a combination of quality not found in any other hardwood. These are extraordinary hardiness, strength, toughness and flexibility. In addition the wood is straight grained and moderately elastic. It is, however, hard to split, difficult to season and work, and does not hold its shape.

Speed of Light

Light traveling at a rate of 186,284 miles a second, is many times faster than sound, which in dry air moves of a mile in less than five seconds. In water sound travels five times as fast as in air, and in iron or steel 15 times as fast as in air.

Yesterday's Song

"MY DEAR!"—Hortense came swiftly forward to greet Lavinia, hands outstretched. "How lovely you look! You know, I'm perfectly thrilled at giving this announcement party for you. Everyone's going to consider it a brilliant match, I know."

Lavinia's smile seemed a trifle forced.

"Thank you," she said; "you're sweet to have thought of it. Have you—that is, do the others know?"

Hortense laughed lightly.

"Certainly not, darling! I wouldn't dream of spoiling such a dramatic surprise. I've planned to keep it until after luncheon. Do you mind?"

"Oh, no!"

Chattily Hortense went on: "I made this an affair just for women because I couldn't bear to think of all the males in Hollywood overcome by despair right here in my house. I really don't believe you know, Vin, how you've captured hearts in these last six months. Why, you've become such a radiantly different person. Is it your success in pictures, or Felix?"

"I don't know. Perhaps it's just that I've grown into the habit of acting and carry it on away from the studio, too."

After a quick glance at her, Hortense casually remarked:

"Well, whatever's the answer, you've blossomed marvelously. I remember when I first met you, how forlorn and unhappy you seemed. I realized later that was because you'd just separated from Raoul."

"By the way," the hostess pursued, "have you ever heard from him since?"

Lavinia's golden head shook a slow negative.

"Not directly. I heard that he gave up his job to come here when I stayed, but I've never seen him; he didn't even appear at the divorce hearing."

Beyond the French windows, upon the broad lawn, were spaced a dozen or more daintily appointed tables. Soft music sounded faintly.

"Oh, how delightful!" Lavinia cried. "An orchestra, too?"

"Yes," Hortense said, leading her onto the terrace; "I thought it might be nice, and it's patriotic. They're a little group from the artists' bureau of the unemployment relief agency."

Lavinia wasn't conscious of her going, nor of anything else in that thronged scene save the one figure she had suddenly glimpsed. There beneath the acacia tree he stood, brown hair windblown, baton moving deftly in his long fingers as he led the musicians. Raoul! Silently her lips formed the name, as a brief wave of mixed feeling swept her. Then Hortense was beside her once more, introducing someone. . . .

For the next quarter hour she had no chance even to glance in his direction. But, moving among the guests to exchange social amenities, her thoughts were constantly of him.

At last Hortense guided her to the table where they would have luncheon. It was within a few yards of Raoul and his men. She had been seated but a moment when from behind her burst forth the rich, wild strains of "Dark Eyes" played upon a violin. Her heart missed a beat, only to resume with a furious pounding that drove the hot blood into her throat and temples. He had seen her, then, for this was their love song—the one he played the first night they spoke of love.

"Why, dear girl!" Hortense was leaning anxiously toward her. "You have scarcely eaten a morsel. Don't tell me I've been stupid enough to have things you dislike!"

Lavinia smiled, murmured something in denial, and mechanically picked up a fork. An instant more and Raoul's instrument was still.

Hortense finally suggested they go indoors for demi-tasse and liqueurs. Lavinia rose resolutely, and without a look behind started across the grass. She had heard the quiet clatter and rustle of departure among the musicians; shortly they would be gone and this fantastic interlude but a memory. Soon, Raoul would be out of her life again and everyone would hear of her engagement to Felix Aaronson, the brilliant young producer. . . .

She reached the portico last; the others had all gone in. An insistent impulse gripped her and she turned. Alone by the acacia's sleek trunk was Raoul, violin yet in hand. A mask of infinite sad bitterness was upon his face. The deep gray eyes gazed toward her, brooding.

Lavinia's sob was barely audible. Over the close-trimmed turf she ran swiftly to the man beneath the tree.

* * *

Miss Prout found Hortense seated by herself in a far corner of the music room, sipping chartreuse and smoking.

"Oh, I've been looking for you!" rattled Miss Prout. "Here's the announcement you asked me to type. Will you want to read it now?"

"No," replied Hortense, smiling just a bit; "no, I shan't, Georgia. You may as well tear it up. The lady it concerns was unexpectedly called away because of—of some music—some music I took the liberty to arrange for her. She may be detained—well, indefinitely."

Oratorio and Opera Both Were Started in Italy

An oratorio is a sacred story set to music which, like opera, requires soloists, chorus and full orchestra for its performance, but dispenses with the theatrical adjuncts of scenery, costumes and acting. The modern oratorio and opera both were originated in Italy, about 1600, says a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer, and were originally indistinguishable from each other, except that one was sacred and the other secular in subject. However, before 1700, particularly in Germany, the oratorio began to be clearly different from the opera, in the relinquishment of dramatic action and accessories, and came to belong essentially to the class of concert music, with more or less of the qualities of church music. The true oratorio style has been developed more remarkably in Germany and England rather than France or Italy.

The first and most universal subject for oratorios was the Passion and the greatest music is that of Bach's "Passion According to St. Matthew," written for service on Good Friday, 1729. In England the works of Handel treated epics as subjects for oratorios.

Inhabitants of Pitcairn Island

Pitcairn island is a solitary island in the Pacific ocean, between Australia and South America, in 25 degrees 3 minutes south latitude and 130 degrees 8 minutes west longitude. It is about 2 miles long and one mile broad. It was discovered by Carteret in 1767. In 1790 it was taken possession of by nine of the mutineers of H. M. S. Bounty with six Tahitian men and a dozen women, the ringleader being called Christian. Of nine British sailors, only one, Adams, was left in 1800, and from him the present inhabitants are descended. The island was annexed to Britain in 1839. Nearly 200 of the islanders were transferred to Norfolk island in 1856, but a number of them afterward returned.

Shoes From Shark Skins

There are 500 kinds of sharks in the world, but the skin from only three species are used principally, to provide leather for making shoes. These are the Arctic, the tropical and the silk shark, the latter being caught off the Portuguese coast. Shoes made from the Arctic shark have a woolly appearance, and are useful on the golf course. Women's shoes are made from the silk shark, and one of its most popular uses is for handbags. Sharks are caught in large fish-nets about 200 yards long, and six yards deep.

Bones May Verify Legend

Unearthing of 12 skeletons of unusually tall men at the spot of Roncevalles, France, where legend says Roland and his fearless knights made their last stand against the Moors in 778, may substantiate the story. Historians declare the find proves that the traditional French hero really made his gallant fight. The discoveries were made during preparation for the erection of a monument on the summit of Ibaneta in the Pyrenees.

"Pillory" in a Church

Failure to attend church was punishable in England by imprisonment at one time, and at the church of Ashby de la Zouch, Leicestershire, there is evidence that people who attended had to behave themselves. In the gallery is a finger "pillory." Here naughty boys and girls, as well as those who attempted to leave before the sermon, were detained until the end of the service.

Tympani Have Pitch; Not Like the Ordinary Drums

The tympani, or kettledrums, belong to that group of percussion instruments which possess definite musical pitch. They resemble huge copper kettles, observes a writer in the Washington Post. Over the top of each is stretched a layer of sheepskin called "the head." Around the rim are six set screws which are turned to tighten or loosen the head, so that it can be kept in tune.

Two tympani are usually used, although four and sometimes six are employed in certain orchestral compositions. Tympani, in Italian, means "drums." Other drums only make noise and do not have a definite musical pitch. In order to show the difference in musical quality, they are called tympani.

Not only do the tympani have pitch, but a skillful player can make their tone vary in quality also. Several pairs of sticks are employed to play the tympani. The sticks are topped at one end with felt of varying degree of thickness and weight, enabling the player to produce loud or soft tones.

The performer can vary the tone of the tympani by striking it at different places. A stroke near the side gives the sharpest and brightest tone, while the one in the middle is duller. The usual spot is about halfway between these two.

The tympanist has few notes and long rests in orchestral music. He must count these, but in practice he either knows the music, or has a bit of it written out to give him the cue, or gets the signal from the conductor.

Fishermen Must Pay Toll

The only country in the world which allows individuals to collect a private toll from deep-sea fishermen is Denmark. For many centuries it has held steadfast to a law which gives the owner of shore land the right to "rent the sea" in front of his property for eel fishing. In some years this total rent has amounted to as much as $250,000.—Freling Foster, in Collier's Weekly.

Depreciation on Residence

According to a preliminary report on "Depreciation Studies" of the bureau of internal revenue, the depreciation rate annually on a one-family dwelling of masonry, brick and concrete is 2 per cent. The probable useful life of the building is 50 years. If the house is frame, the depreciation rate is 3 per cent and the probable useful life is 33 years.

ARTICLE IV.

The government of said corporation and the management of its affairs shall be vested in a board of five directors, who shall be elected at the annual meeting of the members, which shall be held on the first Tuesday in March of each year. The incorporators above named shall constitute the first board of directors, and shall hold office until the first annual meeting of the members and until their successors are elected and qualify. The term of office of each director shall be one year and until his successor is chosen and qualifies.

ARTICLE V.

This shall be a non-profit, non-stock cooperative association. Any cooperative association organized under the laws of the State of Minnesota or licensed to do business in the State of Minnesota and any individual may be admitted to membership upon payment of the membership fee prescribed by the by-laws of the corporation, and by complying with the terms and conditions contained in the by-laws of the corporation, and upon approval of his or its application for membership by the board of directors of the corporation.

ARTICLE VI.

The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which this corporation shall at any time be subject shall be Two Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000).

ARTICLE VII.

The fiscal year of the corporation shall commence on the first day of January and end on the thirty-first day of December in each year. The net income of such corporation, except such amounts as are required to be set aside as a reserve fund or permanent surplus or may be set aside by vote of the stockholders of the corporation, available for distribution, among the members, or patrons, or both, as the case may be, shall be distributed only on the basis of patronage.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, we have hereunto set our hands and seals this 11th day of April, 1935.

CONVERSATION

Hubby (anxiously)—But if you buy a costly fur coat how are we ever going to pay for it?

Wifey—Now, Tom, don't let's talk about two things at once. Let's talk about the coat.

CONSIDERATE

"It never makes my husband mad if I insist on having my own way."

"Then why don't you do as you please all the time?"

"'Cause it never makes him mad."

THAT'S ALL

He—Yes, I expect to make my mark in football this year.

She—On somebody's map, I suppose.

Knighton

Knighton is a charming little town on the Teme in the Welsh borderland of Shropshire. The great Caractacus waged many battles there and his earthworks still may be seen. There also remains of a fortress at [illegible] Castle dating from the time of Edward I.—London Mail.

SO. ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK

South St. Paul, Minn., May 15, 1935 (U.S.D.A.): Trend of the cattle market at the week's opening was stronger, slaughter steers selling on a firm basis, she stock steady to 25c higher, vealers about steady. Most fat steers went at $9.00-11.25, odd head up to $12.50. Good heifers and mixed yearlings sold at $10.00-10.25, medium and low grade heifers $6.00-9.00. Beef cows sold at $5.50-8.00, cutters and low cutters $3.50-5.00 or more, common and medium bulls $5.25-6.50, beef bulls $6.25-6.75, cutters down to $4.50, medium to choice vealers $6.00-8.50, cull and common $3.50-5.00. Stocker trade was fully steady, bulk steers $5.50-7.00, some $7.50, stock heifers $5.00-6.00. Dairy cows were fully steady, strictly good strongweight springers $75.00-90.00 per head, plainer grades $45.00-60.00.

Hogs were steady to 10c or more higher, better 180-325 lb. $8.50-8.75, lighter weights and medium grades down to $8.25 or less, good pigs $8.00-8.25, good sows mostly $8.00, a few up to $8.15 or above, most stags $7.75-8.25.

Lambs were around 25c higher, good to choice 80-lb. clipped lambs going at $8.00, a few plainer 78 lb. averages $6.00. Common to choice shorn ewes brought $1.00-3.50.

QUOTATIONS BY NORTHERN PACKING CO. GRAND FORKS
Tuesday, May 14th.

HOGS—Market is strong to 10c higher. Well finished ones sold during the afternoon at from $8.10 to 8.60 with $8.00 top paid for the base kinds weighing 210 to 260 lbs. Packer sows are quotable at from $7.00 to $7.65.

CATTLE—There is a very good local demand for most grades of cattle of quality and condition to sell at from $8.50 downward. The best finished kinds are not in good demand. Medium to good steers, heifers and yearlings sold mostly at from $6.50 to $8.50; common and fair steers and heifers ranged from $6.25 downward. Butcher cows sold mostly at from $4.75 to $6.50; canners and cutters ranged from $4.25 downward. The best heavy bulls sold at from $5.00 to $5.50 while medium and light kinds ranged from $4.50 downward.

CALVES—Market is steady; strictly good vealers are salable here at $6.00 to $8.50. Common calves and medium vealers are not in good demand and most sales ranged from $4.00 downward.

SHEEP—Lambs are quotable at steady prices. Desirable killing lambs are salable at $6.00 to $6.50.

Spain's Night Watchmen Relieve Police on Duty

Every visitor to Spain, writes the Madrid correspondent of the London Sunday Observer, notices the "sereno," or watchman, who, with his pouch of keys and small oil lamp dangling from his chest and with his metalshod staff in his hand, forms one of the chief notes of city life after dark. Madrid's "serenos" come in large part from Galicia. They form the butt for much good-natured fun on the variety and musical comedy stages.

The fact that the "Madrilenos" live almost exclusively in large blocks of flats usually at least five or six stories high makes the work of the watchman relatively simple. The house porter, unlike his unfortunate colleague in France, is free of all responsibility for the comings and goings of the occupants of his house while the "sereno" is on duty.

In some Spanish towns the "sereno" wears a typical uniform, but in Madrid a flat-topped hat is his only official distinction. He ranks, however, as belonging to the "armed forces," and two years imprisonment is the minimum punishment for even the slightest assault on his person. His presence in the streets avoids the necessity for police patrols, and Madrid is probably the only capital in Europe whose streets are not regularly patrolled by policemen throughout the night.

Has Oldest Commerce Chamber

The oldest city chamber of commerce in the United States is at Charleston, S. C. It was founded in 1773.

Body Temperatures

Although body temperature is ordinarily said to be 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit, temperatures in different parts of the body vary.

Smooth; Smoothe

There is no known reason for spelling smooth without a final e, for it rimes with soothe. In the period about 1570, in England, an attempt was made to introduce a final e, but the effort gained no permanent following. In 1630, the verbs to wreathe, to loathe, to soothe, and to smoothe, were all spelled without a final e, although breathe, bathe, sheathe, and clothe (though spelled cloathe) had the final e to indicate a soft th. This inconsistency was remedied in most instances; but we still have the verbs to mouth and smooth, and the prepositions beneath and with without a final e, though in each instance th is properly soft.—Literary Digest.

Nitroglycerin

Nitroglycerin is a highly powerful explosive. It probably would shatter the breech of the gun before the bullet could move out of the barrel. In addition, nitroglycerin is too sensitive to stand ordinary handling, as it is detonated by very slight shocks.

San Salvador

San Salvador, where Columbus first set foot on American soil, is an island of the Bahamas group and is about three-quarters the size of Staten Island, the gem of New York bay. It is 12 miles long and from 5 to 7 miles wide.

First Real Estate Deed in Ohio Executed in 1762

Probably the first real estate deal in Ohio took place in 1762 in what is now Tuscarawas county.

Christian F. Post, a Moravian missionary of Pennsylvania, went to that section to determine the practicability of establishing a religious post there. Believing the Indians would receive him kindly, he began clearing the land and building a cabin, said to be the first cabin on Ohio soil, except the temporary shacks of traders.

With a village on the opposite side of the stream, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, the redskins became suspicious and an investigating committee called him over for a conference. Post explained that he had come to instruct them in the arts of living and agriculture and to administer the word of God. The land, he told them, was needed for raising vegetables.

His manner of presentation, and feeling sincerity, so impressed them that they agreed to let him lay off a square tract 50 steps on each side. Captain Pipe stepped off the plot, drove stakes at the corners and in Indian fashion deeded to the missionary his right to the land. The agreement was eventually respected by the Indians.

Time Standards

The earth turns on its axis every 24 hours, rotating from west to east. Sun time is taken from the time when the sun apparently crosses the meridian at a given place. Since this changes as one goes east or west, it has been necessary to establish different standard times zones, based on the meridians, 75, 90, 105 and 120 degrees West, in this country. Places within about 7½ degrees of each of these lines of longitude take the time at these meridians as their standard, no matter what their local or sun time may be. Many cities adopted a daytime saving time for the summer months, advancing their clocks an hour so as to take advantage of the early morning light and to save light and fuel in the evening. The United States time zones, running from east to west, are eastern, central, mountain and Pacific. The continental railroads adopted these standards as early as 1883, hence the term, railroad time.—Detroit News.

LARGE GATHERING ATTENDS LUTHER LEAGUE MEETING

Three-Day Convention Is Climaxed by Choral Union Concert Sunday

Despite unfavorable weather conditions a large group of delegates from thruout this section of the state attended the annual district Luther league convention which opened in this city last Friday and continued thru Sunday. A large gathering was attracted by the choral union concert presented in the Auditorium Sunday evening. Rev. O. T. Haaland of Baudette was elected district president.

The resolutions committee, headed by Rev. H. O. Peterson of Viking submitted the following statement for publication:

"We are grateful to God who has so richly blessed us thru the teaching of His word and thru Christian fellowship.

"We wish to express our sincere appreciation and gratitude for the work done by the outgoing officers.

"We give our hearty thanks to the Trinity Lutheran congregation, its Luther league and pastor for the fellowship enjoyed by both visitors and delegates at the church and in the various homes.

"We extend our thanks to the Trinity Ladies Aid for their kind hospitality in serving us our Sunday meals, also to Larson's floral service for the floral decorations.

"We are especially grateful to Rev. O. S. Reigstad for his challenging messages Sunday morning and afternoon."

Crookston Debaters Win Championship of State

Crookston high school debaters won the state championship of the Minnesota High School Debate league by defeating Stillwater in a state final contest in Crookston Tuesday night. By the 2-1 decision of three judges, Crookston became the only school in Minnesota to have won state titles in four different years. Only one other school, Caledonia, has been awarded three state titles.

Former Local Citizens Will Hold Big Outing in California June 23

A huge Thief River Falls picnic will be staged Sunday, June 23, in Recreation park in Long Beach, California, according to word reaching the Times this week from Oscar Sponheim of Long Beach, secretary of the picnic association. A full day's program is being arranged, including a golf tournament in the morning, picnic lunch, speaking program and sports events in the afternoon, and cards and dancing in the evening. "Thief Riverites of Southern California will all be there, and others are urged to come from everywhere", Mr. Sponheim writes.

Services Saturday for Nels Stack, St. Hilaire

Last rites for Nels Gustav Stack who died May 7, were held Saturday with services conducted from the church in St. Hilaire, Rev. M. L. Dahle officiating. A resident of St. Hilaire forty-seven years, Nels Stack died at the age of eighty-seven having been born May 22, 1847 in Oland, Sweden. He migrated to this country in 1868. His wife, Christina Stack, three sons, Fred of Macrorie, Sask., Canada, Edwin and Axel of St. Hilaire; two daughters, Louisa, at home, and Mrs. Person of Duluth survive him. One son, Robert, died August 14, 1934.

Says Lawmakers Had Faulty Organization

Senator Tungseth Recites Session Experiences at C. C. Meet

Addressing the Civic and Commerce association at its luncheon last Thursday, Senator E. L. Tungseth expressed the view that the failure of the state legislature to accomplish more in its recent session was due largely to defective organization.

Committees, he said, had difficulty in getting quorums owing to conflicting memberships, this situation being mainly responsible for much legislation falling by the wayside. The senator said he had supported progressive legislation without regard to which group sponsored it. He predicted a special session would be called to deal with the tax problem, to qualify for federal grants and to correct the error discovered in the old-age pension law.

Others who spoke briefly were O. C. Paulson, who told of plans for an enclosed skating rink; R. J. Lund, who announced the opening of the wool pool next week; and B. J. Ommodt, Land O'Lakes field man recently promoted to a new post with headquarters in Minneapolis.

Mayor Frank Rinkel, chairman of the electric light committee, announced that the group had been increased by the addition of B. O. Norby, Olaf Neset, A. J. Berry, John Barzen and Lincoln Arnold. He said the committee would be represented at the meeting of the Workman's Protective association scheduled for Monday evening.

Following a discussion by Secretary Paul Lundgren of the hearing set for this week on the appeal of St. Lukes Hospital association for tax exemption, the matter was referred to the board of directors with power to make a recommendation to the tax commission. Mr. Lundgren stated that the association should make no distinction between the two local hospitals, but pointed out that similar institutions in other nearby towns are now on the tax-exempt list.

Rites Today for Mrs. Marie Johnson, Mother of Mrs. Nels Flom, City

Last rites for Mrs. Marie Johnson, who died Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Nels Flom, will be held from that place today, May 16, at 7:30 p. m. The body will be sent to Lankin, N. Dak., where services will also be held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Nappen Saturday. Interment will be in Quale cemetery. Mrs. Johnson was born in Nordfjord, Norway August 14, 1860. She was married to Ole Johnson in that country in 1881 and then came to America where she settled in Fordville, N. D. From there she moved to Lankin in 1923 before coming to this city where she has since made her home. Mrs. Gena Cummingham of Brockett, N. Dak., Joseph Johnson of Dahlen, N. D., Amelia Nappen of Lankin, N. D., Elias Prestegaard of Trail and Mrs. Nels Flom of this city are the children who survive her. Twenty-five grandchildren and six great grandchildren, also two sisters in Norway are left to mourn her departure. Three sons and one daughter have preceded her in death. Mr. Johnson died in 1921.

COUNCIL GRANTS MANY PERMITS FOR NEW CONSTRUCTION

With a view to eliminating fire hazards at the newer power house, it was agreed to call for bids at the next meeting of the council on the furnishing of iron shutters for the windows facing the Barzen company plant, and also to cover the oil house with a three-inch concrete slab.

A group of residents in the vicinity of Fourth st. and Duluth av. petitioned the council to abate an alleged nuisance on the property occupied by D. A. Bredeson and Godfrey Carlson. A hearing on the petition was set for Tuesday evening, June 4, at 8 o'clock. Another group residing north of the fair grounds asked that electric lines be extended from the city to serve their homes, offering to share the cost of the extension. The petition was laid over for investigation.

O. L. Ihle offered to make a compromise settlement of back taxes on a series of lots on Crocker av. now owned by Andrew Ness and used for an automobile dump. The council voted to recommend approval of the offer to the understanding that the premises be cleared.

City Attorney Theodore Quale and Ole Legvold, light plant superintendent, were authorized to represent the council at a mass meeting being arranged for next Monday evening at the Auditorium to discuss various features of the special city election Tuesday, May 28, when voters will express their views on the advisability of selling bonds to finance the purchase of another Diesel unit.

The council confirmed the reappointment by Mayor Frank Rinkel of Carl B. Larson to the cemetery commission for a five-year term.

RELIEF EXPENSES FOR APRIL AMOUNT TO $5,708 TOTAL

Shrinkage in Disbursements Begins to Appear Early This Month

The beginning of what is expected to be a substantial decline in the number of cases on relief in Pennington county has been noted since the compilation of the report for last month showing that as of April 26 there were 243 relief cases including a total of 1030 persons in the county. Of the cases 137 were in Thief River Falls.

Expenditures for human relief aggregated $5,708.38 for the month, while $84.95 was spent on livestock relief, Mrs. Trudie King, in charge of the local office, reported. In addition to cash disbursements a large variety of commodities was distributed, including 4,000 pounds of apples, 981 pounds of canned beef, 350 pounds of cheese and substantial quantities of rice, rutabagas, canned milk and canned mutton and veal. Also distributed were 386 sheets and 468 pillow cases prepared by relief labor.

It was announced that S. P. Rauch has been appointed area relief administrator for Polk, Red Lake and Pennington counties, to co-ordinate the work in the county offices in his district.

Clark Gable, Constance Bennett Coming Sunday

Depicting a romance between a susceptible man and a blue-blooded debutante, Clark Gable and Constance Bennett will appear at the Avalon theatre Sunday and Monday in "After Office Hours." In the supporting cast are Stuart Erwin, Billie Burke, Harvey Stephens and Katharine Alexander.

Manager A. M. Holte of the Avalon during the past week made further improvements in the lobby of the theatre, adding to its attractiveness. The walls have been surfaced with golden agate Vitrolite up to a height of five feet, and the box office has been finished in black Vitrolite with silver trim.

Concordia College Band to Depart June 4th for Concert Tour of Norway

Tentative plans are nearing completion which will send the Concordia Band, Concordia College, Moorhead, to Europe this summer. The band, which will tour Norway under an invitation from Normands-Forbundet, the international league of Norsemen, will leave the college June 4 on a tour which will bring them to New York July 3 to board S. S. Stavangerfjord for the voyage.

The band will give concerts throughout the middle west on to Chicago with the likelihood that several concerts will also be arranged east of Chicago before the final New York concert. The band will arrive in Norway July 11 and will immediately begin a circular tour of the entire nation which will take approximately three weeks. The band will return to New York August 21.

The band will be accompanied by Dr. J. N. Brown, president of the college who will act as official spokesman. Rev. S. G. Hauge, Hawley, member of the board of directors for thirty-five years, has been named by the college board as its official representative.

TROUT OPENING BRINGS BIG FISH

Fergus Falls—The opening of the fishing season brought joy to thousands, but Henry Leidal, Fergus Falls, had reason to be happier than the other 999 when he landed a German Brown trout weighing six pounds and fourteen ounces exactly. The trout, landed in Straight river near Park Rapids, was the biggest of its kind ever landed in that section. For 35 minutes the game fish fought Leidal's line, after which Harvey Bertelson assisted him in taking it from the water. A fly and spinner was used as a lure. At Lewiston Charles Jackson landed a "King of the Whitewater" on the opening day without the use of a landing net. The trout weighed four pounds and 10 ounces, measured 23½ inches, and took half an hour to land. A dry dock for the fish was dug with the fisherman's toe while he played him, and when the fish tired he was nosed into the sand pocket.

Mankato Will be Host to 22nd Convention of City Officers June 5-7

Mankato will be the host to the twenty-second annual convention of the League of Minnesota Municipalities on June 5, 6 and 7. An attendance of over 600 public officials is expected at the convention.

Elaborate plans are being made by the many committees which have been appointed by the Chamber of Commerce under the direction of Mr. E. V. Nyquist, secretary, to assist in planning the three day stay of the visiting officials. The meetings will be held in the Eagles Hall. A banquet, dance and many other entertainment features are being planned.

Preliminary plans for the program include discussions on the proposed state civil service system, state and municipal relations, legislative councils, conflicting jurisdictions in taxation, a sound municipal indebtedness program, expenditure control, the 1935 public works relief program and other important problems.

Chairman of Minnesota Conservation Body Asks Closed Season on Ducks

"It is our candid and honest judgment that there should be a national closed season on wild migratory waterfowl this season."

In these words, John B. Foley, Wabasha, chairman of the Minnesota conservation commission, voiced his personal opinion, the views of the commission and of the state Department of Conservation, in a radiocast in connection with Minnesota Conservation Week which came to a close Saturday.

In an earnest appeal to protect diminishing wild duck specie Mr. Foley said that "the sportsmen of Minnesota should unite and with a voice that shall reverberate through the nation, demand that the sad story of the passenger pigeon shall not be repeated with our waterfowl." He stated that no person or group of persons "has a right to deprive the future of the splendid sport of waterfowling."

Mr. Foley also touched upon the forestry problems of the state, the need of developing commercial beneficiation of low-grade iron ores, the importance of conserving water because of the long period of drouth, and the public curse of pollution. He also pleaded that every community make an effort to see to it that the underprivileged children be given an opportunity of getting out at least a week this summer to enjoy the beautiful outdoors.

HOME PLANTER'S NOOK

years has caused considerable injury to shrubbery. This necessitates a rather different pruning procedure than ordinarily is recommended. It may necessitate some replanting. Examine carefully each shrub to see how badly it is injured. All dead wood should be removed, of course.

You will find that many shrubs, such as Mock Orange, Dogwood, Ninebark, Japanese barberry and Alpine currant, will have parts of the canes and branches badly injured or shriveled. In such cases, cut the canes back very heavily, often to within a foot or two of the ground. This will induce sprouting from the crown and in a year or two you will build up what amounts to an entirely new plant. With plants showing little or no injury, the normal type of pruning will be better.

Ordinarily we recommend the following procedure for pruning blooming shrubs: 1 shrubs that bloom in the spring or very early summer should not be pruned until just after they have bloomed; 2) Those that bloom late in the summer should be pruned in the early spring. The early blooming group includes such shrubs as lilacs, most of the spireas, and Mock Orange; those that bloom late are the hydrangeas, roses, spirea billiardi and Anthony waterer. The latter type should be pruned early in spring and usually require rather heavy pruning. The hydrangeas, especially, should be cut back to only a few buds, and this is true of the hybrid tea and hybrid perpetual roses. The taller roses that are grown more for their landscape effect as the rugosa hybrids and many of the rose species, do not need such heavy pruning. Anthony waterer and Froebell spireas should be pruned heavily to induce sprouting from the ground, but spirea billiardi needs only some thinning out of the older canes.

In early blooming shrubs the buds for the next year's blooming are formed in late summer, so that spring pruning may cut off much of the best bloom. To avoid this it is better to prune just after they have bloomed, at which time, also, the plant will be stimulated to build up a multitude of new buds for the succeeding year. However, since most folks forget to prune in late summer, it usually is desirable to do some pruning on all kinds of shrubs in the early spring. This should consist in cutting out the oldest wood; that is, wood older than three or four years. If a few of these old canes are thinned out each year, little reduction of bloom will result and the plants will be kept in a vigorous growing condition. Removal of old stems is especially important for bright-twigged plants, such as dogwoods, as only the younger twigs have the bright color. Over-growing branches should be shortened in somewhat.

This is also the time of year to give some pruning to hedges. With an informal hedge merely cut back all branches that are over-grown, or that are out of keeping with the natural form of the hedge. With a closely-clipped hedge, however, it will be necessary to go over it carefully and shear off most of last summer's growth. Unless the hedge is to be kept very small it should be allowed to grow a little taller and wider each year. Even an inch or so of new growth each year will tend to keep the hedge more thrifty and give it a heavier dressing of foliage throughout the summer.

N. W. School, Crookston, Gives Results of Tests with Sweet Clover Seed

Sweet clover was first seeded at the Northwest Experiment Station in 1896. It is now grown throughout the Red River Valley and has become one of our most useful pasture and soil improvement crops. Because of its increasing importance in the agriculture of this region, the Northwest Station has conducted a series of comprehensive investigations dealing with varieties and species, cultural methods, soil improvement, weed control, pasture and hay, life history and seed scarification.

In summarizing these trials, R. S. Dunham, station agronomist, states that the common white biennial variety has proved most satisfactory for general use. Wheat has been more satisfactory as a companion crop than oats, barley or flax. Sowing sweet clover alone in June was not satisfactory but sowing alone in April resulted in maximum root development and the largest yield of hay. Sowing in the fall with winter rye has been uncertain.

When sweet clover is plowed under and the crop fallowed the remainder of the season, it has proved an effective control crop for weeds such as wild oats, mustard, perennial sow thistle, and quack grass.

According to Professor Dunham, no other pasture crop or pasture mixture has proved so dependable and high in carrying capacity as sweet clover. Hay cut in the bud or early bloom stage and properly cured has proved nearly equal to alfalfa for wintering cattle and sheep.

Scarified sweet clover seed retained its viability after one year in storage but the viability decreased rapidly after the second year. Unscarified seed, after three years in storage germinated as well as fresh seeds. "Hard" seeds produced practically no plants during the first season and did not improve the stand in subsequent seasons.

Increased Land Demand Shown in State Sales

A marked "return-to-the-land" tendency in Minnesota is revealed in a tabulation of sales of state-owned trust fund lands this spring, according to a report submitted by F. A. Wildes, Director of the Division of Lands and Minerals. Public sales of trust fund lands conducted this spring in 21 counties, mostly in the northern section of the state, resulted in the sale of 21,920 acres. Last year spring state land sales amounted to 7,900 acres while in 1933 the total was only 2,910 acres, Mr. Wildes reported. There may be a slight variation in the 1934 figures when final returns are received from county auditors, Mr. Wildes said.

WHITTLES DYNAMITE CAP; LOSES FINGERS

Bertha—Warren Laust, 13 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Laust, Bertha, is minus a thumb and forefinger on his left hand, and is nursing burns on hands, face and neck but can lay claim to being a real Spartan. Following an explosion of a dynamite cap, which tore off one finger and left the thumb hanging by flesh, the boy took out his knife and completed the amputation. It was not until the next day that his parents were aware of the fact that he had injured himself. Finding the cap on the ground and not knowing what it was, Warren thought by cleaning it out he could make a whistle out of the cartridge. The effect was more than a whistle it was a real bang! Barring unexpected complications, he will be alright again soon, but minus the two fingers.

One of Hottest Stars

Rigel is about 17,000,000 miles in diameter, says the American Nature association. It is equal in brightness to the combined light of 13,000 suns as bright as our own. It is one of the hottest stars with a temperature of about 20,000 degrees Fahrenheit as compared with a temperature of 9,000 degrees for the low temperature star, Betelgeuse.

"Sweet Little Thing"

By BERTHA LEA H. CROSS

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service.

I HAVEN'T run a boarding house fifty years for nothing! I kin tell you that I've seen samples of every known type of persons from saints to sinners. Yes, sir! We folks in hotel business come up against all sorts! But I'm not so quick judgin' folks these days. . . .

I've got in mind a girl who come to me last summer, a girl, as you might say, "from out the storm."

It was a terrible wild night in mid-June. Alice and Mary, the two waitresses, were settin' in the kitchen waiting for Miss Carr to open the dining room, and Bob, the bell-hop, was joshing 'em when we heard a knock.

"See who 'tis, Bob," I said.

When he opened the door a little straggly figure of a girl fell in.

"The sweet little thing!" Alice cried.

"I'm Jessie Carey. Oh, please, please may I stay here tonight? I can't . . . I don't know what to do. . . ."

The bell rang just then for Alice, and directly after, Mary was called. The bell-hop also received his call and I was alone with the child. I poured her a cup of strong, hot coffee and then helped her out of her wet coat.

"Drink this, child," I said. "As soon as I serve up these two orders I'll take you where you can change those wet clothes. . . . Of course you can stay here; I wouldn't turn a dog out on a night like this."

As soon as I could I took her up to my room and helped her out of her wet clothes.

"Now, Jessie," I said, "tell me."

"I don't know how to begin. . . . You see, I ran away. There was a man my father wanted me to marry. I hated him!" She shivered. "He was a bad man. He—he—

"I ran away," she went on, "away from them both. I had a little money. I walked miles through the woods. And then come the storm."

As I held her there I tried to think what to do. All my help was hired. And, anyway, I could see how useless she'd be, thin and plainly not used to work. And yet, I couldn't send her away.

"You'll stay with me until I know what's best to do," I told her.

Three days passed. Jessie refused to give me her address or to write to her father. Every time I mentioned it she went off into hysterics.

There seemed to be some mystery. The papers said nothing about a runaway and there was no search for her. All that was sensational them days was the murder of John Cold, the rich Wall-Streeter.

I never followed murder stories. They made me sick to my stomach. I believe that every murder was done because of some unlawful desire.

But on the third day the headlines turned me cold:

WHERE IS THE GUILTY WIFE? WHAT HAS BECOME OF JESSIE —THE GIRL WHO MURDERED HER HUSBAND?

I read on about how they'd spread the dragnet all over New England. My heart about stopped when I come to the description of the missing wife: "Blonde; blue eyes, large, expressive; small stature . . ."

And I was shielding her! A murderess!

I climbed the stairs as fast as my rheumatism would let me. But she swore up and down that she was not the guilty one and there was innocence in her face. But I'd get to reading those papers and I couldn't believe her.

The second day after I decided Jessie was lying I sent for the police. I felt justified. If a girl will murder one person, it just ain't right to keep her about, I thought, where she might do more harm. At times her face looked so drawn and sick that it haunted me. But I hardened my heart. I would not abet crime! No murderess would be under my roof, hiding from justice.

That night a big car drove into the yard with four policemen.

"Where's the dame?" one of them asked.

"I'll bring her," I said.

When I reached her room it was empty. My room was, too. I knew then that somehow she'd learned that I had betrayed her. That's just how I felt—like a Judas. Guilty or not, I had betrayed her.

"She's the one, all right," one man said, "else she'd not have skipped."

We looked everywhere for her and all the roads were watched, and on the third day they found her body. Evidently she had hidden in one of the caves and in the dark had walked over the edge of a cliff. I couldn't believe that she'd committed suicide, although the policeman said it was so.

But even they were obliged to own themselves wrong. For a week after we found her, the authorities found the guilty wife in Maine—another Jessie. But, oh, so different from this girl! This child was truthful and honest. Her heart-broken father attested to every word she'd said. Even the "bad" man was overcome. He cried when he saw her.

But, I—I am the murderer! I feel that if someone would only tell me that I done right, even in mistaken judgment, perhaps I could find peace. . . .

Red River Valley History

More on Browns Valley Man

We continue here Dr. Jenk's archeological comments and note that he makes an important and emphatic statement when he classifies the Browns Valley Man as an Indian:

"The morphological features and others, which cannot here be presented, clearly indicate that Browns Valley man was an Indian, but one who still retained characteristics of earlier ancestral types—features which succeeding Indians of the extensive land-locked heart of America have more largely lost. Another unusual feature of the Browns Valley skull should be noted, though no claim is made that it is a primitive feature. It is the Cro-Magnon-like asymmetrical combination of a long skull with a broad and short face. All the above-mentioned measurable features combine to distinguish the skull of Browns Valley man from any other now recorded.

"Five flint artifacts were rescued by Mr. Jensen when he obtained the fragmentary skeleton. A sixth one was found by us when our excavation confirmed the finding of earlier date. I shall here describe three of the flints. The first one found was a projectile point picked up Oct. 9, 1933, by William H. Nichols in gravel from the Browns Valley village gravel pit after it had been dumped on the driveway at the Jensen grain elevator. Its maximum length is 80.0 mm., maximum breadth 23.5 mm., and maximum thickness 6.4 mm. The last flint found was a projectile point exposed and picked up on July 28, 1934, by one of my students, Mr. Nels Sorenson, in the loose gravel at the base of the bank of the gravel-pit bank, which had fallen from the burial pit when dug in October. Its maximum length is 79.6 mm., maximum breadth 32.7 mm., and maximum thickness 6.5 mm. In cross section both artifacts are of thin lens form. Both are broadest near the middle, halfway between the base and the point. For a distance of about 20.0 mm. from the base of each artifact, both edges are smooth to the touch. From that place onward to the point the edges are finely serrated and very sharp. The base of each artifact is concave for a depth of about 1.5 mm. A knife was the second flint found. It was found 'in situ' in the lowest part of the burial pit by Mr. Jensen on Oct. 9, 1933. It has a maximum length of 118.2 mm., a maximum breadth of 43.4 mm., and a maximum thickness of 9.7 mm. The edges are everywhere sinuous and sharp. The base is straight, not concave.

"Both faces of all three artifacts reveal the typical Yuma type of flaking, that is, the flakes removed are long and broad. On both faces of all three artifacts, the chipping has resulted in a diagonal design, as from the lower right to the upper left. The projectile points are of Folsom outline in every detail, even to the smooth edges near the base. Though neither has the excavated, or grooved, faces characteristic of the true Folsom type, yet each has been somewhat thinned at the base by the removal of one or more chips from the face of the blade—that from the second one being 25.7 mm. long. I believe the evidence shows that these artifacts are transitional in type from the probably older ancient Yuma type to the probably more recent ancient Folsom type.

"All the artifacts are of mineralized wood. They are brown in color. When similar flint was first found in our Minnesota diggings we named it 'dark amber color'. The name is still applicable, or it may be called simply brown; there are various shades. West of the Missouri river in North Dakota, in September, 1934, we dug out a flint quarry pit, one of more than 400 where the same mineralized wood was once quarried by Indians. It may well be the source of the Browns Valley artifact material.

"In 1908 Mr. E. H. Kennedy, then a road boss for the Great Northern Railroad, was in charge of an extensive job of excavation at a gravel pit near Arvilla, North Dakota. It was his task to take gravel from the pit to ballast the roadbed from Cass Lake, Minn., to Minot, N. D. During the removal of the gravel by steam shovel large number of human burials were destroyed. A few artifacts thus exposed came into the hands of Mr. Kennedy, who carefully conserved them for some 23 years. These he turned over to me in March, 1931, together with his story of their finding. Among them was a tooth-edged knife of ivory.

"Ivory artifacts in the heart of North America had never been reported. In fact, the only artifacts of ivory that had been reported in the western hemisphere were all marginal finds, as in the Eskimo area and in the area of Terra del Fuego at the tip of South America. Clearly the ivory knife set an important archeological problem. The story of the ivory find was published in 1932. It brought no additional information from private collectors or museums. Consequently, the solution of the problem was sought in the field. We went to North Dakota twice to visit the exhausted Arvilla gravel pit. I was determined to have been a part of the Campbell beach of glacial Lake Agassiz. Permission to excavate on the nearby farm of Mr. Archibald Vondersmith was obtained. During the summer of 1933, with a group of six students, we had the good fortune to dig three low mounds on the Wondersmith farm which, though absolutely sterile, lured us on to subsurface excavation because of the description of the type of deep graves in the Arvilla gravel pit. In these subsurface excavations we were rewarded by finding in a deep burial pit three ivory artifacts with a human skeleton. One is a tubular smoking pipe more than five inches long, two inches in diameter at the bowl and tapering to a decent mouthpiece at the other end. The other two ivory artifacts are carved to look like the tusks or canine teeth of a bear. Although they are much larger than the canines of the black bear of Minnesota, they are so well done that at first we had no suspicion that they were artificial.

'This Market'

The time was when the farmers or livestock producers had only a few head of livestock for sale, which found him at a decided disadvantage. Under those conditions, necessarily he must either raise a carload, or combine with his friends or neighbors to make up a carload and ship to distant markets, with a resultant loss in shrinkage, yardage, commissions, freight, insurance, and the many other charges attendant of such shipments. This market has changed that situation. Today, a farmer can realize full market value for a carload, truck load, or a single animal at the Northern Packing Company.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY NEXT THURSDAY

The Senior Class will present "The Path Across the Hills" on Thursday, May 23, to permit the seniors to take part in the College Guest Day at Bemidji Friday. The cast has been practicing diligently under the direction of Mr. McCrady and promises to produce the best dramatic performance of the year.

The story of "The Path Across the Hills" centers around Grandpa Crawford, who has shielded his grandchildren from the folly and guilt of his son-in-law's crime by taking the blame himself. The story opens with Grandpa and his two grandchildren, Ruth and Walter, very comfortable and happy in their own home. Tragedy enters when Robert Post attempts to wreak vengeance on Grandpa for the crime committed against his father. This sets the stage for a touching and dramatic play that proves again that love is stronger than hate.

The part of Grandpa Crawford is played by Joe Mack. Irene Saum and Joe Fallon take the parts of Ruth and Walter. Leland LaVoi acts the part of Robert Post. Mrs. Davis, a sweet neighborly grandmother, is portrayed by Dorothy Schreiner. Lotie, the school girl, sweetheart of Walter, is acted by Ethel Hoole.

Flo Gray and Dr. Jimmy Reed add a domestic tragedy that contrasts with the main plot. Lucille Hendy and Arne Karlstad take these roles. Juanita Ripple and Ray Hustad provide the comedy relief as two negro servants, Zuzu and Sulamander John Henry Jones.

A matinee performance will be given on Thursday afternoon for the school children and the evening performance will begin at 8:15. The chairs have arrived for the hall so a large crowd may be seated comfortably.

Plummer High School commencement will be held on Friday, May 31 at the Village Hall. Dr. Breitwieser, Dean of the College of Education of the University of North Dakota will deliver the Commencement address. Dr. Breitwieser is a very able speaker. Joseph Fallon will deliver the valedictory and Irene Saum the salutatory. M. J. Fallon, president of the Board of Education will present the diplomas to the High School students. There will be several vocal numbers sung by various members of the Senior class. Diplomas will be presented to sixteen seniors and eleven eighth grade graduates. Seats will be reserved for the parents of the graduates.

The Junior-Senior banquet and prom will be held on May 28th. The banquet will be served in the dining room at the school house and the Prom will be held at the village hall immediately after the banquet. A five-piece orchestra has been procured for the Prom and elaborate plans have been made to insure success to this event. Alumni, faculty members, and Seniors have been invited to this social event.

On Friday, May 24th, the Seniors have planned to take a trip to Bemidji as that is Guest Day at the Bemidji State Teachers College. They will be accompanied by a member of the high school faculty. The seniors of last year reported a very enjoyable time on their trip to Bemidji.

On Friday morning, May 31st, the High School and eighth grade graduates will present a short program to the upper grades and high school students. The eighth grade graduates will formally confer all their privileges on the seventh graders, read a history of their class, and say goodbye to their grade school days.

The seniors will likewise grant their place in the sun to the junior class and formally bid goodbye to their high school days. The High School faculty members will each deliver a short address to the students. These class day exercises will mark the end of the school year 1934-35. The state examinations will begin on Monday morning, May 27th, and extend through Tuesday and Wednesday.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY PRESENTED TOMORROW NITE

Holmstrom and Gustafson Have Lead Roles in Comedy "Tons of Money"

At eight o'clock tomorrow evening Sprules, the Allingtons' butler will take up the Allingtons' telephone and say, "Hello! Hello! Yes, this is Mr. Allington's house, etc." In other words tomorrow evening at eight o'clock the complicated and hilarious plot of "Tons of Money" will begin to unfold before your eyes. One of the largest crowds that ever attended a class play is expected to see eleven senior actors and actresses perform in one of the greatest three-act comedies ever to be presented.

"Tons of Money" is the story of the difficulty Aubrey Allington and his wife, Louise, encounter when they attempt to get complete possession of a large inheritance without their creditors learning about said inheritance. The amusing scrapes that Aubrey gets into when he masquerades as George Maitland and the Reverend Ebenezer Brown make the production very entertaining.

In order to give you a better idea of the characters, we shall recount some of their typical sayings. Sprules, in a conversation with Simpson the maid says, "A good butler is like a patent medicine—there's nothing he can't do." Miss Mullett recollects, "My dear Mother told me, 'Show me a man and I'll show you the devil'." Cousin Jean whispers (to three different George Maitlands), "I could tell you anywhere, George, dear, by the way you kiss." Aubrey warns, "These afternoons are very treacherous in the morning."

A typical scene is: Aubrey absent-mindedly offering Chesterman an egg; another; Giles bringing a basket of eggs into the Allington's parlor; still another: Aubrey parading across the stage after being "drowned".

The cast of characters for the Senior Class Play is: Sprules, Jerome Havel; Simpson I, Ruth Knauf; Simpson II, Ethel Kisle; Miss Benita Mullett, Dorothy Rau; Louise Allington, Adele Holmstrom; Aubrey Henry Maitland Allington, Kendall Gustafson; Giles, Arnt Wold; James Chesterman, Theodore Quale; Jean Everard, Kathleen Monsebroten; Henery, Marvin Lindberg; George Maitland, Don Hermanson.

The primary purpose of a play is not to be read, but to be acted, a really good drama is never at its best until it is presented before an audience. Then, and only then, does the ingenuity of the playwright become apparent.

To all practical minded people a ticket to the play is a genuine bargain. And why shouldn't it be? Tons of money for a mere twenty or thirty-five cents is an unprecedented bargain. Take advantage of it.

In an interview, Mr. Mayer-Oakes said that the Charles Martin Hall Chemistry Club was discontinued because of the forthcoming State Board Examinations and that all the time is needed for review.

Library Assistants Were Given Annual Banquet

The annual party honoring the library assistants was held recently. These students have spent much time working in the library. They include: Olive Holman, Verna Elofson, Virginia Bickley, Lorraine Lochelt, Bernice Peterson, Eleanor Tornes, and Evelyn Vinji.

A few of the girls from the Home Economics Department served the dinner. Mrs. Korsted represented the Lincoln High School Faculty.

After the dinner, Miss Leavitt invited the group to her home where all enjoyed a social hour. Each one was presented with a small reed flower basket.

ALL COPY IN FOR PROWLER YEAR BOOK

Two Hundred Copies of Senior Publication to be Issued May 29

Kendall Gustafson, editor-in-chief of the 1935 Prowler, has announced that all the "copy," for the senior publication has been sent to the printers. The material for the last sixteen pages of the book was completed last Monday and immediately conveyed to the office of the Thief River Falls Times.

Approximately two hundred copies of the forty-eight page Prowler have been sold at fifty cents per copy. It was revealed on Monday that those students who have purchased these year books will not be able to procure them until Wednesday, May 29.

The staff that composed the 1935 Prowler was: Kendall Gustafson, editor-in-chief; Donald Hermanson, business manager; Harriet Jung and Corlan Dokken, associate editors; Kathleen Monsebroten, assistant business manager; Jerome Havel and Carl Lee, sports; Adele Holmstrom, Margery Ward, and Ray Olson, features; Martha Storholm, sports; and Walter Kinghorn, circulating manager. Mr. Claffy was the staff's adviser.

MUSIC PROGRAMS ENTERTAIN PUPILS

National Music Week Observed in Schools

Last week was National Music Week and the students were entertained by two musical programs. On Wednesday the chorus presented musical numbers; Arnhild Fjelstad sang a solo; and Helen Granum played a piano solo. Later in the week the high school band under the direction of Mr. Orwoll presented a program. Mr. Orwoll and Mr. Chalmers played a barytone duet at this time.

The students at the Central School were entertained during the week as well as the students in the grade schools. All the students in all the schools were duly made aware of the fact that last week was National Music Week.

MAGNUSON, JUNG, SEVERSON HEAD 1935-36 STAFF

Magnuson to Manage Staff; Victor Jung Will Frame Ed. Policy

Mr. Carlson, "Progress" staff advisor, and Kendall Gustafson, retiring editor, have selected members from three classes to publish next year's paper. The new staff will begin its work by composing next week's edition.

Malcolm Magnuson has been rewarded for his services on the staff by a promotion to the position of managing editor. Upon him will rest the responsibility of publishing a paper that will please six hundred students. Vic Jung climbs from sports editor to associate editor. As associate editor he will write the editorials for the "Progress", a job that requires discretion and ingenuity in order to please readers. Alice Severson succeeds Harriet Jung as city editor of the staff. This is an important position, and much of the success of the staff depends upon the city editor who has to make assignments, proof-read them, see that they are typed and headlined.

Don Olson proved his merit as a sports writer and has been elevated to the sports editor's chair. Assisting him will be Jerome Halverson.

An important part of any high school paper is the feature section. To write features that are interesting and at the same time not tainted with impudent remarks is no easy task. Delegated to attempt this are Marjorie Matheson and Brunell Erickson.

The eye-capturing headlines that will top all articles will be written by Oscar Bickley and Cliff Olson. The list of reporters will undoubtedly change from time to time. At present the following are classed as reporters: Anna Hermanson, Edna Lee, Lois Morell, Elizabeth Dahlen, Robert Smith, Ted Helle, Fay Belcher, Margaret McKechnie, Margaret Jacobson and Mary Chommie.

AT THE PROM

Here we are at the Junior-Senior Prom at the Sons of Norway Hall. Isn't the hall decorated cleverly? The Juniors, under the supervision of their advisors, Miss Tandberg and Miss Greenland, have transformed it into a music shop with black and white as the color scheme. The walls are covered with white paper and on them running around the entire room are two wavy staffs of music. The notes have been drawn to form men in various positions. Some are dancing, some standing on their heads, some playing musical instruments, some skiing, and we even find a pair of men on an old-fashioned bicycle. At intervals on the wall are pictured instruments of regular size. Streamers of white crepe paper are draped from all sides of the room to the center of the ceiling. From the streamers hang black notes, adding to the general motif. In the center of the ceiling, a net of white paper is used to hold the balloons. At the back of the stage is a large clef with "L" formed from notes on each side.

But enough of decorations. By Perkins' Orchestra has begun to play and we don't want to miss the dancing. Just look at the beautiful formal dresses as the girls begin to dance. There is a lovely peach taffeta with a long flared jacket of the same material. Ruffles seem to have become the favorite of most girls. One dress has rows and rows of ruffles on the skirt and a separate cape made of ruffles. Another attains simple loveliness in its contrast of white silk with a bright red sash and three red flowers at the neck.

The boys also have come dressed in their best. We'll wager that those white shoes won't be so white after a short time.

Why has the music stopped? The President of the Junior Class announces that a tap dancing number will be given by three little girls, Barbara Jacobson, Claire Mhyrom and Ardith Schultz, accompanied by Alice Protz. Two of the girls are dressed in blue and white shorts, with blue pom-poms on their blouses and on their shoes. The third girl has been blackened to resemble Eliza Jane and is wearing a yellow and brown dress.

Now, it's time for the grand march. Mr. E. M. Bennes is very impressive in giving directions.

After a short time another entertainment feature is presented. This time it is Doris Nelson, who sings, "We've Got Love and a Dime" and "What's the Reason?".

All of a sudden somebody breaks the net in the center of the ceiling, and everybody scrambles to get a balloon. We finally get one. All we hear for a moment is the noise of bursting balloons. Yes, there goes ours too.

Aren't you beginning to feel thirsty? Let's go and get some punch. At the table we find Marjorie Matheson and Elizabeth Dahlen serving. The punch is excellent.

Now we can go into the club rooms to rest awhile. Here we find some boys and girls playing cards, but with the sound of noise-makers, they all jump up and run to get one. The noise-makers are a lot of fun, but what a noise they do make!

Harold Anderson, James Nesse, Jack Booren, and Robert Oden next take the floor to sing "A Home in Wyoming" and "A Tavern in the Town." Isn't their harmony wonderful? Just listen to the applause. It's strange that we have not heard them before.

There is going to be a match dance next. We wonder whom we'll get as a partner. Aren't the matching cards clever. On each card is a certain popular song. In the corners are notes. The cards have been cut up, and you must find the other part of the card you hold. Our song is "We've Got Love and a Dime" but only "We've Got" can be seen on the card.

Why, the orchestra is already playing "Home, Sweet Home." It can't be one o'clock yet. Yes, it is, and we must leave. Haven't we had fun?

ACTIVITY BANQUET TO BE HELD MAY 21

Winners in Inter-School to be Guests; Letters to be Given

An annual event at Lincoln High is the Activity Banquet which will be held the 21st of May in the Civic and Commerce room in the basement of the Thief River Falls Municipal Auditorium. At this time letters will be given out to those persons who have earned them by participating in inter-school events.

Among those invited are the football, basketball, and track boys, girls who have earned their letter, glee clubs, band, participants in declamation and debate contests, and part of the Progress Staff. This banquet is prepared and served by the pupils in the Cooking Department. The preparing of the dinner is to be done by the advanced foods class under the direction of Miss Fletcher. Serving the meal and table arrangement is another big task. This will be taken care of by the Freshmen girls. Place cards are to be made by the Central School girls. The last two are under the direction of Miss Lunder.

After the banquet there will be a program as usual but owing to the early date it has not as yet been announced.

Hats off to the two teachers, Miss Fletcher and Miss Lunder, as well as the students preparing the meal for so willingly helping in the great task of serving Lincoln High School's Lettermen.

PROWLERS LOSE TO LITTLE GREEN WAVES, MAY 8TH

Local Baseball Squad Loses to Crookston by Eleven to Six Score, Friday

Wednesday, May 8, the Prowlers lost a poorly played game to the Little Green Wave of East Grand Forks 14 to 5. This game, which lasted only five innings, was played in mud and rain which poured down all during the game.

Milton Nesse was the only one of the Prowlers who played up to standard getting two hits in two times at bat. Nicholson, who was Coach Dooley's choice for starting pitcher, could not find the plate and was removed after walking four of the first six men to face him. Adkins, who succeeded Nicholson, had a little more control on the water-soaked ball and lasted out the game. For the Prowlers, Milton Nesse and Sahl were outstanding and for East Side, Rockwood and Kimblimi were the big guns. Adkins, Nicholson and Helquist pitched for Thief River and "Spider" Rockwood for the Wave.

Monday the Prowlers traveled to Crookston where they again lost 11 to 6, after a good start and holding a 2 to 1 lead for four innings. Helquist, the starting pitcher, held the Pirates making them hit weak grounders until, after a series of infield errors, Adkins relieved him. For the Prowlers, Helquist's pitching and Nesse's good work at the bat and behind the plate stood out.

Players making the Crookston trip were: Nicholson, Helquist, Adkins, Prichard, Milton Nesse, Olson, James Nesse, Mickleson, Lorentson, Jaranson and Sahl.

The Prowlers meet St. Hilaire Friday of this week on the home field. Let's all be out and give them our support.

Baccalaureate Services will be held in the Municipal Auditorium on Sunday, May 26. The speaker for the evening will be Rev. H. L. Sjogren.

Human Sacrifices

Human sacrifice as a factor in religious worship is known in the United States right up to the present time through the activities of the Penitentes, a sect of flagellants known chiefly in New Mexico.

Norfolk's Stormy Weather

More thunder storms occur in Norfolk than in any other county of Britain, while Devon and Cornwall are almost free from these visitations.

EDITORIAL

ADIEU

In this column we of the 1934-35 "Progress" staff bid "adieu" to the readers of the student publication of Lincoln High School. This issue of the school paper is the last one to be published by the present staff. Next week a new editor with a new staff under him will have complete charge of the "Progress".

The six senior members of the present staff, including the editor, the associate editors, the city editor, a headline writer, and a feature writer, will relinquish their positions in favor of others selected by the advisor and the present editor. The 1935-36 staff will make its debut with next week's issue. The retiring writers wish them complete success in their first bid for approval by the student body.

PROMISES

About a year ago the present staff published its first issue of this widely circulated parchment. As was the custom, we made promises to the students. We promised that the "Progress" would be made larger and that the editorials would be lengthened and instilled with a new vigor. Skeptics observed that all new staffs said the same thing, and by the end of the first semester forgot their promises.

Probably some will disagree with us, but we believe that we have been successful in carrying out the policy announced in our first issue. Whether we have or not, we can console ourselves with the fact that we have earnestly tried to give the students a paper that would be near the standards of good journalism.

THANKLESS

Several years ago when Mr. Carlson awarded a letter to the retiring editor of the "Progress", he said that the job was the most thankless a student could get. When he made the statement, he knew what he was talking about. An editor hears all the complaints and has to account for all printed statements that have injured someone's feelings. He is frequently rebuked and infrequently complimented.

Students seem to believe that the job of putting out a paper just naturally falls upon certain individuals and so it is up to them to do a perfect piece of work. They forget that these individuals who work on the "Progress" staff are doing it of their own free will. They aren't working several hours a week at the job because they have to; they don't. They are doing a service for the rest of the students. It might be a good thing if some thoughtful persons would reason this out and encourage high school journalists.

REPORTERS

What about reporters? How much gratitude do they get? The answer to the latter question is, almost none. They work nine months of the year to help put out a paper and they get no recognition for their work. The editor "calls them down" for not getting in their "copy" on time, and hardly any of their fellow students even know they are on the "Progress staff".

Work on a high school paper is extra curricular activity work. Thus, reporters spend more time on extra curicular activities than any other students in high school. For what? Last year the "Progress reporters weren't even invited to the extra curricular activities' Banquet!

DISAPPOINTMENTS

Those who read this column will undoubtedly say, "but there's another side to the story." They will tell you of the enjoyment a reporter gets from seeing his writing "in print". There, of course, is a certain amount of truth in this. A reporter does like to see the work of his pen in the high school paper. But what about the times he is disappointed when his articles don't appear?

Imagine yourself in the reporter's place. You receive an assignment and proceed to interview someone (which process is usually like searching for gold in a copper mine). You spend half an hour or more writing an article, and when the "Progress" comes out, your article is missing. A crowded issue has forced the printers to leave your article out.

There was a recent example of this when a reporter "covered" the district music festival. She (the reporter) spent a whole day gathering material for her article which, when completed, was fifteen hundred words long. The paper that week was especially crowded and her article never appeared.

FINALE

This article would properly be called "A Reporter's Lament." We have attempted to give you some idea of the life of the "forgotten student." The purpose is to get students to appreciate what these amateur journalists do to bring you a weekly paper.

When the new staff publishes the "Progress" next year, give them an occasional word of thanks to encourage them in their efforts.

VOX MAGISTRI

The old quotation, "Politeness is to do and say the kindest thing in the kindest way", is familiar to us all. The youngest child understands its meaning and loves to repeat the lines over and over again. In spite of its simplicity we will enjoy meditating upon them. We will see things in a different way. Are we doing the kindest things and saying the kindest things in the kindest way? We are not unkind at heart but in our thoughtless hurried lives we carelessly say or do things which bring so much unnecessary sorrow to others. We do not want to appear rude or ill-bred but rather bright and clever before our classmates. How easy it is to pick out the boy or the girl of good breeding and culture just from outward appearances and actions. His attitude on the street, his attitude towards his fellow students, and his attitude towards his teachers.

Our school endeavors to train young men and women for honest co-operation, appreciation, and reliability. Good habits are invaluable acquisitions through life. We attempt to "rub down" a few of the harsh, rough surfaced and turn out refined, cultured and considerate individuals of whom the school and community can be justly proud. Rev. Nicols gave us a few outstanding illustrations of politeness in foreign lands. They at least cause us to pause and check up on ourselves. How can we become more polite? That is hard to say. Individuals vary so greatly. But the thing that counts most; with teachers is pleasant cooperation and response in a polite mannerly way. Again when a teacher has willingly helped you in make-up work or in extra-curricular activities don't be afraid to express your appreciation. Remember you are only one of the six hundred students and many times the teacher may feel more tired than you.

—Hattie Diebel.

Pekingese Dogs Honored

From the beginning of the Sun dynasty which ruled in China more than 2,000 years, Pekingese dogs occupied the palaces along with the royal families. They were given every attention and comfort, and it was a crime, punishable by death, for anyone but members of the royal family to own any of the dogs. On their welfare hung the lives of the court attendants who cared for them.

Cultivation of Lemons

Lemons seem to have been unknown to the ancient Greeks and Romans, and to have been introduced by the Arabs into Spain between the Twelfth and Thirteenth centuries. In 1494 the fruit was cultivated in the Azores and shipped to England. As a cultivated plant it is grown throughout the Mediterranean countries and in most tropical and sub-tropical regions.

Hawaii is Farther Away From Land Than Others

Hawaii is situated in the middle of the Pacific ocean, farther away from the nearest land than any other spot on earth, writes a correspondent in the Chicago Tribune. It has been piled up by volcanoes until now the heights of Mauna Kea rise 14,000 feet above sea level and more than 32,000 feet above that profound abyss known as the ocean floor.

If the position of Hawaii is unusual, its people are even more so. They include almost every race on earth, orientals predominating. Sugar is by far the most important industry in this isolated land, and its cultivation requires a squatting position for the worker. Orientals, the prime squatters of the world, were therefore induced to go to Hawaii. A century or so ago it was Chinese who predominated. Then came a wave of Japanese, after their crowded country was opened to the world in the sixties and seventies. When the immigration restriction law on orientals was passed, a tremendous labor problem arose. Hawaii was now (1898) a territory of the United States, and labor was sought all over the world. They tried everybody from Cubans to Portuguese, but a solution was reached only with the comparatively recent importation of Filipinos (not affected by the immigration laws) who are now squatting all over the place, and mixing up with the others.

Valparaiso

Valparaiso is Spanish for Vale of Paradise. The chief seaport of Chile, it dates back to 1533. Immediately behind the shore the hills begin to rise, and the city, containing a quarter of a million persons, is built on these hillsides. On clear days Mount Aconcagua, the highest point on this hemisphere, may be seen towering above its Andean brothers. In Valparaiso women work as conductors on the street cars, which are double deckers. Santiago, the capital of Chile, is reached by train from the seaport. It is a combination of Paris and Madrid, and its site is second in beauty to that of Rio de Janeiro. Santa Lucia hill overlooks the entire city. In Santiago the women are extremely religious, while the men are inclined to agnosticism.

And Here We Are

A Russian fanatic predicted the end of the world in 1900 and caused one of the greatest mass suicides in history. Within a few days, says J. W. Frost, Los Angeles, Calif., in Collier's Weekly, a wave of paralyzing fear swept over all northern Russia and the inhabitants of many whole villages killed themselves at once. In some towns large areas were soaked in pitch and bitumen, set afire and hundreds of persons at a time, holding hands, ran into them and were burned alive.

Pine Most Useful

For general construction purposes no wood excels pine. This does not mean that hardwoods should not be used but rather that pine has that combination of acceptable properties which especially adapts it for structural use. These qualities are: Strength, stiffness, ability to hold shape and ease of working. They also season well and hold paint.

Early Spectacles

The earliest spectacles were designed to improve "old sight," and hence were worn almost exclusively by the aged.

Last year American Red Cross chapters dealt with the problems of nearly 400,000 veterans and their families. The workers find that as the years go on their responsibility increases rather than decreases. Changes in legislation, the increasing age of veterans and the consequent increase in physical ills, bring new needs for sympathetic treatment by trained Red Cross workers. In addition to this service to veterans the Red Cross served as the official medium between the people and the men in military and naval service, giving aid through this service last year to 8,973 men in the army, navy and marine corps.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

"Drunks" Number More Than Fifty Per Cent Los Angeles Misdemeanors

"Statistics compiled for 1934 show 77,002 persons arrested by the Los Angeles police department on misdemeanor charges, of which number 47,866 were booked as being intoxicated," says the Los Angeles Times of April 7.

"The average person thinks of an intoxicated man or woman in the light of something humorous or disgusting. This is seldom true in most of the cases necessitating police assistance. While the sight of a uniform may often act as a soberizer on some truculent inebriate, it not infrequently is akin to waving a red flag in front of a bull. Many officers have even been injured or killed trying to subdue dangerous drunks."

This means, of course, that more than half of all the arrests on misdemeanor charges were liquor cases, and also explodes the theory of the "harmless" drunk in the hands of the police. The report, moreover, goes on to emphasize the worst menace of drinking in this motor age, saying:

"There is another type of drunk, however, that is far more dangerous.

"In speaking on the subject of traffic accident prevention recently, the following statement was made by Chief of Police Davis: 'The greatest menace to the citizens of Los Angeles is not the man who sticks a gun in your ribs and demands money, but the man or woman who will knowingly drive an automobile while in an intoxicated condition. I have instructed every man on the force to show no leniency when dealing with such persons and am using my full authority to stop these potential murderers from endangering the lives of innocent people'."

The greatest difficulty is, of course, the fact that very few people who are not "dead drunk" will concede that they are "intoxicated." It is the nature of the alcohol they have imbibed, to make them super-egotistical about their ability at the wheel and quarrelsome at a suggestion that they are running any danger.

The article in the Times concludes with the pertinent statement:

"There is no question about the seriousness of the ever-growing list of injured and dead caused by drunk drivers. Men and women who refuse to drive when they know they are intoxicated run little risk of going through life with the image of a horrible accident forever in their minds."

Animals of the Jungle

The chimpanzee leads in imitativeness; the orang comes second in this respect; but the gorilla displays some resistance to learning by imitation. When it comes to learning by ideas, experience and insight the gorilla leads. If he rules the jungle it is by brute strength, which enables him to fight off leopards and other beasts of prey that run off with the young.

First Rural Delivery Funds

The first bill authorizing rural delivery was introduced in the house of representatives on January 5, 1892, by James O'Donnell of Michigan. The bill carried an appropriation of $6,000,000, but did not pass. Thomas E. Watson of Georgia sponsored the first bill ever passed by congress appropriating money for rural free delivery. This bill passed March 3, 1893, and appropriated $10,000 for experimental rural delivery, but this sum, together with $20,000 appropriated for the same purpose on July 16, 1894, was not used. Then on June 9, 1896, an additional $10,000 was made available and the three experimental routes were established.

Coffee

Not a contest • Nothing to write • Nothing to send

EFFECTIVE immediately, with each three-pound, vacuum-packed glass jar of Nash's Toasted Coffee, you will be given, absolutely without cost, your choice of a knife, fork or spoon of this fully guaranteed silverware in the smart new La Belvidere pattern. And note that your silverware is attached to the jar. There is nothing to save, nothing to send away. You get your silverware with the coffee.

This offer is made for one reason only. For many years, Nash's Toasted Coffee has been one of the largest selling coffees throughout the Northwest. Each year the sale has increased until now more pounds of Nash's Toasted Coffee are sold than at any time since it was introduced.

Most people buy their coffee one pound at a time. The cost of packing a one-pound jar is practically the same as packing a three-pound jar, apart from the coffee itself. Thus, where millions of pounds are involved, the saving is considerable if a coffee so popular as Nash's Toasted Coffee is packed in the larger jars.

So, to induce more people to buy the economical three-pound jar, the Nash Coffee Company is passing on to the public this extra value. If you are willing to purchase three pounds of coffee at a time, thus saving the cost of three individual jars and distribution costs, the Nash Coffee Company will present you with this beautiful silverware, absolutely free.

Nash's Toasted Coffee is a superior coffee in flavor, in richness, in body. It is the only coffee whose flavor is fully developed by the exclusive Nash toasting process. The Nash method of toasting brings out every particle of flavor because there is no intense heat to "roast out" the delicate, flavor-producing oils. That's why Nash's Toasted Coffee has a richness no other coffee possesses.

Start your set of silverware today! In a very short time you can have a complete set of knives, forks and spoons.

TO GRADUATE WITH HONORS FROM MILITARY ACADEMY

Cadet Theodore Edward Bratrud, son of Dr. O. E. Bratrud, Thief River Falls, Minn., will receive his diploma from the junior college department of Wentworth Military Academy in Lexington, Mo., on May 31st. According to Major E. H. Criswell, dean, Cadet Bratrud is graduating with honors. He was recently elected to the Wentworth Honor Society for all-round superiority in scholarship, military training, athletics, and deportment. He is a member of both the varsity football squad and the golf team.

STATE BOASTS ORANGE TREE THAT PRODUCES

Worthington—M. P. Thornton's orange tree is again bearing fruit. The tree—its really more of a plant as its dwarfed and stands less than a foot high—grows in a pot and is kept in the office of Walter Pfoll in the court house. One orange is beginning to ripen and another is now about an inch and a quarter in diameter. Two others are beginning to form. Last year Mr. Thornton ate an orange from the tree and reported that while it undoubtedly was an orange, it had little flavor. The tree is several years old and despite its lack of size manages to produce fruit each year.

Fossilized Crabs

Fossilized crabs, dug from prehistoric strata, are shipped from China to San Francisco in violet lined cases for use as medicinal preparations by Chinese physicians.

MONKS WATCH WASHERS THEN SCOUR OWN CAGE

Duluth—As workers whose diligence deserves reward, Tom and Jerry, chimpanzees at the Duluth Zoo have few peers. For these two members of the monkey tribe these days are busily engaged in scouring their cage, tirelessly and without other remuneration than their daily fare. It all came about when a group of workmen were assigned to scrub the bars and walls of the adjoining cage. The two chimps observed the technique of the crew, set up a howl until they were supplied with rags and water and forthwith scaled the bars and scoured with an energy not exhibited in the other cage. Of the two, Jerry would rate the most proficient. She scrubs without respite while her male companion exhibits a tendency to loaf occasionally.

COURT REPORTER SPENDS 47 YEARS IN SERVICE

Marshall—Forty-seven years as court reporter in the district court at Marshall is claimed by W. T. Eckstein, who is probably the oldest court reporter in the country from the standpoint of service. Despite his long service in the courts, Mr. Eckstein is a comparatively young man and carries his years well, looking forward to celebrating his golden anniversary in that position in 1938. Many years spent in recording the troubles and quarrels of humanity have not dimmed his youthful eyes nor affect his balanced attitude toward life, for he is a calm, restful appearing man with a glint of dry humor in his voice and eyes.

Derelicts

Derelicts are as dangerous to navigation as submerged icebergs. As many as a thousand have been reported in the North Atlantic in a single year. Many drift great distances before they are found and sunk, the record being held, it is believed, by the Fannie E. Wolston, which—when last seen in 1896 off Savannah—had floated 7,000 miles for two and a half years.—Collier's Weekly.

Use of Petroleum Spreads

Petroleum is enlarging its sphere of usefulness. Instead of merely serving as a fuel and lubricant it is becoming an important source of raw materials from which a large range of substances are evolved, ranging from soap and alcohols to rubber.

Speediest of Birds Can Fly 100 Miles Per Hour

Game birds, such as the quail, prairie chicken, ruffed grouse, snipe, mallard, black duck, spoonbill, pintail, wood duck, and pigeon, fly 60 feet a second, or at the rate of 40 miles an hour. Geese and brant in flight do 70 feet a second, or at the rate of 47 miles an hour. Redhead ducks and bluebills fly 85 feet a second, which is a rate of 57 miles an hour. Canvasback ducks attain a speed of 61 miles an hour in flying 90 feet a second. Blue-winged and green-winged teal are capable of 100 feet a second, a speed of 68 miles an hour.

Rapid as are the rates of flight of the above mentioned birds, says the Chicago Tribune, they are by no means the greatest for feathered flyers. Speediest of birds are credited with flying as fast as or faster than 100 miles an hour. The duck hawk, for instance, according to apparently authentic records collected by the American Museum of Natural History of New York, does well over 100 miles an hour, or more than 146 feet a second.

The rate of speed of birds on the wing depends a great deal on whether they are flying with or against the wind and on the velocity of the wind at the time. It is recalled that in a famous pigeon race in Europe in 1876 the winning birds flew 270 miles to 3¼ hours, flying at the rate of 83 miles an hour. All conditions were favorable for record speed. In the race of 1877 it took the pigeons 30 hours to fly the same 270 miles.

First Musical Art Forms in 1100, Writer Relates

Lacking concrete materials, music lagged behind the other fine arts until 1100, when the same spirit that was stimulating architecture began pervading music. Construction of definite musical art forms resulted. Music became measured, and the multiplicity of details which grew up showed definite proportions and relations each to each, says Lynne B. Greene, in the Kansas City Times.

A monk of St. Amands, Hucbald, is responsible for the staff in musical notation. This invention made a remarkable change and paved the way for part-music not heretofore used.

This system of harmonies Hucbald called organum, for they were played upon the instrument of that name, unknown since the fall of Rome. In these harmonies a melody was supported by a second voice singing a third above or a fifth below.

In the Fifteenth century musical composition in its present form began, and early in the Eighteenth century composers became more numerous, many of them whose names are household words today. Music, unlike painting and sculpture, scarcely can be said to be national in its schools. The great musicians belong to the world, and their compositions are familiar.

We are given a higher, psychic [illegible] that responds to the highest, truest and most beautiful to life. Music is one of the principal means through which nature is expressed.

WORSE AND WORSE

"There is one person worse than the man who talks about what he doesn't understand."
"Who's that?"
"The one who listens attentively and pretends to understand every word."

COLORFUL

"Well, son, how did the game come out today?"
"We [illegible] three black eyes and two busted [illegible]"

Ancient Egyptians' Love for Cats Never Equaled

C-A-T spells Cat.

From the blackboard of the little red schoolhouses and those of metropolitan cities, this line brought our first lesson in spelling. It started our education, observes a writer in the Los Angeles Times, which later brought us through the historical stories of the ancient Egyptians, who accorded Miss Puss their whole-hearted worship. We learned of their religion, which decreed that whole families and whole cities go into mourning at the death of a cat; learned that the death of a kitten called for the shaving of the worshiper's eyebrows; that troops of cats were maintained within temple walls, cholcely fed; that any "noble Roman" causing injury or death to a cat, whether it be accidental or intentional, was torn to pieces. Later, we learned that Miss Puss served as a symbol of witchcraft.

In the cat can be found a more universal response to her prime utility. Long haired or short haired, Siamese, Manx, Persian, or just "common alley cat," she offers the best self-setting mousetrap that has been found in all her 3,000 years of domestication. In this utility, she has saved a world from vermin that might have otherwise destroyed it.

Behind the intense glance of attentive big eyes is a brain, centuries old in intelligence, responsibility and resourcefulness that has brought her triumphantly through the long period of maltreatment by humans, pursuit by larger animals and battles for existence.

Old Prison, Family Home

In Madrid the small building used as the prison for its Inquisition still stands on the narrow street named for Queen Isabella. This building, close by the university (which itself occupies the confiscated buildings of a Jesuit monastery), was stormed by the revolutionists of 1820; it was later used as a soldiers' barracks and is now owned by a private family. It has about it still the air of a prison.

A Good Dodger

Operatic Tenor—Next year I am making a tour of South Africa.

Friend—Have you thought that ostrich eggs weigh two or three pounds?

Airplane Machine Gun Inventor

Roland G. Garros, French aviator, is credited with the invention of the synchronized airplane machine gun. He is known in France as the father of air shooting, which changed the mode of air fighting considerably. In February of the year 1914 he mounted a gun in such a position that it was able to fire through the propeller of an airplane, which was a mode of fighting. In 18 days he is credited with shooting down five enemy planes. He was brought down on the day of his last victory, April 19, 1915, and was taken prisoner by the Germans. He was unable to destroy his plane, which the Germans copied, and his invention was no longer a secret. He later escaped and returned to France. He was killed in aerial combat in October, 1918.

Worship the Buffalo

Experienced and hardened world travelers not infrequently giggle themselves into a state of hysterics when they get around to visiting the Todas of India, says the Detroit News. In cone-shaped temples the Todas bow down and worship the buffalo. The notion that the buffalo is sacred is only one of their many ideas. Among the Todas woman occupies a very inferior position and upon meeting man greets him by touching his feet with her forehead. On the other hand, polyandry prevails. It is customary for several brothers to share the same woman.

Symphony Orchestra Instruments

A symphony orchestra, on the average, is made up of the following instruments: Violins, 33; cellos, 10; violas, 12; double basses, 8; flutes, 2; oboes, 2; clarinets, 2; bassoons, 2; horns, 4; trumpets, 4; trombones, 3; tuba, 1; tinpano, 1.

Long, Hard Battle

There are no definite figures giving the number of Indians killed, as the whites settled this country. However, 6 or 7 per cent of the Indian population was estimated to have been exterminated.

Protect Penguins

During a bronchitis epidemic in London, throats of penguins in the London zoo were wrapped in mufflers.

Orchids Guardians of Dead

New Guinea is the habitat of some of the rarest varieties of orchids. Among these is a specimen of rare beauty called Dendrobium Phalaenopsis Schroederianum. A collector found thousands of these orchids in a forest clearing, their beautiful blooms growing between piles of human bones guarded by stone gods. This grim charnel house was the burying ground of a local tribe, whose members regarded the orchids as the guardians of their dead. The gods, they declared, would wreak awful vengeance if any of the flowers were taken from them.

Death Rate High

In uncivilized parts of the world, where superstition, disease, want and dirt exist, some live to fourscore years, some less, but the majority die before they are five years old.

82% of Soviet Are Russians

Only 82 per cent of the population of Soviet Russia are Russians, not including Ukrainians or White Russians.

Mystery of Ocean Water

Ocean water contains one element that science has never been able to analyze. If sea water is artificially reproduced, salt water fish will go blind or die in it, but if no more than a glass of ocean water is placed in the tank of artificial sea water, the fish will thrive.

IMPROVEMENT IN DAIRY COW PRICES CITED AT MEETING

Lincoln, Neb., Group Agrees Values Nearly Double Last Year's

The dairy cow and her cream check present look sweet once more to midwest farmers. Dairymen of seven universities meeting Monday at Lincoln, Nebraska, said that dairy cow prices now are $20 to $50 per head higher than last year, as a result of rising demand.

A. J. Cramer, extension dairyman of the University of Wisconsin, said good grade cows in that state are selling for $60 to $100, with a margin of $10 to $25 for those animals with production records.

"There is an increasing demand for good cows in comparison with the last five years," he reported. "In Wisconsin they are beginning to sell at prices that compare with those before the depression. Prices, however, are not prohibitive but improving in line with actual value."

Likewise in Minnesota, another major dairy state, interest centered on good cows. Ramer Leighton of the University of Minnesota said average prices were nearly 100 per cent higher than those of a year ago, and that 700 herds now are enrolled in Minnesota testing work. An advance in dairy cattle prices also was reported in Nebraska by P. C. Scheidenheim of the University of Nebraska.

Prices in Missouri are about twice as high as those of last year, said M. J. Regan of the University of Missouri, while in Iowa a similar condition exists, Floyd Johnston of the Iowa State college, reported. C. S. Rhode, professor of dairy husbandry at the University of Illinois, said a great increase in production records was noted in his state and good dairy cows are selling for about $25 a head more than they did last year. One hundred per cent price increases were reported from Kansas by J. W. Linn of the Kansas State college.

Fat Cattle Outlook is Bright, Central Co-op. Man Declares

There is nothing pessimistic in the beef cattle outlook at least for the next three months according to Charles E. Lee, cattle salesman for the Central Cooperative association at South St. Paul. Mr. Lee contacts a great many livestock feeders in the corn belt and is in close touch with the supply situation as well as factors influencing demand.

"Fat cattle continue scarce, and long fed finished beeves undoubtedly will bring a premium over ordinary cattle during the next three months," says Lee. "Later in the spring when grass cattle begin to come to market in larger numbers, there will be the usual seasonal spread in prices. This grassy condition of cattle is undesirable from the stand point of killers and it results in the lowering of prices on that class.

"Strictly choice long fed heavy steers are quotable at $14.00 per cwt. and above now, a shipment of long fed beeves having sold in Central's alleys at that price not so long ago."

ENGINE FROM 1928 CAR MAKES TRACTOR A FREAK

Austin—A tractor with a "bum" engine isn't much good, but Albert Spinler, farmer near Austin, purchased a 4-cylinder engine from a 1926 car for $8 and with a little tinkering he has a tractor that will pull a five-horse load half a day at five miles an hour without heating. The tractor is equipped with lights, self-starter, speedometer, ammeter, and fan that blows toward the radiator instead of the engine, causing the radiator to remain cool and also drawing crankcase smoke away from the driver. It took a little hard labor and quite a bit of mechanical skill, but Spinler now has a freak that is drawing quite a bit of attention from nearby farmers.

4,000 COMPETE IN STATE H. S. MUSIC EVENT LAST WEEK

Crookston Orchestra Given A Rating in Contest in Minneapolis

Nearly 4,000 Minnesota high school musicians and songsters tucked their instruments under their arms and headed for home Saturday, victors or vanquished in the eleventh annual Minnesota state high school music contest and festival in Minneapolis.

The annual event for Minnesota high school bands, orchestras and singing groups came to an end Friday night in Northrop auditorium, when more than 600 youthful singers massed on the stage to raise their voices in song.

The contest opened Thursday and throughout that day bands and orchestras and chamber music groups played to be rated A, B, C or D in their various divisions.

The A ratings were few, Bird Island being the only one in Division C for bands; Crookston, the only one in Division B for orchestras; Minneapolis South, the only one in Division A for bands; Minneapolis Roosevelt, the only one in Division A for orchestras; Minneapolis Roosevelt, the only one in all of the three chamber music divisions, and North St. Paul and Moorhead, and only A grade winners in division B for bands.

Competing in Division B, the Warren girls' glee club was given a C rating.

FEATURE STORY STARTS COMMERCIAL BUSINESS

Russell—Minnesota papers go into all parts of the Union and are read thoroughly and it looks like George Hanks, Russell, owes the writer of the Minnesota Brief a few good cigars. Three weeks ago these columns carried a story telling of an electrically wired fence used by Hanks on his farm to keep animals penned up. The wires were charged with an ordinary storage battery and after a few wild gyrations, the pigs and cows decided that their best bet was to remain inside the wire fencing. As a result of the story being published in some 200 newspapers in the state, Hanks has had letters from as far distant as New Jersey, California, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Washington, not to speak of nearly every corner of Minnesota. Farmers everywhere seemed to be interested in the idea, and Hanks has applied for a patent and intends to manufacture the sets for sale on a commercial basis. Another business starter from "just an idea".

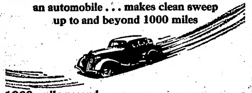
HUDSON SMASHES 36 MORE OFFICIAL RECORDS in one of the most gruelling tests ever given an automobile . . . makes clean sweep up to and beyond 1000 miles



1000-mile record beats best mark ever set by any closed car

NEWS FLASH—Muroc Lake, Cal., April 13—36 official A.A.A. records broken by a stock Hudson Eight. Top speed—over 93 miles an hour for five miles. Average speed—over 85 miles an hour for 1000 miles and beyond. A clean sweep of every record in its class up to and including 1000 miles and 3000 kilometers, and four unlimited class closed car records. Electrical timing correct to a millionth part of a second and every record certified by American Automobile Association.

Here's what it means to you. Probably you'll never care to drive a car five miles at 93 miles an hour. Yet, it means a lot to you to have a car that can go that fast—to shoot out of traffic tangles or flash you out ahead on the highway.

It isn't likely you'll want to drive a thousand-mile stretch at 85 miles an hour, but you do want a car with the fine engineering, power and ruggedness it takes to do this. Ordinary driving is no work at all for a car like this.

That's what it means to own a Hudson—smoother miles, more enjoyable miles—plus ruggedness and gasoline economy that make those miles cost less. You can see and drive an exact duplicate of this record-breaking Hudson Eight at any Hudson showroom. You can also see the complete list of these 36 new records, and scores of others held by Hudson-built cars. Take the wheel today and discover what this record-breaking performance means to you.

"Wreck of Old 79" Brings Them Riches

AFTER eight years of litigation, that celebrated old song dear to the heart of railroad men, "The Wreck of Old 79," was held by the Supreme court to be the property of David Graves George of Detroit, Mich., the author, and hence he can recover from the Victor Talking Machine company on profits it has made on the song. Mr. George, shown here with his wife, believes he may receive a million dollars or more. He is now sixty-eight years old.

Inferior Averages in School Go Along With Smoking, Doctors Say

A parent asks—How does smoking affect a boy from the age of 14 to 18 years? What form of tobacco is least injurious, pipe, cigar or cigarette? Is there a remedy for smoking?

The bulletin issued this week by the Public Health Education committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association attempts to answer these questions.

The large mass of opinion gathered during the past few years on this subject has been mainly to the effect that a boy of any age is injured physically, mentally and morally by the use of tobacco. Careful analysis has shown, on the other hand, that this opinion is not based on any extensive scientific study.

Believing that there must be a basis for this almost universal belief that tobacco is harmful during the growing period of life, attempts have been made recently to secure reliable data from a careful study of school students. The results all point to the fact that use of tobacco is a detriment to the intellectual work and conduct of pupils.

This does not mean that every pupil who uses tobacco is inferior in mental work or behavior, but taking the pupils in a school as a whole, it was found that those who use tobacco are inferior to those who do not.

There is some testimony to the effect that the cigarette is the least injurious form in which tobacco can be smoked. It has one factor, however, which makes it dangerous. Inhalation is much more frequent than with pipe or cigar. There is a general agreement that inhalation is injurious especially to persons in their teens.

As to remedies, there are two. Since the use of tobacco is mostly imitation, the proper course is to see that smoking does not become general in the group with which the boy associates. If the habit is acquired, there is a drug which may cure it by developing revulsion against the taste of tobacco. This treatment is not in general use, but no harm can result from it and it would be worth trying in the case of a 14 year old boy who craves tobacco.

Poisoned Bran Will Make Cutworms Behave

If any gardener ever sets his troubles to music and writes a song entitled, "Old Faithful", he is sure to pick Mr. Cutworm for his subject. Of all garden pests, the cutworm is one that is most certain to appear, year after year, and his habit of cutting off young plants makes him one of the most destructive.

Fall plowing and cleaning up rubbish to destroy over-winter worms. Wrapping stiff paper around the stems of young plants when setting them out avoids damage. Cutworms may readily be killed by applying a bait of poisoned bran. These practices are more fully explained, and recipes for poison bait given, in a new University Farm booklet, Circular 48, "Cutworms and Army Worms", by William C. Cook of the Division of Entomology.

One reading this circular learns that the army worm is only a form of cut-worm, about a dozen species being described. Illustrations show the life history of cutworms, including moth, eggs, larvae and pupae. Copies of Circular 48 are free from county agents or the Bulletin Office, University Farm, St. Paul.

CAT RETURNS FROM WIS. AFTER 5 MONTHS ABSENCE

Red Wing—And the cat came back! Not only after an absence of five months did this Persian feline come back to its original home, but it traveled from one state to another to get there. Last fall Jasper Nash decided he had no use for the cat, and gave it to L. C. Morley on the Island in Wisconsin. Here the cat seemed contended getting its fill of rats from the high bridge to the Wisconsin channel bridge and making daily pilgrimages to nearby cottages and shacks. A couple of weeks ago Morley missed the cat, and assumed the high water had swept her away, but the other day pussy surprised the Nash family in Red Wing by making her presence known at the kitchen door. The cat must have found the bridge back to Minnesota, since it would hardly swim the Mississippi. Anyway, there's nothing like a pardonable pride in the state, to which even a cat will return.

A SECURITY FOR EXACTING INVESTORS

FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN

Some of the leading business executives and some of the foremost corporations in the United States have placed part of their own funds in shares of Federal Savings and Loan Associations.

Their motive is two-fold:

1. Safety—Every investor's holdings in a Federal Savings and Loan Association are fully insured up to $5,000.
2. Public Service—Funds so invested are loaned mainly for the building and improvement of homes, leading to the employment of labor and the purchase of materials, thus creating business activity from which everyone benefits.

COUNCIL SETS MAY 28TH FOR ENGINE BALLOT

Voters to be Given Chance to Voice Views on Added Facilities

$60,000 BOND ISSUE IS MAXIMUM FIXED

No Decision Reached Yet as to Size of Unit to be Added

The city council at an adjourned meeting Tuesday evening adopted a resolution setting Tuesday, May 28, as the date for a vote by citizens of Thief River Falls on the question of selling a bond issue to finance the proposed purchase of additional equipment for the municipal power plant.

The amount of the bond issue to be voted on was fixed at a maximum of $60,000 with an interest rate not to exceed four and one-half per cent. A study of bids received two years ago when the purchase of equipment was contemplated indicated that the maximum fixed would be sufficient to defray the cost of a 1,000 horse-power unit installed and ready to run.

However, the council reached no decision as to the size of the unit or units to be purchased in the event of a favorable decision by the voters, this matter being left for later study. It was pointed out that in the event a smaller unit should be decided on, it would not be necessary to issue bonds for more than the amount needed.

The opinion also was expressed that the bond issue could be disposed of to local investors as has been done on several previous occasions, the most recent instance being an $80,000 issue sold locally by the county a few months ago. The bonds, as required by a state law, would mature serially, being retired beginning at the end of the third year following their issue.

It was indicated that the council as a body would take no stand in favor of or opposed to the proposed purchase, but would merely present the situation to the voters and let them draw their own conclusions as to the need for enlarged facilities.

City Attorney Theodore Quale announced at the meeting that a hearing on the condemnation proceedings in connection with the acquisition of the block including the community skating rink for park purposes would be held in district court here Friday, at which time appraisers will be appointed.

VARIED PROGRAM PLANNED FOR PTA MONDAY EVENING

Election, Exhibits and Talk by Supt. Morris Bye to be Features

A program featuring home economics and industrial training exhibits has been arranged for the May meeting of the Parent-Teacher association next Monday evening in the Lincoln high school assembly room, in addition to which there will be musical numbers, a talk by Supt. Morris Bye and the annual election of officers.

The work of the home economics department will be presented under the direction of Miss Ruth Fletcher and Miss Inez Lunder, instructors, while C. W. Pope and J. Arthur Johnson will supervise the exhibit of products of the industrial training department.

Mr. Bye will give a historical review of the development of the high school system in connection with the 300th anniversary of the founding of the Latin grammar school in Boston, the first secondary school in the United States.

Musical numbers to be presented under the direction of Miss Irma Springen include two selections by the seventh grade chorus, "Twilight" and "The North Man", and the Central boys' glee club which will render "Friendship".

Programs in Schools of City Will Feature National Music Week

In connection with the observance of National Music week beginning next Monday pupils of the local schools will appear in a series of four elaborate programs during the week. The first, including choruses, glee clubs, piano selections and quartets, will be presented at Central school Monday morning at 8:45. Wednesday morning at 9:45 a varied group of selections will be presented in the Lincoln high school assembly room, following Thursday afternoon at 1:10 by a program of band and instrumental selections under the direction of S. P. Orwoll. The programs are published in detail on the high school Progress page in this issue. The grade school music festival will be held Friday afternoon of next week.

SUMMER ROUNDUP FOR PRE-SCHOOL CHILDREN MAY 4

Parents Invited to Take Advantage of Free Check-up Saturday

The annual summer health roundup for pre-school children will be conducted at Lincoln high school Saturday morning, May 4, from 9:30 until noon under the sponsorship of the local Parent-Teacher association, it was announced today. A group of members of the association is assisting in arrangements for the event and will serve light refreshments.

In an explanatory statement Miss Florence Parsons, school nurse, said today: "The clinic offers an opportunity for every child who is entering first grade or kindergarten next fall to have a thorough physical examination given by local physicians and dentists. Every year children enter school with physical handicaps such as defective vision or hearing, infected teeth or tonsils, or unsuspected condition of heart or lungs which interfere with school progress.

"The Parent-Teacher association is offering to every child attending the clinic an inoculation against diphtheria, which is preventable if inoculations are given before an epidemic occurs. Early childhood is the most susceptible age, and when the disease can be prevented by a harmless immunization treatment no child should enter school without this protection."

The association extends invitation to every child who intends to enter school for the first time next fall to be present at the clinic with his parents.

LEGISLATURE O. K.'S PENSION BILL FOR AGED

Governor Signs Bill Appropriating $2,000,000 for Pension Plan

MAXIMUM BENEFITS FIXED AT $30 MONTH

Approximately 20,000 Persons in State Expected to be Eligible

Old age pensions, advocated by Governor Floyd B. Olson mandatory for all counties in Minnesota, was one of the outstanding pieces of legislation enacted by the 49th legislature which adjourned last Thursday. Governor Olson signed the bill Monday.

Carrying an appropriation of $2,000,000 to defray costs of the social security plan during the next two years, the bill provides for maximum benefits of $30 a month for all eligible persons of 65 years old or more.

Senator B. G. Novak, St. Paul, sponsor of the bill in the senate and Representative H. H. Barker, Elbow Lake, liberal leader in the house, who fostered it in that branch, estimated about 20,000 persons in Minnesota would be eligible for the pension, payment of which will start July 1, 1935.

Costs of the pension plan will be spread between state, county, and federal government, the two former paying one-quarter of the expense each with the federal government paying the remaining one-half.

Under terms of the bill the stigma of pauperism is removed from anyone obtaining a pension, and applicants may own a combined property holding of $5,000 for husband and wife and still obtain benefits. While the maximum benefit is fixed at $30 monthly, sponsors of the act expect the state average payment to be about $25.

While the state has about 160,000 persons of the age of 65 or more, only about 20,000 are estimated to need the pension and of that number, Senator Novak estimated, 18,000 now are on relief rolls of the state.

However, should the $2,000,000 be inadequate to provide for the pension fund, which will be administered and regulated by the state board of control, the bill carries authority for the executive council to appropriate money from the relief fund for allotment to the old age pension fund.

To be eligible for a pension applicants qualifying as to age, must have been a resident of the state five of the nine years immediately preceding the application for benefits, if he or she is a citizen.

Non-citizens may obtain an old age pension if they have resided in the state 25 years.

CHRIST C. GULRUD, ONCE COUNCILMAN, DIED LAST FRIDAY

Funeral Rites Held Tuesday from Trinity Lutheran Church

Christ C. Gulrud, for 32 years a resident of Thief River Falls, serving one term as a member of the city council, passed away last Friday afternoon at his home. He was 68 years old. Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday afternoon from Trinity Lutheran church, Rev. R. M. Fjelstad officiating.

Born in Waukon, Iowa, in 1866, Mr. Gulrud was married there in 1890 to Miss Gunda Folde, and the family moved in 1903 to this city where he followed his trade of blacksmith for many years.

Surviving are Mrs. Gulrud, three daughters and two sons, including Mrs. John Nesby of Transcona, Manitoba; Mrs. W. H. Halbert of Harvey, N. D.; and Florence, Carl and Grant of this city. Also surviving are two brothers, John Gulrud of Waukon, and Otto of Minneapolis, as well as 12 grandchildren. One son preceded him in death.

Mr. Gulrud was a charter member of the local Sons of Norway lodge and of the Brag chorus. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

Legion Honors Paulson for Work on Auto Show

H. H. Dargland of Moorhead, ninth district commander of the American Legion, was the principal speaker at a meeting of Elmer J. Eklund post last Friday evening. He was accompanied to the city by a group of Moorhead Legionnaires, and a number of members of the Red Lake Falls post also were present. Commander S. P. Orwoll in behalf of the post, presented O. C. Paulson with a substantial check in recognition of the efforts he put forth to make the automobile show and spring exposition an outstanding success.

Missionary in Syria, Early Day Local Pastor to Speak Sunday at Community Church

Rev. James H. Nicol, former pastor of the local Presbyterian church, who left this city in 1905 to serve as a Presbyterian missionary in Beirut, Syria, will describe his varied experiences at the Community church Sunday evening at 7:45 and will also address the Lincoln high school assembly Monday morning at 11:10.

After graduation from the University of Minnesota and Auburn Theological seminary, Reverend Nicol took his master's degree at Columbia university.

Giving up his local pastorate in 1905 he sailed for Syria and for the first nine years did general missionary work. In 1916 he was held in Athens, Greece, trying to get back into Syria, and the following year he served with the Food Administration in Washington.

In Palestine he enjoyed in 1918 the confidence of General Allenby, who gained wide prominence for his exploits in the World War, and was in close contact with him following the capture of Jerusalem.

Following the armistice Reverend Nicol was director of Red Cross and Near East relief in Palestine until 1922 when he resumed his work with the Presbyterian mission in Syria, with headquarters at Beirut. As chairman of the Near East Christian council he has traveled widely thru Palestine, Mesopotamia, Egypt and other parts of the Near East. He is now on a leave of absence.

Police Seek to Stop Stealing of Bicycles

An epidemic of bicycle thefts has prevailed in the city during the past few weeks, and the local police department is maintaining a vigilant watch for the offenders, who are believed to be few in number. Police Chief A. B. Stenberg today stated the full force of the law would be invoked to punish any of the guilty parties who are apprehended. Of the stolen bicycles a few are still missing, while others have been recovered in damaged condition or with parts missing.

NEW LAW EXEMPTS HOUSEHOLD GOODS FROM ASSESSMENT

Local Assessors Receive Instructions from State Tax Commission

A. M. Senstad and George Werstlein, who Wednesday assumed their duties as city assessors, were advised Tuesday by the state tax commission of changes made by the legislature in laws governing personal property tax assessments, the effect of which will be to ease the burden on local householders to some extent.

A law enacted by the legislature and signed by Governor Olson during the past week has the effect of exempting household goods in every household from taxation, as well as all machinery on farms used exclusively for agricultural purposes with the exception of tractors, threshing machines, combines and silo cutters and fillers.

The assessors, however, will be required to cover the entire city to secure listings of moneys and credits, while merchandise stocks will be assessed as usual, as will livestock on farms. Exemptions of assessed valuations of taxable personal property have been reduced to $25 from the former figure of $100, the assessors were informed.

LOCAL YOUNG MAN, MISSING A MONTH, FOUND DEAD HERE

Lloyd Lundberg Dies of Gunshot Wound in North Township

The body of Lloyd C. Lundberg, who had been missing from his home near the roundhouse since March 29, was found Saturday afternoon adjoining a straw stack on the Christ Rustad farm in North township. A twelve gauge shotgun was lying beside the body and the top of his head had been shot away. He was 21 years old, and was the son of Philip Lundberg.

Louis Wertz of North township discovered the body and notified Sheriff Arthur Rambeck who brought the remains to a local undertaking parlor. Mr. Rambeck, Coroner A. M. Smith and County Attorney H. O. Berve conducted a hearing Monday afternoon at which five persons testified, following which it was concluded that the young man had met death apparently in an accidental manner. In the garments were found $12.50 in cash and $75 in postal savings certificates.

Funeral rites were held Wednesday afternoon from the Erickson & Lund Funeral Home, Rev. H. L. Sjogren officiating. He was born in this city in 1913, and is survived by his father, Philip Lundberg; his mother, now Mrs. Joe Henry of Donner, Minnesota; and two sisters, Viola in Minneapolis and Ella at home. One brother preceded him in death.

Community Softball League is Organized

A community club softball league composed of seven teams was organized Saturday afternoon at a meeting in the office of County Agent R. M. Douglass. League games will get under way Sunday, May 12, the season's schedule now being in process of preparation. Community clubs represented in the league are those in Smiley, Kratka, Rocksbury, Goodridge, Steiner, Silverton and Wyandotte.

More Current Produced by Water Power Units

An aggregate of 25,000 kilowatts of electricity was produced by the water power units in the municipal plant in April, Supt. Ole Legvold announced today. With 22,700 kilowatts produced in March, a total of 134,700 kilowatts was developed up to May 1 by the water wheels, compared to 62,100 for all of 1934 and slightly more than 100,000 in 1932. The water wheels were still being used to some extent this week, Mr. Legvold said.

CHANGES MADE IN ERA ENGINEERING STAFF IN DISTRICT

Maurice A. Fitzgerald Succeeds A. F. Benson as District Chief

In preparation for the enlarged federal public works program now pending, the setup of state ERA engineers was reorganized during the past week following a conference last week at state headquarters in St. Paul.

As one of the changes A. F. Benson, acting engineer in District 2, was supplanted by Maurice A. Fitzgerald, who arrived Monday to take over his new duties. At the same time Gilbert Fabrick, assistant county ERA engineer, was transferred to Park Rapids to serve as assistant area engineer in charge of Hubbard county.

Under the new organization this district, including seven counties, is divided into three areas with an engineer and assistants in charge of each, the engineers being appointed following interviews last week in St. Paul. J. H. Haugh, formerly of this city, has been appointed area engineer in charge of Pennington, Red Lake and Polk counties with headquarters here.

It was announced that Lake of the Woods county has been transferred to this district and that Beltrami and Clearwater counties, formerly in District 3 served by headquarters in this city, have been transferred to District 2.

4,308 Auto Licenses Issued to Wednesday Thru Office in City

The office of Alex Campbell, deputy registrar of motor vehicles in this city, was rushed to the limit during the past week handling last minute applications for licenses, plates being issued at the rate of 500 to 600 a day. Up to the deadline Wednesday evening more than 4,300 registrations had been handled, 1,000 more than for the corresponding period in 1934. A penalty for late registrations is effective today, amounting to 25 cents a day for the first two days, and after the first 30 days 50 cents a month is added until a maximum of $2.50 is reached.

Civic Group Directors Oppose Truck Franchise

Secretary Paul Lundgren of the Civic and Commerce association announced at the weekly luncheon last Thursday that the board of directors of the association had gone on record as opposed to the granting of truck line franchises for handling interstate freight shipments to and from Thief River Falls. The applications of the Elabolts and Janke lines for franchises are scheduled to be heard in Crookston next week.

SESSIONS TO OPEN FRIDAY EVENING

Pastors of Numerous Northwest Churches to Give Addresses

Preparations are being completed today for the assembly in this city Friday, Saturday and Sunday of approximately 175 delegates to the annual Epworth league convention of the Fergus Falls district, embracing the area as far south as Alexandria and Sauk Center and north to International Falls. Groups in 23 communities will be represented at the meetings, which will be held in the Community church.

The convention program will open Friday evening at 7:15 with a song service, followed by introductions by Rev. W. J. Barr of Minneapolis, district superintendent, and greetings by Rev. E. A. Cooke, district president. At 8:15 the local Epworth league will present a one-act play, "The Lost Church", following which there will be a social hour.

The Saturday morning program will open at 8:30 with devotions by Rev. C. E. Haynes of Staples, followed by an address of welcome by Edna Gilchrist, president of the local league, and a response by Lois Fuller of Perham. At 11:30 Dr. D. J. Van Devander of Bemidji will deliver an address on "Preparing for our Task".

Election of officers will take place at the Saturday afternoon session, which will open with devotions led by Ralph Paul of Bemidji. Rev. F. A. Kufus of Detroit Lakes will lead an open forum, and Rev. F. H. Stephens of Perham will speak on the topic "The Radiant Soul". A banquet will be served at 6:15 in the Civic and Commerce association rooms, with talks by Rev. Christian G. Hohn of Crookston, Dean Rev. J. D. Butler of Sauk Center, Rev. Homer Munson of Frazee and Rev. V. E. Dahle of Ada.

Watch services will be held Sunday morning at 7 o'clock, with devotions led by George B. Hanson of Alexandria and holy communion in charge of Reverend Cooke. Reverend Barr will be the speaker at morning worship at 11 o'clock.

Bridgeman Creameries Sponsors Prize Letter Contest to End June 15

Bridgeman Creameries this week announced a "get acquainted" letter contest in connection with which 44 cash prizes aggregating $200 are offered by the local concern. The letters, to be of 100 words or less, will be on the topic "Why I buy and prefer Bridgeman ice cream," and each entry must be accompanied by a Bridgeman trade-mark clipped from a quart carton or pint bucket. Letters will be judged for their clearness, sincerity and simplicity, it was announced, and the contest will close June 15. First prize is $100, second $30, third $20, fourth $10 and there are 40 prizes of $1 each.

Bemidji Men Assume Dondelinger Interest in Local Burg Store

A. J. Dondelinger of Brainerd who last Thursday was announced as the buyer of the local Burg company store, this week transferred his interest in the store to Vander Brothers of Bemidji, who had been joint low bidders at the recent receiver's sale of the Burg chain. The Bemidji men, who also operate a Ben Franklin store in that city, were in Thief River Falls Wednesday in connection with the transaction and stated that C. B. Frey would be manager here. Following extensive alterations, the new owners said, the store will hold its formal opening, offering new merchandise in a price range from five cents to $1.

Pennington Fair Here Has High Rank Among Others in Minnesota

The Pennington county fair in 1934 ranked fifth in attendance and third in gate and grandstand receipts among all county fairs in the state, it is revealed in a tabulation accompanying the annual report of the Minnesota Agricultural society, sponsor of the state fair. The Pennington county fair attendance of 40,800 was surpassed only by the Steele county fair, Owatonna, with 83,000; Freeborn county fair at Albert Lea, 75,000; Blue Earth county fair at Mankato, 53,000; and Wadena county fair at Wadena, 46,000. Gate and grandstand receipts at the local fair, aggregating $8,093.80, were surpassed only by fairs at Albert Lea and Owatonna, the compilation showed.

Growing With Your Child

When a Child is Slow

About twenty out of every hundred children in our schools are mentally retarded to the degree that they cannot cope with regular high school work. Some of these children find the work of the elementary school pretty hard, and may slip behind a couple of times when the others pass.

Before parents begin to suspect, or find out from tests, that their child is slow at book learning, they are often guilty of trying to prod him to do what is really beyond him. Even after they have been forced by his failures to find out what capacities the child does possess, an effort is sometimes made to push him into line with other children, to shut out of sight the fact that he is different, and by refusing to face that fact imagine that it no longer exists.

But he won't "grow out of" his difficulty. The more we try to ignore it, the more it will stare us in the face. The sooner that sinks in, and plans are made for the development of the powers the child does have, the more hardships the child may be saved.

The training of the slow child that is actually of more importance than his learning of academic subjects is the help he receives in building up social attitudes and habits which will encourage his becoming a good citizen, together with self-confidence because of the things he can do. Much patience and persistence are needed in the training of the slow child, for he must be shown over and over again things that come easily to the quicker child. Personal habits of cleanliness, or orderliness and accuracy, habits of self-control, honesty, fairness—all these are assets to any one, and they are habits learned in the home, if at all. It is important in helping the slow child to use, in connection with the many repetitions necessary, concrete situations and applications of what we are trying to "get across" to him. One of his serious lacks is in reasoning capacity, so we cannot expect him to draw conclusions. We must point out to him in detail how a thing is done, we must not be irritated by his failure to follow us the first time, and above all, we must be ready with praise and encouragement whenever he does something well enough so that we can possibly use it as a device for firing him to further effort.

Letting the child have many opportunities for using materials will encourage him to use his hands, and he may in this manual type of work have distinctly creative ideas. At any rate, the more things such a child is introduced to, the greater the probability that he will find something to which he is well enough adapted to make it his life work. Gardening, running errands, tinkering on a car, raising pets, learning to cook, any one of these may prove to have long-time possibilities. Even if there is no vocational school available, there may be possibilities of learning beauty-shop work, tea-room service, laundering, or millinery for the girls, while opportunities may be unearthed for boys to get some training in such things as furniture repairing, tailoring, woodwork, or tin-smithing.

Building up a useful, busy, constructive life is possible for the slow child, as for the normal provided his needs and capacities are kept in mind.

More Infant Sickness Result of Artificial Feeding, Doctors Say

Continuous advances in methods of artificial feeding of babies should not blind anybody to the superiority of breast feeding to bottle feeding, according to a bulletin on the subject issued by the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association today.

A recent check of the records of 20,061 Chicago babies is submitted in this bulletin as proof. These babies were under observation for the nine months of life and the records show that only one out of every 450 breast fed babies died while one out of every 12 of the artificially fed babies died.

Only 28 per cent of the breast fed babies developed any indication of infection during those months whereas 24 per cent of the partially breast fed babies developed infections and 59 per cent of the artificially fed babies fell ill.

"Our modern knowledge of infant nutrition makes it possible to bring up many healthy babies on artificial feeding," the bulletin remarks. "With properly modified cow's milk, cod liver oil, orange juice and the early addition of vegetables and fruits, the unfortunate baby who is deprived of mother's milk stands a pretty good chance of growing up strong and well.

"At its best, however, artificial feeding is only a second best substitute and every possible sacrifice should be made to continue breast feeding for the first months of life.

"Not only the health of the baby, but convenience and real economy are served."

Clergy Invited to Attend University Short Course

Seeking to blaze a new path in the field of adult education the University of Minnesota will offer in summer session a ten days short course for clergymen any lay leaders interested in the adult education movement in both urban and rural areas. It will be the first step along lines suggested by President L. D. Coffman in his annual report, in which he said the facilities of the university should be opened more freely to Minnesota Clergymen.

The course will be in the first summer session, from July 9 to 19, inclusive. Mornings will each be devoted to three lectures, on sociology, psychology and economics, respectively, on the main campus. Afternoons will be given over to lectures and laboratory study of agricultural problems at University Farm.

"Problems of contemporary society for clergymen and lay leaders" will be the general title of the course.

It represents a new approach to adult education, in that it seeks to inform and orient those who have to do with the advising and instructing of adults rather than being an attempt to teach the adult themselves.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

Let the Children Speak

You may hush every other voice of national and individual complaint; you may silence every other tongue, even those of mothers of destroyed sons and daughters, of wives of profligate husbands; but let the children speak—the little children, the wronged children, the crippled children, the abused children, the blind children, the imbecile children, the nameless children, the starved children, the deserted children, the beaten children, the dead children!

O my God, this army of little children!

Let their weak voices, faint with oppression, cold and hunger, be heard . . . Let their little faces pinched by want of gladness, be heeded! Let their challenge—though made by small forms, too mighty for estimate—be reckoned with! Let their writing upon the wall of the nation—although traced by tiny fingers, as stupendous as eternity—be correctly interpreted and read, that the awful robbery of the lawful heritage of their little bodies, minds and souls is laid at the brazen gate of ALCOHOL.

DITCHED TRUCK ENDS LADS' DESIRE TO DRIVE

Ortonville—Two young lads, 11 and 12 years of age, probably for some time had jealously watched their parents or an older brother operate the family automobile. No doubt they were anxiously awaiting the day that they could do the same. Recently the temptation to drive got the best of them. Climbing into a truck owned by a Ortonville garage, they somehow managed to get the vehicle started and headed out for the open country. They succeeded in operating the truck for eight miles up the road where it went out of their control and was ditched. Parties searching for the truck discovered the lads, waving for help to get the car back on the road. It was a very, very short ride. Brought before local authorities the two lads faithfully promised never to repeat their dangerous experience.

CHURCH NOTICES

The Community Church

'A Church for Every Class and Creed'
D. A. Cooke, Minister

The annual convention of the Epworth League of the Fergus Falls district will meet in this church this week beginning Friday evening and continuing thru the Sunday morning services.

Friday afternoon and evening the delegates will register. The evening program begins with a song service at 7:15 which will be followed by introductions by Rev. W. J. Barr, the district superintendent. At 8:15 the one act play "The Lost Church" will be presented by the local Epworth League. This will be followed by a social hour.

Saturday will be given over to business of interest to the district, and inspirational addresses. At 9 o'clock the addresses of welcome will be given, by Edna Gilchrist, local president, with response by Lois Fuller of Perham. At 11:30 an address "Preparing for Our Task" will be given by Rev. D. J. Van Devander of Bemidji.

At 3:15 an open forum lead by Rev. F. A. Kufus of Detroit Lakes and an address "The Radiant Soul" by Rev. F. H. Stephens of Perham will be the main features that will be of interest to the public.

At 6:15 The banquet will be held in the Civic and Commerce rooms with Rev. Christian G. Hohn as the principal speaker.

At 7:00 o'clock on Sunday morning will be the Morning Watch service, the devotions lead by Mrs. Geo B. Hanson of Alexandria, followed by the Holy Communion.

At 9:45 the church school with all classes meeting in their regular places except the High school classes which will meet in the Methodist church with the convention group.

At 11:00 o'clock, Rev. W. J. Barr will bring the closing message to the convention. This will be a fitting climax to the three days together. There will be special music and it should be a time of great inspiration.

At 7:45 Rev. James H. Nicol who was the first pastor of the Presbyterian church in this city and who served his first pastorate here will be with us and preach the evening sermon. Rev. Nicol has been for 29 years in missionary work in Syria. He will bring a great message. Let us greet him with a crowded house.

AN OLD ROMAN LAW
And Its Present-Day Significance
THERE was an old Roman law relating to bank deposits to the effect that a depositor who left his money only for safety ranked before a depositor who received interest on his money.
Today, in America, each depositor is protected against loss in insured banks. Whether or not the funds earn interest makes no difference. All depositors of an insured bank share in the benefits of Deposit Insurance.

In the State Senate

By Sen. E. L. Tungseth

We are glad to be back home after a strenuous legislative session. The experienced legislators have called this 49th session the busiest in history. I can not vouch for that, as I do not know what former sessions have been in that respect, but I do know that this session has been busy for all who have tried to accomplish something.

Like many former sessions this one has failed to accomplish much that should have been accomplished. The biggest disappointment for many of us was the failure to adopt a tax program which would offer some real relief for real estate taxes. In spite of the many criticisms that could be offered against the omnibus bill, it did create a replacement tax program. I therefore voted for it in spite of its many objectional features. According to the best estimates we could get, it would have saved the taxpayers of the three counties in our legislative district some $50,000.00 per county. From the point of view of real estate tax relief, it was a step in the right direction, and the undesirable features could be removed at the next session.

I have not been, and am not yet a supporter of the sales tax. I rather believe that the burden should be shifted from real estate to that of a balanced and dual gross and net income tax system. Such a system can be simple in operation and can be constructed so as to properly equalize the load between every one and those best able to pay. With the large increased demands upon the state treasury at this time, and with a large deficit from last year, it is nothing less than tragic to put this additional tax load upon real estate. I feel certain that before the next legislature meets that the demand for a shift of the tax burden will become so loud and insistent that every legislator will be willing to compromise on some of his pet ideas in order to obtain some workable plan. After all, few bills offer only merits. Too often they only offer a choice of the lesser of two evils.

In a later writing I shall give a review of the increased state expenditures and the cause of them. Only in knowledge can a proper judgment be given.

Dunwoody Institute's Facilities Available to High School Seniors

In May and June thousands of young men will graduate from Minnesota high schools. A small percentage of the group will go on to junior or state colleges or the University of Minnesota; however, a much larger percentage will go to work to earn their living.

Sooner or later these young men must pick the definite line they wish to follow. If they choose agriculture, they may work on a farm and later go to an agricultural college. If their choice is clerical work, they may secure a job in a local bank, store, or similar concern or they may go direct to commercial college or extension work in the local high school.

Those high school boys who wish to go into trades and industries like working in a garage, working for an electric light, power, or telephone company, or working in a machine shop, printing establishment or in the building trades may secure employment in one of these lines. Later they might care to consider taking a short course during the winter at Dunwoody Institute and return to their regular job in the early spring.

Each year an increasing number of high school students follow the above plan or else they enter Dunwoody to take the regular complete two-year course.

Dunwoody Institute, an endowed school, has always stood for the policy of training boys and men to work; and Dunwoody has always favored alternating "earning and learning" or alternating work on the job with training in the school.

Boys and men interested in types of training available at Dunwoody are asked to write in for information. Dunwoody Institute, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Capital News Review

By A. I. Harris

Accidents subject to the workmen's compensation law which were reported to the Industrial Commission during the month of March numbered 4,556, or 585 more than last month and 144 more than in March, 1934. The accidents included 8 fatalities, as compared with 11 in February and 6 in March of a year ago.

Senator Claude MacKenzie, Gaylord, introduced a bill that would class "strike disorders" and activities such as those of the Farm Holiday association in regard to mortgage foreclosures as felonies punishable by imprisonment. As a counter-irritant to legislation of this kind, Representatives Stockwell and Wier introduced a resolution denouncing the spread of fascistic and un-American doctrines in the state of Minnesota. The resolution asks that an interim commission be appointed to investigate the activities of various strike-breaking organizations such as the Citizens Alliance and the Law and Order League.

The following telegram received by Representative J. J. Kinzer of Cold Spring from James A. Innes speaks volumes in comparatively few words. The telegram reads: "The omnibus tax bill is superfluous, unreasonable, uncalled for, unjust, unfair, exorbitant, excessive, extirpating, extortionate, exasperating, stupid, lacking in logic, suffocating in effect, displaying lack of intelligence in understanding of consequences, and abortional in design."

This week the Sportsmen's annual show is on in Minneapolis. The Tourist Bureau is on deck and is showing Minnesota scenes on the screen 12 hours a day. The Tourist Bureau's moving pictures are shots of Minnesota's beauty spots and recreational facilities and to watch them gives one an itch for the lakes and woods. The films are available to clubs requesting them.

The state capitol co-operative cafe in the basement of the state house is progressing nicely, according to the management. It has made expenses despite the increased cost in food, new improvements made, higher wages paid for the help and a somewhat lower average price for a meal.

Governor Olson, enemy of war, addressed a student "peace meeting," one of a nation-wide series, last Friday morning. Over 2,000 persons attended the outdoor meeting, mostly students. The University authorities had refused to recognize the meeting so those attending "cut classes." The speakers used the steps of Northrup auditorium for a rostrum.

At this writing, unemployed and members of Twin City labor unions are still picketing the Legislature, asking for passage of House File 120, the unemployment insurance bill. The chances that it will pass, however, are nil. Employees at the Capitol have created a "war chest" to take care of the meals of the pickets.

During the discussion of a bill before a legislative committee which would make carbon monoxide poisoning compensable under the Workmen's Compensation Act, a rather alarming situation was revealed. Evidence was submitted to show that carbon monoxide gas was causing a large percentage of garage employees to become anemic, and often also causing hardening of the arteries. Automobile mechanics, it was said, were frequently compelled to give up their work as a result of this condition. A report of the Industrial Commission covering the inspection of 800 garages was presented to the committee revealing that more than 49 per cent of all garage workers who submitted to a physical examination showed the presence of carbon monoxide poisoning in their blood. The bill, which was sponsored by the accident division of the Industrial Commission, met with opposition on the part of garage owners, who contended that it would increase insurance premium rates for garages. The remedy suggested was a more thorough inspection of garages as to ventilation, which, to carry out, would require the addition of six inspectors. Unless funds for that are provided by the Legislature this needed inspection cannot be carried out.

Continuation of the past general practices for soil erosion control in Minnesota under which both State and Federal governments participated in planning and supervising the work is urged by E. V. Willard, Conservation Commissioner, in communications addressed to Federal officials and the Minnesota delegation to Congress.

Reactionaries of the Senate education committee last week completed their sensation-hunting expedition into the affairs of the state board of education. Subjected to a grueling cross-examination by Senator A. O. Sletvold, Mrs. Le Sueur and Miss Rood, members of the board, reiterated the testimony they had given at the previous hearing. Mrs. Le Sueur said that she wanted modern texts which were abreast of the times to be used in the schools, and that children were entitled to read books and magazines which dealt impartially with present day social developments, including the social experiments of the federal government.

But Senator Sletvold wanted only to build his "case". Concentrating on several "radical" pamphlets which he alleged had been issued by the authority of the board of education, he discovered only that all of these pamphlets were issued upon the recommendation of the emergency education division of the federal government.

After the hearing it developed that Sletvold had been using "The Red Network", a notorious piece of ignorant bigotry, for some of his information as to alleged subversive activity. This book lists Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and the head of the Minnesota Law and Order League among the country's "dangerous reds."

But the opposition of Senate reactionaries to Mrs. Le Sueur probably can be traced also to another source. Mrs. Le Sueur was a member of Governor Olson's state planning commission which recommended a substantial extension in municipal power plants in order to facilitate taking advantage of the federal rural electrification program. It is reasonable to believe, therefore, that here, as in so many other cases, the power trust is the nigger in the woodpile.

TROPICAL BLACK BUZZARD KILLED AT RUSHMORE

Rushmore—A black buzzard with a wingspread of five feet was shot one morning last week by U. Letterman, a farmer living five miles northwest of here. It weighed four and one half pounds. Seeing the bird perched on a telephone pole in front of his farmhouse Mr. Letterman shot it, believing it to be a chicken hawk. This American vulture commonly found in South and Central America and sometimes in the southwest part of the United States is rarely seen this far north. It is black in color with naked skin of the head and neck. The end of the beak is extremely hooked. It feeds on carrion only. This bird has been mounted by the local taxidermist and is on display at his place.

TO USE TENT FOR FURNITURE STORE

Baudette—Business is on the boom in Baudette, and regardless of whether there are buildings enough to go around, trade must go on! Frank Hawley, Warroad merchant, came to Baudette recently to secure a building for a furniture store, and the fact that he couldn't find a building didn't phase him. He has a tent 30x30, with a floor, and he will use that until such time as he can secure a building for a permanent store. Two carloads of furniture have been shipped into Baudette by Hawley, and it looks like the big tent will become one of the town's most enterprising business establishments.

"Beating the Bounds"

One of England's most ancient ceremonies in the church ritual known as "beating the bounds." The custom, which is a perambulation by clergy and members of a parish of the boundaries of the parish, is believed to have originated in Anglo-Saxon days.

FARMERS USES SCIENCE TO KEEP HOGS IN YARD

Russell—George Banks, electrician turned farmer, believes in modern electrical methods, and why not let two wires do what a hog-tight fence is usually expected to accomplish? It wouldn't do for a neighbor to lean over a certain wire fence on the Banks farm five miles north of Russell, for if he did, he would receive the shock of his life. Banks has rigged up a battery contraption so that the wire fence in his barn is electrified. The fence has only two wires, but the cattle and hogs, after a few shocking experiences, have decided that there are just two many to suit them. The first few days the wires were charged, the stock put on a first class vaudeville show for anyone who happened to be on hand while they were getting their first lessons in the art of avoiding contact with the two live wires. The trick is done with an ordinary storage battery, which will last three months, according to reports.

It has often been asked what does this nation stand for, and the question is easy—too much.

To guard against Digestive Disorders and Bowel Diseases, the preventive in the drink should do more than merely disinfect the water. Germozone acts on and destroys molds and disease germs with which it comes in contact in the crop. It is also a remedy. Analogous, yet something, it is the treatment which has given best results on many thousands of successful poultry raisers for 40 years. Plant Specialist at U Farm Tells Methods of Seed Potato Treatment

Treat your seed potatoes for the control of common scab and rhizoctonia or black scurf, R. C. Rose, extension plant disease specialist, University Farm, St. Paul, urges Minnesota farmers.

Seed treatment will not make good seed out of poor seed, nor will it control scab and rhizoctonia when the treated seed is planted on soil containing the organisms of these diseases, Mr. Rose explains, but when it is practiced on good seed planted on land where potatoes have not been raised for a period of four years or more, excellent results may be expected.

Even certified potatoes may be benefited by seed treatment, Mr. Rose points out, because small amounts of scab and rhizoctonia are sometimes tolerated in such stock by the certifying agency if the seed is otherwise of good quality.

Of several methods of treatment available, the acid-mercury treatment is one of the simplest and most effective, and the cheapest, Mr. Rose says. The chemicals can be purchased, already prepared, for $1.40 a quart, which is enough to prepare 25 gallons of treating solution. It is necessary to soak the potatoes only five minutes in acid-mercury solution to control scab and rhizoctonia effectively.

Semesan Bel, a new commercial seed-treating compound, controls both scab and rhizoctonia, but costs about three and one-half times as much as the acid-mercury. The greatest advantage of using this method is the ease with which it can be applied, since the tubers are simply dipped into a solution of the chemical and immediately removed to drain.

NOTE FROM 1890 CORNERSTONE FORTELLS OCEAN AIR TRAVEL

Workmen opening the cornerstone in the city hall of Little Falls recently found a note from the previous generation, written in 1890, predicting that some day man would cross the ocean by air, and a new cornerstone laid in the remodeled building will contain a message to the future generation, signed by the city council. The old note, encased in a bottle and written 45 years ago, when the structure was first built, will be returned to a resting place in the new cornerstone, along with the message of the present. The council briefly reviewed conditions in the world as they now stand, including the depression, various governmental agencies and aids, old age pensions talk, and war rumors, and closed with greetings to the future generations from the 1935 city administration.

Northwest School Man Gives Planting Advice for Community Parks

Definite landscape plans for public parks must be adopted and steadfastly adhered to if the greatest possible long time returns are to be obtained. According to T. M. McCall, Northwest School and Station horticulturist, the first step is to determine the general use to which the park is to be put; then adequate walks, drives, and parking places should be provided.

The informal or natural grouping of trees, shrubs and flowers is usually best suited for the city block or irregular shaped parks. On the other hand, small areas at street intersections can be planted according to formal design.

Trees in parks should be grouped to provide adequate shade but not so dense as to prevent the development of a satisfactory lawn. General use of evergreen trees and shrubs should be made to furnish color and protection thruout the year. Since evergreen trees should not be trimmed, they are most useful in background and side-ground plantings. The Black Hills spruce has proven to be one of the best all-around evergreens for prairie planting. Other desirable evergreen trees include the Colorado Blue spruce, red cedar, arbor vitae, Scotch pine, and Dwarf Mugho pine.

Shrubs appropriately selected and placed add much to the attractiveness of park areas. A wide variety of native shrubs are available and should be selected for form, flowering habits and desirable color effects from both stem and flower. The common dogwood, high bush cranberry, Juneberry, Buffalo berry, blackhaw, wild gooseberry and current are very useful for this purpose. The thorn apple, chokecherry, wild plum and pinchberry, all low growing trees, blend in well with the shrub plantings.

In most cases, park plantings cannot be completed in a single year; hence, the importance of a definite long-time program.

Need Grain, Protein for Pigs to Produce Profit

With their interest in pigs perked up to a higher pitch than for several years, owing to the return of profitable hog prices, farmers are finding the feeding problem tougher than usual because of the shortage of farm grains, says E. F. Ferrin, swine authority of the animal husbandry division, University Farm.

While pasture is necessary for cheap gains, growing pigs must also have a reasonable amount of grain to keep them in a good thrifty condition, Mr. Ferrin explains. Even the best of pastures are bulky feeds, whereas hogs need considerable amounts of concentrated feeds because of their limited digestive systems. Experiments have shown that less than a half feed of grain results in slow, costly gains and many runty pigs. A half ration means about 2 pounds of grain daily for each 100 pounds of live pig.

The greater gains and thriftiness of the pigs will more than pay the extra cost of the protein feed", Mr. Ferrin declares. "The small number of pigs which will be grown this year assures a profit from the grain fed to them, providing they are kept in healthy condition. In making money from the 1935 pig crop, however, nothing will be more necessary than the feeding of sufficient grain and protein supplements to grow the pigs well."

A SPECIAL ELECTION

Voters of Thief River Falls will be asked to authorize the purchase of additional power equipment at a special election to be held on the last Tuesday of this month. Pending such authorization the council plans to proceed at once to advertise for [illegible] engines in various sizes so [illegible] be possible to take action [illegible] the result of the referendum is [illegible] prompt action it probably [illegible] to have the new equipment [illegible] ready for operation by Octo[illegible] additional power will be needed [illegible] the heavier fall and winter de[illegible]

[illegible] the next few weeks information [illegible] to the voters showing the [illegible] for favorable action on this question. [illegible] increasing demand for power [illegible] has now reached a point where [illegible] plant capacity is inadequate. [illegible] necessary to increase the [illegible] from the standpoint of main[illegible] reserve, but at the [illegible] is now increasing the pre[illegible] will soon be inadequate to [illegible] demand. If more equip[illegible] made available the city will [illegible] to buy power from other [illegible] an arrangement would not [illegible]

[illegible] of rate reduction is related [illegible] of buying additional equip[illegible]ctly. Until more equipment [illegible] rate reduction is impossible. [illegible] will make rate reduc[illegible] but the important thing to [illegible] the fact that more equip[illegible] to handle the demand at the [illegible] and must be provided if the [illegible] adequate service in this [illegible]artment.

[illegible] ago one or two cities in the [illegible] of the fact that their street [illegible] municipally owned. There [illegible] fortunes were made in the [illegible]. But that was a few [illegible] the present time street car [illegible] isn't classified as a quick [illegible] the present time there are [illegible] of railroad securities who [illegible] of objecting to government [illegible] railroads.

[illegible] while it seemed certain that the [illegible] would agree on the proposal to [illegible] primary election back a couple of [illegible] the latter part of August in[illegible] June as it has been, but a com[illegible] got lost in the last minute [illegible] for another election at least we [illegible] put up with a six month cam[illegible] the primary up a little [illegible] general election would have [illegible] both to the candidates and the [illegible]

[illegible] progress was made by the legisla[illegible] adjourned last week in the re[illegible] legal procedure in criminal [illegible] many years the need for such [illegible] been apparent and some effort [illegible] made from time to time to enact [illegible] legislation. The proposed bill [illegible] invariably died in committee. This [illegible] the backing of the Law and Or[illegible] and the state crime commission, [illegible] proposed legislation did get out [illegible] and was duly passed. HIDDEN TAXES

(Minneapolis Journal)

[illegible] of the sales tax, a form of taxa[illegible] adopted in most of the States of the [illegible] barred from Minnesota by Governor [illegible] veto of the Omnibus Tax Bill, is based [illegible] the statement that it is a tax on the [illegible]

[illegible] persons with small incomes think they [illegible] taxes. Any suggestion that they should [illegible] is resented. They do not realize that [illegible] paying taxes every day, and that they [illegible] half sales taxes, even on food.

[illegible] processing tax on hogs, two and a half [illegible] pound on the live weight, is doubled by the [illegible] dressed meat comes to the butcher's block. [illegible] pays it. What wrath would descend [illegible] head of a State legislator who had the [illegible] to suggest a State tax of five cents a [illegible] retail sales of meat in Minnesota!

[illegible] in the Legislature would have dared [illegible] a tax on a loaf of bread, but added to [illegible] of every loaf is the processing tax of [illegible] a bushel on wheat made into flour.

[illegible] taxes are a little more evident, for [illegible] companies take pains to point out that four [illegible] the cost of each gallon sold in Minnesota [illegible] State and Federal taxes.

[illegible] sales taxes are hidden in the price tags [illegible] articles in common use. Buyers do not [illegible] they are paying taxes when they buy [illegible] articles, sporting goods, cigarets and the [illegible]

[illegible] people in a Minnesota apartment [illegible] every month when they pay their rent. [illegible] living in rented houses, or on rented [illegible] pay their share of the heavy real estate [illegible] whether they know it or not.

[illegible] the tax one pays directly that hurts and [illegible] the outcry. The clever politician conceals [illegible] in a tasteless capsule or a toothsome [illegible] Mr. John Citizen swallows the dose [illegible] a smile, and asks for more. Then he goes [illegible] and votes for public officials who will give him [illegible] taxes.

[illegible] sales taxes are obnoxious, but they are trifling [illegible] with the hidden taxes one pays every [illegible]. The pother over sales taxes is out of all [illegible] to the burden that might be involved.

"RECOVERY OR RADICALISM"

(Minneota Mascot)

If one were to make a collection of all the plans for economic recovery that have been submitted to the American people in the last few years it would fill a sizeable library. Hardly a week passes but what some new plan, or a new version of an old plan, is offered as a sure cure for all the ills that beset the present age.

These proposals come from proponents of every known brand of political faith and from many whose political beliefs are quite unorthodox. They run the gamut from President Roosevelt's New Deal to Huey Long's share-the-wealth plan. Some are feasible, some fantastic, but all have in common the desire to restore industry and agriculture to more prosperous levels as quickly and painlessly as possible.

One of the most recent plans submitted to administration officials is the one embodied in a booklet called "Recovery or Radicalism." Authorship of the book is credited to the unidentified "Committee for Economic Recovery," which is composed, Washington correspondents says, of friends and authorities of the New Deal. It has the endorsement of several of President Roosevelt's most influential advisers.

Knowing this much about authors of the book, its contents were surprising to administration officials. The plan counsels Mr. Roosevelt to change the middle-of-the-road course at once; fight the radicals (naming Townsend, Long, Coughlin and Upton Sinclair); promote the durable goods industries; amend the securities act; discount real estate mortgages; in short, save the country from an inevitable radical crisis by a swing to the right.

The book was apparently prepared on the assumption that its contents would not be made public because it speaks more boldly than most New Deal advocates. It says: "We must make real headway toward substantial recovery or expect radicalism by 1936. It refers to Father Coughlin as a demagogue who is able to delude 5,000,000 people; Dr. Townsend as an impracticable dreamer; Upton Sinclair as a dangerous radical, and Huey Long as the Hitler of Louisiana's return to the dark ages.

"There is one real cure for this type of radicalism," the book continues. "It lies solely in economic recovery." To thwart this radicalism which authors of the book seem to fear so much the first phase of the program advises four steps:

"1. Economic recovery must be made the paramount issue.

"2. A definite program of counter-action should be studied and planned mainly by men outside the government. This must include leaders from all walks of life.

"3. Newspaper editors and radio broadcasting stations should be educated in order that they may understand the damage threatened by demagogues. We should be careful not to interfere with free speech. We should, however, prevent the quotation of statistics which are without proper basis, and of wilful misstatement of fact.

"4. Important members of both liberal and conservative groups should be brought to the realization that, while they debate their own beliefs, unprincipled radicals are conspiring to destroy the nation."

While it is difficult to become as alarmed over the growth of radicalism as the authors of this book seem to be, the need for a more definite program on the part of the administration is obvious. Middle-of-the-road policies may be sufficient to placate both sides of the political fence for a time but they are not a permanent solution of the problems which face us.

CALLING ON JEFFERSON

(Montevideo News)

In a senate debate over confirmation of members of the state board of education, it was alleged that one of the persons nominated had revolutionary tendencies. The senator from a neighboring county thought there are things to be said in favor of those who advocate revolution. He invoked the name of Thomas Jefferson, reminding his colleagues that Jefferson once put in writing his opinion that a revolution every twenty years or so would be a good thing.

As we recall it, without looking up the exact words, Jefferson said something about fertilizing the soil around the tree of liberty with the blood of patriots. Those are stirring words. How serious the Sage of Monticello was we are not enough of a historian to say. It is a matter of history that Jefferson was not eager to have his own blood used for that purpose. In the course of the Revolutionary war he was governor of Virginia. British soldiers marched onto Virginia soil, but Governor Jefferson was careful not to get close enough to defend and perhaps fertilize the tree of liberty.

Some of his fellow-Virginians, among them George Washington and John Marshall, were facing enemy bullets and risking their lives. Perhaps that experience made them the more determined to maintain stable government once it was obtained. Those who make the heaviest sacrifice are the ones who want to conserve. The American system can be adapted, and has been through changing conditions, to serve he people without using the violent, and often destructive, last resort of revolution. The state senate is to be commended for refusing to encourage revolutionary teachings.

AN IRREPRESSIBLE CONFLICT

(Ogden L. Mills)

We can have a free country or a socialistic one. We cannot have both. Our economic system cannot be half free and half socialistic. Economic liberalism cannot function under constant and arbitrary government interference. Evidence of the resulting breakdown accumulates daily. A civilization built upon the private ownership of property cannot survive the destruction of the substance of ownership.

The conflict is as irrepressible as was the slavery issue seventy-five years ago. Now, as then, compromises will be suggested. Now, as then, they will prove illusory. Fundamentally antagonistic principles cannot be compromised. Already we are suffering from the attempt to do so. The depression has been prolonged by the experiments borrowed from the Fascist laboratory.

AN HONOR CODE

(Citizen, Key West, Florida)

Many interesting stories are told of the honor code at Washington and Lee University, where it was established by General Robert E. Lee when he became president of the school in 1867.

No supervision of students is exercised during examinations, yet cheating is virtually unknown. Nothing is locked up about the institution; books, articles of clothing and all sorts of property are left anywhere with the assurance that they will not be disturbed.

Several students help to pay their expenses by selling sandwiches, candy, apples and the like, but the sales are made without the presence of clerks. The articles for sale are displayed with price cards, and customers help themselves, placing their money in the cash box. During one football game more than $125 worth of lapel buttons were thus bought and paid for without the supervision of anyone, except that when the box was filled with bills, a passing professor placed a weight on them to keep them from blowing away.

New students are thoroughly instructed in the requirements of the honor code and impressed with the importance of rigidly observing it, because it is explained, this school is built around tradition. And the essence of that tradition is that "it's a pleasure to be a gentleman."

Advises Peat Land for Producing Extra Hay to Relieve Shortage

Farmers in a pinch about growing enough hay this summer should appreciate that peat land, properly seeded and fertilized, has wonderful possibilities, says George H. Nesom, extension soils specialist, University Farm, St. Paul. Mixtures of clovers with timothy or other grasses will produce a good crop of hay the first season, he explains.

The land may be broken, the fertilizer applied, the seedbed prepared and the seed sown without a nurse crop before June 1. Either of two slightly different plans may be used on peat that is very weedy. Plan one is to surface cultivate until about the middle or the end of June and then seed the hay without a nurse crop. The other plan is to sow about half to two-thirds of a seeding of oats, along with the timothy and clover mixture. Do this early, first seeding the oats and immediately afterward seeding the hay mixture. The whole crop can be cut for hay soon after the oats head. Sometimes a second cutting can be made.

For success in growing hay on peat, four points are important. They are a good seedbed, which usually means plowing; proper fertilization; a good seed mixture; and rolling the land after seeding, making it easier to operate haying machinery and avoiding lumps of peat getting mixed with the hay.

DELINQUENT 4 CENT TAX BECOMES $1.80

Red Wing—Among 250 persons with delinquent personal property taxes in Goodhue county is a Welch resident who owes the sum of four cents, but who is going to find that it is a costly thing to be delinquent. Should Sheriff Lenus Olson be forced to travel to Welch to collect the four cents, the penalty and fee to be paid will be 45 times the amount due. This is what the Welch resident would pay; four cents delinquent tax; one cent penalty; 25 cents clerk of court fee; 50 cents sheriff fee; $1 sheriff milage. Total, including tax and penalty, $1.80. Should this resident come to the sheriff's office to pay, thus relieving him of the necessity of making the trip, $1 mileage will be deducted from the bill, leaving 80 cents to pay.

LEGISLATIVE LETTER

By R. W. Hitchcock

The Legislature of 1935 has four working days left. A week from today, after a hectic night session, whose last hours will be given over to a half-mad scramble to pass belated local bills or to slip through some pet woodchuck, both Houses will meet along toward noon to pass a few harmless resolutions, to shake each other by the hand, and to say good-bye.

They will say that good-bye with the shadow of an extra session hanging over them.

One of the surprising things of this forty-ninth session of the Minnesota Legislature has been the solidarity of the Independent-Progressive majority. It has maintained its lines intact against all assaults from a minority schooled in the art of assaulting.

Let it not be forgotten that while the people of Minnesota last November elected a Governor committed to the overthrow of the present economic system, they at the same time elected a Legislature militantly committed to upholding the present economic system.

These two diametrically opposing facts and forces have splashed the Legislative session of 1935 all over with color.

Sound and fury has burst daily from the Executive offices and crashed about the ears of the Solons. The Farmer-Labor minority filibustered and threatened and denounced with a fury and an insistence that almost matched the Governor's.

Early in the session the Minnesota Leader, Farmer-Labor newspaper propagandist, was wont to claim that the ranks of the Independent-Progressives were "cracking and crumbling." It soon quit this refrain, however, for the sensation of the session has been the solidarity of the majority.

The omnibus tax bill, which at this writing is undergoing its Senate test, and which is threatened with veto by Governor Olson, is without question the most important bill of the session, for it attempts to solve the most vital issue confronting the Legislature—to wit, tax reform.

It is well to remember that the tax problem, so critical now in Minnesota, involves the demand welling up from every part of the state for relief from the property tax and the necessity of finding millions of new tax revenues to meet regular and extraordinary expenses, to say nothing of a $10,000,000 deficit accumulated under the present state administration.

The omnibus tax bill covers 52 printed pages. It is a mass of detail and levies many separate taxes. Its major provisions are few and easily understood—to cut the state property tax by $16,000,000 and to raise needed new revenues by a combination of greatly increased ability-to-pay taxes and by the imposition of a new tax, the sales tax.

To meet the crisis facing the state the omnibus tax bill lays a compelling hand on every pocket-book in the state. It levies upon wealth higher taxes than enforced in any other state in the Union with one or two exceptions; it assesses against business and industry as heavy a burden as business and industry can bear and remain productive; it says that every citizen, through a sales tax, shall pay a small something for the support of the state government.

The omnibus bill, if it becomes a law, will reduce the tax burden on property by 20 per cent or more; it will revive interest in home owning and stimulate the building trades, thereby bringing about more employment; it will provide for the public schools of the state some $6,000,000 additional support; it will supply the state's one-third of a $3,750,000 annual fund for old age pensions, and it will yield the sorely needed funds for carrying on the government of the state.

It is the most comprehensive tax and recovery program ever attempted in Minnesota. It will give Minnesota a tax set-up broader and more scientific than any it has heretofore had, based upon the property tax, greatly increased income and other ability-to-pay taxes, and various forms of the sales tax, each of these three complementing and supplementing the others.

Politics, state, legislative, local, is inextricably bound up with the state tax problem as set forth in the omnibus bill. It is not a nice thing to know that political parties and members of the various branches of the state government are jockeying with this problem for political advantage, but that condition is inevitable, it is one of the "not nice" things that has not yet been eradicated from human nature.

Anything can happen—a veto, passage over the veto, a compromise. This much is certain—the tax problem presses for solution in Minnesota. A solution must be had; if not now, then soon. There is no escape. If the solution fails before April 25th, there will be an extra session.

Another thing seems absolutely certain. Whether enacted at this session or not, a general sales tax in Minnesota is inevitable. The social security program will alone force the sales tax. Even without the social security program, other needs of the state appear to make it inevitable.

Bureaucracy had a field day last week when the criminal apprehension bureau's staff was increased, just as a starter, from 12 to 24, and a Senate bill provided for "not more than" nine new inspectors at a salary not to exceed $3,000 each. Of the making of government bureaus there is no end, and the way they thrive makes a green bay tree look to its laurels.

"READ ABOUT YOURSELF"—IN HOME TOWN PAPER

Columbia Heights—"Read all about yourself—only a dime!" Operating on Barnum's theory of one being born every minute, an enterprising clipping bureau is now offering to the people of the state clippings from their own home town paper! This clipping bureau, running under the euphonious name of "Aurora-Elgin & Chicago Clipping Service" at St. Charles, Ill., sends out cards to prospects, stating, "We have today clipped a newspaper article relative to you personally; if you desire it sent to you at once, return this notice with our fee of — cents." One prospect, snatching eagerly at the opportunity of seeing her name glorified in print, sent in the required coin and received back a clipping relative to her visit with a neighbor, taken from her home town paper.
